Aside from the imperfect tones of the American voice there are various faults of speech which are commonly heard. It is a good plan to listen to a number of girls talking at the same time. Notice them at an afternoon tea. Most of the voices at such a gathering are shrill, high-pitched and strained. The utterance is rapid, the words are clipped, the pronunciation is often otherwise faulty.

The nervous temperament that is so characteristically American has a great deal to do with the tense, strident tones that are so usual in our girls.

A MEDICINE CHEST.

A medicine chest should have a place in every home, and one which can be very easily and neatly constructed is here described:

Procure a strong box about three feet long, two feet wide and six inches deep.

Make a cover of plain boards and fasten on with hinges.

Paint the box inside and out with any color paint desired; fit it with shelves, making the distances between them vary so that the different sized bottles fit in easily.

A small cigar box painted and labeled "poison" makes a good place in which to keep poisonous medicines.

A list of the medicines kept in the chest and their uses, pasted on the inside of the door, would prove very valuable in case of accident.

Attach a hook and staple, such as are used on tool chests, for a fastener. Hang up by means of strong wire or cord and a picture hook.

A Picturesque and Reasonable Outing.

The most picturesque town in America is only a hundred and twenty miles from New York. Mauch Chunk, in a narrow pass between the Lehigh river and the overhanging mountains, rises on the slopes like a quaint Swiss village. Historically the locality is known in connection with the discovery of anthracite coal. This discovery led to the construction of a bit of railroad which is the oldest in the country. Originally the track was laid to convey the coal to the river, but now it is maintained solely for recreation purposes. The cars are first hauled up a high hill, and from that point they travel by their own gravity around a circuit of nearly enighteen miles. As one ascends the steep slope the buildings below, the town and the nearer landmarks drop away in perspective with kaleidescopic suddenness, and the doubling valley of the Lehigh spreads out in a tnrilling panorama. Sights of great interest abound along the route. Old Indian trails over tre hills are pointed out, the primeval forest envelopes the track for long stretches, and glimpses of old mining settlements are caught in the valleys. At Summit Mountain a ralt is made and opportunity is given to visit the mines. The burning mine which is situated here has been smouldering since 1832 in spite of elaborate and costly undertakings to extinguish the fire. Returning from Summit Mountain the car attains great speed, and, as the visitor always thinks, the inspiring ride is over all too soon. The New Jersey Central will operate one of its popular excursions to Mauch Chunk on September 16, 1906. Round trip $1.50, and special train leaves Plainfield at 9:20 a. m. 9 12 td

Toronto and Return $10.50.

The Lehigh Valley Railroad will sell tickets to Toronto and return at above rate Sept. 13, 14, 15 and 16, return limit Sept. 24. Good going and returning on all trains except the Black Diamond Express within prescribed limit. See Lehigh Valley ticket agent, 218 West Front street, for particulars. 9 19 td

Lavender Creighton's Lovers

By OLIVIA B. STROHM

(Copyright, 1905, by Olivia B. Strohm).

He mounted his horse and rode away, not trusting himself to look back.

She lingered a moment at the stile, then, with a sudden recollection, took from the sash at her belt the small packet Winslow had delivered.

"From Belle," he had explained, "and she says you will understand. I think it is something she found in the effects of Senor Gonzaga."

Mechanically, for her mind and heart were with the man who had just ridden away, Lavender opened the large envelope.

It contained only the yellow letter—now so hateful in her sight—and a package of envelopes and paper exact with it in color and size. They were innocent of writing, but bore, nevertheless, flagrant, if unwritten, testimony.

She covered her face with her hand, and sat in silence a long time.

Then she murmured under her breath: "Not ill of the dead," and slowly she retraced her steps to the cabin where the palsied finger of a solitary candle shook a warning in the dark.

Not many days later came a second visitor to the Creighton cabin—Owatoga, who brought to Lavender a bunch of white roses. These he presented awkwardly, a giant messenger for so slight a burden.

Tied to the crinkled paper holder in which the stems lay was a note in Winslow's hand. It contained but a line: "The promise was another's; may its fulfillment be mine?"

Lavender brought the letter to her mother, and told all the story.

And in her listener's eyes was reflected a light, "like that which never shone on land nor sea," the light of proud joy in a mother's face.

Then the daughter raised her head, and, patting the pale cheeks with both hands, said with solemnity: "And now, dear mother, do you realize that the prayer is to be answered? That the gift I have begged of Heaven is to be ours? You are going back—going home with him—and me."

A silence fell between them; their hearts too full for words.

Suddenly a whippoorwill sounded his plaintive note from an elm outside. The sun sank until the tree-tops were lost in the somber eastern sky—only the trunks cast long pillars of shade. Through their gigantic colonnade the last yellow beams poured a flood of light straight to the cabin door where sat mother and child together.

"Think, daughter," she whispered, "that sunset is even now shining on the sloping roof, on the vine-covered porch of home! Imagine how its rays empurple every Michaelson daisy, and glorify the golden-rod! For there is a hint of autumn there already, dear.

"Under the trees the grass is soft and brown with needles, and the grapes are ripening. The stone steps are worn—one is falling away at the side. Perhaps the old red gate is open, child, open for us."

She looked out into the garden, all sunset-illumined, and her voice was clear, almost triumphant, as she sang the refrain:

"And she thought of her flowers, and she thought of the well.
Where the cool waters dashed o'er the large white stone.
And she thought it would soothe like a fairy spell,
Could she drink of that fount when her fever was on."

CHAPTER XXX.

When the new schoolhouse was completed, it was decided to hold dedicatory exercises amid much pomp and ceremony. For after a great deal of talk the school was at last a fact. The settlement had been startled from river to bluff; its inhabitants shaken out of their torpid summer calm, by such an innovation.

But after the first shock was over, they had lent willing ear to the plan. The lads and lasses themselves were delighted; less it must be confessed from desire for knowledge than because of the immunity from work which the hours of school promised.

The parental consent was usually given with good-humored tolerance for a prejudice. If there were those who believed in education—why, so were there believers in the ultimate accomplishment of steamboats and flying machines. It was easy enough to humor such outlandish opinions, and the three R's could do no harm, they supposed. And after this negative fashion Winslow's plan had been accepted.

And so, as prime mover in the affair, as architect and assistant builder, Winslow was master of ceremonies. The programme was to consist of songs and speeches, concluding with games in the afternoon—for the affair must be in the nature of an all-day picnic, with a hearty meal out-of-doors, or these robust sons of the backwoods could not be content.

The day was a perfect one in early August; earth and sky seemed in a glow of happy congratulation over the event. The sun had never shone so brightly; never sang the birds in such jubilant accord. Even the dew-crammed flowers, those tear-jugs which the dawn brings from her Orient home, were early dry.

So on this auspicious morning the little log building was filled with a noisy crowd in high good humor. Winslow sat on the platform in company with a few leading men who were busy making speeches. For now that the schoolhouse was a success—a practical something in logs and mortar, everybody was enthusiastic; each striving to prove that his had been the support which promised to make of St. Charles an educational center.

And for this recognition Winslow was grateful. What though doubts were at first expressed and, fearful of failure, the villagers gave sly indorsement and grudging aid? "I am not the first," he thought, "for whose venture the public waited with hands behind its back; in one the crown of thorns—the laurel wreath in the other."

Unconsciously his shoulders were lifted disdainfully; his lips took a cynical curve at thought of how little his venture—a log schoolhouse in the wilderness—was worthy either reward. Compared with the hopes he had built on the southern project how puerile it seemed! He had reckoned upon the success of the expedition less from its own possibilities than because of his belief in the integrity and statecraft of Aaron Burr. From him—from his reflected glory, he had expected great things. There was much of the dreamer in Winslow—the disciple rather than the leader.

And this, not from weakness, but because of a habitual plane of thought where energetic leadership seemed scarcely worth while. To live and dream in an artistic, a poetic world to which others had given practical shape—this was his idea of the best in life. The failure of Burr's plans had roused him to action, and action which, so far as it led, had been successful; it was only that he despised the end.

But there had suddenly come a new turn of affairs, and his horizon had dawned broader—bright with new possibilities. It was this recent hope which lifted the tenor of his thought, made less hard the light in his eyes; this—and something else.

JUDGE FOR YOURSELF.

Which is Better—Try an Experiment or Profit by a Plainfield Citizen's Experience.

Something new is an experiment.
Must be proved to be as represented.
The statement of a manufacturer is not convincing proof of merit.
But the endorsement of friends is.
Now supposing you had a bad back,
A lame, weak or aching one,
Would you experiment on it?
You will read of many so-called cures.
Endorsed by strangers from far-away places.
It's different when the endorsement comes from home.
Easy to prove local testimony.
Home endorsement is the proof that backs every box of Doan's Kidney Pills.
Read this case:

Mrs. Julia Molloy, of 740 West Front street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "Many so-called cures for backache and kidney disease have been taken by me, but no medicine ever stopped my aches and pains until I began using Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Randolph's pharmacy. I took the pills according to directions, and found before finishing the first box that they were far more healing and brought even more relief from backache than their owners claim for them. I continued with the treatment and was cured, and now do not suffer from aches or pains or kidney troubles."

POINTS FOR THE BUYERS

Charles Conover & Co., of Elmwood place, is now ready to make contracts for painting and paperhanging. This is the time to have the work done.

The H. E. Gayle Hardware Company carry a complete line of hardware, kitchen utensils and masons' materials, also a full line of stoves and ranges. You will find these goods of the best make and the prices reasonable.

The wise furniture buyer goes to Powlison & Jones, of East Front street, before even thinking of New York. You have just as much choice at the P. & J. store as you have in the metropolis, and the prices will surprise you by their reasonableness.

Roth & Co., of East Front street, can safely lay claim to being one of the leading dealers in meat in the State and by fair and honest dealing the firm has built up an enormous trade in this city and vicinity. As you well know only the best quality of fresh and salt meats are sold; also strictly fresh fish.

Thinking of your fall suit, young man? Go to Harry Werner, West Front street. You will find a wide choice of styles and a range of price that will fit the purse of the economically inclined. The clerks at the Werner store are noted for their courtesy. They will help you decide, without making nuisances of themselves.

When you want clothes there is just one place that you can always be sure of finding the proper thing, at M. Weinberger's store on West Front street. The clothing is of the finest material, cut in the latest styles, while the prices are very low. There is also a complete line of men's furnishings, including collars, cuffs, neckwear, hosiery, shoes and hats.

CLOSE TO THE PEOPLE.

Puffed Rice.

Silas Rice and wife gave a party the other night, and one of the Chicago papers gave him quite a puff about it.—Mount Morris (Ill.) Index.

Probably Choked to Death.

It will be remembered that two weeks ago we published an account of the murder of Alonzo B. Jones at what is known as the High Land bridge. Jones was found dead with no pistol about him and wearing his hat and a toothbrush in his mouth.—Smithfield (N. C.) Herald.

Also Liar.

Billy Mills went fishing Wednesnesday and caught thirty-six perch and one cat, and eat twenty-six of them for dinner himself, and went back after dinner to catch all he could eat for supper. He is a notorious fish eater.—McGee (I. T.) Chickasaw News.

Gallantry in Iowa.

Charley Victor and Tom McDonough's wife ran a race last Saturday afternoon. He was in his auto car, while she was driving her old, blind mare single. The blind mare took the race.—Oskaloosa (Iowa) Globe.

Mr. Hammond's Bungalow.

Edgar Hammond had a very nice hog house built last week on Mrs. Mary W. Sim's premises, which he occupies.—Libertytown (Md.) News.

Barks Worry Brains.

The Borealis serves notice now and here that if the nuisance is not abated, the owners of the howling and barking dogs will be brought up on the carpet. Patience has ceased to be a virtue in our case, and we want to get at least one night's sleep during a month, which now is impossible on account of the confounded dogs howling and barking every night.—Oregon Aurora Borealis.

John F. Dryden, President,
The Prudential Insurance Company,
Newark, N. J.

Dear Sir:—

I am in receipt of notice of dividend due under my policy No. 291,875, issued August 17th, 1901. I am very much pleased with the options given me, viz: First, I may take $81.36 in cash, which is a little better than 5 per cent. compound interest on the total amount of premiums paid during the five years the policy has been in force, a first-class investment in itself to say nothing of the protection to the extent of $3.000 that I have had during that time.

Second: An addition to the policy of $153.00, making my insurance $3,153.00, while my premium remains the same.

Third: I may use the $81.36 to reduce the premium for the ensuing five years from $98.04 to $80.64 per annum.

I have selected the last named option, thus expressing my satisfaction with the results achieved and my continued confidence in the splendid management of The Prudential.

Wishing you a continuance of that success that has characterized your work,

I remain,

Yours very truly,

(Signed) S. LESCHZINER.

DIAMOND DUST.

The Highlanders are certainly having a see-saw time of it in the closing days of the American League race. They win one day, lose the next, while the Chicagos, second in the fight, are practically doing the same thing. At this rate the winner will not be known until the last contest is played.

The St. Louis Nationals have agents out looking for good material for next season. One of these fellows has been at Lancaster, Pa., after Tri-State players.

There is manifest unfairness in the decision of the National Commission prohibiting the Elizabeth Stars from playing major league clubs, while the Invaders expect to play these clubs before the season closes. It is claimed that the Invaders are not affected because their grounds are a little farther away from Newark, from which place the kick comes.

Today at Somerville the West Ends will try and hang it all over the Flemingtons for the way in which they were treated at Flemington last Saturday. The West Ends will be strengthened and prepared to apply the whitewash brush.

Eddie Shortell, who will be remembered by many fans, has been playing an exceptionally fast game for Scranton, of the Tri-State League, this season. He covered his old position at short faultlessly.

W. Smalley For Assembly.

Assemblyman Irving Hoagland will not be renominated for a third term. This information has been given out by one in a position to know which way the straws are floating on the political stream. BIG CROWD AT CONCERT

COLUMBUS KNIGHTS TO BRING ANDREW MACK HERE

WILL PRESENT HIS LATEST PLAY AT THEATRE UNDER THEIR AUSPICES.

Arrangements have been completed by Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus, for the appearance here of Andrew Mack in his latest play, under its auspices. The popular star of Irish dramas will appear at the New Plainfield theatre Tuesday night, October 9.

The play will be Arrah-na-Pogue. It is a characteristic Mack production, full of the humor and pathos of the Emerald Isle, in which the star sings songs of the sort for which he is noted. It will be Mack's first appearance in this city. Arrah-na-Pogue has made a big hit, running all last season.

All arrangements for the coming are in the hands of the Council. The proceeds of the performance are to be applied to the general fund of the organization.

APPRECIATED IT $15 WORTH.

No More Band Concerts, Says Leader Ben La Vere.

A crowd supposed to have been the largest of the season, witnessed the closing band concert and fireworks at Concert Park last night. It was a great entertainment but the profits were only $15. This will be applied to the season's deficit, reducing the amount to $115.

Ben La Vere will conduct no more concerts and hopes to secure the money needed to cover the loss by subscription.

He will start out with a paper in a few days and will rely on the beneficence of the citizens help him quit clear.

Band Concert Tonight.

The Jenkins Orphan Pickaninny Band and Jubilee Concert Co., of Charleston, S. C., will provide entertainment under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. this evening at 8 o'clock. The entertainment will consist of old time Southern dialect, plantation and Jubilee songs, solos, duets, trios, &c. The entertainment is for men, women and children. A silver offering will be received at the box office. The band will also furnish special music at park where band concerts are held on Sunday afternoons at 4 o'clock. The meeting will be held in the Y. M. C. A. hall if the weather is unfavorable.

Given Farewell Party.

Joseph H. Jones, of West Third street, was given a reception last night in honor of his departure for Oberlin College tomorrow. The affair was arranged by his sister, Miss Sarah Jones, and was attended by twenty young people. Games, music and dancing were enjoyed. Mr. Jones graduated from the Plainfield High school last year. He will be accompanied to Oberlin by Fred Miller, formerly of Jefferson College, who has been visiting John R. Gates, of East Third street.

A Meeting for Men.

Rev. John W. Musson will address the meeting to be held under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. in the Band Concert Park tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. The Jenkins Orphan Pickaninny Band and Jubilee Concert Co., of Charleston, S. C., will furnish special music.

W. C. T. U. Anniversary.

Anniversary services will be held at the W. C. T. U. rooms on Madison avenue tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson, the new president, will be in charge. There will be vocal and instrumental music in charge of Mrs. Honeyman and W. C. Leek will sing a solo.

Taylor Mehaffey, of Park avenue, is spending the day on Long Island.

Mrs. Freeman and daughter, of Macon, Ga., is visiting her sister, Mrs. P. J. McAndrews, of North avenue.

BOROUGH WOMAN BATTLES WITH VENOMOUS SERPENT.

Mrs. Harry Kesselring Deals Out Death to a Snake With a Baseball Bat.

Nine hundred and ninety-nine women out of a thousand, it is generally supposed, are afraid of snakes. But not so with Mrs. Harry Kesselring, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gustav Fleming, Sr., of Harrison avenue. Mrs. Kesselring yesterday showed herself to be a brave and sunky woman when she gave battle to a red-headed adder, measuring four feet long, killing the reptile with a baseball bat. This species of snake is rarely seen in this vicinity and resembles the copperhead.

Connected with the killing of the snake and its discovery is a story. Mrs. Fleming, Sr., had scattered rat poison underneath the front porch for the purpose of killing off rats. The poison failed of its intended purpose, instead bringing death to a pet kitten.

Mrs. Fleming sent her grandson to the porch for the purpose of removing the d eadcat. The lad hurried back to his grandmother with the startling tale that a snake was eating up the kitten. Mrs. Kesselring rushed to the scene and saw for herself that the tale of the lad was true. She armed herself with a baseball bat and while preparing for the attack on the reptile the snake crawled out from underneath the stoop to the front garden bringing with it the dead kitten.

Mrs. Kesselring made a strike but missed her mark. This angered the snake which danced on its tale for a moment. Afterwards making a strike at Mrs. Kesselring. Undaunted, the young woman brought the bat down again, this time striking the snake on the back which proved to be the death blow.

In the presence of an excited family group the reptile made a few faint waggles of the tail, and then passed to the everlasting.

Woman-like, after the thrilling ordeal, Mrs. Kesselring fainted.

GOES BACK AT DRYDEN

Senator Colby Makes Tart Rejoinder to Former's Reply.

NOTHING TO RETRACT

Leader of "New Idea" Movement Reaffirms Statements About Falsified Reports of Hillery Debate.

State Senator Everett Colby has sent to United States Senator John F. Dryden a rejoinder to Mr. Dryden's reply to Mr. Colby's letter, in which the latter called the United States Senator's attention to the false and misleading reports of the Essex man's joint debate with Senator Thomas J. Hillery, which have been circulated throughout the State.

Mr. Dryden, when asked if he had received the communication, said:

"Yes, I have received Mr. Colby's letter. He is at liberty to publish it if he sees fit. If I have any reply to make I will make it later."

In his letter Mr. Colby does not retract any statements he made in his previous communication to the United States Senator, but on the contrary reaffirms them. He did not charge Mr. Dryden with any act of dishonor, he says, but asked whether the Senator or his friends were responsible for the false and unfair accounts of his debate with Senator Hillery. The letter in full follows:

"My Dear Sir—I received your letter Wednesday night, and note that you resent the publication of my letter press before you had an opportunity to answer. This breach of etiquette I admit, and for it I willingly apologize. Nothing in my letter, however, requires an apology, and I do not retract any statements therein made, but, on the contrary, reaffirm them. I did not charge you with any act of dishonor, but asked that you inform me whether you or your friends were responsible for the circulation of false and unfair accounts of my debate with Senator Hillery.

"Let me call certain facts to your attention. During the greater part of last winter, and especially during the weeks when the question of an investigation of insurance companies was before the Legislature, certain newspapers of the State were furnished, free of charge, carefully prepared editorials and articles reflecting seriously upon my acts and motives as a legislator, and which, in their nature, were arguments against such an investigation. The circulation of these stories was enveloped in mystery. They were signed by one F. Bowen, but no one seemed to know for whom he worked, or who paid for his services, and I boldly assumed that he did not work for nothing, or for love and affection alone. This marks the beginning of a campaign of mis representation for which you, perhaps, were not personally responsible, but with reference to matters in which you were personally interested.

"After my debate with Senator Hillery, at which a conversation was overheard among your friends, proving a deliberate and prearranged plan to embarrass me in my argument, a biased, unfair and false story of the debate was anonymously sent to certain newspapers, a copy of which was received by Samuel L. Garrison, of the Boonton Weekly Bulletin. This copy I enclose.

"On the sixth of September, before I addressed my note to you, Mr. Knight, who took the stenographic notes for the debate, telephoned my secretary that he would sell me a complete copy of the minutes, and added 'not the copy given to the press.' When I asked Mr. Knight for whom he worked he told me he considered it a confidential matter and would not say. On September 7 I received the following letter from D. E. Titsworth, vice-president of the Potter Printing Press Company of Plainfield." Mr. Colby quotes this letter in full and continues:

"I called upon Mr. Titsworth and was informed that the gentleman who brought to him what purported to be a true copy of the minutes, had notified him that he was mistaken, and that it was not a true copy. Mr. Titsworth tried to get the manuscript, but could not, and the gentleman not only refused to allow Mr. Titsworth to mention his name, but refused to give the name of the person from whom he received the notes. Mr. Titsworth's second letters is as follows:

" 'Plainfield, N. J., Sept. 11, 1906.

" 'Hon. Everett Colby, Newark, N. J.:

" 'Dear Senator Colby—I am in receipt of your esteemed favor of tenth instant, and replying, beg to say that the gentleman who showed me the paper purporting to be a copy of the stenographer's notes of your debate with Senator Hillery, told me last evening that when he showed it to me he certainly thought it was what he represented it to be, as he had asked a gentleman to send him

LOCAL ELKS OUTING A DELIGHTFUL AFFAIR

ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY OF ANTLERED HOST IN ATTENDANCE.

With almost ideal weather and the delightful surroundings that only the Watchung mountain slope affords, Plainfield lodge, No. 885, B. P. O. E., held its third annual outing, Saturday afternoon. The scene of the affair was just back of the Watchung Water Company's spring, off Mountain avenue, and is the one that has been used on the two preceding occasions. One hundred and fifty members of the order and their friends were present, the local contingent being swelled by representatives from Elizabeth, New Brunswick, Somerville and Easton.

The participants were taken to the grounds in wagonettes and those who arrived in the morning were served with breakfast. Baseball and quoits furnished entertainment until late in the afternoon when a bake was placed on long tables erected in a pretty grove. Every course from clams to lobster was perfect and they disappeared before the onslaughts of the hungry crowd in record time.

With the completion of the spread, order was called for by Mayor Newton B. Smalley, who gave a welcoming address and introduced Assemblyman Randolph Perkins, of Westfield. The latter spoke for five minutes, avoiding politics, but giving anecdotes and stories that kept the gathering laughing from start to finish. Mayor James F. Buckle also spoke briefly and "Bob" Schwartz, of Elizabeth, responded to popular demand by rendering two pleasing songs. The affair broke up shortly before 7 o'clock.

The arrangements for the outing were made by a committee composed of Herbert Buxton, George Johnson, David C. Smalley, J. A. Staats, Harry MacDonald, Andrew McCardell and E. C. Westcott. D. C. Smalley and J. A. Staats purchased the supplies and the bake was prepared by Joseph Morris, of Perth Amboy, under their supervision.

BUNGALOW SETTLEMENT AT BERKELEY HEIGHTS

WILLIAM JEFFERY MAKES PLANS FOR NEXT SEASON.

The Investors' Realty Company, of Plainfield, which was organized four years ago, by Plainfielders, whose aim was to develop home building and local property, and of which William Jeffery is the active member, has had great success. Through this company the Berkeley Heights Association was evolved, which was made possible by the interest of Bolton Hall, the noted sociologist, whose foresight saw the possibilities of great opportunities in this section of New Jersey.

Besides its Plainfield holdings, the Berkeley Heights Association purchased a large tract of land at Berkeley Heights, and at once proceeded to develop the same under Mr. Jeffery's direction. This section is now regarded as an established fact and the Lackawanna Railroad has co-operated in a reasonable manner to facilitate the work of improvement.

Last spring Mr. Jeffery started work of a much larger proportion and the result has been gratifying to the company, bringing people of repute to this part of New Jersey. A portion of this land which ascends easterly to an altitude of 500 feet above tide-water, was set aside as a summer resort, and being particularly adapted to camping, work was commenced to establish one, now known as "Ye Olde Mountain Camp." The undertaking was under the management of Francis E. Bodin and proved a success from the start. A pretty entrance was erected on Plainfield avenue, leading directly to the camp, a road having been cut through a wooded stretch and over a stream with pleasing effect. At the breaking of the camp, the guests, about fifty in number, all agreed that it was the best summer they had experienced, both in treatment and from the viewpoint of health, and all were reluctant to go home.

Encouraged by these successes, Mr. Jeffery, in conjunction with Bolton Hall, has arranged for still further developments, both in Plainfield, building homes, and at Berkeley Heights. It is their opinion that in linking these two communities much can be accomplished. Plans are being prepared for the building of a bungalow settlement at Berkeley Heights in addition to the camp and work on the streets will be continued together with the installation of light and water.

Mrs. Frederick Mead and her daughter, Miss Mead, have returned to their home on East Front street after a stay at Lake Mohank.

TRUST CO.'S RECEPTION

Fully 4,000 People Inspect Progressive Banking House's Building.

PRESENT SOUVENIRS

Rapid Rise of Concern Which Has Handsomest Home in Union County—Its History.

The Plainfield Trust Company held an informal reception at its new banking institution Saturday afternoon and night, giving the patrons and friends of the company an opportunity to inspect the luxurious and commodious quarters provided at Park avenue and West Second street. It is conservatively estimated that nearly 4,000 persons called at the building in the afternoon and evening, and the crowd was especially large at night.

The attractive institution was even made more so through elaborate decorations. There was an arrangement of cut flowers, potted plants, palms, ferns and bay trees about the first floor and the gallery which is used by the directors. Beautiful vases with cut flowers also ornamented the various tables in the main banking room as well as the numerous smaller ones, provided for the various departments.

The company provided souvenirs, in the shape of metal tin boxes suitably inscribed and inteded for the safe keeping of deeds, mortgages and other papers of value, which the company will keep in its vaults for a nominal sum. The company had over one thousand of these boxes and all were distributed.

Nothing but praise and complimentary expressions were heard about the new building and its up-to-date methods of doing business. The company opened its new building for business on August 4 last, removing from East Front street, where it began business June 4, 1902. Afterwards the company purchased the land where its new building stands and in June, 1905, work was begun on the new structure. There has been a steady increase in business until today there are 3,000 depositors and the deposits aggregate over $2,000,000. The building is thoroughly equipped in a modern manner.

Those of the directors who served as a reception committee on Saturday were Senator Ernest R. Ackerman, J. Herbert Case, Augustus V. Heely, Edward H. Ladd, Jr., Henry A. McGee, Walter M. McGee, George P. Mellick, Isaac W. Rushmore, Samued Townsend, Orville T. Waring.

The visitors were escorted about the building and every little detail about the building and its equipment explained.

COSTLY FORGETFULNESS.

Lynus Walpole, Sr., the Scotch Plains hotel keeper, is on the hunt for a crooked gentleman who got away with his $50 gold watch one night last week. Walpole removed the watch from his vest pocket before doing a bit of work in his barroom, and placed it on a window sill in the rear of the room. He forgot about it, and left it there. It had disappeared in the morning.

It is supposed that some one in the place who saw him put the watch on the sill and noticed that he forgot about it, sneaked around the side of the house after closing hour, pried up the window and got the timepiece.

He Was "Dogged."

George Ogden, a Scotch Plains wood carver, was chased by a mad dog on the Westfield road at dusk Friday night, and barely managed to save himself by a leap over a garden fence. He went to Elizabeth early Saturday morning on business, and saw the same dog dashing down the street, madder than ever. He looked hurriedly for another fence to jump, but a policeman saved him the leap with a bullet that bowled the dog over. Ogden is positive it was the same dog; he had a good look at it under a street lamp when it started for him Friday evening.

Lecturer On Law.

Lawyer Louis Olson Barton, of this city, has been engaged by the Plainfield Business College as lecturer on commercial law. Mr. Barton will lecture to the students once each week throughout the school year. His introductory lecture to the course will be given Thursday morning at 11 o'clock.

Returns to His Old Position.

William Moffet, formerly with M. Weinberger, the West Front street clothier, but recently in business for himself, has returned to his old position with Mr. Weinberger, where he will be pleased to see his many friends.

STRIKE-BREAKERS HERE

Krom Works Turned Over to Forces Gathered For Campaign.

NEW MEN IN THE CAMP

Will Be Housed and Fed on the Grounds—Early Morning March From Netherwood Station.

The National Metal Trades Association, a protective organization with which the Krom Machine Works is affiliated, took charge of the strike this morning, and will take up the fight against the dissatisfied machinists.

A large force of workingmen, professional strikebreakers who are said to know their business, with guards, were sent to the shop early this morning, and arrangements were made for a regularly organized campaign. The men were brought here from New York at 5 o'clock, and debarked at Netherwood, marching swiftly from there to the shop.

The strikebreakers will be housed in tents on the grounds of the works, and will conduct their own commissary department. Five seasoned guards patrol the grounds. All expenses of the strikebreaking campaign are borne by the Metal Trades' Association.

It was said at the shop that none of the machinists' alleged pickets were in evidence this morning. They are supopsed to have learned of the development in the situation.

The application of the Krom Works for a restraining order against alleged pickets will be argued in the Court of Chancery tomorrow.

TRINITY RALLY DAY.

433 In Attendance at the Special Exercises.

Rally day at Trinity Reformed church Sunday-school yesterday was largely attended by officers, teachers and pupils, the attendance being 433, or twenty more than one year ago. There was special music by the church choir and a male quartette composed of H. J. Martin, Sr., Phillip A. Vroom, Edmund Young and W. C. Leek.

Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, pastor of the church, made a short address, congratulating the Sunday-school upon its fine showing and expressing the hope that the coming winter will be one of great success.

A. C. Beckstein, of Oak Tree, who is identified with a mission Sunday-school in New York, and who is interested in Marconnier chapel, a branch of Trinity Reformed church, also made a short address, telling of the work at Marconnier chapel and outlining his work in New York. He urged that the home school remember Marconnier chapel in its prayers.

Daab For the Assembly.

Philip Daab, the baseball manager, who is a political, as well as a baseball, magnate, in Hoboken, is slated to run for the Assembly on the Democratic ticket in Hudson county. There is no opposition to him and he is sure of election. Daab is now a Hoboken school commissioner, and will probably hold on to the job after he goes to the Assembly.

Miss Naylor Wedded.

Miss Edith Naylor, of Elm place, and John Johnson, of Riverhead, L. I., were married quietly yesterday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hughes, of Elm place, by Rev. L. R. Howard, pastor of Hope chapel. The bride is a niece of Mrs. J. F. Walton. The couple will reside at Little Falls, this State.

Noise But No Damage.

A horse belonging to Vail & Gardner, the grocers, ran away on Richmond street, this morning. It made a fearful clatter and stirred up the neighborhood but was caught by a boy near East Fifth street before any serious damage resulted.

Arranging a Fair.

At a meeting of members of St. Mary's parish, yesterday, preliminary arrangements were made for holding a fair and bazaar the second week in October. It will be conducted in Stafford Hall at Sixth and Liberty streets.

Gymnasium Classes.

Gymnasium classes will begin at the Y. M. C. A. October 1. The Business Men, Policemen and Leal's boys will begin their season's work and the High School boys', Young Men and Boys' Classes will start the next day.

Senator Minch in Town.

Senator Bloomfield H. Minch, of Cumberland county, and a party of friends were in Plainfield yesterday calling on some friends. They made the trip to Plainfield in the Senator's automobile.

Frederick C. Cady, of Providence, R. I., is the guest today of Miss May Duckworth, of the borough.

SENATOR COLBY IN TOWN

Spent the Night at Hyde Home on East Front Street.

CONFERS WITH RUNYON

Senator and Judge Together All Morning and Leave In Company for Elizabeth Shop meeting.

Everett Colby, leader of the reform forces in this State, was in Plainfield over Sunday. He was a guest at the home of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Charles Hyde, of East Front street.

He came downtown this morning to consult with Judge Runyon on the Union county situation. The Senator and the Judge were together from 10 o'clock until they took the train, just before noon, for Elizabethport, to attend a noonday mass meeting at the Singer shops.

Judge Runyon and George W. V. Moy continued their street meetings for the Colbyite cause Saturday night, addressing the crowd on Front street from a stone column lying in front of the lot next to the postoffice. Naturally, they had a good-sized audience.

The speeches were substantially the same as those of the night before. Mr. Moy dwelt on the necessity for the citizens to turn out at the primary if they noped to turn out the bosses, and on the fairness of equal taxation. Judge Runyon spoke of the machine control of nominations, of the trail of bossism over the State, of the duty of the voters to free the State and county and city from machine control, and of the principles of Colbyism—equal taxation, taxation of franchises, and the popular selection of U. S. Senators.

The crowd was orderly and only one overjoyed citizen allowed his enthusiasm to break out beyond strict dignity.

QUIETLY WEDDED.

Simple Ceremony United Harold W. Cooke and Miss Rae De Camp.

A quiet wedding was celebrated at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank DeCamp, of Linden avenue, Saturday night, when their youngest daughter, Miss Rae DeCamp, was made the wife of Harold Wells Cooke, of Newark, formerly of this city. The ceremony was performed by Rev. T. Logan Murphy, former rector of the Church of the Holy Cross, and was witnessed only by relatives. The event was conducted on simple lines because of the recent death of the groom's mother.

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Cooke left for Lakewood on a wedding trip. At its conclusion they will make their home at Newark, where the groom is assistant manager of Woolworth & Co.'s store.

He is well known as a musician and is pianist at the Newark Y. M. C. A.

Belated Marriage Announcement.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Daisy Houston, of West Front street, and John S. Whitlock, of this city. According to the statement of the couple the ceremony took place on September 9, 1905, at New Brunswick, by Rev. Dr. Pockman, pastor of the First Reformed church, of that city. It is said that the bride's mother heard that the couple was married and she asked her daughter if the report was true. At that time it was denied. Since then the elder Mrs. Houston learned that the couple was married on the date named and decided to announce it.

Promised $100 For Chapel Fund.

At the first executive meeting of the Missionary Aid Society of Warren chapel, this fall, Saturday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. J. O. McKelvey, it was announced that an out-of-town friend of Mrs. McKelvey had promised $100 for the building fund, providing that another $100 is raised by the society by October 1. The members will meet Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock, when it is planned to have each one agree to contribute $1 toward the desired $100.

From the Borough Police Blotter.

Jim Medock and Raphael Salve, two Italians who live in Washington Valley, were arrested by Marshal Hooley, Saturday night, for annoying a young woman on Grandview avenue. They gave bail for appearance tonight.

Joins U. S. Navy.

William Chase, formerly employed as a machinist at the Pond Machine Tool Works, has enlisted in the U. S. Navy and expects to be assigned to the Battleship Connecticut.

MISS MAC GINNIS NOW MRS. JAMES QUACKENBOSS

TWO MINISTERS OFFICIATE AT CEREMONY AT BRIDE'S HOME.

Miss Nellie Bird MacGinnis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George S. MacGinnis, of Somerset street, and James Quackenboss, of New Brunswick, were married Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents in the presence of about eighty guests from Brooklyn, Newark, Pittsburg, Elizabeth, New Brunswick, Dang Branch, South Amboy and this city. Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, performed the ceremony, assisted by Rev. Thomas S. Brock, pastor of St. James M. E. church, New Brunswick.

The bride wore a gown of grey peu de cyne, over taffeta, trimmed with white chiffon and carried a shower bouquet of white bridal roses. She was attended by Miss Elizabeth Van Winkle, of this city, as bridesmaid, who was gowned in light grey volle over taffeta. She carried pink carnations. The best man was Irving Quackenboss, of New Brunswick, brother of the groom. Included in the bridal party were two pages, Master Earle Cooke, nephew of the bride, and Master Gorden Leonard Leach, of Newark. The wedding march was played by Miss Violet VanWinkle, of this city.

The rooms were attractively decorated with green and white, with a background of ferns.

Following the ceremony congratulations were offered and a supper was served. Among the exchange of gifts, the groom presented his best man with a pearl stick pin, and his bride with a sunburst of pearls. The couple also received a large collection of gifts, including cut-glass, china, furniture and linen.

Later in the evening the couple left for Atlantic City, where they will spend their honeymoon. Upon their departure they were showered with rice. When they return they will make their home in New Brunswick, where the groom has furnished a house. The bride is well-known here in a large circle of friends. She has been an attendant at Trinity Reformed church. The groom is also well known in New Brunswick, where he holds a good position in the post office.

POSTAL CARD FAD GROWING MORE POPULAR.

Mails Flooded With Them and the End Is Not Yet In Sight.

No fad of recent years has gained such popularity and widespread recognition as that of the souvenir postal card. No one realizes this more than the letter carriers and other postoffice employes of the United States, including those in the local office. In fact, that employed in every postoffice throughout the civilized world experience a material realization of its growth. When it first started a few years ago it was confined to high-priced cards, which were mostly received from foreign counties. It was a pretty and sensible fad, and was seized upon at once by travelers and became intensely popular. The fad spread rapidly, and it was but a short time before they were being made in every town, city and hamlet in the civilized world, so that one could send to his friends at home innumerable pictured postal cards of the places where business or pleasure called him.

It is impossible to tell to a certainty the exact difference that the souvenir postal card fad has made to the receipts of the postoffices of this country, but it is very considerable. There is not a mail received at the larger central offices, like New York, San Francisco, Boston and Philadelphia, that does not contain thousands of these pretty fancies. The custom of sending these cards has grown to such an extent that comic cards have been introduced, and, unfortunately for the enjoyment of the custom, many designs have crept in that the authorities have found it necessary to exclude. But there are a sufficient number of cards that are acceptable that are daily sent through the mails to make the carriers' bag many times heavier than before the advent of these cards.

The summer season is very appropriately the banner time for these reminders of the picturesque and famous places of the country and some days the number of cards received in the postoffice is so large that the carriers find it necessary to leave many until their next trips. It is said that in some places in the Middle Western states the number of souvenir postal cards sent through the mails is so heavy that the number of assistants at the smaller postoffices has had to be increased.

In Plainfield the number of regular collectors of these cards is very large and in the course of a week the number of cards received is equal on an average to one for every man, woman and child in the city, or within the limitations of the territory covered by the local office No record is kept of these cards, as it would be impracticable But close enough account of them is maintained for the men to realize that their duties have increased manifold since their introduction.

Extensive as the fad has grown, there does not appear to be any falling off. Every day new designs are added, new scenes are depicted, incidents are reproduced in colors or in black and white and are perpetuated on these cards. Hardly a home can be found where one or more albums of these cards cannot be shown, and the limit of the fad is yet unknown.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY

Mrs. Hannah Roantree, charged with disorderly conduct by Mrs. Shafer, has been bound over to keep the peace. The hard-feeling engendered by the so-called spite-fence shows no signs of abating.

W. J. Davis has traded in a valuable house at Los Angeles, Cal., giving in exchange a chicken farm, which he got for a house that was taken in exchange for his grocery store at Ocean Park, Cal.

Political affairs are getting a bit liveller in the township every day. George Coriell and Dr. M. J. Whitford are now mentioned as candidates for the Republican nomination for collector.

There was no baseball game in the borough Saturday. The Port Reading team cancelled the date Friday night. The Raritan team will close the season here next Saturday.

The ditches along the township roadway have been cleaned out, and the brush and weeds cut down. The "prospect is pleasing where once it was vile."

Abram Nelson witnessed the championship ball game between Clinton Avenue and the All-Americans in Plainfield Saturday.

Miss Mary Baldwin went to Clinton, Saturday, to spend several days with relatives.

Philip Mitze returned to his work in Plainfield today, after a week's vacation.

Special music was a feature of the service at the Baptist church last night.

The young son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Myrick has been quite sick.

Joseph Penrose has entered G. W. Day's employ.

Thomas Bogue is recovering from his illness.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD

"Willie" Deegan has a money maker in the skating rink opened in the rear of his hotel. The opening Saturday night was well attended, the floor being crowded with those who have taken up the revival craze for the sport. The rink is shut off entirely from the hotel proper. The supply of skates Saturday night could not fill the demand, so "Willie" intends adding to the stock this week. The rink will be open Wednesday and Saturday nights, as well as every afternoon.

The refusal of Thomas J. Nicholl to accept a renomination as candidate for township committeeman has left the Democrats without a candidate. Several men are being considered as candidates and one will no dcubt be named at the primary meeting to be held on the twenty-fifth.

Rev. William Pringle, of Ireland, occupied the pulpit yesterday at the Baptist church, Rev. T. Moore-Smith being in West Virginia on his annual vacation.

"Three Crosses" was the topic discussed by the members of the B. Y. P. U. at their weekly meeting held last night in the parlors of the church.

A license fee of $25 was placed on Deegan's skating rink by the Township Committee, as roller skating comes under the amusement ordinance.

The local members of the Elks attended the clam-bake and outing held Saturday at Watchung Springs on Mountain avenue.

Rev. George Francis, of Plainfield, was the guest over Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. John Z. Hetfield, of Stout avenue.

The weekly meeting of the Epworth League was held last night in the class rooms of the Methodist church.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Morel, of Park avenue, entertained friends over Sunday.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

By request, the two plays given by the Young People's Club last fall and which was such a great success, will be repeated on September 25 in Washington Hall for the benefit of the church. Come and bring your friends. Some new talent will be added and the entertainment will begin promptly at 8 o'clock. Dancing after.

Mrs. Garrigue, after visiting friends in South Plainfield and vicinity, has returned to her home in New Rochelle.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kellogg have returned to their home after spending two weeks with their parents here.

Judge Steele and family will not return to their home in Brooklyn until November 1.

Mrs. Foote has returned to her home after spending a month in Cleveland.

Mrs. W. E. Smith spent yesterday in Larchmont.

Explaining It.

"Yes, sir," said the young author, "my book is selling like hot cakes."

"Like hot cakes?" replied the critic. "Ah! that accounts for it."

"Accounts for what?"

"A friend of mine told me today that your book gave him mental dyspepsia."

Fierce Job.

"Well," he grunted, "there's your old stove up. I hope you're satisfied with the job."

"Er—yes, dear," she replied, dubiously, surveying the dirt he had made. "I suppose I must be, since you are so thoroughly sooted with it."

Miss Clara VanFleet, of Jackson avenue, has returned from Point Pleasant, where she has been spending a week.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

Plainfield is to have a treat in the presentation at the New Plainfield theatre tonight of Edwin Milton Royle's four-act play, "The Squaw Man," which has been declared to be one of the real sensations of the past few years. This, one of the best of Liebler & Co.'s productions, has been mounted with lavish taste and all the completeness that marks the stage presentations of that firm.

In the play of "Her Own Way," to be seen at the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow night, is found the story of many a fashionable home. Georgiana, the heroine has a brother, Stephen, who has married into the family of Carley. His wife is a flippant, unsatisfactory, worldly little body, who has been elevated to a higher place in her world of society by her marriage, but who is continually striving for more than she possibly can enjoy. Her mother, Mrs. Carley, Sr., is what Clyde Fitch is wont to call "a widow of the world." She is absolutely false in everything but her chatter is so entertaining and witty and at times so keen that it is a pleasure to hear her criticise her neighbors, even at their great expense. Georgiana, the true and great character of the story, is an orphan who has been brought up with every luxury and demands a certain homage from every one who comes within her range of life. All sorts and conditions of men make love to her, children adore her, the servants obey every wish. Fortunately she is self-reliant enough to carry the day, and in her battle for supremacy she wins the double victory of defeating the villain who has nearly spoiled her brother's life and winning her victory in "Her Own Way."

As no college play is complete without its quota of music, it was the first thought of the producers of the new college play, "At Yale," which with Paul Gilmore in the leading role of Dick Seeley is to be seen at the New Plainfield theatre Wednesday night, to saturate the scenes with true college music. To this end studies were made of the best college songs and the best college singers and both were collected for this production. Music plays so vital a part in the doings of these young men and women that enough has been introduced into "At Yale" to make it almost a college opera. Chief among the songs, of course, are the college glees. Those who love "Old Eli" will love the allusions to her in the songs sung by the glee club. Those who love any other college will be attracted in like manner to these songs of jolly good fellowship. And those who have no personal college affiliation will hum the songs softly to themselves because they tell so true a tale of life and good cheer. The production of this new college play is made under the management of Jules Murry.

There will be a gigantic "funfest" at the New Plainfield theatre next Thursday night when the well-known little comedian, Arthur Dunn, and a company of thirty-five artists will appear in a new and highly entertaining musical comedy, written expressly for him, by Herbert Hall Winslow and entitled: "The Little Joker." Mr. Dunn is already so well-known as a comedian of the righest rank, that it is but a waste of words to attempt to describe his good qualities, suffice to say, however, that this latest venture is by far the most pretentious he has ever attempted and according to all accounts the best. The comedy is "chock" full of humorous sayings and laughable situations, and is replete with bright, catchy music, and ensemble numbers. The production is complete and perfect as to detail, and the entire presentation is of the highest order throughout.

May Irwin is to be seen at the New Plainfield theatre again next Friday night in a new play written for her by George V. Hobart, called "Mrs. Wilson, That's All." The title of the play comes from the fact that Mrs. Wilson, the part played by Miss Irwin, believes that she is a widow, her first husband, Murgatroyd Wilson, having disappeared seven years before the period of the play and just as she is taking a second partner in the person of Colonel Andrews she is confronted by an old friend of Murgatroyd's, who, through a mistake, leads her to think that she is still Mrs. Wilson. Of course it turns out all right in the end, Murgatroyd really was dead and she is really Mrs. Andrews, but the error causes many complications. Miss Irwin will have a number of new songs which she will introduce during the action of the play of the character she knows so well how to sing.

LICENSE FEES ELSEWHERE.

That Plainfield stands well by comparison with other places in the matter of excise fees is to be seen in the following carefully prepared table:

	Population.	Fee
Plainfield	18,468	$1,000
Elizabeth	60,500	300
Passaic	37,837	500
Camden	83,363	500
Newark	283,289	500
Jersey City	232,699	500
Englewood	7,922	500
Montclair	16,370	600
Rahway	8,649	500
Trenton	84,180	350
East Orange	25,175	400
New Brunswick	23,133	350
Bayonne	42,262	300
Perth Amboy	25,895	300
Bloomfield	11,668	300

Hartford, Conn., with a population of 90,000, has 233 saloons, and the fee is $450. Omaha, Neb., with a population of 130,000, has 244 saloons, and the fee is $1,000. Chattanooga, Tenn., with a population of 50,444, has 134 saloons, and a fee of $700. Des Moines, Ia., with a population of 85,000, has 103 saloons, and a fee of $1,200. In Philadelphia, with its 1,300,000 population, there are but 2,299 saloons. The fee is $1,000. Burlington, Vt., with 2,000 inhabitants, has only 19 saloons. The fee is $1,200. Richmond, Va., with 100,000 people, has 262 saloons, and a $600 license fee.

If Charles Newell Fowler, of Vermont, should be asked by either the organization or the Colbyites to make a speech here before primary day, what would he say? Fill in these words and you have the answer: "O— t— a p—— e——, I w— h— t— d—."

With a flourish of trumpets, James Smith, the boss of New Jersey's Democracy, announces that he has quit politics. Can't be much money in politics nowadays.

Congressman Fowler says he would feel honored by a renomination. He certainly ought to.

And Senator Dryden gets it between the eyes again.

W. C. T. U. Anniversary Service.

Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson, the newly-elected president, had charge of the anniversary meeting at the W. C. T. U. rooms yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock. There was a special musical programme, Messrs. Spear rendering violin selections and leading the singing of Gospel hymns. Mrs. Peter H. Bennett, recording secretary of the Union, presented her annual report of all the departments, showing the steady progress made. It was a most excellent report and was a source of encouragement to the members. During the services several short addresses were made by members and visitors. A feature was the singing of two solos by W. C. Leek.

William Ayers Atkinson.

William Ayers Atkinson, son of Frederick E. and the late Eliza M. Atkinson, died Saturday at the home of his aunt, Mrs. S. A. Robinson, of East Front street. He was twenty-eight years old and had been ill for a long time. The funeral will be held from Mrs. Robinson's home tonight at 8 o'clock and interment will be in Cedar Grove cemetery, Brooklyn.

Slept In the Barn.

Joseph Miner was arrested yesterday morning as a vagrant, for sleeping in Muldoon's barn on Liberty street. Mr. Muldoon himself appeared for him this morning and said he gave him permission to sleep there. Sentence was suspended.

Wings and Flies

By Tom Muir.

The present week's attraction at the New Plainfield theatre is, perhaps, the strongest array that has yet been brought to the local house, if not to any of its kind in the State. The list includes five of New York's best known stars and one of the most successful plays of a decade. Tonight Edward Milton Royle's stirring drama, "The Squaw Man," which ran seven months at Wallack's last season, will hold the boards; tomorrow night, Sylvia Lynden will be seen in "Her Own Way," the play which brought added laurels to Maxine Elliott last year; Wednesday night, "At Yale" will be given by Paul Gilmore and a strong cast; Thursday night, Arthur Dunn, the funny little fellow who introduced the song, "A Kiss for Each Day in the Week" in "The Runaways," will be seen in his new play, "The Little Joker;" Friday night, "Jolly" May Irwin will come back in "Mrs. Wilson, That's All," written by George V. Hobart, author of "Mrs. Black Is Back;" and to round out the list Paula Edwardes, charming and delightful as ever, will be presented in her greatest success, "The Princess Beggar." Verily, what more can the local playgoer ask?

"Bob" Whittaker, the well-known local equestrian, accompanied by Fred S. Whittaker, returned home last week after a ten weeks' tour of the New England States with Gorman's Society Circus. They will rest a while before going to Florida to fill a nine weeks' engagement over a circuit embracing Jacksonville, Tampa and Key West.

Jesse Lynch Williams the Princeton college man, who wrote "The Stolen Story," is promised all the excitement his heart could wish when Henry W. Savage produces his play in New York. There will be a Princeton theatre party of 100 or more on that occasion and what they will do to Mr. Williams will be a fertile topic for discussion in the papers. "The Stolen Story" will be presented in the Garden theatre on October 2.

Miss Minnie Victorson, the Indian girl of "The Squaw Man," comes by right by her faithful conception of the character of Nat-U-Ritch in the play. With pride she points to a great-grandmother who was the daughter of a famous Indian chief, and who had been educated by a prominent English family who had emigrated to the West in the early part of the last century. The fidelity of detail and the truthful character of the impersonation would seem to indicate that there is more in heredity than usually is conceded. Miss Victorson says the part comes quite naturally to her and that there is really no effort in the portrayal at all.

Walked Off Train While Asleep.

Otto Newmanns, fifteen years old, residing on a farm at Millstone, walked off the Philadelphia and Reading train, which reaches this city at 2:17 in the morning, near Weston, this morning, receiving a fracture of the skull and contusion of two fingers. Newmanns' version of the accident is rather mixed as he cannot just remember how it happened. As near as can be learned the young man was on the train and intended getting off at Weston, the point nearest his home, and while in a half dazed condition from sleep he attempted to get off the train after being carried by his station. The train was stopped and the young man was brought to this city, where he was removed to the hospital in the ambulance. His general condition is good with fair prospects for recovery.

Off For Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Freeman J. Shotwell, of Fairview avenue; Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Swackhamer, of Summit avenue; Miss White, of Madison avenue; Mr. and Mrs. Lafayete Rosenstheil, of Somerset street, and James Deady, of West Third street, were among those who left Saturday night for Niagara Falls, over the Lehigh Valey Railroad. They were in the party of twenty-five Odd Fellows and their wives, who left on a special train for Toronto, Canada, where the Sovereign Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows is in session this week. The special train left Newark, stopping at Bound Brook, to pick up the Plainfield and New Brunswick delegations.

More P. S. C. Improvements.

The Public Service Corporation started a large gang of Italians at work on West Front street, this morning, laying new rails and ties to replace the old ones on the eastbound side of the road. The new work will be extended from New street to Grant avenue. Near Washington avenue an ingenious arrangement has been made in the shape of a temporary switch laid over the tops of the other rails, making it possible to run cars from the east to the westbound tracks, if necessary while the new rails are being laid. This will about complete the work of laying new rails in town for the present, the rest of the old rails having been changed.

Scott Foster, with his daughter, Miss Foster, of New York, has been visiting at the home of his brother-in-law, D. N. Groendyke, of Mercer avenue.

a copy of these notes, and this paper was received in answer to that request, but he has since learned that it was not such a copy. I regret that he does not feel at liberty to have his name mentioned in connection with the matter, nor the name of the party from whom he received the document. I am sorry if the statement in my letter that this was a copy has caused you any trouble. I am yours very truly,

"'DAVID E. TITSWORTH.'

"It is needless to say I was exceedingly indignant, and, being informed that Mr. Knight was working for you some one in your interest, sent you a request to inform me if you or your friends were circulating these 'reports. This request you have not as yet granted. You say the stenographer was not in your employ, but you do not say he was not in the employ of your friends, nor do you deny that you had knowledge of his employment. On the contrary, you are careful to defend the taking of a stenographic report and by implication admit knowledge that such minutes were taken, a procedure I had not thought of criticising. You say you did not circulate or know of the circulation of any copy or copies of these minutes, and, then referring to Mr. Knight's statement to the press, point out that at the time of my letter no 'complete' copy had been made or given out. By Mr. Knight's own statement 'incomplete' copies had been given out,, and, as you do not deny knowledge that such a report was taken, I request that you make inquiry and find out whether your friends are responsible for the distribution of these incorrect and incomplete minutes of the debate, for I am very much interested in knowing whether your adherents, those who are advocating your re-election to the United States Senate, are engaging in a campaign of misrepresentation.

"Knowing as I do that there are numbered among your adherents in your effort to secure a re-election the men who are in control of the machines which have been discredited, whose chief implements of trade heretofore have been misrepresentation, trickery and money, and who are now seeking to rehabilitate themselves in public opinion under the shadow of your respectability, I cannot but feel that they may be responbile for the circulation of these reports, and that, since they are your adherents, you owe it to yourself to ascertain whether they are conducting your campaign in this characteristic manner."

Life In Plainfield 37 Years Ago.

REPRINTED FROM THE CONSTITUTIONALIST OF 1869.

From the week of April 1:

At a meeting of delegates from the different fire companies of Plainfield, held at Gazelle Hall Thursday evening, March 25, for the purpose of nominating candidates for the Fire Board for the coming year, it was unanimously agreed to renominate the present board, and as the bill passed the Legislature this winter relative to the Plainfield Fire Department, provides that there shall be six elected instead of five hereafter. Mr. Theo. F. French was unanimously nominated the sixth nominee. The nominations are therefore: E. R. Pope, John W. Murray, G. H. Platt, J. B. Coward, Alex. Titsworth and T. F. French. No better nominations could have been made. The present board have had much to contend with during their term of office and we think that should have a chance to finish some of the good work they have laid out. Mr. French is just the man for the additional member.

A velocipede school has been opened in Hetfield's building, corner Mechanic street and Railroad avenue, and the lovers of velocipede riding are much rejoiced thereat. The attendance is good.

The velocipede exhibition given in Roselle's carriage house Thursday evening last, was well attended. Several excellent riders were in attendance, and did credit to themselves. Much amusement was created by the attempt of amateurs to ride the "fiery steed." Friend Thorn, of the Mansion House, has become quite an expert in the art of riding the velocipede, and gave the spectators an exhibition of his skill.

Hotel Change—Mr. Geo. Dembler will take possession of the Notch House, where he will open with an assortment with the best assortment of liquors, wines, segars, &c. Mr. Davis, who has kept the above hotel for a number of years, goes to North Branch, where he will open at the North Branch Hotel.

Just Received—Splendid assortment of hoop skirts and corsets, very cheap, at Wm. H. Sebring's, Jr.

The want of pavements in ancient Rome kept the women at home, and they were thus enabled to make bread for their families. By the same rule, Plainfield should be an Elysium of home-made bread four or five months of the year.

Dunellen—C. S. Pope has removed his stock of groceries, &c., from the old depot building to the new store he has just completed on North street opposite the Depot park. Charley is a good fellow, and is deserving of the patronage of the people who are in want of choice fresh groceries.

Mr. N. Vars proposes erecting a fine building on the corner of North St. and Washington Ave. The same to be 40 feet square and three stories high. The lower floor to be for stores, and the upper rooms for offices and dwelling apartments.

A. S. Runyon has sold his house and lot on First street to A. Belenere, Esq., of New York City, who will move here on April 1st. Gus says he will have another one up in a short time.

The house of Assembly on Monday night passed the Plainfield City Charter, and also its opposing measure, entitled An Act for the improvement of the Township of Plainfield. Both bills are now consequently before the Senate.

From the next week's issue:

We notice that friend Mundy's fine brick building on Main street is rapidly mounting toward the skies. When finished it will be an ornament to that part of town. Mr. James Smith is the contractor for the mason work, which accounts for the rapid work on that building. Mr. Smith is one of the best workmen, and knows how to figure on a job.

Another smashup of coal cars occurred near William street last week. That is a bad locality for coal cars.

Mr. Elmore D. Moffett has opened a new grocery store on Front street, in the store formerly occupied by C. E. Dunham, and judging from the crowds who are visiting his place we should think he was doing a good trade. He sells cheap for cash. Call and see him.

We notice with pleasure that the lamp corner of Rail Road Ave. and Cherry street again sheds its light on the weary traveller who is unfortunate enough to have to travel that heretofore dark region, through our macadamized roads. The aforesaid lamp is certainly a blessing to that locality. We believe the C. R. R. Co. bear the expense of the light.

A beautiful and picturesque view of Plainfield can be obtained by climbing the mountains in the vicinity of the old spring. So we have been told.

A smash-up of coal trains near New Market this (Wednesday) morning caused the detention of passenger trains about two hours.

At a meeting of the delegations of the different fire companies of Plainfield, held at Gazelle Hall, April 8th, for the purpose of nominating candidates for Chief and Assistant, Frank Hubbard in the chair, the following gentlemen were unanimously nominated for the offices: For Chief, James F. G. Frazer; First Assistant, William H. Voorhees; Second Assistant, Charles M. Vermeule. Good enough.

A daring robbery was committed in our town on Monday last during the day or evening. The residence of Mrs. Cutter on Front street, opposite Water street, was entered by some one and robbed of Government bonds to the amount of $1,200, and money and valuables to the amount of 200 or 300 dollars. The burglars effected an entrance by breaking a glass and then entering the window. The bonds were in the front under a bed in which Mrs. C. slept. The family being away, and as they did not discover the loss until next morning, it is impossible to tell whether the robbery was committed in the day or in the night time. There were other bonds and money in the house which was not disturbed.

A pleasant affair came off at the residence of our worthy Collector, H. A. H. Martin, Esq., on Tuesday evening last, he having invited a number of his friends (without regard to party feeling), to his house, to partake of refreshments in honor of his recent election. A goodly number of persons were present, and did ample justice to the bountiful repast set before them, under the skillful supervision of the Dr.'s amiable lady and daughters. Fun and wit abounded, and everyone present enjoyed themselves to their heart's content. During the evening Mr. Alex Titsworth, with a few very appropriate remarks presented to Mr. Martin a pair of beautiful silver salt cellars and spoons lined with gold, and handsomely encased, as a trifling mark of respect for the high esteem in which he is held among his friends (and they are numerous). Mr. M. responded in a very feeling and appropriate manner. After the repast and congratulations and well-wishes for the future, the company left at an early hour, delighted with their visit and the sumptuous entertainment, and no doubt will often desire another ticket from the Dr. for supper without supper.

An alarm of fire occurred on Saturday night last, about half past eleven. The fire companies were quickly on hand, and had their run for nothing, as it was found to proceed from some barrels and shavings which someone had set fire to near the Friends' meeting house near Peace street.

On Tuesday evening the firemen were again called out in response to a general alarm. The fire, however, proved to be in the woods in Short Hills, they having caught fire in some way, making a great light.

The Velocipede School cor. of Mechanic St. and R. R. Ave. is flourishing finely. We understand a race for a Silver Cup came off there on Saturday night last, but we have not heard who was the winner. It is no new thing to see two or three of these vehicles speeding through our streets, the most graceful rider aming them beinb our friend Thorn, of the Mansion House.

Miss Sue Woodland, of Roseville, spent Sunday with friends in town.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Bullman, of Grandview avenue, are parents of a son born to them last night.

Mrs. Robert Lowry, of East Seventh street, who has spent the summer at Lake Minnewaska, has returned to her home.

Mrs. Josephine Lowrie, who has spent a part of the summer at her country home at Liberty Corner, has returned to her home on Grandview avenue.

"Randolph's Quinine and Glycerine" Hair Tonic.

The proper treatment and care for the hair is very important. The tendency to baldness seems to be on the increase, but there is no need to be bald if you give your hair the proper attention and use "Randolph's Compound Quinine and Glycerine" Hair Tonic.

By imparting vitality to the roots of the hair, it stops it from falling out, irradicates dandruff, assures the continued growth and prevents baldness and final loss. It is richly perfumed and is an elegant dressing for the hair. Prepared either with or without oil—oil for dry hair and without oil for oily hair.

Mrs. Jennie A. McCloy.

Mrs. Jennie A. McCloy, wife of Arthur McCloy, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Kilpatrick, of East Fourth street, died at her home in Newark, yesterday. She had been ill but a short time with appendicitis. She was twenty-eight years old and had a wide local acquaintance. The body has been brought to this city and the funeral will be held at St. Mary's church tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock. Interment will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

Settled Horse Case.

The suit of Angus & Levine against Samuel Bolsen, in Justice Von Minden's court, was settled this morning. The plaintiffs sued for the balance due on a horse sold the defendant. The latter had paid $25 on the animal, but claimed it was subject to fits and not worth what he promised to pay. He settled by returning the horse and allowing the plaintiffs to keep his $25. F. J. Huff was the plaintiffs' lawyer.

Big Y. M. C. A. Meeting.

More than 1,500 people attended the open-air meeting of the Y. M. C. A. at Concert Park yesterday afternoon. The feature of the programme was the playing and singing of the Jenkins' Pickaninny Band. They made a very strong impression. Rev. J. W. Musson spoke, his subject being "The Rich Fool."

Placed Her Under Bonds.

Justice Mosher rendered his decision in the King-Vanderveer case this morning by holding the defendant in $100 bonds to keep the peace. She furnished the amount at once. King was represented by William G. DeMeza and Mrs. Vanderveer by S. S. Swackhamer.

"Pick" Band Won Applause.

The Jenkins Pickaninny Band scored a decided success at the Y. M. C. A. Saturday night. The small musicians played unusually well and sang like veterans of the concert world. They were repeatedly applauded by the large audience.

—Neuman Brothers continue to receive consignments of choice peaches. Tomorrow they will place on sale 250 baskets of splendid white and yellow fruit at 85c, $1 and $1.25 a basket.

FOR THE GENTLER SEX

A WORD TO THE WOULD-BE WIFE.

Girls who contemplate matrimony might as well know a few things. Men like magnetic girls. Men like girls who have a little common sense, and they particularly like companionable girls. Learn to be magnetic if you want to succeed in the home.

Cultivate your beauty if you are a woman. Pick out your worst points and work up on them. Don't neglect anything that will contribute toward your good looks. Make a study of beauty; it pays to do it. Bring out your good points and hide your bad ones. Carry yourself as though you were a professional beauty, and pretty soon you will begin to fool your best friends. "She is a beauty," they will say. And a beauty will you be, says the Boston Traveler.

Keep your hands youthful. It is very important to keep the hands in shape; they grow old so quickly. Massage them and rub something into them to keep them nice. Don't let them grow old. Young hands are full of charms.

Cultivate good temper. Don't let crabbed days come. Work upon your temper until it is pliable and easy. Don't get into the habit of getting "mad." Learn to keep your temper out of sight.

Cultivate good nature. Love everybody. It is the best paying advertisement you ever made, namely, the trick of loving everybody. It does you a world of good to love people. Adopt the Hindoo Brahmin philosophy. Learn to say the Hindoo texts:

"All the world is mine—if only I can take it in!

"All the people in the world are my friends—if only I can treat them as they should be treated!

"All the money on the face of the earth is mine—if only I know how to receive it!"

FADS AND FANCIES.

The handbag is an item of dress which has been revolutionized in a marvelous number of ways.

It has appeared in leather of every description, in moire and velvet and silk, and even in linen and beads, until by way of a return to simpler styles it is being shown in suede-finished calf leather, in all of the lovely new dress colorings. The woman whose autumn frock is to be gray may have her bag to tone with it perfectly, or if her gown is to be one of the ravishing new shades of red or blue, the bag may be had in the same alluring shade, or it may tone with the accessories or trimmings of the frock rather than with the material itself.

The latest version of the gold purse is evidently intended to supplement the hand-bag, for it is completely and ingeniously arranged, and is light and easy to carry. It is in the form of an oblong gold box, about five inches long and two or three inches deep, and hangs, of course, from a gold chain. In it are places for silver change and a slip for bank notes, a most cunningly tucked-in powder puff and box and mirror, a tiny cavity for lip salve, and a scent bottle so cleverly placed that the stopper of the bottle serves as the top of the purse.

All things considered, however, the little suede-finished bag is by all odds the most practical. It contains everything that one can possibly require, and may even have a small fan, a handkerchief and tiny opera glasses stowed away in the interior of its outside pockets, as well as a purse, cardcase, scent bottle, powder puff, mirror and other indispensibles. There is doubtless more of a display to be had in the purse of gold, but certainly there is more comfort in one of the accommodating bags of leather.

For the woman who is an automobile enthusiast the minature automobile bag is a necessity. It comes in several varieties with silver or gold fittings, and in many colors of leather. The size of the bag when closed is only eight and a quarter inches wide, yet it contains hair and clothes brushes, mirror, flask, hairpin box, salts bottle, comb and scissors. Another wonderfully compact bag is of rather different shape, measured eleven by nine inches, and is only one and a half inches thick. It is fitted with a mirror of very good size, a box of powder, an address book, hat brush, penknife, button hook, note book, pencil, scissors, comb and pockets for visiting cards.

THE WELL-DRESSED GIRL.

There never was a young girl who did not give a great deal of thought to her dress and personal appearance, and providing it is not her one thought and topic of conversation, it is only right that she should. Is it not every woman's duty to be as well dressed and as pleasing to the eye as possible, and if she neglects it, because it is too much of a nuisance or takes too much time, she is not worthy of the name of woman. Do not misunderstand me, however, and think the term "well-dressed" means that you must strive to have your clothes made of the most expensive materials and trimmed with costly lace and embroidery, or that you must follow the latest whim of fashion in their make, says the Pictorial Review.

On the contrary, the term "well dressed" means to be suitably dressed for whatever occupation is to be yours during the day. Alas, how few of you, my pretty girls, understand that neatness and simplicity are the keynotes of being suitably dressed, and that the eyes of the average person rest longer and with more pleasure on a young girl with smooth tidy hair, dressed in a simple print frock that is spotless, and finished with a neat collar and cuffs, than it does on one with frowsy hair and dressed in the height of fashion, in clothes from which the first freshness has departed.

IN THE SHOPS WITH THE SHOPPERS.

The new fall models in silk waists are exceptionally beautiful and worthy of being the heralds of the coming season. A plaid one seen in a certain shop has an air of simplicity that is fetching, but deceptive; it is in a rather dark plaid with blue as the predominating color and is plaited in a novel manner and trimmed with a touch of white taffeta used as bias bands, outlined with soutache braid in blue and white.

A very handsome three-quarter length coat of lavender Rajah silk may be had for a reasonable sum, and will be quite correct for theatre wear.

Linen pocketbooks to match any costume are charming novelties and may be found in the large shops.

Unusual bargains in footwear offer ample opportunities for a supply of colored suede and patent leather pumps and oxfords for house and evening wear.

Crisp and dainty muslins so much in vogue for the popular sash-curtains may be had for a trifle, and in many beautiful designs.

Smart mixtures for the new walking suit, for office wear or shopping, are much in evidence and come in very durable and pretty colors.

A new device for the purpose of waving the hair, with absolutely no injurious consequences, is being demonstrated to the delight of womankind.

SUMMER CLOTHES.

The announcement recently made by a well-known doctor that clothes, "particularly those fitting close to the body, are a fruithful source of ill health," however disconcerning from the coutouriere's point of view, recurs with a certain fascination in this hot weather, when such exigencies of civilization as collars, gloves, veils, not to mention shoes and corsets, cause more than a mere weariness of the flesh. In reading the great man's scientific theory, one learns with something of a shock that to be really healthy one should wear as little as the requirements of twentieth century "respectability" demand. Nor does he flinch from exhorting a return to the simple life of our ancestors in respect of skins and wood—or their modern equivalents, says the London Sketch.

This is courageous and the nudity theory is an argument to be seriously considered in quite hot weather; but how about March winds and winter frosts? The vision of uncorseted British matrons sternly seeking health in sheepskins and sandals is too serious to trifle with. Picture postcards, for instance, recording English types of beauty would then indeed require editing. It may be noted in passing that masculine furnishings are not condemned—only those of much whaleboned woman.

DISHWASHING A PLEASURE.

Do not get discouraged about having to wash dishes 365 days in the year. Dishes must be washed, and of all the many duties that fall to woman's lot this seems to be the most disliked. But there is an ideal way.

The chief things required to make it a pleasure are care, order, plenty of good hot water and a stack of dry tea towels, two dishcloths and a large enamel bowl. The dishes, when removed from the table, must have each of its kind put together. Put all the cooking utensils on the range and fill them with water until the time comes to clean them.

Have a receptacle in which to place all the scraps that come from the dishes, plates, etc. The most important thing is to have plenty of hot water—not merely warm, but hot—and use some good soap in the water to make your suds. It cleans the greasy meat dishes and plates twice as quickly. Have your mops with handles for deep-mouthed jugs, and have nice dishcloths made of cheesecloth.

HOW TO TAKE OUT STAINS.

Fruit Stains—If fresh, spread over a basin or tub, then holding a boiling teakettle high over the spots, pour the water through and stains will disappear as you pour. If they have been set, try first dipping in sour buttermilk and drying in the sun. If that does not answer, use a solution of oxalic acid; rinse at once, then wet the stained spot in ammonia, and rinse again in clear water.

Tea and Coffee Stains—These are easily removed when fresh by pouring boiling water through them. Soap sets the stain. If the stains are of long standing, soak in glycerine and wash the latter out with cold water. Chocolate stains may be removed in the same way.

Machine Grease—These may be removed from wash fabrics by sold rain water or soda. A weak solution of ammonia may also be used on white goods.

Orange and Lemon Stains—Use diluted ammonia.

SCIENCE PREVENTS BALDNESS.
The Fatal Germ and Its Remedy Now Facts of Science.
It is the rarest thing in the world for a man to be necessarily bald. No man whose hair is not dead at the roots, need be bald if he will use Newbro's Herpicide, the new scalp antiseptic. Herpicide destroys the germ that cuts the hair off at the root; and cleans the scalp of dandruff and leaves it in a perfectly healthy condition. Mr. Mannett, in the Maryland Block, Butte, Mont., was entirely bald. In less than a month Herpicide had removed the enemies of hair growth, and nature did its work by covering his head with thick hair an inch long, and in six weeks he had a normal suit of hair. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

Lavender Creighton's Lovers

By OLIVIA B. STROHM

(Copyright, 1905, by Olivia B. Strohm).

For there was a stir at the door, and some newcomers pushed through the crowd. Winslow saw Rev. Luke Ballinger rise from his chair near the pulpit, and go down the aisle to greet him. His heart gave an expectant throb. On the threshold appeared the white head of Mr. Creigaton. Tall, hand-eyed, he stood, on his arm the lovely wife. She was pale and very thin, with the look of one to whom has been granted in illness, a glimpse of the unseen. Winslow's eyes lingered upon her as if to drink in a little of the divinity which he fancied must be clinging to her. Then his glance sought and held the other dainty if more earthly bit of loveliness that hovered near her in the doorway. Lavender had seen in one quick glance that Winslow was there, had noted his eager attention upon their entrance. Summoning all her artful artlessness, she responded to the preacher's greeting with serenity and an easy insouciance which belied her beating heart. He found seats for her parents, then asked her to lead the singing. "Nobody can play; we have been waiting for you," he said.

"And I would not have missed coming, you see, sir, we were determined to get in."

The reverend man replied with mock gravity: "I see, but were you not afraid of being smitten with blindness, as the men of Sodom, you came near to break the door?"

She gave him a searching glance as they went down the aisle together opening her eyes wide with a pretty flush of defiance.

The minister shook his head. "Their eyes are there, no doubt; see that they do no mischief," and shaking his finger at her with a warning smile, he escorted her to the spinet which occupied one end of the platform.

And Winslow's attention wandered from the service to watch her as she presided over the squeaky little instrument. In her best — corn-colored gown, with sarsenet sash, she sat demure, her head bent over the keyboard, all her mind apparently intent upon a copy of Watt's hymns—all her strength expended in energetic pressure of the stiff old pedals. But that her thoughts, too, were wandering, was apparent from an occasional glance, sidelong, in his direction; then a blush would redden her cheek, and creep down into the neck, which the soft gauze kerchief only pretended to conceal. To-day she was to give Winslow his answer; the answer to his question: "May its fulfillment be mine?"

All the way into the village she had been rehearsing what she should say, how meet him.

Yet now vain to think she would have need for words. For words—when as she passed him where he sat on the platform, very glance of the humidly tender eyes, each curve of the winsome lips, the rise and fall of linen crossed on the happy bosom—all made plain what words could only weaken.

The exercises would have bored any but such an audience. The people, mentally starved, were pleased with anything that even parodied thought, and speeches, dialogues and songs were applauded with an impartiality which made up in fervor what it lacked in discrimination. The last speaker chose patriotism for his theme, and waved an imaginary banner of stars and stripes for the edification of his hearers. To most of these, however, patriotism was but a name; national pride a dead letter. For love of country could have no firm hold upon a people when the very name of that country was for months a matter of doubt; when much of the time, it was a moot question to what flag they owed allegiance. The standard raised, and as often lowered to give place to another, cheapened each until, through rapid changes, the pioneers managed well enough without a common head relying each upon its own sturdy settlement.

However, this was more especially true of the French and Spanish in the new territory; there were stalwart sons of the new republic east of the Mississippi, to whom the sight of the standard of freedom was inspiring; who felt yet a glow of patriot fervor at the faintest flap of eagle wings. To one of this kind was allotted the closing speech. He was a tall, loose-jointed individual whose hair might be charitably described as sandy, but whose whiskers were undeniably red. The arms which he waved seemed borrowed for the occasion—so little their gestures savored of familiar use. He raised his voice to a patriotic shriek at the peroration: "My friends, I have said all this to prove that there yet live patriots about us. Because we have journeyed far, let us not forget that we have a country; let us not forget, either, that our country has enemies. Indeed, we have had recent news of the activity of one such. His machinations are even now being discussed in a court of law at Richmond where, let us hope, justice and truth will be vindicated, and by its orders may Aaron Burr suffer the doom of traitor to his flag."

He waved his arms again, and with a jerky bow took his seat. The applause that followed was intended less in praise of the oratory than gratitude for the relief of tired muscles.

When it had died away, Winslow, pale, but with eyes glowing, came to the center of the platform. There was an expectant hush, and he began:

"It is not my purpose to speak in justification of the distinguished prisoner at the bar to which our friend has just alluded, but my personal acquaintance with Aaron Burr makes it hard to keep silent. Even so great a soul as he may reach depths where the faith of the humblest is prized. You will forgive me, therefore, if I add a moiety of favor in the balance which threatens to weigh against him. My own connection with his expedition I am prepared to explain fully to all in whose minds there may lurk a doubt of my honesty (in the half-defiant pause which followed nobody spoke nor moved), but for Aaron Burr's cause I am not here to ask for your sympathy; the verdict of the court must decide for us. I have only to suggest that in the meantime all criticism be withheld. The country at large is the jury which will later sit in deliberation upon the result. Indeed, it is more than likely that the whole truth will not be known until the judgment. On that day let us see that we bring to that Greater Bar unprejudiced minds and hearts all free from bias that we may escape peremptory dismissal at the hands of the Great Challenger."

There was a pause, while his hearers were undecided whether to applaud or not. Winslow settled the point for them by a sudden change of tone and manner. Coming forward and insensibly edging closer to where—a little to the right—sat Lavender, he began more lightly:

"I have an announcement to make which may come as a surprise to many here."

The audience craned their necks, and those at the windows stood a-tiptoe to hear. "I am going back east as soon as—" involuntarily his head swerved to the right—"as soon as possible. There are urgent reasons calling me away now. I fear that all of you who remain here to work in the vineyard will liken me to the spies of Canaan who only carry home bunches of grapes to show the fatness of the land. But, indeed, I go with grateful regrets which must ever follow such kindness as I have met here—here, in this garden spot of the new land of our new country."

And he bowed amid loud cheers. Then: "But in order that the work here be not lost, but carried on better than my feeble powers would admit, the committee and I have decided to present the name of another for the place of teacher in this school. The gentleman whom we have the honor to name is Mr. Gerald Creighton."

At this arose an audible murmur of excitement; none expressed open displeasure but all felt more or less disappointment. Winslow was not only a personal favorite—he was regarded by all as one having authority, and competent to lead the school to success. That his mantle would sit well upon the restless shoulders of the easy-going Gerald all felt much doubt. But to the pioneer mind it was of small consequence, and there was no dissent. Since the new Elisha was nowhere to be found, his acceptance was taken for granted.

REFUSES LEAGUE OFFERS.

Bert Heyniger, Who Pitched Princeton, Not Tempted.

Bert Heyniger, the Plainfield boy, who pitched Princeton to the collegiate championship by defeating Yale and Harvard, after both teams had touched up Byram in lively shape, has refused numerous offers to join the professional ranks. The New York Americans, the Philadelphia Athletics and the Johnstown Tri-State team made him flattering ogers, all of which he refused to consider. It was extremely probable that Heyniger will not return to college this fall, and may settle down to a business career in New York. Unlike other star players, Heyniger has no particular love for the national game, and during his summer vacation pitched but one contest, and that was a scrub game. Critics who have seen the young twirler work declare that he is fast enough for the major leagues. He is twenty-one years old, six feet tall, and weighs about 200 pounds.

A Woman Divorced.

New Brunswick, Sept. 17.—Chancellor Magie has granted to Mrs. Lilian Biles Gill a divorce from her husband, William F. Gill, on the ground of cruelty and desertion. The couple were married December 15, 1892. Mrs. Gill's maiden name was Biles. In August, 1898, it is alleged, he deserted her. Prior to this, the complainant alleged, her husband had treated her with extreme cruelty. Once, she claims, he said to her, "I smell death in the house. You and the children would do well to get out before I kill you." The divorce was granted on the recommendation of Charles H. Runyon, special master, who heard the testimony.

Elizabeth Republican Convention.

Elizabeth, Sept. 17.—The Republican convention for the nomination of a candidate for Mayor and four freeholders will be held at Grand Army Hall on October 1. This was decided upon at a meeting held by the city central committee Friday night.

CLINTON AVENUES WIN THE CHAMPIONSHIP

WALLOP THE BALL HARD AND WALK-OVER ALL-AMERICANS.

Without exerting themselves very much, the Clinton Avenue nine scooped in the undisputed amateur championship of the city and took ample revenge for the defeat of the week before, Saturday afternoon at Crescent Oval. They crumpled up the All-Americans in the deciding game of the series by the score of 11 to 1.

From the first inning, there was nothing to the game but Clinton Avenue. They were the demon batsmen at all stages of the going, and had slugging ability on tap sufficient to break up several ordinary games. They knocked John Garner, who had them hypnotized at critical stages the Saturday before, out of the box in the third inning, and they chased Joe Garner to cover not long after. Brown remained on the slab for the rest of the game, but it was only because the All-Americans had no more pitchers handy for the rescue act.

Whitley pitched a steady game against the colored boys, and allowed but four hits. Of the Clinton Avenue swathers, Giles, Adam Scott, Barnes, Emery and Whitley poled out two swats apiece.

Line-up and score by innings:

Clinton Avenue—O'Loughlin, c; Giles, 2b; Barclay, cf; R. Scott, ss; A. Scott, lf; Barnes, 1b; Emery, 2b; Whitley, p; J. Scott, rf. All-Americans—Kirch, ss; Brown, 3b-p; Coleman, rf; Carter, cf; Joe Garner, p-2b; Hammond, 1b; John Garner, 2b-p-3b; McClane, c; Phillips, lf.

GIRLS DIDN'T PLAY AT CRESCENT OVAL.

"Chicago Lady" Champs Found Clinton Avenue Sub-Lease of Grounds in the Way.

Manager Nicholas was unable to present his freak baseball exhibition, with the Chicago Lady Champions in the leading part, at Crescent Oval Saturday afternoon. Manager John Kriney, of the Clinton Avenue nine, which sub-let the oval from the Plainfield Baseball Association several weeks ago for the rest of the season, held fast to the grounds for the scheduled game between his combination and the All-Americans.

Nicholas brought the girls to the ground in a bus, but he made no attempt to order the game on. When it became quite certain that the Clinton Avenues would play, he made a speech to the crowd, which was not stupendous, and ordered the bus on the return trip.

The mix-up is said to have arisen over Mayor Smalley's forgetfulness. He is said to have told Nicholas he could have the grounds.

In his swan song from the 'bus steps, Manager Nicholas promised the patrons of sport in Plainfield a rare treat in five or six weeks in the shape of a carnival of wrestling at Saengerbund Hall.

Even if the Boston Nationals are tail-enders, there is more than one player on that team that would fit in handy on a stronger team. Bates, Tenney, Needham and Cy Young for instance.

PLAINS TEAM DEFEATS THE G. A. C. WITH EASE

FINAL SCORE OF AMUSING CONTEST WAS 17 TO 7.

The 'Plains team had no trouble in defeating the Greenville A. C. team, of Jersey City, in the game Saturday afternoon at the 'Plains. The contest itself was a comedy of errors, in which the Greenville team carried off the honors, as they only had two players, Houston and Shaffer, the battery, the other seven men simply being on the field to fill in the positions. Houston pitched a nice game and with proper support would have given the local team a hard rub, but every time the ball was hit to the field it counted as a 1 or 2 base hit, as the outfielders seemed to have an understanding that the ball must not be touched until it had stopped rolling. In this way the 'Plains team piled up three runs in the first inning and two in the second. This gave them confidence. In the fifth inning they became careless and began trying to outdo the visitors in making errors. The result was Greenville scored two runs in the fifth. The locals braced up in their half and brought in three more runs over the rubber, so as to make the game more secure. In the sixth they presented the visitors with three more runs and took six for themselves. In the seventh, Greenville gathered two more and the 'Plains team, not to be outdone in running, brought three more across the plate. In the eighth, Greenville went out in one, two three order and as darkness had begun to settle upon the field both teams agreed to call the game, the score at that time being 17-7 in favor of the 'Plains. No one knows what the final score might have been had the game gone the limit. Following is the score by innings and line-up:

'Plains—Vanderbilt, rf; Reick, lf; H. Alberts, c; Baldwin, ss; J. Alberts, 2b; G. Frentz, 1b; Eller, cf; Schreinbeck, 3b; A. Frentz, p.

Greenville A. C.—Brownley, rf; Wilson, 3b; Schraeder, 2b; Higgins, 1b; Perry, ss; Reger, lf; Seals, cf; Shaffer, c; Houston, p. Umpire—A. Alberts. Struck out—By Frentz, 5; by Houston, 8. Base on balls—Frentz, 4; Houston, 4.

Somerville Lost to Flemington.

The West Ends, of Somerville, lost their second game to Flemington this season at Somerville, on Saturday, by a score of 8 to 3. After Flemington made six runs off Kraft, he was replaced by "Lou" Wiltse, of this city, who held his opponents down the rest of the contest, striking out six men in three innings. Previous to that Wiltse played left field, where he distinguished himself by making a long running catch with one hand. He also scored two runs for his team, by knocking the sphere over centre field fence for a homer, bringing in one man on base and himself. A comedy of errors on the part of the West Ends lost them the game. It seemed at times as though they would never be able to stop the ball, and eight misplays were charged to them. Flemington was very jubilant over the victory as this gives them the series.

There is a good scrap on between Brooklyn and the Cincinnatis for fifth place and the coming series between the two teams will have a big bearing on which heads the second division—that is, unless one of them ousts the Phillies from the first division.

DIAMOND DUST.

This is the season of the year when new names appear copiously in the big league directory and keep the fans busy wondering who they are.

It is the earnest wish of baseball fans throughout this part of the country that the Highlanders win the American League pennant so that they can meet the Chicago Nationals in the world's series.

"They are all high-class players with no stars among them," says Captain Anson, speaking of the Chicago Cubs. Seen at the Polo Grounds they look to be all stars.

Cunningham, the Stroudsburg twirler, secured by the Philadelphia Athletics, seems to be making good. The youngster pitched his first full game on Wednesday against the Washingtons, anw if his work for that day is a criterion of what he can do he will remain with the Atheltics for some time to come. He let the Senators down with four hits.

Many fans will remember Harvey Major, in the old days of rivalry between the West Ends, of Somerville, and Plainfield. Major was one of the crack members of the Somerville aggregation, and he is still putting up a goo game for his town team. He looks just as young as ever.

There is a well authenticated report that Jimmie Collins, for many years the captain of the Bostons, will succeed George Stallings as manager of the Buffalo Eastern League Club. Collins recently quit Boston and was later suspended indefinitely.

What a treat it would be to see a contest of trying to beat out ground balls to the infield with Niles, Browne, Maloney, Hoffman, Keeler, Dougherty and Bay engaged. And an infielder could not stop to tie his shoelaces with C. Jones, Seymour, Flick, Hartsel, Chase, Sheckard, Burch, Doc White or Fielder Jones up either.

Bill Bradley, whose wrist was broken by a pitched ball in New York on July 18, was out practicing with the Clevelands last week. He merely lobbed the ball over to first base, but the break has knitted nicely and it is said Bradley may be in shape to get in the game against the Eastern teams this month.

To Play Scotch Plains.

Clinton Avenue will meet the fast Scotch Plains team at Crescent Oval next Saturday afternoon, for the third time this season. The 'Plains nine won the other two games, but the C. A. combination swear to take this one in a rush. As Clinton Avenue is the city championship team and the Scotch Plains nine is generally conceded to be the fastest team of its calibre in this vicinity, the game will have an unusual amount of interest.

No Game at Dunellen Last Saturday.

The Dunellen nine was forced to appoint supporters at home and from Plainfield in a game last Saturday, because Port Reading, with whom they were to have played, sent them word at the last moment that their picture could not play. Manager L. T. Churchill, of the Dunellens, had made ready a strong line up to meet the P. R. team and it promised to be a stubornly contested game.

Knocked Out By Batted Ball.

While practicing before the game at Scotch Plains, Saturday, Joseph Alberts, a member of the 'Plains team, was struck in the forehead by a batted ball and knocked unconscious. He remained in that condition for ten minutes but on recovering insisted on taking his place with the nine.

REED CARRIES OFF HONORS AT GOLF

FORMER SENATOR VISITS COUNTRY CLUB AND DOES GOOD WORK.

It was ideal weather for golfing on Saturday and the local courses were crowded with enthusiastic players. Practically all of the members are now home from their summer outing and have again taken up the popular game of golf.

At the Plainfield Country Club there was the weekly competition for the Golf Committee cup and regular play for the September Handicap cup. Charles A. Reed, a member of the Park Golf Club, as well, where he usually plays, won first honors for the Golf Committee cup and also a leg on the handicap cup with a net score of 71. He had a fat handicap, however, which will be generously sliced before he has an opportunity to compete for honors at the club again. Robert Abbott and Arthur Murphy were tied for second place with a net score of 78, each receiving a point and a half. These scores were returned for the two cups:

Charles A. Reed, 95, 24—71; Robert Abbott, 76, plus 2—78; Arthur Murphy, 85, 7—78; Morris J. Dumont, 86, 7—79; Julius E. Erickson, 93, 13—80; C. B. Morgan, 84, 3—81; Dudley H. Barrows, 80, plus 1—81; Stuart H. Patterson, 100, 9—91.

There was the usual large crowd at the dinner-dance given at the club in the evening, many private dinners being served under the direction of the clerk, David Shay, and all enjoyed the excellent programme of music for dancing furnished by a full orchestra.

There was a large field out at the Park Golf Club on Saturday to compete for the President's and club cups, and a number of good scores were posted. Rev. C. L. Goodrich won first honors for the President's cup, while Charles B. Morse and Leon R. Thurlow were tied for second honors, each returning a net score of 87. For the club cup, scratch event, Mr. Goodrich scored three points, Mr. Morse finished second and Reuben Knox received the one remaining point.

The following scores were returned for the two cups:

Rev. C. L. Goodrich, 92, 7—85; Charles B. Morse, 100, 13—87; Leon R. Thurlow, 109, 22—87; J. B. Betts, 116, 26—90; Alex. Gilbert, 108, 17—91; John L. Watson, 110, 16—94; Reuben Knox, 107, 8—99; Charles A. Reed, 115, 3—112.

There was plenty doing at the Westfield Golf Club on Saturday, including the semi-finals for the September Handicap cup, Class B and a women's approaching and putting contest. In the former event R. W. Graham won from G. W. Rawlins by default and D. Watanebe beat F. G. Harris by 2 up. These scores were returned in the approaching and putting contest:

Miss Gertrude Noe, 26; Miss J. A. Johnson, 26; Miss Hegeman, 28; Miss Kimball, 28; Miss Chapman, 29; Mrs. J. S. Foster, 29; Mrs. F. Kinch, 36.

COUNIHAN'S COLTS TO MEET ARTHUR DUNN'S TEAM.

Game Will Be Played on Crescent Oval Thursday as a Benefit.

Manager Counihan, of the New Plainfield theatre, has been notified to get his theatrical baseball team in shape for a game next Thursday, when Arthur Dunn and his "Little Joker" company come to town.

Dunn is a little bit of a fellow but he can play the national game like a big leaguer and he has recruited a nine from the male members of his cast and they play local clubs wherever the show appears. He heard of the Counihan colts and is anxious to have a try out at them.

The game will be played on Crescent Oval Thursday afternoon and a small admission fee will be charged, the same to be donated a local charitable organization to be designated later.

Miss Bessie Franklin, the prettiest girl in the company, will throw the first ball over the plate and the entire chorus will have seats in the grandstand. Arthur Dunn will play short-stop.

Manager Counihan is getting his team in shape and practice games will commence this afternoon.

ALIS ELEVEN.

Sixteen Candidates Come Out at Meeting Saturday Night.

Alis will be represented by a strong eleven this year. A meeting at the Y. M. C. A. Saturday night brought out sixteen candidates. The candidates will meet tomorrow night.

The backbone of the eleven will be old members of Alis III. The "III" has been dropped from gridiron annals in this city.

DRYDEN'S TURN AGAIN

Challenges Colby to Produce Proofs That Debate Report Was Garbled.

SAYS CHARGE IS UNTRUE

Willing to Leave the Issue to Be Decided By the Votes of the Electors.

Another letter was made public yesterday in the ascrimonious discussion between United States Senator John F. Dryden, of New Jersey, and State Senator Everett Colby, leader of the "New Idea" wing of the Republican party in this State, which started in a public demand made by Mr. Colby on Mr. Dryden to repudiate a falsified report of the stenographrer's notes of the recent Hillery-Colby debate which was circulated through the State.

In Mr. Colby's last letter he declined Mr. Dryden's request that he apologize for the inferential charge that Mr. Dryden was responsible for the circulation of the garbled report.

Mr. Dryden's letter was made public in Newark. At the beginning, addressing Mr. Colby, he says: "Your letter of Sept. 14 is more remarkable for what it omits than for what it contains. In your previous communication you inferentially charged me with falsifying the stenographer's report of the Hillery-Colby debate and of causing copies of such falsified report to be distributed through the State. This I denied and asked you for proof. I stated in my reply to you that I did not believe any such falsified copy of the stenographer's report existed and asked you to produce one copy. This you have completely failed to do, and I now repeat my belief that you cannot produce a copy, because none exists and none has existed."

Referring to Mr. Colby's apology for "breach of etiquette" in first giving his previous letter to the press, Mr. Dryden replied:

"I did not complain of your etiquette. That is nothing to me, though it is something to you. What I did complain of was that by publication of your letter I was for three days held up before the public as being inferentially charged by you with having done a dishonorable act. The etiquette was a mere shadow. The other was a substance."

Mr. Dryden then quotes from the last letter of the Essex Senator in which the latter wrote: "Nothing in my letters, however, requires an apology, and I do not retract any statements I therein made, but, on the contrary, reaffirm them."

Of this Mr. Dryden wrote in part:

"This is the position deliberately taken by you after an opportunity for mature reflection, when you have not brought forward one scintilla of evidence in support of your charge, although earnestly asked to do so. If you are willing to stand in that position, let it be so.

"More than a year ago you suddenly turned upon your former close political associates and, going out into the by-ways and the highways, you have ever since lost no opportunity of attacking their political acts, questioning their motives, impugning their honesty and holding them up to reprobation. Many of the very things which you denounce them for having favored your yourself advocated and supported.

"Last winter you led an assault upon the financial interests of this State and kept in the thick of the fight until the storm of indignation which arose from every part of New Jersey burst upon your head at Trenton. It is the belief of many able and wise financiers that if you could have had your way, it would have brought on a panic among our people far-reaching and severe.

"You state that a conversation was overheard among my friends at the Hillery-Colby debate 'proving a deliberate and prearranged plan to embarrass me (you) in my (your) argument.' Please tell me who among my friends attempted to embarrass you in your argument, who among them once interrupted you. Name one of them if you can. If I am correctly informed, the only person who interrupted the debaters was a friend of yours from Jersey City.

"And now you come in your letter to the only thing which can be considered, even as a faint attempt to sustain the charge previously made of sending out falsified copies of the stenographer's report. You say:

"'A biased, unfair and false story of the debate was anonymously sent to certain newspapers, a copy of which was received by Mr. Samuel L. Garrison, of the Boston Weekly Bulletin. This copy I indorse.'

"I received the copy referred to and have read it with care. In the first place, I say that I neither prepared nor sent out these reports, nor do I know who did so. In the second place, I aver that there is not the slightest evidence in them that any

SUPREME COURT IN TORONTO MAILS HER INSURANCE MONEY.

William R. Bos, recording secretary of Court Palisade No. 772, I. O. O. F., of Jersey City, within a few days will pay over to Mrs. Bolam, widow of Joseph Bolam, who died in Muhlenberg Hospital on May 15 last, the $500 insurance on his life. Mr. Bos said the check has been mailed to him from the office of the order's Supreme Court in Toronto.

Owing to Mrs. Bolam's neglect in notifying Palisade Court of her husband's death no member of that court was present at the funeral to identify the body, as required by the rules of the order, and Palisade Court had had some difficulty in obtaining the requisite proof, but it finally accepted the testimony of the undertaker, officiating clergyman and attending physician at the hospital.

The story about the policy was first sent out from Plainfield last July, and represented the Supreme Court of the order as deciding that, in lieu of the death certificate which it was declared Palisade Court had refused to accept, the widow must produce a photograph of the deceased, identified by members of Palisade Court, an affidavit from the physician in charge at his last illness that he was dead, an affidavit from the clergyman at the funeral that the man buried was Bolam, a similar certificate from the undertaker and a certificate from the six pall bearers.

The original version of the story was sent to Hon. Dr. Oronhyatekha, supreme chief ranger of the order at Toronto. His reply to it on August 2 last set forth that in the June, 1906, report, Bolam's assessment was deducted by reason of the statement contained in the report that he was dead, but up to August 2, no other notice of his death or proof of it had been received, and there had been no correspondence with respect to Bolam by any of the officers of the Supreme Court with any person or persons.

"What the subordinate court may have done or is doing," Dr. Oronhyatekha wrote, "we do not know and the subordinate court is not the Supreme Court, and the Supreme Court is not in any way responsible for what the subordinate court may do or may have done. We do not understand the cause of the delay in not furnishing proof of the death of the late brother. If his beneficiary is being improperly dealt with, it is within her province to bring the matter to our attention, but as yet this has not been done."

SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHERS' UNION 11 YEARS OLD.

Annual Exercises of Primary and Junior Union Appropriately Observed.

The eleventh birthday anniversary of the Plainfield Primary and Junior Sunday-school Teachers' Union was celebrated yesterday afternoon at the Y. M. C. A., the exercises opening with devotions led by the first vice-president, Mrs. J. A. Powlison.

It was the regular day for the review, but this was dispensed with and Mrs. Edgar Williams conducted a special exercise. Eleven topics and questions were prepared on slips of paper, tied with a small bouquet of flowers. The topics and questions all had direct bearing on the Sunday-school lesson. Following this exercise all adjourned to the upper hall where refreshments were served. A feature was a large birthday cake made by Mrs. M. C. Dobbins and garnished with eleven little flowers from lilies-of-the-valley. With it was fifty-five cents, five cents for each year that the union was old. During the social hour ice cream and cake were served by a committee composed of Mrs. R. W. Barnes, chairman; Mrs. Charles Conover, Miss Titus, Mrs. L. R. Schofield, Miss May E. Howlett, Miss Mabel Wilson and Mrs. Elvain VanName.

The union was organized eleven years ago by a handful of earnest Sunday-school teachers and today there is a membership of fifty. While the expenses are practically nothing, there being no special object to create a fund, the financial condition is good. The present officers of the union are as follows: President, Miss Nettie Beeching; first vice-president, Mrs. J. Powlison; second vice-president, Mrs. Frank R. Baker, Jr.; third vice-president, Mrs. Douglass Darby; secretary and treasurer, Mrs. R. W. Barnes; libarian, Miss Molly White; pianist, Mrs. L. R. Schofield.

Motorman Recovering.

James Donnelly, the motorman on the trolley running from Bound Brook to Raritan, who was murderously assaulted recently, has recovered sufficiently to return to his home in South Bound Brook. The guilty man has not yet been arrested.

Miss S. F. Smith, of East Sixth street, is slowly recovering from a severe attack of sciatic rheumatism.

READY FOR LA FOLLETTE

Colbyite Central Committee Completes Plans For Open-Air Meeting.

TRACY NEW CHAIRMAN

Second Warder Succeeds Robert L. Lee As Head of Reform Organization.

The Colbyite central committee met last night and completed arrangements for the La Follette meeting at Concert Park tomorrow night.

Senator La Follette will be the last speaker. He is scheduled to arrive here from Elizabeth at 8:50 o'clock. Judge Runyon will speak first. He will be followed by Benjamin J. Fleuchaus, of Summit, and Robert Carey, city attorney of Jersey City. After speaking, Judge Runyon and Mr. Fleuchaus will go to Elizabeth.

Plans were made for noonday meetings at the shops, which start today, and for a continuance of the evening street-corner meetings. Committees were appointed to procure speakers and arrange details. It is Judge Runyon's intention to go about the city on a truck tonight, holding three or four different meetings. After today, R. Henry Depew, the Colbyite choice for mayor, will speak at the noonday meetings.

G. W. V. Moy and Frank L. Holt were named a committee on laws, to prepare a proclamation on the bribery law passed by the last Legislature, which makes it unlawful for political organizations or individuals to seek to influence voters by giving food, cigars or entertainment. The proclamation will be posted about the city, and the cart-tail speakers will dwell on it.

Howard C. Tracy, of the Second ward, was elected chairman of the committee, in place of Robert L. Lee, who resigned almost immediately after his election two weeks ago. Stephen H. Tugwell, of the First ward, was made vice chairman.

WEALTHY STUDENT TO MARRY ALFRED GIRL.

George L. Babcock Engaged to Miss Ruth Stillman.

Announcement is made of the engagement of George L. Babcock, son of Mrs. George H. Babcock, of West Eighth street, and Miss Ruth Stillman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Stillman, of Alfred, N. Y. No date has been set for the wedding, but it is not expected to take place until Mr. Babcock has completed his course of study at Alfred University.

Mr. Babcock is one of the principal heirs of the Babcock estate and during the past few months, when he became of age, he came into possession of his share of the estate. He was graduated from the Plainfield High School a year ago last June and the following fall entered Alfred University to complete his education.

Miss Stillman was also a student at Alfred University. She is well-known both here and at Alfred. She is a niece of Dr. Martha Rose Stillman, of this city.

C. W. FISK THROWN FROM HIS HORSE.

Son of Former Mayor Fisk Fractured Collar-bone and Was Bruised.

Charles W. Fisk, son of former Mayor and Mrs. Charles J. Fisk, of West Seventh street, who has been spending the summer at Easthampton, L. I., met with a painful accident on Saturday, while out hunting on his horse. He was travelling at a lively gait over a field, when the animal stepped in an old well that had been partially filled in and covered. Mr. Fisk was thrown over his horse's head, landing on his shoulder.

Through the assistance of friends he was assisted home and a physician was called. An examination disclosed a fractured collar-bone and a few cuts and bruises. The injuries are not serious, but Mr. Fisk will be laid up for several weeks and will be denied one of his favorite sports, that of hunting, for some time to come.

Crapsters Fined.

John Louden, Harry Goeller, Ben Colier, white, and Frank Brown, Clarence Thorn and Oscar Green, colored, were arraigned for crap shooting in the city court yesterday morning. They weer arrested by Patrolman Kelly on the railroad embankment back of Cadmus' mill. They denied being in the game, but one of the boys who played with them turned states' evidence, and Judge Runyon fined them $2 apiece for trying to lie out of their scrape.

Leg Sprained by Fall.

Charles Pape, of Spooner avenue, an employe at the freight house, severely sprained a leg, yesterday, by falling between a platform and a car. He was removed to his home where a physician attended him.

REFORM CANDIDATE SPOKE TO MOULDERS

JUDGE RUNYON ATTENDED MEETING OF UNION LAST NIGHT.

Judge Runyon spoke at a meeting of the Moulders' Union, last night.

In opening, he said he realized that the gathering was composed of members of different parties, and he would confine himself to generalities of political advice. He dwelt on the value of the independent vote in every party, on the duty of every voter to cast the ballot he conscientiously believed to be right, and on his duty to give earnest thought to the question of issues and candidates, so that the vote be the fruit of careful consideration and not of hastily-formed prejudice.

Judge Runyon opened the Colbyite noonday shop meetings at the Potter Press Works today. He spoke alone to a large-sized gathering of interested workmen. His address was brief, touching tersely the issues of the campaign of the reformers against machine rule. He was frequently applauded.

Y. M. C. A. DEPARTMENT READY FOR NEW SEASON

BOYS' WORK AND PHYSICAL WORK COMMITTEES PLAN THEIR WORK.

The work of the new season was outlined by the physical work and boys' work committees of the Y. M. C. A. last night, at their first meetings of the fall.

The physical work committee adopted the following schedule for the classes: Young men, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday nights; boys, Tuesday, Thursday afternoons, Saturday morning; Leal's, Monday, Wednesday, Friday afternoons; business men, Monday, Wednesday, Friday afternoons; police, Monday, Wednesday, Friday afternoons.

The basketball team will play games at home every Monday evening. The five will practice Friday nights. A local basketball league will be formed, to play Saturday nights.

Mr. Barrows, the secretary, attended the boys' committee meeting. It was decided to open the boys' department formally, on September 27, with a reception. The intermediate department is to be known as the High School department hereafter, and a reception to the boys of that department will be held some time in October. The boys' club wil open on October 1., New material has been ordered for the manual training classes.

The committee decided to meet regularly on the first Monday every month.

GOT WHAT HE WANTED.

Cheerful Prisoner Asked to Be Sent Down the Road.

Samuel Johnson was arrested yesterday morning by Detective McCarthy for sleeping off a jag on a porch in East Front street. He was released later in the day to appear this morning. He came to court on time, but he had a happy-go-lucky air about him that reminiscent of the joyful time he engaged yesterday.

"Can you do anything for me, Judge," he asked with a giggle.

"What do you want?"

"Send me down the road," smiled Johnson.

"Very well," said Judge Runyon suavely, "thirty days."

John chuckled. "I'll see Charley," he said. He referred to Warden Charles Dodd, who is an old friend of his.

He seemed really pleased at the prospect, and slapped Doorman McCue jovially on the back as he went into the cell room. Judge Runyon learned after court was over that Johnson is a good sort of citizen, addicted only to occasional jags, and remitted the sentence.

Colored Boys Fought.

William Connett and Frederick Griffin, colored boys, were arrested for fighting on West Fourth street Sunday morning. Judge Runyon looked over the marks of the fray on each small black face, and decided that all accounts had been settled. Sentence was suspended.

Disturbed His Neighbors.

John Randolph, colored, accused of raising a row at his home on Plainfield avenue, and disturbing the neighbors, was arraigned before Judge Runyon in the city court yesterday morning on a charge made by William Brown, also colored. Sentence was suspended.

BIRD'S SAD AWAKENING

He Fought a Good Fight For the People But All to No Purpose.

BOARDED WRONG CAR

The Crew Threw Him Off After Valiant Struggle and He Wound Up In the Police Court.

Car No. 1178, intended only for Public Service workmen and carrying a dozen or more of them, came down East Front street shortly before 6 o'clock last night and stopped for a moment at the Somerset street switch. As it did so, a larged-sized individual with uncertain steps, emerged from somewhere and climbed aboard, the conductor being too engrossed in craning his neck at a pretty girl to notice him. He settled in one corner and was fumbling about for a nickel when the man in blue got wise and immediately jerked the bell-cord.

"You can't ride on this car," he exclaimed, as the vehicle came to a stop opposite The White Store. "We don't take passengers."

"Oh, thash orright," was the reply from the occupant of the corner. "I b'long in Dunellen; mak'sh no difference to me how I get home—let er go, Gallagher."

"But I say you can't ride on this car and you've got to get off, ain't he Bill?" the latter to the motorman, who had come in to see what the fuss was about. "Sure," said Bill, but the Dunellenite wasn't feazed a particle.

By this time a good sized bunch of rubbernecks was all about the car and their attitude seemed to encourage the belligerent.

"H'm," he snorted, "there ain't no cheap skate on the road can put me out of this seat," and he added an epithet that made the girls on the curb look uneasy.

It was like holding an office before a Colbyite to the conductor and Bill and they pounced upon Fort Dunellen like a ton of brick. They slammed him a couple or three times, biffed him a few in the kisser for luck and then jerked him to the back platform where a couple of husky switch tenders gave him several saucy slaps just back of the ears. The lookers-on were in an uproar and while the men started to climb on the car to take a hand, the women who didn't scurry away, closed their eyes, positive that murder was going to be done.

Through it all the cause of the trouble played havoc with his assailants by placing well directed kicks just below their belts and swinging his arms around like a windmill. But for all that he didn't have a look-in—not for a moment—as far as the end was concerned. The men in blue were so wrought up they saw nothing but fight and they wouldn't give him consideration enough to shove him down the steps. They deliberately lifted him up and hurled him over the guard rail on the off side of the car, causing him to land with a fearful thud on the eastbound track.

While he was picking himself up, an excited citizen, one of the "Fixit" variety, started to jaw the conductor and tell him how much of the affair he saw and how he would help the "poor man get damages." Just at that moment, the "poor man" found his bearings and striking a majestic pose yelled out the top of his lungs, "I'm for the people."

The crowd burst into a laugh, the car pulled away and a sympathizer led the defeated Dunellenite to the sidewalk.

There was some talk of a damage suit and cards were exchanged. The ones passed out by the man, who is for the people, even at the risk of having his neck broken, read "Howard Bird, Dunellen."

Mr. Bird continued his vociferous condemnation of the P. S. C. on the sidewalk, and said disrespectful things to Constable John Manley, who advised him to be quiet. Manley placed him under arrest and the champion of the people was cooped up in a cell.

His mein and demeanor were wilted when he appeared before Judge Runyon this morning. He said the P. S. C. employes thought their superiors regarded him as an enemy and tried to curry favor by pounding him wherever they got the chance. After hearing the testimony of Manley and William Walters, the motorman, Judge Runyon told Bird that his conduct had been inexcuseable, and fined him $10. He paid.

Walters said after the hearing that he intended to prefer a further charge of assault and battery against Bird.

Gymnasium Work Begun at P. H. S.

Gymnasium work began at the Plainfield High School today. It is compulsory for the first two classes to take regular work in physical development, but with the junior and senior classes it is optional.

AMERICAN AUTHOR'S WORK KEENLY APPRECIATED

LOCAL AUDIENCE BESTOWES LIBERAL APPLAUSE ON "THE SQUAW MAN."

Edwin Milton Royle's English-American play, "The Squaw Man," was presented at the New Plainfield theatre last night. It was witnessed by one of the largest audiences of the season, which showed by its repeated and spontaneous applause that the stirring drama was keenly appreciated. A well balanced cast interpreted the lines and the settings of three of the four acts were so true to life in the West that the spectators instinctively felt for their hip pockets when the typical Wyoming "bad men" tried to get the "drop" on the hero.

The story of the play deals with the sacrifice of Captain James Wynnegate, of England, to save his cousin, the Earl of Kerhill, and his wife, with whom he is in love, from disgrace, the Earl having embezzled regimental funds. Wynnegate flees to America and begins life on a cattle ranch at Maverick, Wyo., under the name of "Jim Carston." Eventually he marries an Indian girl, Nat-U-Ritch, who had saved his life, and is the father of a bright little boy, when word is brought to him that the Earl of Kerhill is dead. A solicitor visits his ranch to inform him that he has succeeded to his estate and then learns from "Carston" that he had been suffering for his cousin's crime, a written confession proving his statement.

The lawyer tries to get "Carston" to return to England and failing in this, gains his consent to take back his son and educate him. The parting is not sanctioned by Nat-U-Ritch and in a paroxysm of grief she kills herself. This frees "Carston" from all restraint and he decides to go home to London, the Earl's widow being one of those who beseeches him to do so.

As "Jim Carston," Henry Jewett was well adapted to the part and his change from an Englishman to a Western ranch owner was a splendid bit of character work. His work was especially virile in scenes when strong determination gave way to pathos at parting with his boy. Miss Edith Cartwright, as "Lady Diana," the wife of the earl, had an easy stage presence but lacked the magnetism which is all-important in the leading woman's role.

John Harrington, as "Cash Hawkins," the bad man; J. M. Colville, as "Tabywanna," peace chief of the Utes; Miss Minnie Victorson as "Nat-U-Ritch," and Charles Chappelle as "Big Bill," foreman of Carston's ranch, scored individual hits.

"The Squaw Man" is derived from the Western term for a white man who marries an Indian girl.

TWO-CENT HANGOUT AND A HALF-WHITE TALLY.

Racy Terms Figure in Police Court Hearing of a Boulevard Scrap.

Two racy examples of the contributions the Boulevard makes to the language were brought out at the police court hearing of a scrap between Pearl Webster and Martha Taylor, colored damsels, this morning. Pearl accused Martha of calling her unladylike names.

In recounting the affair, which happened on Labor Day, Pearl said: "Marthy was over in the two-cent hangout."

"What's that?" asked Judge Runyon.

"Oh that's a place where they sell soda for two cents a glass," explained Pearl.

Margaret Bowman testified for Pearl, and told some of the language Martha is alleged to have used.

"Marthy went across the street to John Brown, and they had some words. She said, "You're a half-white tally."

The magistrate stared. "What in Heaven's name is that?" he asked. Margaret didn't know.

"Martha, what is a half-white tally?" asked the Judge, when the defendant took the stand.

"I don't know," replied Martha. "I didn't call him that."

No definition of the term was secured. The case was dismissed.

Celebrated Birthday Anniversary.

In honor of the thirteenth anniversary of her birthday, a surprise party was tendered to Miss Anna Fisher, of West Third street, last night. Games were played after which refreshments were served. Those present were Dotty Weberley, Bertha Carter, Madie Dover, Martha Green, Laura Connett, Josephine Stewart, Madeline Fisher, Florence Pollard, Fred Kline, Arthur Venable, Marvin Carter, Wilifred Henry, Andrew Maiden. During the evening there were piano solos by Madeline Fisher and Laura Connett.

Charles P. Titsworth, of West Seventh street, has returned to Alfred University to resume his studies.

DEPEW STATES ISSUES

Bossism and Corporate Control of Party the Evils to Be Eliminated.

THE LOCAL SITUATION

Insinuates That Water Company Has Influence With Alleged Bosses—Discusses Casino Meeting.

R. Henry Depew, who has been endorsed by the Plainfield branch of the Union County Republican League for Equal Taxation, today issued the following address to the voters:

"It has been said that the 'Colbyites' cannot hope to win in the coming municipal fight unless they have some issues and we now beg to present them to you as follows:

"First. To promote the best interests of the Republican party in the County of Union.

"Second. To eliminate bossism and corporate control of the Republican party.

"Third. To further the cause of equal taxation, limited franchises, taxation of franchises, popular selection of United States Senators, popular interest in primary elections and such other progressive measures as may be necessary in the interests of the people.

"Fourth. To promote honest elections and prevent political corruption in every form.

"These objects are the fundamental ones for which we are contending as the abuses which we seek to correct are the cause of most of the evils in the body politic. The question has been asked 'what bearing has all this on Plainfield, as we have good government already?' Several have said 'I am a 'Colbyite' in the County and State but not in the City, as we are all right here now.'

"I will endeavor to show you what bearing these reforms have upon Plainfield and why we need the movement here as well as in the rest of the county.

"Where are the bosses and machines located? Are they out in the country among the scattered farmhouses? No. They are right here in the cities where the voters are concentrated, and here is where the work must be done to drive them out of power—that power which they obtain solely because of their ability to control and deliver votes. Take away that control and their power is gone.

"Is the activity of the local machine confined to Plainfield only? No. It is part of a system whose intricate and widespread ramifications begin in the wards and districts and end in the National Capitol. For instance, Elizabeth with 63 delegates to the county convention and Plainfield with 27, or a total of 90 out of 141, can absolutely control the nominations of county officers, who, in turn, if elected, will help to elect the United States Senators, under that system of election which was devised before the days of the boss and ward heelers and which was supposed to be the safest and best way, upon the theory that the best and brightest men in the States would be sent to the Legislatures.

"Does this show you the connection between the county and city? Does this show you why, if you wish to send clean and able men to represent you at Trenton and Washington, you must begin right here in the wards of Plainfield—here where the bosses and machine get their power—and fight them until they shall both be eliminated and we have in their stead a magnificent organization of Republican voters, who, under able and honest leaders will be working for individual liberty and to give every man, woman and child his or her rights.

"Now for an instance which will illustrate the effect of boss rule in Plainfield:

"United States Senator John Kean, of Elizabeth, is credited with being largely interested in the ownership and control of the Plainfield Water Supply Company. For some time past one of the independent members of the Common Council has been endeavoring to have brought before the people, for an expression of opinion, the question as to whether they favor a thorough investigation of the subject with the end in view of the city acquiring its own supply and system. Prompt action upon this subject has been and is most important, as the longer it is delayed the more difficult it becomes, owing to the increasing value of the franchise. Despite this fact it seems to have been impossible to get it out of the hands of the committee, the chairman of which is a good and true member of the machine. The term of office of the member who has been working for it, and of one other member who is in favor of submitting the question, will expire this year, as will the terms of two other members who are affiliated with the machine.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY

Locked to a tree in a swamp near South Plainfield, the boat lost by Charles T. Rogers two months ago, was found last week by Mr. Rogers. It had been newly painted. Mr. Rogers broke the lock and took it home. No protest has been received from anyone to date.

Within a short time the Lehigh Valley Railroad will begin the construction of a new tower and interlocking switch system at the main crossing in New Market. Measurements for the work are being taken.

One way or another, Dunellen will be represented in the proposed amateur baseball league next season. The management of the present nine, as well as the new athletic club, has announced its intention of joining.

There is no Colby sentiment on local affairs in the borough apparently. The politicians say they can discover none, and nobody else contradicts them.

Miss Cora Ahrens, of Strafford, Ont., granddaughter of Stanley Day, and who has visited New Market, has entered the Normal School of her home city.

The masons have begun to plaster the new school at New Market. Work in all departments of the building is being rushed.

Irvin Randolph, of Newark, has returned home after visiting his uncles, F. F. Randolph and A. N. Randolph.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dunn, of East Millstone, have returned home after a visit with Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Pierce.

Bernard Siriski, who was incapacitated by a large abscess, has resumed work in his barber shop.

Mrs. N. F. Guyre has returned home from a stay with friends in Asbury Park.

J. G. Smith has been employed at a large Asbury Park hotel during the summer.

Miss Mary Limepeter is on a two weeks' vacation.

David Blackford is slowly recovering his health.

The boating season still continues on the lake.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The large mastiff recently killed on the railroad, and owned by Albert Manning, prevented what might have been a big haul of money in a burglary at the family home known as "Lakeside," a year or two ago. Thieves entered the house by prying open the bay window in the parlor, and the family were all awakened by the heavy falling of a bicycle which stood inside the parlor window. It was with great difficulty the family could restrain Mr. Manning from taking his gun and going below, fearing they would be sure to get a large roll of bills in his desk in the dining-room, which he had drawn out of the bank to pay his men the next day. The door between was closed and the dog was confined in the room in the rear and the thieves only got away with two new overcoats, which hung on the hall-rack, in the hall, not daring to open the door where the dog seemed to be guarding the money. Next morning Mr. Manning found a large woolen glove, and a "post axe" which the robbers had left behind in their hurried flight.

A large sail-boat broke from its moorings and drifted against a barb wire fence, tearing and ripping its sails, in the stiff easterly breeze.

Miss Mildred Johnson intends taking a course at the business college in Plainfield.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. Thomas Meaney, of this city, is visiting her parents at High Bridge.

Mrs. Theodore Mantz, of this city, has been visiting Mrs. VanSickle, of High Bridge.

Edward N. Brown, of Westfield, has been visiting friends and relatives in town.

Mrs. John D. Runyon, of Park avenue, has returned from a sojourn at Mt. Pocono, Pa.

Ernest Bird, of this city, has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Asa Trimmer, of Middle Valley.

Mrs. Philip Drake, of this city, has been visiting at the home of John S. Field, of Bound Brook.

James Vosseller, formerly of this city, but now of New York, has been visiting friends in town.

Miss Ernestine C. Smith, of Madison avenue, has returned from a sojourn of a few days at Atlantic City.

Mrs. Oscar A. Moore, of Watchung avenue, has returned from a visit of a month and a half at Blakeslee, Pa.

Miss Margaret Kenney, of East Second street, has returned to her studies at Barnard College, New York.

Miss Anna Lawson, of Denver, who has been visiting her brother, of North avenue, left for Chicago Friday night.

Miss Abbie VanCleef, of West End avenue, has returned from a week's visit with her father at East Millstone.

Dr. M. S. Simpson, of Middle Valley, has about recovered from injuries he received in an accident several weeks ago.

Somerset Inn at Bernardsville is an objective point for many automobilists from this place as is shown by recent registries there of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Marshall, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Stockton and Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Cruikshank.

The following letter appeared in the New York Sun recently:

"To the Editor of The Sun:

"Sir: Twenty-three affidavits can be secured to vouch for the truth of the following story:

"The reporter and the Colonel were sitting under a tree amid the wilds of the Watchung Mountains discussing the thickness and length of the last black snake they had seen. The Colonel said it was nine inches thick and twenty-three feet long—but Jersey applejack may have been part of the evidence.

"The reporter had been sent to interview a chipmunk on the merits of tree climbing, but the chipmunk declined to talk for publication, leaving that question to be settled by literary gentlemen who are familiar with climbing ladders of fame.

"Suddenly a chipmunk, pursued by a large black cat, appeared in a clearing of the deep forest. The cat was gaining and the chipmunk made for a tall chestnut and went up the trunk like a flash, followed by the cat. The top branch was reached and the chipmunk ran out to the end, made a flying leap of more than ten feet to the next tree and got away. The cat in the eagerness of pursuit followed, but in its leap only reached the ends of the branches of the adjoining tree, which hung down with the animal's weight, leaving the poor cat suspended in the air clawing and hanging on for dear life. It was now up to the reporter and the Colonel to rescue that cat.

"The Colonel was up in all the engineering arts, and could construct a pontoon bridge or plan a mine, but for once he was stumped. How could he get that cat out of the tree? The reporter took a fish line out of his pocket, tied a stone to it, intending to catch the end of the branch and pull it down toward the trunk of the tree, giving the cat a chance to jump to a larger branch lower down.

"But neither the reporter nor the Colonel settled the matter, for all of a sudden, with a blackness and a roar and a rush, a summer squall swiftly crossed the clearing, lashing the trees in all its fury and the poor cat was blown away together with the reporter's notebook—and both landed after a long flight through the air in front of the newspaper office.

"The editor and a lot of politicians rushed out of the door as the cat ran away. The notebook was in great demand. The editor exclaimed after reading it that the vital and great question of whether a chipmunk could climb a tree was fully settled, but that a more perplexing problem must now be faced—can a cat fly?

EPWORTHIANS TO HOLD DISTRICT CONVENTION.

Delegates from Many Towns and Cities Will Gather at Elizabeth On October 4.

The Elizabeth District Epworth League of the Newark Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, comprising about fifty-seven societies, with a membership of approximately 4,500 young people and 2,000 junior members, will hold its annual convention at Elizabeth on Thursday, October 4.

The morning and afternoon sessions will be held in the Park M. E. church and the evening session in St. James M. E. church. A strong pragromme, which will be announced later, is being arranged, and it is expected that the convention will be one of great profit and interest to the young people who will assemble from all parts of the district, and prove a fitting conclusion to what has been a prosperous year in the district.

The local committee from the four Methodist churches in the city has the matter of entertainment in hand, and is arranging to care for one of the largest gatherings in the history of the district.

The officers of the Elizabeth District Epworth League are: President, A. Y. Tomlinson, Elizabeth; vice-president, Frank L. Van Pelt, Port Richmond, S. I.; corresponding secretary, W. H. A. Austin, Elizabeth; recording secretary, Bryant Randolph, Cranford; treasurer, Arthur H. Stiles Plainfield, superintendent Junior Epworth League, Mrs. E. L. Lillibridge, Roselle Park.

—General E. Burd Grubb, of Edgewater Park, a Colbyite candidate for Congressional nomination, has joined the Elks. He has been initiated by Burlington Lodge, No. 996, B. P. O. E. General Grubb took the degree with nineteen other candidates.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

GOLF.

Instead of seeking an inland course for its championshi, as in previous years, the East Jersey Association has voted to hold its tournament this year at Deal Beach. It will be a two day affair, being held on Friday and Saturday, September 28 and 29. Eight players will qualify on the first morning at medal play and all the match play will be at eighteen holes. The championship is open only to members of the six clubs who have played in at least six of the team matches during the season, but there will be a thirty-six hole handicap on September 29 for the best gross and the best net prizes, to which the 200 players of the league are eligible. There is a movement underway which may open the championship to all, as under team restrictions some of the best players are barred. Howard Giffen, of South Orange, won the first championship at Baltusrol in 1900 and also the next year at Montclair. Then Bradshaw won at Essex County, Giffen again at Yountakah, and in 1904 Thompson upset calculations by winning in the final at Montclair. Giffen gained the title once more at Baltusral last year, his fourth victory in six years. This year he will have a hard time to retain the title against the clever field he wil meet over the course by the sa.

The Morris County Golf Club will hold an invitation tournament on its course on September 20, 21 and 22, the week before the East Jersey Golf Association championship tourney, and the Richmond County Country Club will have a similar competition on October 4, 5 and 6. It will be the first club tournament at Morristown since 1903 and the first at Richmond County in ten years. Both clubs have improved their courses and want the outsiders to see the changes.

J. H. P. Wharton, formerly of the Plainfield Country Club, is now playing at Baltusrol, where he always returns a low score in competition.

Mrs. N. Pendleton Rogers has been missed from the Plainfield Country Club course this season, in fact she has devoted very little time to playing golf.

The special train now running over the Lehigh Valley Railroad from New York to Baltusrol on Saturdays and Sundays is very popular with golfers who are members of that club. The train runs at the most convenient hours for the players.

Those interested in the success of the Eastern team, which will meet the Western women in the match over the links of the Brae Burn Country Club on October 6, realize the importance of more competitive play. A start was made this week at the Hackensack Golf Club. Other matches will be played this month.

Dudley H. Barrows, of the Plainfield Country Club, who has been playing good golf this season, will soon return to Princeton to resume his studies.

It is regretted that there have not been more team matches played on the local courses this season. These matches promote a friendly rivalry among the members of the various clubs and helps them to improve their game.

C. B. Morgan, who has been spending the past week at Greenwood Lake, has returned and will resume playing on the course at the Plainfield Country Club.

An event in golf that would prove interesting to enthusiasts of the game in this vicinity would be a tournament for the professionals. There are a number of clubs within a short distance of Plainfield who have "pros" and their coming together would excite considerable interest. Charles Kirchner, of this city, who is interested in the Eastern Professional Golfers' Association, could easily arrange such a tournament, if only for one day.

"Marty" O'Loughlin would undoubtedly make a fine showing in a tournament among local "pros" and not only the members of the Plainfield Country Club, but of every club represented by a "pro" would be unusually interested in the play and the result.

Weather conditions for golf this fall would be hard to improve and there is promise of a continuation of it for a number of weeks to come. Scarcely a day but that there are players on the Plainfield Country Club and Park Golf Club courses, as well as at Westfield.

ROD AND GUN.

William Coddington and Charles R. Deer have returned after a two weeks' visiting at Barnegat Bay. They brought with them a big catch of fish and their fellow-employees at the Aluminum Press Works are expecting invitations to a fish supper.

FOOTBALL.

Roy Phillips, veteran of many fields, under the Alis banner, will manage the O. F. C. eleven.

BOYS' SCHOOL SUITS

Extra Trousers With Every Suit.

Buying these suits for boys at our prices is like getting the extra pair of trousers as a gift, for when you examine the materials—the careful stitching, the careful tailoring thruout, and above all the dressy style, you will find the prices low enough for a single suit and you will wonder how we can afford to put in the extra pair of trousers. And these extra trousers make a suit worth double, almost, because the boys will knock out the pants long before the coat is done for—a fact wise parents have learned long since.

See the Suits we sell at

2.98, 3.98, 4.98 and 5.98

Bring the boys in and try on the suits; make a thoro examination of them and compare them with the clothing sold elsewhere at equal prices, and we have no doubt that you will buy here.

May Irwin, at New Plainfield Theatre Friday, Sept. 21.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

An attractive feature of Jules Murry's production of Clyde Fitch's greatest play, "Her Own Way," which will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre tonight, is the manner in which the ladies costumes their parts. Miss Sylvia Lynden, who plays the leading part of Georgiana, is particularly fortunate in the selection of her gowns. In the first act she wears an elaborate brown velvet costume and carries the handsome sables that were purchased by her in St. Petersburg last summer. Her second dress is a negligee of fine lace bought from Brussels by a member of her family over half a century ago. In the third act she is dressed in mourning, her handsome black gown relieved only by a string of pearls. These pearls came to her from her great grandmother who purchased them in Spain. Miss Lynden does not believe in stage jewelry. Every ornament she wears is of the finest quality and in "Her Own Way" as the scenes are all modern it is necessary that her jewelry be in keeping with her costumes and the surroundings of the play.

The heroine of the new college play "At Yale," which is to be produced at the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow night, with Paul Gilmore at the head of a large company, is an ideal college-boy's sweetheart, pretty, with engaging manners, a girl who loves a manly fellow and follows all athletic sports and one who has been kept posted on college matters because she has a brother at college, who is loved and respected by all of his classmates. As soon as she appears on the stage one never blames Dick Seeley for loving her. She has a charm of a girlhood of every land and most of all this land of ours. Her form is willowy. She has masses of silken hair and bright glancing eyes. Her skin is fair with the fineness of texture that denotes good care. A typical American, she never thinks of doubting her capacity for correct conclusions upon data which she has gathered with her own experience of eye and ear. She is fair to see. To look upon her one thinks how full of strength and well-knit is her body. She is born of fine material. Her conscience is always alert, always busy. In body she belongs to a people which has rather increased than spent its physical force; built up rather than depleted its vitality. Her slight svelte figure is as straight as an arrow. She is never awkward in movement, and has a marvelously delicate, brilliant, fine grained face. Scrupulously brought up she is a girl who never by chance falls into vulgarity of slang speech for she loves pure and clean usage of her facile English language. Euripides once exclaimed, "I hate every woman," but Euripides had never met Dorothy Randall in "At Yale."

The inducements made by the managers of the leading vaudeville theatres in the large cities to Arthur Dunn last season caused him to arrange to appear as a special feature in their houses for a limited number of weeks while his present comedy, "The Little Joker," was being written. His desire to appear in a new offering to the public was another reason for him to forsake the road until that were possible, and he now comes to us with a new and original comedy full of good musical numbers and with a company which he claims is of unusual excellence. As Arthur himself says, "there is nothing short about it but the star." A complete scenic outfit is presented and an adequate equipment is in every department. This attraction will be at the New Plainfield theatre Thursday night.

At the New Plainfield theatre Friday night May Irwin and her company will present a new play from the pen of George V. Hobart, called "Mrs. Wilson, That's All." In the latest offering Miss Irwin assumes the role of Mrs. Wilson, a society woman, who, through a series of untoward accidents, believes that she is guilty of the crime of bigamy. In order to escape the consequences of her supposed crime she decides to run away to South Africa, but is thwarted just in time to discover that she is innocent and all ends happily. The new vehicle is said to be much more consistent as to story than her former offerings and to give her unlimited opportunity for the display of her talents as a laugh provoker.

Local theatre-goers, who were last season charmed by Creston Clarke's exquisite performance of "Monsieur Beaucaire," are certain this season to be aroused to the highest degree of enthusiasm by his artistic rendition of the modern role of John Morton, the clergyman, in "The Ragged Messenger," when he appears here next Monday night. It will then be seen that as nearly perfect as Mr. Clarke's art was in the dainty, romantic comedy, his best and natural forte is the portrayal of modern roles.

"The Prince of Pilsen," the most popular and successful musical comedy of recent years, is scheduled for an engagement at the New Plainfield theatre Tuesday, Sept. 25, and an unusual degree of interest is certain to be shown in the coming of this attraction. It is now in its fifth season of presentation and Manager Henry W. Savage is making its present tour a notable one by reason of the unusual strength of the company, its magnitude in numbers and the elaborate character of its scenic and costume equipment. Jess Dandy is at the head of the organization and his performance of Hans Wagner, the German alderman from "Zinzinnati," has been made generally familiar, Mr. Dandy having played this part more than a thousand times.

No comedian before the public today has a stronger hold on theatre-goers than Raymond Hitchcock, and his quaint refined methods and unctuous humor are a constant source of joy to those who want to be amused, or enjoy a hearty laugh—and who doesn't?. Mr. Hitchcock in his latest success, "The Galloper," by Richard Harding Davis, is one of the attractions booked here for the near future. The play is full of color and action and the role assumed by Mr. Hitchcock one that fits him most happily.

WIN GOLF MATCH.

"Marty" O'Loughlin and David Shay Defeated Cranford Pair.

"Marty" O'Loughlin, the "pro" at the Plainfield Country Club, and David Shay, the clerk at the club, went to Cranford, Sunday, and played a four-ball match with Joe Ianson, the Cranford "pro" and Eddie Wild, winner of the president's cup at Deal Beach. The Plainfield team defeated its opponents after a fast game, by 4 up. The wind was blowing very hard over the course, yet "Marty" O'Loughlin equalled the course record, with a 37.

On the first hole, which is 233 yards, O'Loughlin overdrive it with a cleat, and on the last hole he needed a four to equal the record, which he made by running down a twenty-five foot put. It has been arranged for O'Loughlin to enter the open championship at Forest Hill next week.

Championship Tennis at P. C. C.

The women's singles tennis championship were continued at the Plainfield Country Club, on Saturday, when in the finals Miss Barbara Fleming beat Mrs. Boardman, 6-4, 4-6, 9-7, in a very fast game. It was considered one of the most brilliant yet witnessed on the club courts. In the semi-finals for the men's championship, H. J. Cochran defeated Albert Beers, 6-1, 6-2, and Owen Fleming defeated Percy Brown, 6-1, 6-1. Fleming outclassed his opponent throughout the match.

Plainfield, N. J., Sept. 18, 1906.

The Dryden-Colby letter-writing duel is getting wearisome. Colby climbed up the wrong tree when he accused the junior senator of being indirectly responsible for the circulation of a fake report of the Colby-Hillery debate and if he doesn't want to apologize or produce the evidence for making such a claim, the controversy had better be dropped.

That William N. Runyon is doing effective work as a campaigner, not even the most biased voter can deny. Day in and day out he is appealing to the citizenry with telling effect and whatever measure of success the movement, which he has espoused, may enjoy, the young city judge will be entitled to the greater part of the credit. Had Runyon been the spokesman for the Colbyites at the Casino mass caucus, a much more favorable impression would have been made for the cause.

attempt was made by their author to put them out as a copy of the stenographer's report, garbled or otherwise.

"And now I come to what is perhaps the most amazing part of your whole letter, and not to misrepresent you I quote in full:

" 'By Mr. Knight's own statement "incomplete" copies had been given out, and as you do not deny knowledge that such a report was taken, I request that you make inquiry and find out whether your friends are responsible for the distribution of these incorrect and incomplete minutes of the debate, for I am much interested in knowing whether your adherents, those who are advocating your re-election to the United States Senate, are engaged in a campaign of misrepresentation.'

"Having plainly accused me by inference of doing something which I indignantly denied and in support of which I asked you to produce your proof, and having completely failed to do so—not having been able even to make a respectable attempt at doing so—you now coolly ask me to hunt for the proof to sustain the charge which you have made against me. In other words, the accuser turns to the accused and implores him to furnish evidence to sustain the accusation. I shall decline to do so, and I again repeat that I do not believe there is any evidence in support of your statement, or ever has been.

"This is the status of the matter. You are not willing to apologize for having done me a grevious wrong. Very well, let it stand thus. If you are satisfied with the situation, I may well contemplate it with equanimity.

"With this I take leave of the matter. The public will decide between us."

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

"Randolph's Quinine and Glycerine" Hair Tonic.

The proper treatment and care for the hair is very important. The tendency to baldness seems to be on the increase, but there is no need to be bald if you give your hair the proper attention and use "Randolph's Compound Quinine and Glycerine" Hair Tonic.

By imparting vitality to the roots of the hair, it stops it from falling out, irradicates dandruff, assures the continued growth and prevents baldness and final loss. It is richly perfumed and is an elegant dressing for the hair. Prepared either with or without oil—oil for dry hair and without oil for oily hair.

N. R. Leavitt is First Choice.

The Union County Board of Freeholders are in session at Elizabeth, this afternoon, for the purpose of chosing a successor to the late County Collector Edward M. Wood. It is practically assurred that Nathan R. Leavitt, of Elizabeth, who has been filling the position since the illness and death of Mr. Wood, will be the choice of the freeholders to fill the unexpired term. He is thoroughly acquainted with the duties of the office and has done the work in a way that is satisfactory to the board. One or two other candidates are mentioned for the place, but Mr. Leavitt appears to be the first choice for the place.

Arranging Annual Ball.

Local. No. 480, P. P. H. and D., of this city, will hold its fourth annual ball in Saengerbund Hall on Thursday night, October 25, for the benefit of the relief fund. Department of Cooking at P. H. S.

The new department in the Plainfield High School, that of cooking, has been opened. It is the purpose to give the girls a thorough course of instruction in the culinary art and they will receive credit for the work as an elective subject. Credit for manual training is also given on the basis of an elective subject.

Alone in a Big City.

While waiting for a friend in the Grand Central station, Saturday, George F. Odiorne, former business manager of the Courier-News, was robbed of $35. A member of the light-fingered gentry evidently sized him up for a good thing and "touched" him for the amount.

"At the meeting at the Casino on Monday evening, September 10—the meeting which was called by the chairman of the city committee 'to discuss the question of proper officials for the good government of Plainfield'—the chairman stated that the Republican party stands for the election of men who, among other qualifications were 'independent' and 'for nomination by the people of men who act at all times for the people without the influence of any political boss whatever.' Also he said 'they (the officials) must be absolutely independent, have the courage of their convictions, and act without outside influence.' Now, in carrying out these ideas what have the machine done? 'Have they endorsed the two independent members whom we endorsed, and put up two more independents in place of the others? No. They have put up candidates in place of the independents (one of them being State Road Superintendent, who, of necessity, is not against the machine), and they have re-endorsed the two machine members.

"What does this mean? Does it mean that a member who works against the interests of the water company cannot be renominated under the present rule?

"Does it mean that the suggestions and promises, as outlined above, of the much heralded advisory committee of 125 and statements and promises of the chairman of the city committee are already being ignored and set at nought by the bosses? Does it mean that the chairman has already lost his control and that the bosses, having finished with the advisory committee, intend to go on in the same old way, or what does it mean? These are the questions which you must answer at the primary on September 25 with your votes. The chairman of that meeting said 'with all this talk about boss rule, some true, some not, possibly some abuses have crept in as there always will. But these can be corrected. It is up to you to correct them. You can do it by taking a little of your time and effort.'

"He was right—you can correct them, but we ask you whether you will attempt to do so by voting for the men who are endorsed by the machine—a machine which has not lived up to the expressed ideals of its new leaders for a week—or whether you will correct them in the only way possible by voting for men who are absolutely independent of any affiliations which will prevent them from working for the best interests of the city and people of Plainfield on the water question, as we propose to do, and on every other question which may come up, and whose every effort will be directed toward giving to Plainfield the very best administration possible?

"We ask you to consider this whole subject carefully and on September 25 (Independence Day) cast your vote in favor of the candidates who are working for your rights without the intervention of, or by the grace of, the bosses and machine.

"Yours truly,
"R. HENRY DEPEW."

George Whitlock Fractures His Arm.

George Whitlock, a carpenter, residing on West Front street, and employed on some work at the Plainfield Seminary, at Arlington avenue and West Seventh street, fell off the building at 8 o'clock, this morning, receiving a bad gracture of the arm near the shoulder. Mr. Whitlock fell a distance of ten feet landing on a pile of lumber. Dr. C. A. Gesswein was called and had the injured man removed to his home. He will be laid up a couple of months.

Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Chapman, formerly of this city, but now of Montclair, have been spending a few days with relatives here.

ROYAL Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

Healthful cream of tartar, derived solely from grapes, refined to absolute purity, is the active principle of every pound of Royal Baking Powder.

Hence it is that Royal Baking Powder renders the food remarkable both for its fine flavor and healthfulness.

No alum, no phosphate—which are the principal elements of the so-called cheap baking powders—and which are derived from bones, rock and sulphuric acid.

FOR THE GENTLER SEX

GOOD TO KNOW.

Hot salt applied to the head in little bags will give almost instant relief in cases of neuralgia headache.

When putting away knives and other steel instruments oil them slightly and wrap them in tissue paper. This will prevent their rusting.

A few drops of lemon juice in a glass of cold water, slowly sipped before breakfast, will act directly on the stomach and liver and consequently serve to clear the complexion.

When finely chopped nuts are needed for salads or sandwiches, run the nuts through the meat chopper.

If kerosene is used for cleaning the rubber of the clothes wringer it will make it as good as new.

A little boric acid water, the proper strength for the eyes, dropped into them with a dropper just before retiring, will greatly relieve tired eyes.

A spice plaster composed of equal parts of ground mustard, allspice, ginger and cloves, to which may be added a spoonful of red pepper, will give almost instant relief in cases of bronchial trouble or any slight congestion of the lungs Spread common vaseline on a square of old linen or muslin and then dust the spices over half of it folding the other half over so that the linen will be cut on both sides. The vaseline will serve to open the pores of the skin and will form a body for the spices as well.

Charcoal is a splendid deodorizer for vegetables with strong odor.

White ostrich plumes can be cleaned by putting into a bottle of gasoline and shaking well. Hang in the air to dry, and curl with a blunt knife.

To keep cheese from getting moldy wrap in a cloth that has been dipped in vinegar and wrung dry. Then wrap in paper and keep in a cool place.

When putting down a carpet be sure that the floor is perfectly dry. Otherwise it is very liable to become motheaten.

A teaspoonful of sugar to the stove blacking will add a material lustre to the stove.

Gilt picture frames that have become flyspecked can be cleaned with the white of an egg rubbed on gently with a soft brush.

An excellent polish for furniture can be made of equal parts of linseed oil, turpentine and vinegar.

When putting on gloves for the first time remember to fasten the second button first, then the top one. The first one can then be buttoned without tearing or over-stretching the kid.

Raw potato, scraped and bound like a poultice on a fire burn, will ease the pain immediately

If the glass dish in which fruit is to be poured is placed on a damp cloth, there will be no danger of the glass cracking

When using gasoline to remove spots from delicate fabrics, encircle the spot with corn starch. This will absorb the fluid and prevent it from spreading and forming an unsightly ring around the cleaned portion.

After blankets have been washed and hung on the line, beat them thoroughly with a carpet beater It will render them soft and light and the wool will be like new.

Grease spots can be removed from books or papers by laying powdered pipe clay on both sides of the paper and applying an iron as hot as can be used without scorching. Grease can be taken from leather bindings in the same manner.

IN PUTTING ON GLOVES.

"There is a wrong and a right way to put on gloves," said a dealer recently.

"To learn the right way, watch an experienced saleswoman while she tries a pair on a customer. Invariably she will first push the glove on the four fingers before putting on the thumb. She works slowly meanwhile, and not until the glove is fully fitted to the hand does she fasten it at the wrist.

"When the glove is removed the operation should begin at the wrist and the glove be carefully turned backward as far as the second joint of the fingers. It will then come off easily with a slight pull at the tips of the fingers. If, however, it be pulled from the hand by the tips of the fingers it will be stretched out of shape," says Woman's Life.

"One glove should never be turned into another, in the manner in which stockings are usually done up. They should be laid out as flat as possible, with the thumb folded inside the palm of the glove."

CULINARY CONCEITS.

Melted butter will not make good cake.

A few drops of lemon juice makes cake frosting white.

If oatmeal is soaked over night in water is requires only about one-half the time to cook.

If eggs are to be boiled hard have the water boiling when the eggs are put in it. This will prevent the yolks turning dark.

Tomatoes and milk to be blended must be brought to the same temperature and beaten together vigorously. There is less liability of curdling.

Prepartory to frying liver or veal cover it for a minute or two with boiling water. Pat dry with a clean towel, roll in flour and fry (in a covered pan) until brown.

An appetizing breakfast dish is prepared in the following manner: Fry thin pieces of bacon a light brown, but not crisp. Place two strips of bacon on each slice of toast, lay in a pan, break over each slice of toast an egg and bake for a few minutes.

MYSTERY OF THE MOLE.

A mole on the right cheek or right arm signifies happiness in love affairs; on the right hand a happy marriage.

Moles on the right cheek or arm, in combination with one or more on the left hand, point to more good fortune in love affairs than in money matters.

A mole at the corner of the right eye predicts a rich and indulgent husband. A mole on the right side of the chin shows good fortune, long life and a happy marriage.

A mole on the chin, if it be light yellow in color, denotes that a woman will be a good housewife; if brown in color, it portends a happy married life.

A mole on the tip of the nose shows to a woman likelihood of much admiration and jealous lovers, in her dealings with whom she is recommended to exercise great caution and discretion.

A mole at the right hand corner of the mouth is a sign of wealth; a mole at the left hand corner of the mouth warns the possessor to beware of treachery and a false lover.

THE WOMAN TRAVELER

It seems almost incredible that any woman with spirit enough to make a journey should not know of the many little toilet conveniences which help to make dressing away from home easy.

One does not need to buy an expensive fitted traveling kit.

For twenty-five cents anybody can get a pretty little washcloth case, lined with rubber, so that the wet cloth which has just been used can be put into the satchel without damaging other contents.

For a quarter, too, one can get a covered bottle that will convey the wet tooth-brush and nail-brush, and for the same price there are little cream-jars and powder boxes innumerable.

Yet, in spite of this, you may still see women wrapping a wet washcloth in a nightdress, or omitting it use altogether in order to keep it dry; tying up a tooth-brush in a towel, and wrapping soap in newspaper!

Is it just the feminine neglect to avail itself of conveniences, or is it because they don't know.

PEACH DISHES.

Frozen Peaches—Mash a quantity of ripe peaches, and sweeten with sugar syrup; add the whites of three eggs, unbeaten, and freeze.

Peach Pudding—Line the bottom of a deep pudding-dish with slices of stale sponge-cake dipped either in sherry or in thick cream. Fill the dish with sliced peaches and sugar, and over all put a meringue made by beating the white of one egg with one tablespoonful of sugar, and quickly brown in the oven. Serve very cold with cream.

Peach Shortcake—Make a baking-powder biscuit dough, and sweeten slightly. Cut out two rounds a half-inch in thickness and put on on the other, with soft butter between, and bake; separate the layers, spread the lower one with crushed and sweetened peaches and lay the other on; sprinkle this with powdered sugar and arrange a circle of sliced peaches all around the edge; serve with cream.—Harper's Bazar.

IN WRITING LETTERS.

Tell the news.

Especially the good news.

Bad news (of an enemy) lends spice.

Most important of all, write as you speak.

It is positively absurd to "put on" literary style.

Borrowed phrases but show the writer's poverty the more.

Avoid stereotyped expressions such as "This letter leaves me well and I trust it finds you the same."

One may inquire after a correspondent's health and make a statement concerning one's own without departing from graceful vivacity.

SCOTCH PLAIDS.

Scotch plaids are "it."

They are used as trimming for smart fall hats.

Whole dresses and suits are made of plaid wool stuffs.

Dainty blouses are seen of plaid taffeta, trimmed with bands of plain silk.

When the costume is of a plain color the trimming is of plaid silk or velvet.

Dainty umbrellas are of Scotch plaid to match the gown.

Plaid hosiery is also worn.

So get in line and array yourself in plaid, if you wish to be strictly up to date.

Morris K. Jessup, of New York, chief financial backer and promoter of the expedition of Lieutenant Robert Peary to reach the North Pole, says that he is daily expecting news from Peary, as he was to make the dash on sleds in August.

APPEARING OLD

Acts as a Bar to Profitable Employment.
You cannot afford to grow old.
In these days of strenuous competition it is necessary to maintain, as long as possible ones youthful appearance.
It is impossible to do this without retaining a luxurious growth of hair.
The presence of Dandruff indicates the presence of a burrowing germ which lives and thrives on the roots of the hair until it causes total baldness.
Newbro's Herpicide is the only known destroyer of this pest, and it is as effective as it is delightful to use
Herpicide makes an elegant hair dressing as well as Dandruff cure.
Accept no substitute—there is none.
Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

Lavender Creighton's Lovers

By OLIVIA B. STROHM

(Copyright, 1905, by Olivia B. Strohm).

As Winslow took his seat there was a commotion in the crowd that filled the aisle, and Tobias Judson lurched forward. Stepping to the platform with a tread that threatened partition of the oaken flooring, he began to speak.

If there were a member of the community whose word carried more weight than another's, it was Uncle Tobias—as he was familiarly known. His was an ambition to be known as one having authority and, though self-appointed to the office, the country folk were glad to recognize him as arbiter in common affairs. Hence his great hand raised was as a scepter, his first word was followed by instant silence.

"Feller citizens, I want ter say a word about this schoolhouse. I'm proud of it; it's the first, but you kin jest bet yer life it ain't a-goin' to be the last. And I want ter say—speakin' fer the committee and the hull of yer, that we're all obleeged to the schoolmaster."

His wave of the hand toward Winslow was the signal for cheers; the orator continued: "You all will be glad to hear, too, that he's struck it rich—or that's how it promises. They've found coal on his land, and it's a valooable piece of property. When he goes back east he kin brag to his friends about the strike he made here, and I hope he'll do it."

Another emphatic nod followed by loud applause. "If he does, it'll probably take the curse off'n that Burr dodge that fizzled out—and with all due respect to the schoolmaster I'm right glad it did. A coal mine in this blessed country is better any day than promises of gold and diamonds in a land which none of us ain't sartin about and can't locate any closeter 'n the end o' Godspeed!"

There was loud applause and the scuffling of anxious feet. To the latter disconcerting accompaniment Rev. Luke offered prayer. Then he gave out the hymn, and Winslow stepped to the spinet to turn the leaves for the player. As Lavender struck the first chord their eyes met; though her own were instantly lowered again, to the keys, Winslow had read his answer.

CHAPTER XXXI.

When the time for dinner had come, the merry-makers devoted themselves with keen appetites and spirits boisterous to this—the grand event of the day. To Winslow it seemed odd that these simple pioneer folk who served all meals in such bare and homely fashion, should find sport in slight deviation from the ordinary habit. "But evidently there are degrees in rustic simplicity," he said to nimself, as with a smile half cynical, half envious he surveyed the crowd. Two or three small fires were built, and above these hung kettles for the making of that rare luxury—tea. Over the embers game was toasted, and "roastin' ears" slowly baked in their jackets of yellow and green. Cloths were sometimes spread on the ground, but more often lap-robes served as napery.

Here and there, from their teams detached, were wagons in which whole families perched making hungry dives into a common hamper. One table graced the grove. It was put together—a few boards on stakes—for the use of the committee and its favored guests. Chief of these was Winslow, who occupied his post of honor with secret dissatisfaction. For in the few words she had found time to say, Mrs. Creighton urged his company with them. He declined ruefully. "A lamb led to the slaughter I go to play the role of hero in—extraordinary. But save a little strength to visit with me," and he bowed low over her hand.

With divided mind he performed the honors of the table; secretly intent upon watching Lavender. One or two of the more daring among the village beaux assisted with awkward gallantry while she unfilled the small hickory crates and put the food in tempting array on a white cloth—dropped like a cloud upon the green sward.

When Winslow's gaze would catch and hold hers a rare smile filled her neyes with iridescent sparkle or by a bow, blush or wave of the hand she would reward the glances which, however they roved, came always back to her. For the lover's fond vision saw but another setting for her beauty in this brilliant scene; the forest—all green save for the scarlet of berry and gold of blossom which blazoned the last glory of summertime. The sky seemed to hold for her the softest bridal veil of mist, and in the background a low fire smouldered—against which her head shone in cameo relief.

He was roused from these poetic fancies by a touch on the shoulder and turning saw Gerald Creighton, his handsome face a-blush. With an embarrassed smile he said: "May I see you when dinner is over? At the grove by the road there; I'll be waiting under the maple trees." Winslow murmured a surprised assent, but before he could speak further Gerald had slipped away. In a moment he was joined by Susan whom he led straight to his mother.

Interested, Winslow watched the little family comedy. Sue, frightened, nervous, but beaming with a proud happiness, hovered close to her lover. Happiness—yet not all unmixed; for the daughter's conscience was never free from the accusing finger of the dead. It was the first time she had seen Gerald—except for the few moments by the brook—since the awful suspicion, and to-day she only consented because he would not be refused; he had besought, commanded: "Tell me, Susan, I insist upon knowing your reason for this change. You love me, dear; why do you treat me coldly?"

She had parried his questioning with a promise to go this once, and now she was here—here, with all her little world looking on. Winslow noticed the gentle kindness with which Mrs. Creighton responded to Sue's awkward little courtesy. The father placed her near him with an evident intent to put her at ease.

As Lavender advanced to meet the new guest, Winslow watched her closely; how would she act? There was just a moment's hesitation—she stopped short and all the color gone from her face, put her hand to her heart as if in sudden pain. Involuntarily her eyes sought Winslow's, and it gave him a sudden sharp pang as he thought: "She is wondering how she must meet the girl whose father I killed!"

But whatever the reason, Lavender's hesitation was over in a moment, and going forward she greeted the newcomer with hand outstretched and smiling words. Winslow could hear none of the conversation, but it was apparent that the family were bent upon kindliness toward this timid stranger whose quiet brown eyes and quivering lips seemed to entreat their love.

Gerald maintained a defiant air of outward calmness, but there was a flush on his cheek, and an anxious light in his eye which flashed feverish scrutiny between his mother and the girl he had thrust upon her. He was proud, grateful and happy at Sue's reception—at the justice finally done; relieved that the wooing of her who really held his wayward affections need be no longer under the rose.

At the close of the meal Winslow saw Gerald go alone to the place of meeting he had signified.

As soon as possible he followed to where the grove of maples offered shade and silence. Here he found Gerald waiting.

The latter greeted him with impulsive candor: "Mr. Winslow, what a coward you must think me!"

Winslow took his hand, smiling as he returned: "I'm sorry I came, if it was but to hear you villify yourself."

But Gerald was fully bent upon making the apology to which he had nerved himself, and which he now poured forth as if anxious to have the distasteful task over.

"Through a message from Col. Boone I learn of your rescue of my sister. The old gentleman has highest praise of you, too, as the traditional Hero. He says you saved his life from an Indian who lay in ambush. Altogether, sir, I see that you have played, not only an honorable, but a heroic part."

TenEyck & Harris, the coal dealers, would like to get your order for the winter's supply. The firm sells only the best Lehigh coal.

Charles E. Vail, the Park avenue jeweler, sells only the highest grade jewelry, diamonds, watches and silverware. His word is as good as his bond.

When you open an account with the Dime Savings Institution you commence to save money in the most approved manner, besides you will get liberal interest.

Dudley S. Miller, the Park avenue druggist, is always ready to serve you with the best drugs, medicines, toilet articles, while his prescription work is second to none.

Every young man owes it to himself to save some of the money he earns. That is the only way in which he can arm himself for the future. The savings should be deposited with the City National Bank.

There are so many good reasons why housewives find it decidedly to their advantage to deal with the Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company, West Front street, that they cannot begin to be given here. Try the store and find out for yourself.

When you trade with S. Scheuer & Co., the West Front street grocers and butchers, you can depend upon always getting the best of everything. The firm buys the highest quality, yet sells at the lowest market prices. Trade at this store once and you will always do so.

GOTHAM'S AMUSEMENTS

The New Lincoln Square theatre, recently erected on Lincoln Square, Broadway and 65th street, New York, represents a culminatiqn in the evolution of theatre building. It is the first theatre in New York built under the new exacting city fire laws and has been declared by the examining officials to be the safest and most substanital theatrical structure in the world. It is equipped with the most modern electric devises and is in realiti as well as in theory, fireproof. Instead of the ordinarily required asbestos curtain to sever the stage from the auditorium, the Lincoln Square is protected by two fireproof walls—one a three-inch thick steel curtain weighing 16,000 pounds, and the other a water curtain. There are 1,603 seats in the auditorium. The stage is 43 feet deep and 90 feet wide. From the stage floor to the gridiron above the measurement is exactly 70 feet 2 inches. For the comfort of the players, 21 model dressing rooms have been arranged in a building adjoining the theatre proper and fitted up with every known, and heretofore unknown, appliances for comfort and safety. The Lincoln Square will open in October. Due notice will be given of the exact date. Its bookings are in the hands of the Messrs. Shubert.

Jack Kenney, of East Second street, has returned from a visit with Mrs. Michael Moynihan, of Bound Brook.

Official Notice of the Republican Primary Election.

Notice is hereby given by the Republican City Executive Committee of the City of Plainfield to the Republican voters of said city that the primary election will be held in each election district of the four wards for the City of Plainfield, on Tuesday, the twenty-fifth day of September, nineteen hundred and six, polls being open from one o'clock in the afternoon until nine o'clock in the evening of that day, to elect delegates to the Congressional, County and City Conventions and to nominate candidates for the following offices:

Each ward is entitled to nominate and elect

One councilman, one justice of the peace, one constable, three members of the city committee, two members of the county committee, except in the Fourth ward, which is entitled to three members of the city committee and three members of the county committee.

The following list designates the number of delegates to which each election district is entitled at the Congressional, County and City Conventions.

	Congressional.	County.	City.
FIRST WARD—
First District	4	4	4
Second District ...	2	2	2
SECOND WARD—
First District	4	4	4
Second District ...	2	2	2
THIRD WARD—
First District	4	4	4
Second District ...	2	2	2
FOURTH WARD—
First District	3	3	3
Third District ...	3	3	3

The primary election will be held and governed by the primary election law of nineteen hundred and three, with the supplements and amendments thereto. The places for holding the said primary election are the regular designated places for holding the general election in each election district.

The following is a list of the candidates to be selected at the various conventions:

Congressional Convention—One Congressman.

County Convention—Three members of the General Assembly and One Coroner.

City Convention—One Mayor, City Collector, two members of the Board of Freeholders and one member of the Board of Education.

Petitions placing candidates and delegates in nomination must be filed with the Municipal Clerk not later than the fifteenth day of September.

By order of the Republican City Executive Committee.

DIAMOND DUST.

The York Tri-State League team, which won the pennant in that league this season, has been engaged to represent Long Branch for the rest of the season in the Atlantic Coast League. This is sure to make the closing days of the coast league exciting, as the Hoboken team is representing Red Bank. At present Red Bank is one game ahead of Mattawan and the latter team is one game ahead of Long Branch.

The Hobokens defeated the Cuban X Giants at St. George's Cricket Grounds on Sunday by a score of 8 to 2. "Willie" Deegan was in great form and allowed a small number of hits.

The Brooklyn Club has made more money this season than for several years past.

Among those who have made good in minor leagues this season are two collegians, Grant, of Harvard, now with Jersey City, and Storke, of Amherst, now with Providence.

Worcester has won the pennant in the New England League; Norwich has captured the Connecticut League championship, and Birmingham has the Southern League streamer cinched. The finish in the Eastern League is but a few days off, but the result is still in doubt.

Thielman, who is a member of the Jersey City Eastern League team, and who materially helped that club to win the championship three years ago, will retire from the game this season to take up the practice of dentistry in New York.

The Newark Evening News baseball team will meet the aggregation from the New York Journal at the Jersey City Eastern League grounds Friday afternoon for the Inter-State championship. The Journal team now holds the New York championship and will try and wrest the honors from the Jersey players.

Jude, the Indian outfielder of the Cincinnatis, uses his gray matter on the diamond and came near turning a neat trick on Hallman, of the Pittsburgs, the other day. On a hit to right field by the latter, Jude made a bluff as if the ball had gone past him. He started to run out and Hallman chased down to second. Jude wheeled and threw, but Hallman's speed saved him from being nailed by the strategy.

Jack Warner is authority for the statement that tall backstops are the best, while many others prefer short, chunk men. All things being equal the tall men have the preference, although as a rule there is little difference if the player is of the right stuff.

Arrangements are being made for a game of ball between the Ware & Leland team, of New York, and a picked nine of local players, on the Clinton Avenue grounds next Saturday.

"Leaguers" In Cops' Game.

The police nine will be strengthened for the game against the Trenton blue coats this afternoon by the injection of young and semi-professional blood. Brit Martin will play short, George Allen, second, and the Clinton Avenue battery, Scott and O'Loughlin, will be in the points. George Johnston or Willie Deegan will umpire. A supper will follow the game.

GOLF.

After the usual lull to follow the summer resort tournaments, the fall series and invitation tournaments will begin this week at the Morris County Golf Club. The clubhouse and course are far more grand now than when James A. Tyng won the open handicap at the Morris County course with 170 in 1896, or when W. Girdwood Stewart led the qualifying field in 1897 with 163, and Arden M. Robbins won the first cup and Aleck Morten the consolation trophy. In the last two tournaments of 1902 and 1903, L. H. Conklin won the first sixteen cups. The course has twice been the scene of the women's national championship. Douglas won the national amateur championship there in 1898 and the Americans beat the Canadians in the international match on the course in 1899. This spring Archie Graham won the New Jersey championship at Morris County, but the club's own tournaments have lapsed since 1903 until the pending event. The entries closed yesterday with Alfred Macy, secretary of the Morris County Golf Club. The qualifying round on Thursday morning will be at eighteen holes, and besides playing for a low score prize, three sixteens will gain eligibility for cups and there will be also three beaten eight cups. All the final rounds will be at thirty-six holes on Saturday, when there will also be a thirty-six hole medal play handicap for best gross and net prizes. Members who have presented the cups are Messrs. Thomas, Frelinghuysen, Foote, Dickson, Pitney, Harkness and Williams.

The East Jersey Golf League championship at Deal, September 28 and 29, is the next local competition. October will be opened in the competitive way by the tournament of the Richmond County Country Club, October 4, 5 and 6. The women's national championship will begin at Brae Burn on Monday, October 8, and continue throughout the week. The Intercollegiate Golf Association championship at Garden City, the Eastern Professional Golf Association championship and a tournament at Baltusrol will round out the month's available dates.

Teams representing The Daily Press and the Courier-News will engage in a golf match at the Plainfield Country Club Thursday afternoon for the championship of the newspaper fraternity of Plainfield. Plans for the match have been under consideration for some time and through the courtesy of the Plainfield Country Club the representatives from the local newspaper offices will be given the privileges of the course on Thursday. A few years ago a similar match was played at the Park Golf Club, through its courtesy, and at that time The Daily Press team won. A determined effort will be made to retain the championship in the play this week.

COP SPRINTERS MEET IN CHAMPIONSHIP MATCH

PATROLMAN PAYNE DEFEATS PATROLMAN DOBSON IN 100-YARD DASH.

Before a small gathering of interested spectators, the sprinting championship of the police department was established yesterday afternoon, at Crescent Oval. Patrolman Payne, swiftest of the heavily-built men on the force, and Patrolman Dobson, the acknowledged Mercury of the cops of svelt build, ran the race that decided the question of the championship. The distance was 100 yards, Payne receiving fifteen yards handicap. He won handily.

The sprint was not run on a joke. Ever since the cops' class at the gymnasium was started the men have taken great interest in all forms of field athletics, and running has been one of the most discussed and practiced. Cops naturally have an interest in sprinting feats, and Chief Kiely has encouraged them to work up a speed that will make the fleetest of crooks or small boys seem like sign posts when a pursuing cop gets into action.

When Dobson and Payne agreed to meet, a stiffish purse was made up to lend further interest to the affair. Both men trained for the event and were in fine fettle when it came off.

The start was made at about 4:15 o'clock. Patrolman McGinley was the starter; Patrolman Saffron, judge. Patrolman McDonald and Patrolman Stillwell were timers, but they grew excited as the race started and forgot to look at their watches.

Payne ran in his bare feet; Dobson was shod with regulation running shoes. Payne started with a rush, and Dobson never had a chance to overhaul him. He gave up at the 75-yard mark. He gained on Payne, and could probably beat him from scratch. Payne doesn't think so, however, and another meeting between the two is likely.

TRADE COUNCIL ENDORSES PARTY MEN FOR ASSEMBLY.

Two Democrats and One Republican Named by Union Men.

George J. Reiss, of Elizabeth, has received the endorsement of the Union County Trades Council as Democrtic candidate for member of the General Assembly. The endorsement, coming unexpectedly to Mr. Reiss, gives his candidacy prestige in the campaign, as he has received assurances that he will have the undivided support of all labor organizations in this county. He was born in Newark in 1866 and has been a candidate twice for Assembly, in one case running considerably ahead of his ticket. He is a printer and is president of the Union County Trades Council.

The Union County Trades Council has endorsed Freeholder Dennis Murphy, as a candidate for ssembly on the Republican ticket, and has also endorsed James Desmond as a candidate on the Democratic ticket. The council appointed a committee of six, consisting of three Republicans and three Democrats, to wait on the chairman of the Democratic County Committee and also the chairman of the Republican County Committee and inform them of their action.

"UNTAINTED" CAMPAIGN

Judge Runyon Makes Pledge Regarding Use of Money In Contest.

REPORT ON MR. GILBERT

Said To Be Preparing Address to Third Ward Voters In Favor of Councilman Tyler's Renomination.

"I promise for myself and the rest of the Colbyites engaged in this contest, to use money only in legitimate ways. That is a solemn pledge. I would like to get a similar promise from the regulars."

So said Judge Runyon in addressing a crowd at a street meeting, at Front street, opposite Park avenue, last night. The sense of the rest of his speech was substantially the same as that in the others made in the "cart-tail" series.

Judge Runyon was the only speaker.

It was reported about town this morning that former Mayor Alexander Gilbert was preparing to issue an address to the voters of the Third ward in support of William S. Tyler's campaign for the councilmanic nomination at the primary.

Mr. Gilbert, asked about the report by a Daily Press representative this morning, said he had been thinking of such an address, but had not decided to issue to.

Mr. Gilbert was one of those who spoke for Mr. Tyler at the Third ward meeting at the Casino last week. He believes Mr. Tyler is entitled to a renomination on his record.

Every preparation has been made for tonight's big meeting at Concert Park. La Follette is expected to get here at about 9 o'clock. Judge Runyon didn't know this morning whether he would come up from Elizabeth by train or automobile. It is not improbable that the trip will be made in an auto. Whatever means the Senator uses to get here, the Plainfield Colbyites will know in time to receive him with due form. He will not stay overnight, so far as the local Colbyite leaders now know. No preparations have been made for his entertainment, and it is expected he will go to New York for the night.

Good weather appears to be assured, and the Colbyite leaders are naturally pleased beyond measure. It is felt that the weather being right, a big crowd will turn out. It is figured that La Follette, having been written up for years in newspapers and magazines, curiosity alone may be counted upon to draw out a great concourse of voters.

There will be no music, but speech-making will begin on time, and continue without pause until La Follette arrives and delivers the closing address.

The second of the noonday shop meetings was held today at the Safe Works. R. Henry Depew, the Colbyite choice for Mayor, made his first appearance there as a campaign speaker. He was warmly applauded at the close of his speech.

Judge Runyon spoke after Mr. Depew. He said substantially the same things as at the meeting at the Potter Press works yesterday.

After the meeting Mr. Depew was introduced among the men.

Weaver—Smith.

A social event of note in Raritan today was the wedding this morning in St. Bernard's church, Raritan, of Miss Magdalene Clare Smith, daughter of Mrs. Catherine Smith, and Joseph Raymond Weaver, of Garwood. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Zimmer, in the presence of a host of relatives and friends. A reception followed at the home of the bride on First avenue. The bridegroom is well known as a baseball pitcher, having twirled nearly all this season for the Flemington nine.

Epworth League Rally.

Group four of the Elizabeth District Epworth League, under the presidency of Louis G. Ayers, of Somerville, will hold a rally in the First M. E. church, Somerville, Wednesday night, Sept. 26. Delegates from the Westfield, Plainfield, Dunellen, Bound Brook, Mt. Horeb and Raritan leagues are expected. Rev. Fred. Clare Baldwin, D. D., pastor of the East Orange Methodist church, will be the speaker of the evening.

Must Keep the Peace.

George Loerch, who was arrested on complaint of Mrs. Lee Young, his sister-in-law, was arraigned before Justice Mundy last night. Testimony showed the affair to have been a family scrap and the defendant was put under $200 bonds to keep the peace for a year. The amount was furnished by Joseph Harrigan, Loerch's employer.

—S. Scheuer & Co.'s store will be closed all day Thursday, September 20th, on account of holiday. ***

LEAVITT NEW COLLECTOR

Assistant Chosen to Fill Vacancy Caused by E. M. Wood's Death.

HIS SALARY IS $2,500

Freeholders to Pay Balance Due On Court House—Bridge Work in This City.

Nathan R. Leavitt, of Elizabeth, who has been acting county collector since the illness and death of Edward M. Wood, was appointed collector at the meeting of the Board of Freeholders, yesterday afternoon, to fill the unexpired term of Mr. Wood. There was no division of the vote, Mr. Leavitt practically being the only candidate.

There was a report that Major King, director of the Board of Freeholders, was a candidate, but this was not so. Aside from the fact that his name was mentioned by some friends, he was not in the race. In fact he stated that he favored Mr. Leavitt.

The selection of Mr. Leavitt is an appreciation of the services he has rendered to the county without pay during the sickness of Mr. Wood and because of his long association with the latter in county affairs.

By resolution the salary of Collector Leavitt was fixed at $2,500, the same as before, and he will be obliged to furnish bonds in the sum of $20,000, the same to be approved by the committee on bonds, composed of Freeholders Meisel, Darby and Cladek.

It is expected that at the next meeting of the board the last payment, $24,000, the balance remaining due the contractors on the new Court House building, will be made and the release of the architect will be secured. When this is done, the Court House property will be turned over to the care of the county.

The board authorized the placing of $25,000 insurance on the furniture and fixtures in the Court House.

Thursday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock the bridge committee will meet at the Leland avenue bridge this city, for the purpose of accepting the new structure, which has just been completed.

Friday morning the bridge committees of Union and Somerset counties will meet at the Elm street bridge to consider a petition of the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company to run four cables across Green brook at that point. The company wants to run their wires through iron pipes across the iron girders of the bridge, it being impossible to place them underground there. The county attorney will also be at this meeting to draw up papers protecting the interests of the two counties.

DEMAND FOR HOUSES FAR EXCEEDS SUPPLY

SOME BUILDING OPERATIONS IN SEVERAL SECTIONS OF CITY.

Activity in local real estate still continues, the constant demand for houses far exceeding the supply. When the new factory in the West End is completed and ready for operations at least 100 new families will move here who will not be able to find homes to live in.

E. Frank Vail has just completed a new house on Putnam avenue, which he has sold to Charles A. Westervelt, of Crescent avenue, and he is also erecting a new house on Park avenue, another on West Eighth street, near Spooner avenue and one at Hillside and Evergreen avenues. Mr. Vail has also purchased seven acres of the Sutphen estate on South avenue, Dunellen.

Joseph T. Vail is erecting a new house at Union street and Arlington avenue. Stephen Beeching is also erecting a new house on Union street, and William Nichols, of Arlington avenue, is putting up a new house on Union street. That section of the city is experiencing a remarkable growth, it being impossible for people to find either houses or land much closer to the business part of the town.

Mrs. John Duffy.

Following a short illness with pneumonia, Mrs. John Duffy died at her home on West Third street, yesterday afternoon. She was forty-five years old and leaves a husband and three children. The funeral will be held at St. Mary's cemetery tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock. Interment will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

Rev. C. E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, will hold a reception at the church on Thursday night, September 27.

A NINE-INNING FINISH

Plainfield Cops' Nine Trims Trenton After An Uphill Fight.

HEAVY HITTING DOES IT

Lou Wiltse In the Box For Plainfield After Cap Payne Tries a Few Shifts.

For their sins, the Trenton Cops were walloped at Crescent Oval yesterday afternoon, and it was a bit of poetic justice that one of the few real cops on the Plainfield side put in the lick that won the game. For it was no unhandily balanced score, but an affair of close figures, and the biff that Cap Payne, the hero, handed to the ball in the ninth inning, was very much needed. The score was 8 to 7.

It was a rattling wind-up, and made the eighty-seven spectators think of big league contests. Some things happened before that which made the eighty-seven think of very small leagues — primary school leagues—but that finish was a corker. It climaxed a pretty uphill fight, and wiped out memories of lots of things that the cop ballists ought to be glad to have forgotten.

There were only four real Plainfield cops in the game. Cap Payne was at first, Art McGinley chased around short, Charley Flynn was in left and Bill Messler covered center. Bill got under the fly and muffed it, and two innings later he got mad at Charley for taking afly he felt positively certain he could have held. Bill didn't recover his poise of mind until he caught a left of his own, entirely unassisted.

Cap Payne had a fast team, but he had a lot of trouble getting pegged out right. He started Jim Scott in the box and took first base himself, with McCarthy in right. Then Lou Wiltse dropped down for a look-in and Payne hastily surrendered first cushion to leaguer. But did Jack blow out of the game? Nay, nay. He made a lordly motion at the right-fielder, and McCarthy called Faithful Florrie from the assiduity with which he practiced, was jerked to the bench and obscurity. Of such sudden and cutting disappointments are the lives of ballists fall.

After an inning of that arrangement, Cap Payne decided that Scott shoots were too fond of caressing Trenton bats, and the lordly arm again swept the humble pawns into new places. Lou went into the box, and Jack seized on his old cushion. Scatty, who was nursing a sore finger, went into the garden.

That was the stuff. Trenton had scored four runs by the time the second inning ended, and they had the habit and couldn't stop short, but after two in the third and one in the fourth, they continued to dwindle, and didn't hit the rubber again. Lou had it on them. In seven innings he fanned ten men, and hits were not indigenous to the vicinity of Trenton. Which served them right, because about three-quarters of the Trenton team have been going about under the impression that they are semi-professional ball players and not cops. The way Trenton padded the team was something shameful. Only three bona fide cops were in the line-up. Plainfield, before going into a game with only three cops, would hire a whole team; that's the sort of sports we are. But there were nine Trenton cops on the grounds. They showed up at the supper and made three-plate hits at every course.

After plugging the run factory of the visitors up, the home team spat on its hands and went at the Trenton Y. M. C. A. expert on the slab. It was a great hitting combination Cap Payne had, and when it really wanted to do things it did them. When the smoke of the overworked bats cleared five runs were added to the one Plainfield gained in the first.

In the ninth, finding score 7 to 6 against them, those swatters looked over the new pitcher and decided to annihilate him with one full swoop. With Brit Martin, trusty swattist, on second Taylor Mehaffey lifted his stick. "Will I bunt?" asked Taylor. "No; hit it out," said Lou. "All right," said Taylor, and banged the globule right in the eye for two laps. Mr. Martin loped in with the tieing run, amid scenes that included a fandango by Carrie Nation Higgins and apoplectic noises from Chief Kiely.

Then up steps Cap Payne, noble man, and abruptly ends the game with a smack that sends the ball over the second baseman's head. Mehaffey scooted in so fast with the winning tally it looked as if a bunt would have served the purpose.

The visitors were bountifully entertained at Henry Windham's summer garden after the game. A course dinner was served, and beer flowed where water feared to go. Wise men

CLARK WELCOMED HOME

Somerville Tenders Its First Citizen a Popular Banquet to Celebrate His Return.

HAS BEEN ABROPD

Mayor N. B. Smalley and David J. Carney, of the Borough, Numbered Among the Guests.

In honor of his home-coming after a few months' trip abroad, former Congressman Alvah A. Clark, of Somerville, was tendered a welcoming banquet by the merchants and citizens of the town last night. It was held in the County House and was one of the most enthusiastic gatherings Somerset's county seat has ever witnessed. The invitations had been limited because of lack of room but the clergy, the law, the merchant and the ordinary citizen were represented. Mayor Newton B. Smalley and David J. Carney attended from North Plainfield.

The first course of the dinner was served shortly after 8 o'clock and by that time the main dining room was crowded, making it necessary to use an adjacent one for the overflow. The blessing was pronounced by Rev. Dr. La Fevera, of Somerville. The menu was excellent and thoroughly enjoyed by the participants.

At its conclusion, Rev. Dr. Cramner, pastor of the First Reformed church, who was toastmaster, announced that he would call upon the guests indiscriminately for remarks, adding that lengthy addresses were not necessary. Among those who responded to his call were former Prosecutor James W. Griggs, Deputy Sheriff Anderson, Stewart A. Kenney, Louis Moore, Mayor Smalley, Major N. Y. Dungan, William Reusswig and D. J. Carney.

Mr. Clark was also called upon and gave a twenty minute address during which he told something of his travels in England, France, Germany, Switzerland and Egypt. While proceeding up the Nile in the latter country he met William Jennings Bryan and held a very pleasant conversation with the Nebraska statesman. Mr. Bryan outlined his views on the federal ownership of railroads and other matters and they discussed them at some length. Mr. Clark said he opposed Mr. Bryan's stand but admired him greatly as a man. He added also that he did not think Bryan would accept a re-nomination for the Presidency.

The arrangements for the dinner were made by a committee composed of Stewart A. Kenney, W. D. Nolan and Louis Moore.

WM. FREIDAY WEDS MISS M. A. PHILPOTT.

Ceremony Performed Last Night at the Home of the Bride's Father.

Miss Mary Aurelia Philpott, daughter of Werner Philpott, of Westervelt avenue, and William Freiday, of Somerset street, were married at 8 o'clock last night at the home of the bride's father, by Rev. George A. Warner, rector of the Holy Cross church. The bride was attended by her cousin, Miss Dentz, of Summit avenue, and the best man was Martin Waller, of Newark.

The home was elaborately decorated with cut flowers, palms and ferns, the arrangement in the dining-room being especially attractive. There were 100 guests at the wedding and reception which followed. The couple received a large collection of gifts from relatives and friends. The groom is employed in this city as a clerk and he and his bride will continue to reside in the borough.

Miss Harris Will Sing for Vets.

Miss Luella C. Harris, soprano soloist at the First Baptist church, and daughter of Col. Harris, who went out in command of Co. C, N. J. Vols., and who is now president of the regimental association, will assist in the musical numbers to be rendered at the reunion of the Fourteenth Regiment, being held today in Arcanum Hall, Elizabeth. Former Governor Foster M. Voorhees is expected to make an address.

Hylkema—Cruser.

Melle G. Hylkema, of Prospect avenue, and Miss Anna Isabelle Cruser, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Cruser, of Neshanic, were married at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the home of the bride's parents. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. Hart and was witnessed only by relatives. oFllowing a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Hylkema will make their home at 961 Arlington avenue, this city.

LUNGER FOR CONGRESS

North Plainfield Man Accepts the Prohibition Party's Endorsement.

IN THE 4TH DISTRICT

Saloon the Greatest Enemy of the Home and Greatest Curse on Nation, He Says.

William Lunger, of the borough, and Wilson Brown, of South Bound Brook, have been endorsed by the Prohibition party for Congressional and State Assembly nominations, respectively, for election from the Fourth district. Both are well known advocates of prohibition and for years have fought for the cause. In accepting the nomination, Mr. Lunger sent the following letter to those who had conferred the honor upon him:

"Delegates and Gentlemen of the Committee and Fellow Citizens:I I recognize in my nomination for the office of member of the House of Representatives of the United States, which comprises the Fourth congressional district, a distinguished honor, as it is by a party whose dominant issue is for the fighting and destruction of a business which is destroying the lives, the homes and the happiness of the American people, namely the legalized liquor traffic. The constitution of the United States was ordained for the protection of life, liberty and property. To insure equal privilages to all, to secure domestic peace, and make prosperity possible for all the people, is it not in direct conflict with the spirit and clearly stated purposes of the constitution to license a business that is in it very nature at war, and that contantly on the peace and prosperity of the country.

"A great English statesman recently said: 'England must throttle the liquor traffic or the liquor traffic will throttle England.' The same may truthfully be said of America. The new glory awaiting our nation under the ban of law is framed not in the interest of a class devoted to the tearing down of church, state, home, school and everything good, but in the interest of all that helps civilizaion. The nation is built on the home.. Whatever lowers the home lowers by that much lower the nation itself. The saloon is the greatest enemy of the working man's home, because it decreases his ability to earn, and wastes the evenings, which should go to the upbuilding of his home and family. Remove the barroom and the whole question of capitol and labor will be possible of adjustment, on principles helpful to all. The heaviest curse lying on our nation today is the licensed liquor traffic, which is simply a traffic in manhood and womanhood under national sanction. But there is a party in America which stands clean and aboveboard for righteousness, for conscience in politics, a party with no entanglements with the liquor business and which can afford to speak the truth without fear or favor. Every party is called into being as the exponent of some great principle. The one supreme idea becomes to it at once bone and sinew, inspiration and message. In this does it live, move and have its being.

"The Prohibition party is a party not only with a principle but with a great moral principle. It makes no plea for itself only for the recognition of the truth which gives it life. Party politics make it a necessity as the only practical appeal to the citizenship of the country, as the only hope for the recognition of its principles, as the American method for the solution of any problem it raises its banner and invites co-operation in the destruction of the criminal liquor traffic. It offers no honor except a position in the firing line, no royalty but that of a common service for humanity. With no room for the weak heart, scorning pity, disdaining compromise, it calls the citizenship of the country to the privilege of its manhood. The contest for prohibition is essentially a moral struggle, involving life and integrity, both of the individual and the State.

"The liquor traffic is criminal, not only the associate of crime or the source of crime but the very essence of crime. Its very manifestation militates against the highest ideals of life, liberty, law and love. Life it destroys, light it hates, liberty it degrades to license, law it disregards, and love it cannot know. And yet cursed of God and man it lives! Lives, yea, prospers and rules. Having purchased the legal right to existence. It dominates the political parties, disregards the laws, outrages all decency, and defies interference. In the face of these facts the Prohibition party contends that the liquor traffic being criminal should be dealt with as any other crime, namely by prohibition. That when the State for a money consideration legalizes

GAVE MISSIONARY TALK

Mrs. J. A. Chambliss Spoke on the Highlanders of the South.

TO BAPTIST WOMEN

Instructive Address Before Women's Home Missionary Society of the First Baptist Church.

A talk of much interest on the "Origin and History of the Highlanders of the South," was given by Mrs. J. A. Chambliss before the Women's Home Missionary Society of the First Baptist church, yesterday afternoon. At the outset she spoke of the differences in the nature of the people who settled in the Massachusetts colony and those who settled in the South. She said that the former were chiefly artisans, while the others were farmers coming from Scotland and England. They followed the work of tilling the soil and prospered in raising tobacco and cotton. After the Revolutionary War they were forced back to the mountains, where they found conditions to their liking and were successful in raising crops on the mountain sides.

Mr. Chambliss said that the first settlers were well educated, but they did not maintain any intercourse with the people of the lowlands. Their people married and re-married until the speaker declared that they today represent the purest strain and type of the Anglo-Saxon race. She predicted a bright future for the Highlanders as the young people are finding employment in the hundreds of cotton mills being located in that section of the south, the colored help being very unsatisfactory. In this way it is hoped that the younger people will be educated and become useful citizens. Mrs. Chambliss also told of the excellent work being done by the Baptist missionaries among the Highlanders. The talk was greatly appreciated by the large number of people present.

The meeting was opened with devotional exercises conducted by Miss May E. Howlett, and during the business session interesting letters were read from missionaries at the Oneida School in the mountains of Kentucky, which were greatly appreciated. It was also decided to send a barrel of clothing and useful articles to a missionary in North Dakota, as soon as his needs are ascertained. It was agreed not to postpone the next meeting of the society which falls on the same date of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society meeting of the East New Jersey Bautist Association, which will be held at Westfield.

CHARGES OFFICER WITH HAVING STRUCK HER

COLORED GIRL ACCUSES PATROLMAN WHEN ARRAIGNED IN CITY COURT.

Hattie Miner, a sixteen-year-old colored girl, was arraigned before Judge Runyon in the city court this morning on a charge of disorderly conduct preferred by Patrolman McKeon. Hattie acknowledged fighting with the officer, but charged him with having struck her first, and without provocation.

She claims the officer, who was in citizen's clothes, rode by her on a wheel at Front and Washington streets, dangerously close, and she made a protesting remark. He made a backward slap at her from the wheel, she alleges, and when she protested against that, sprang off the bicycle, seized her roughly by the arm and struck her. Then Hattie claims she started to defend herself. She says she didn't know it was an officer in whose hands she was. From all accounts Hattie put up a great fight, and a fuss of some proportions attended her progress to the station house.

Judge Runyon made no comment on the story, but suspended sentence. Chief Kiely took the girl's number. The charge against the officer having been made in court and not denied, Chief Kiely will probably bring the matter before the police board himself, without waiting for action by the girl.

Approaching Marriage.

Miss Isabelle Patterson, daughter of Mrs. Andrew Stuart Patterson, formerly of this city, but now of New York, will be married to Dr. Gregg Curtis Birdsall, of Washington, on Thursday afternoon, October 4, at 12:30 o'clock. The couple will be at home on Wednesdays in December at 1330 Massachusetts avenue, Washington. Miss Patterson is a sister of Stuart H. Patterson and Edward J. Patterson, of this city.

—S. Scheuer & Co.'s store will be closed all day Thursday, September 20th, on account of holiday. ***

BUXTON ANSWERS DEPEW

Explains That Common Council Deferred Water Scheme Vote to Save Expense.

NO "HOLD UP" BY HIM

Special Election Would Cost $1,000 and 2nd Could Be Served As Well At General Election As Decided.

Herbert Buxton, chairman of the public affairs committee of the Common Council, denies the insinuation made by R. Henry Depew, the Colbyites' candidate for mayor, that he has "held up" the resolution to allow the taxpayers to vote on a proposition for municipal control of the water supply. In short, he intimates that Mr. Depew is deceiving the public when he declares in his letter to the voters:

"For some time past one of the independent members of the Common Council has been endeavoring to have brought before the people, for an expression of opinion, the question as to whether they favor a thorough investigation of the subject with the end in view of the city acquiring its own supply and system. Prompt action upon this subject has been and is most important, as the longer it is delayed the more difficult it becomes, owing to the increasing value of the franchise. Despite this fact it seems to have been impossible to get it out of the hands of the committee, the chairman of which is a good and true member of the machine."

"The truth or the matter," said Mr. Buxton to a representative of The Daily Press today, "is that the Common Council by a vote of seven to four refused to pass a resolution calling for a special election on the water question. The majority of the members were of the opinion that they had no right to burden the city with an expense of $1,000 at that time for the purpose of a special election. No good end could be served by holding a special election when the proposition could be brought before the people at the general election in November. That's the view taken by the Common Council.

"You have to remember," continued Mr. Buxton, "that the water company has a contract with the city which will not expire for about six or seven years. Consequently the most of us thought we would not be in putting the city to an expense of $1,000 when the end could be served as well at the general election a few months distant. Another thing to remember is that we could not get hold of the water works unless we purchased the contract made with it by the city. In such an event we would have to pay the company an estimated amount on what profit it could reasonably make on the contract during the time it has yet to run.

"As I have said before, the Common Council decided to let the matter go over until the general election and it will come up at that time. I had already arranged for a meeting of the public affairs committee next week to consider the matter. At that meeting we will complete plans for bringing the proposition up at the November election."

The resolution to which Mr. Depew referred is one allowing the taxpayers to decide whether the Common Council shall appropriate a sum sufficient to permit of a full and complete investigation of the desirability and feasibility of public ownership of the water supply.

Hold-Up Man Gets Three Years.

Thomas F. Monahan, alias Joseph Collins, the youth who held up three young men at Leland avenue and the Central Railroad tracks a month ago, was sentenced to three years in State Prison this morning, by Judge Atwater. Monahan was captured by Patrolman Dobson the day of the crime, with the watch and rings he took from the young men on him, and had no defense to offer. He was an ex-convict, and, altogether, had nothing in his favor when he went before the court.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD

At the monthly meeting of Excelsior Hook and Ladder Company, held Monday night in the company rooms, resolutions of condolence were passed on the death of George R. Nicholl. The resolution was ordered spread upon the minutes of the meeting and a copy forwarded to the afflicted family. The deceased was peculiarly endeared to Excelsior Hook and Ladder Company, being one of its charter members as well as first foreman of the compiny. His untiring work during the first few years of the organization of the company soon placed Excelsior upon a successful footing and the company ranked with the best of the volunteer companies. His interest in the company continued until his last illness and the name of George R. Nicholl will always be cherished by Excelsior Company.

Another automobile accident was only averted Sunday afternoon at the corner of Park avenue and Front street by the cool headedness of one of the chauffeurs. Two automobiles tried to turn the corner at the same time. As the hotel shut out the view of Front street the chauffeur coming down the avenue could not see the machine coming up Front street. Both chauffeurs were going beyond the speed limit. The driver coming up Front street was quick to see the danger and without a moment's loss of time ran his machine upon the sidewalk in front of the postoffice.

The locals and Clinton Avenue team play at Crescent Oval Saturday afternoon. It is rumored that Manager Kriney intends to pad up for Saturday's game so as to make victory sure. SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The boat stolen from its moorings last June, taken up the stream, and kept off the lake for several months, was found by the owner, Mr. Rogers, who kept a sharp lookout for its appearance on the lake. After removal it was painted a different color, and some alterations made but Mr. Rogers recognized it immediately, where he found it securely locked, among the bushes in a secluded spot. He broke the lock and took the boat to his home and is now looking for the culprit.

TIME IS THE TEST.

The Testimony of Plainfield People Stands the Test.

The test of time is what tells the tale. The public soon find out when misrepresentations are made, and merit alone will stand the test of time.

Plainfield people appreciate merit, and many months ago local citizens publicly endorsed Doan's Kidney Pills; they do so still. Would a citizen make the statement which follows unless convinced that the article was just as represented? A cure that lasts is the kind that every sufferer from kidney ills is looking for.

Mrs. John Driscoll, of 217 Grant avenue, Plainfield, N. J., says: "Several years ago I made a statement for publication regarding the merits of Doan's Kidney Pills, and said statement still holds good in every particular. If I were to make a single change in it, it would only be to make it stronger, for during the past few years I have known many people to use Doan's Kidney Pills, and have yet to hear of a case in which the remedy failed to do the work it is claimed to do. My own case was a dull aching pain in the small of the back and in the sides. It clung to me incessantly and hard work seemed to increase it. I was subject also to hard backaches, and spells of dizziness when stooping. I was generally weak and depressed. I tried plasters and used many different remedies without finding relief, and being finally led to get a box of Doan's Kidney Pills at Randolph's pharmacy, began using the remedy, finding, at length, the relief I have described in the testimonial I gave for publication in 1898."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

PRIEST SCORES POLICE.

Very Rev. Dean Gessner, of St. Patrick's church, Elizabethport, went on the warpath again Sunday, and is now after the scalp of Judge Owen P. Mahon, who presides in Elizabeth's police court. The dean bitterly denounced the police magistrate because the latter discharged from custody five small boys who were arrested last week, charged by Dean Gessner with malicious mischief.

The lads pulled down a workmen's tent and destroyed some of the moulds being made for the new parish house. Dean Gessner declared the police did their duty when they arrested the offenders, who, he said, should have been sent to jail for a few days and given a sound flogging for their act, instead of being turned loose with a reprimand. He said that never again would he apply to Elizabeth's police court for any redress, as it was not properly conducted. Rev. Francis O'Neill, rector of St. Marry's Catholic church, has started a crusade against what he terms the disgusting and immoral lithographs with which he claims the local billboards in Elizabeth are decorated.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

The final song in the new college play "At Yale," in which Paul Gilmore is starring this season, is the old trumpet call to arms "Here's to good old Yale, drink it down." It has been sung by every Yale man since the year one and has no beginning. Said an old Yale man the other day in New York: "I cannot imagine how far back this song goes. My father is a Yale man and he sang it, and before him—well, we won't go any further, but it has been the war cry of the university for so long that its beginnings are lost in the obscurities of the founder's songs and they date back to more than two centuries ago." "At Yale" will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre tonight at which time and place the good old song will be sung by not only the trained octette on the stage, but, if the same enthusiasm develops here as has developed all along the line, it will be sung by the entire audience standing.

The well-known comedian, Arthur Dunn, will appear at the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow night in a new and entirely original musical comedy, by Herbert Hall Winslow, entitled "The Little Joker." Mr. Dunn, who is without a peer as a first class entertainer, will, in "The Little Joker," have a greater opportunity for the display of his many talents than ever before and it is safe to assert that in his coming appearance he will be seen at his best. The supporting company will be composed of well-known artists, who have been especially engaged for their adaptability to portray the parts for which they have been assigned. There will be a number of catchy, tuneful songs rendered by the entire company, and, with this fact in view, the management has secured a company who are vocally of the highest order.

May Irwin, comedienne extraordinary, comes to the New Plainfield theatre Friday night in a new play, called "Mrs. Wilson, That's All," written for her by George V. Hobart. The new vehicle in which she is to be seen is said to be more pretentious than the other plays in which she has appeared and to give her plenty of opportunity to display her talents at fun making. She will have a number of new songs to offer and will be supported by a first class company including among its members Adolph Jackson, John Hazzard, Ben Roth, C. Russell Sage, J. Early Hughes, Mardie K. Taylor, May Donohue, Lillian Dix, Madelon Irwin, Kate Gotthold, Tilley Monroe, Dorothy Baines, and Eleanor Kendall.

On Saturday night at the New Plainfield theatre, Paula Edwardes will be seen in her greatest success, "Princess Beggar," libretto by Edward Paulton, music by Alfred G. Bobyn. As its name and those of its author and composer show to discerning theatre-goers, it is not a list of vaudeville specialities, strung upon a flimsy thread of plot and disguised by showy dress in that modern nondescript thing called "musical comedy." It is a picturesque comedy opera, with a quaint story of action which holds keen interest from start to finish and a flow of irresistibly droll humor which never slackens. There's much in names. Paula Edwardes' suggests a reigning favorite of the Casino in its last big blaze of glory in comedies of music, as well as the brilliant charm and talent which made her a favorite in the late Augustin Daly's splendid musical productions. Paulton's also suggests the Casino. He was the author of delightful "Erminie," the greatest success which that theatre ever saw. With Bobyn's musicianly and mirthful music, he has created in "Princess Beggar" a remarkable vehicle for Paula Edwardes' remarkable personality and talents. Her petite personality, charming prettiness and droll humor have all free scope, while Charles Dillingham's name provides all the prestige and influence which can surround an artist with every accessory that trained artists can devise or money procure.

No assurance need be given by any one that local theatre-goers will enjoy to the fullest measure "The Ragged Messenger," which Creston Clarke will present at the New Plainfield theatre next Monday night. The hand of the master can be recognized in every portraiture that Mr. Clarke has given the stage. So subtly does he play upon the emotions of his audiences that one is carried along unconsciously through the evening, and often leaves the theatre without realizing fully what a splendid exhibition of acting he has been privileged to witness. It is the next day when the mind is allowed to dwell upon the performance in its minutiae that the greatness and sublimity of Mr. Clarke's art becomes apparent, and long afterward all the finer points remain clear and distinct in one's memory. The writer can recall, as if it were but yesterday instead of many months ago, the ineffable charm and majesty with which this superb actor clothed the highly fanciful character, "Monsieur Beaucaire." His every graceful gesture, rare poise, polished manner, intensely dramatic moment—all are remembered perfectly. In "The Ragged Messenger," Creston Clarke is said to reach heroic heights never before attained by him or any other actor upon the American stage today.

Frequent repetitions of Pixley and Luders' musical comedy, "The Prince of Pilsen," have not dulled the point of its humor nor lessened popular appreciation of its tuneful airs and poetic lyrics; hence its return to the New Plainfield theatre next Tuesday night reasonably may be expected to furnish the customary succession of pleased and enthusiastic audiences. It has much to commend it to popularity; a wealth of melody and harmony set to a story in which romance and humor play equal parts; it is clothed in a fitting garniture of scenic and costume adornment; its cast has been chosen to give best expression to the variant moods of its characters, and the work of its principals is supplemented by the efforts of chorus contingents in which excellent voices are allied to pleasing personalities.

One of the most important attractions of the season is to be seen at the New Plainfield theatre next Wednesday night, when Henry W. Savage will present "The Galloper," with Raymond Hitchcock in the leading role. The play is by Richard Harding Davis and deals with the experience of a number of Americans and war correspondents during the Graeco-Turkish war. The pictorial side of the comedy has been described by Walter Burridge and the background of the play lends itself to effective scenic treatment. Manager Savage has engaged a notable cast including Edgar L. Davenport, Herbert Corthelle, E. B. Tilton, Herbert Cawthorne, Philip Smalley, Alexander Kearney, Roland C. Gordon, Pauline Anthony, Caroline Hull, Susie Forrester-Cawthorne, Irene Gaunt and others.

E. B. Maynard, of North avenue, is recovering from an illness that has detained him at home.

WAS IT WORTH WHILE?

Does Mr. Depew believe that it would have been better to hold a special election on the water question in the spring when by allowing the matter to come up at the November election an expense of nearly $1,000 would be saved the city? Knowing that the present contract between the city and the water company has some years yet to run, the Common Council thought it better to wait a few months before asking the voters whether they would sanction an appropriation for an investigation of the proposition, especially when such a delay meant a good saving to the taxpayers.

BAN ON SMOKERS.

Although his sense of smell was not offended by the odors arising from the Packington meat canning plants, Chancellor James R. Day's olfactory nerves will not stand for tobacco smoke. To the student body of Syracuse University he has declared that "a young man who smokes is a fool, at least in that particular. He ought to take care of his nerves and present a cleaner exhibit of himself." Following out his ideas on the subject, the chancellor announces that no more free scholarships will be given to those who use the weed in any form.

BILL HALL'S NERVE.

From Cranford comes the word that William F. Hall, who served in the Legislature in 1902 and 1903, "announces himself as a candidate for Assembly on the regular Republican ticket, and will at once take the field." This is the same man that fought against the bill making it a crime to slaughter pigeons under the guise of sport. "Bill's" record in the Legislature is too well known to allow him a ghost of a show even for dog-catcher. He may take to the field now, but he'll take to the woods when the Republican convention gets at him.

PERSONAL.

Wings and Flies

By Tom Muir

James Forbes' new play, "The Chorus Lady," in which Rose Stahl is starring and which is playing to capacity audiences at the Savoy, has been booked to appear at the New Plainfield on Friday, October 19.

For the first time this season, there will be no matinee at the New Plainfield Saturday. The magnitude of "The Princess Beggar" and the arduous work required of the principals makes two performances a day an impossibility while the company is on the road.

If you want to enjoy a real laugh tomorrow, take in the baseball game, at Crescent Oval between Counihan's Colts and Arthur Dunn's Dodgers, recruited from the ranks of "The Little Joker" company. There will be more fun than can be had from a dozen copies of Pickings from Puck. And keep this under you're hat: Miss Bessie Franklin, acknowledged to be the prettiest girl in the cast of "The Little Joker," will throw the first ball over the plate and incidentally fling one of her sweetest smiles at the grandstand. All the other girlies will be there to root for Dunn and his supporting cast, so run out and help enthuse "Bill" and his bunch.

Miss Flora Juliet Bowley, who played the part of "Shirley Rossmore" in "The Lion and the Mouse," when it was seen here, has been taken from the cast and placed at the head o the New York company presenting the play. She succeeded Miss Grace Elliston.

In the part of Gerald McSweeney in "Mrs. Wilson, That's All," the new play in which May Irwin will star this season, John Hazzard is required to wear a make up which is an exact duplication of that assumed by the elder Sothern as Lord Dundreary. It has kept Mr. Hazzard busy for the past few weeks looking up old prints and photographs so that he will look precisely like the character that was so popular with theatre-goers of the last generation. Mr. Hazzard found the best picture of Sothern in the character of Lord Dundreary in a certain uptown New York restaurant generally frequented by actors, newspaper writers and men about town, and Miss Irwin's manager was quite surprised the other day when the comedian presented a bill for supplies which he said he was obliged to purchase in the place while studying the make up.

THE FORUM.

Machine Domination.

Editor, The Daily Press:

The newspaper reports stated that a prominent politician of Plainfield has not been heard from for some time and was probably lost amid the wilds of the Watchung Mountains. The reporter was sent out to find him accompanied as usual by his friend the colonel.

"Colonel," said the reporter, "do you really think Bill was a victim of machine domination?"

"Of course, I do," replied the colonel.

"There he is," shouted the reported.

A man was seen hiding among the trees. What was he doing? Actually making a coat of squirrel skins, having already made the trousers in which he was dressed. The reporter happened to take out his watch and the man yelled, "Take it away, it's a machine!" The whistle of a distant locomotive was heard and the man's eyes bulged and he shook from head to foot as he cried, "Did you hear that? That's another one of those screeching machines! An automobile appeared around the curve of the forest road and the man jumped up and down in fear of this new terror in the form of a machine. The man having quieted down said, "You machine minions! What do you want?" The reporter said, "We came to find you as the city is in great excitement about your disappearance."

"I shall not return," said the man, "because the people are dominated by the machine and all kinds of machines. The gas and electric light by which the town is lighted are generated by machine power and the trolley cars, too. The coal you use is hauled by machine power. The ice cream, and how I used to enjoy ice cream soda with the girls, is turned out in many cases by means of electric freezers. What is a still? Down in Kentucky where they make the stuff for which Plainfield charges $1,000 a year license to sell, they use a still and a still is a machine. You can't live without machine domination. What you eat and drink and wear and use are all machine, machine, machine and they are going to put a voting machine in my old district! I shall get away from the machine! I shall dress in skins and hides and if necessary go back to the primitive costume of Adam before I shall submit to machine domination!"

The reporter and the colonel turned sadly away. "Say, George," spoke the colonel, "that felow has got machine on the brain."

"Yes," answered the reporter, but the question is do not the machines of which he speaks do good work—and it is just so with the local political organization if it puts forth its best men and gives honest government.

CHARLES S. SMINCK.

Why Oppose Tyler?

September 18, 1906.

Editor, The Daily Press:

Perhaps through the medium of your paper I may secure an answer to a question which puzzles me, namely, why should Republicans be asked to nominate a new councilman in the Third ward in place of William S. Tyler?

The facts stated in the public press, and confirmed by those present at the Republican caucus held September 13, 1906, are that at the meeting the organization Republicans declined to nominate a new man in place of Mr. Tyler, and after that meeting, a few men got together at another meeting and nominated Mr. Shellabarger on an independent petition. Why do these few men feel that a change is necessary?

Surely no personal issue arises between Mr. Tyler and Mr. Shellabarger; both are good men, but Mr. Tyler has been tried and not found wanting, where as Mr. Shellabarger is untried.

For four years, now, Mr. Tyler has served the city in its Council, taking an active and energetic part in its deliberations and actions. Never, to my knowledge, has he worked or stood for anything but the cause of good clean government. Never, to my knowledge, has any motive of self interest actuated or been arrtibuted to him. Earnest and efficient in purpose, he has served faithfully and well. Why is it deemed necessary to attempt to prevent the continuance in office of a man like Mr. Tyler?

What guarantee have the voters of the Third ward that anybody would serve more efficiently or earnestly than Mr. Tyler? Or combat more successfully measures opposed to the public welfare?

What reason have its voters for believing that any one will be more stanch in his independence than Mr. Tyler?

Why change to an untried man in place of a man of experience?

Surely some reason actuated the ten men who voted with Mr. Fisk to suggest the retirement of Mr. Tyler. What was it?

As a voter of the Third ward, I am anxious to know why I should be asked to vote for such a change.

Yours very truly,
WILLIAM H. WHERRY.

The Lady Evelyn, by Max Pemberton.
The Man Between, by Amelia E. Barr.

The publishers' price for these books is $1.50. Our price 50c each.

The Dress Goods Dept.

One of the most important in this store. Styles and assortments equal to many New York stores and prices lower.

Panamas are now in great demand. We have them in 45, 50, 54 and 57 inch widths, in plain grays, blues, blacks and browns and also in the new invisible plaids at $1.00, $1.25 and $1.49 a yard.

New Chiffon Panama in black, $1.00, $1.25 a yard.

A new line of Taffeta Silks in all the newest colorings, at 59c a yard.

A splendid offering of 54 inch Suiting at $1.00 a yard; actual value $1.50.

A new line of Black Taffeta Silks, the best we've ever had, at 59c, 79c, 89c and $1.00 a yard.

The Sale of Couches

is still going on. You never had such a chance to buy a good couch for so little money.

Now Is the Time to Buy Carpets.

This is carpet buying time, and up on the second floor of this store, where the light is best, are to be seen vast quantities of new designs and patterns, all moderately priced, for your choosing. Positively the nicest and largest line of carpets and floor coverings we ever had the pleasure of showing you.

The new Rugs are beautiful. Wilton, Axminster, Brussels and Tapestry, in all styles and sizes, at surprisingly low prices.

A Carload of New Comfortables made in an absolutely sanitary factory. You'd hardly know them from the home-made kind. Silkaline covered, nicely tuffed, soft as down, filled with the finest Sea Island cotton, $1.25, $1.75, $1.98, $2.15, $2.25, $2.48, $2.98. Prices and styles to suit everybodys pocketbook.

Crib Comfortables at 98c and $1.35.

Jap-a-Lac.

The home beautifier. Revives old woodwork, furniture, floors, etc., by covering the mars and scratches, at the same time producing a brilliant and durable finish. Jap-a-Lac is a stain and varnish combined and comes in all colors and natural varnish. Put up in ¼ pint, ½ pint, 1 pint and 1 quart cans. It sells for 15c, 25c, 40c and 75c. UNION COUNTY ORPHAN'S COURT.

In Matter of the Application of Vincent W. Nash, Administrator of Amos Moffett, Deceased, For Sale of Land to Pay Debts. | Order to Show Cause.

Vincent W. Nash, administrator of Amos Moffett, deceased, having exhibited to this Court under oath, a just and true account of the personal estate and debts of said deceased, whereby it appears that the personal estate of said deceased is insufficient to pay his debts, and requested the aid of the Court in the premises: It is, on this twelfth day of September, nineteen hundred and six, ordered that all persons interested in the lands, tenements, and real estate of said Amos Moffett, deceased, appear before the Court, at the Court House, in the City of Elizabeth, on the fourteenth day of November next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause why so much of said lands, tenements, hereditaments, and real estate of the said Amos Moffett, deceased, should not be sold as will be sufficient to pay his debts, or the residue thereof, as the case may require. And it is further ordered, that this order be set up and published in one of the newspapers of this State, as by the statute directed.

By the Court,
GEORGE T. PARROT,
Surrogate.

the traffic it becomes a partner in the business. That when the individual citizen gives countenance to the license system, he becomes a party to the crime. That in so doing the State sells its God-given birthright to promote order and peace and the citizen compromises his manhood. That the integrity of the State demands the abolition of the license system and the absolute prohibition of the deadly traffic. That the integrity of the individual demands that he use to the same end every privilege of his citizenship even to his vote.

"The Prohibitionist is not a man with a grudge nor a religious enthusiast, nor a vague idealist, but a plain simple citizen, who proposes the redemption of his country and his country's honor. I have but few words to say here in reference to the distiller, the brewer or the drink seller. The public virtue was for sale, they bought it at its own price and paid for it in hard cash, bloody dimes wrung from the hands of folly, poverty and toil. Is it not the height of folly to hope or expect to cure the evils that flow from the drink traffic by selling it the right to exist. Be the license fee $1,000 or $10,000, license high or low, it is wrong in principle and powerless as a remedy to correct the evils. We might ask the advocates of high license, how high must a license be to make the saloon respectable, or just how high must it be to make it productive of good? Does high licensed whiskey restore happiness to the home, that low licensed whiskey destroyed? Will a blow given to a defenseless wife be less painful because administered by a husband drunk on high licensed whiskey? Does the sorrowing wife and her hungry children find relief in the amount paid for the license of the saloon that robs her? No; and I know, and you know and every intelligent citizen knows, and every political party knows that from the saloons of this country come degradation, misery, poverty, crime, shame and heartache, and the licensing of them or in any way giving them the protection of the law, ever has been, is now, and ever will be, a compromise with crime and a burning shame and a disgrace to our Christion civilization.

"Is the traffic in intoxicating drinks a paying institution financially? The annual cost of the drink traffic in this country is over $2,500,000,000, and the revenue received is in round numbers $170,000,000. This shows that for every dollar we receive we pay out fifteen. So it can be seen that we are not making money very fast. As a business transaction it has proved to be a failure. The consumption of intoxicating beverages is on the increase. Sixty years ago the consumption of intoxicating drinks was about six gallons per capitia annually. Statistics tell us that now under high license this so-called Christian nation of ours consumes over sixteen gallons of intoxicants for every man, woman and child each year, and out of this great army of drinkers we have 600,000 drunkards. 70,000 die from the effects of drink each year.

"In the face of these facts the loss of the millions of hard earned dollars, this great loss of life, when we call to mind the crimes that have been committed, the amount of suffering that has been endured by the innocent and helpless ones, as the result of the legalized drink traffic. If we have our country's welfare at heart we would ask the question: Is there not a remedy for all these evils? We answer there is a remedy, there is a cure. Not my moral suasion alone; not by license high or low; not by local option, nor by any other compromise or restrictive measure. All these methods have been tried over and over again, and have proven to be most disastrous failures. These are methods manufactured by men. In the face of these failures would it not be wise for us to adopt God's plan and method of dealing with evils. If we study the teachings of the New Testament, we will find these words: 'For this purpose the Son of God was manifested that He might destroy the works of the devil." Not to regulate but to destroy. His plans have never failed. So we, the National Prohibition party, have adopted His plan as the only remedy, the only cure from the evils that afflict manhind by the use of ardent spirits, namely, that of the prohibition of the manufacture, exportation, importation and sale of all intoxicating liquors as a beverage.

"As the policy of the Republican and Democratic parties is for license and regulation and are silent in their platforms ignoring this question altogether, and the one trying to outdo the other in making bids for the liquor vote, there is nothing to expect from them. But the Prohibition party believes this question to be the greatest now before the American people. Count men, money or morals, it involves more than any other question, and in the words of William Windon, late Secretary of the Treasury, we say that 'Considered socially, financially, politically or morally, the licensed liquor traffic is or ought to be the overwhelming issue in American politics. The destruction of this iniquity stands next on the world's calendar.'

"The doors of the Prohibition party swing open wide and welcome all who will help us in their great fight for the redemption of our country and in saving the countless millions of our race from the raavages of this deadly poison. We again ask your help and co-operation in this great conflict.

"Believing that this question of the prohibition of the drink traffic has been delayed far too long, and that the best interests of our country demand its settlement now, I accept the nomination as representative in Congress, thanking you for this expression of your confidence, I pledge myself to do my humble part in advancing the principles of the party as enunciated in its platform. And God helping me, I hope and expect to have a part in bringing to pass a complete and final victory.

"Yours for the Principles of Right,
"WM. LUNGER."

"Randolph's Quinine and Glycerine" Hair Tonic.

The proper treatment and care for the hair is very important. The tendency to baldness seems to be on the increase, but there is no need to be bald if you give your hair the proper attention and use "Randolph's Compound Quinine and Glycerine" Hair Tonic.

By imparting vitality to the roots of the hair, it stops it from falling out, irradicates dandruff, assures the continued growth and prevents baldness and final loss. It is richly perfumed and is an elegant dressing for the hair. Prepared either with or without oil—oil for dry hair and without oil for oily hair.

FOR THE GENTLER SEX

FANCY WORK FOR THE IDLE MOMENTS.

The woman who doesn't know how to embroider or knit can always busy herself if she wants just a bit of pick-up fancy work in making a bag. If she can embroider and do elaborate needlework, so much the better, for there is absoutely no end to the pretty bags that are seen nowadays, and that seem to be really essential to the comfort of the feminine contingent. There are opera and theatre bags, and bags for keeping the fan in. Little silk bags are used for hair receivers, and dainty lingerie bags for my lady's expensive French corset. Piece bags and mending bags are useful rather than ornamental, and so are rubber-lined sponge bags, and bags for the bathing suit, too. Since fashion has decreed that chatelaine and handbags are to be embroidered, much exquisite handwork is put on these small accessories, and then, of course, there is the faithful laundry bag that may boast of only side seams, a hem and a draw-string, or that may be a marvel of taste and handwork.

Parasol bags or cases are almost a necessity now that these articles are so elaborate. These are made of white lawn or cambric, cut in four sections, much like that of the parasol itself, except that at the narrow end they do not come to a point, but are about two inches in width. The sections are sewed together, then hemmed top and bottom, with tapes run through the hems. The parasol is dropped into the bag, the ends drawn up and the tapes tied, thus entirely covering the parasol and protecting it from dust. The cover may receive any amount of decoration in the way of handwork, though it is quite as useful when perfectly plain.

French underclothes have set the fashion for the wearing of plainer things, when plain can be translated as quiet elegance. Instead of underclothes loaded down with lace and insertion and embroidery, the tendency is constantly toward finer materials and more handwork. Now the chemise or corset cover of fine linen, with a dainty spray of flowers embroidered upon it, is far more desirable than if over-trimmed with frills of lace and rows of insertion; therefore the woman who is clever with her needle is to be envied, for it is not easy to do, and by no means inexpensive to have done. Nor is this handwork seen on garments ony. To possess a set of handkerchiefs of ones own embroidery is a fad of the moment, and the up-to-date girl lays in a supply of handkerchief linen and proceeds to make a set, embroidering her initial or a wreath in one corner and putting on them the daintiest of hemstitching.

EFFECTS OF PERFUMES.

The perfumes which are the most agreeable to the senses are not always the most helpful to the nerves.

Ambergris, for instance, is positively offensive to many, yet it is said so possess a wonderful power of clearing the brain and driving away the blues.

On the other hand, attar of roses, with the suggestion of glowing suns and gorgeous, Eastern odors, predisposes to tears.

A faint odor of musk acts as a tonic, for which the best antidote is the odor of sardalwood.

The fragrance of citron is as soothing to pervous people as the sound of far-off music.

The scent of orange flowers is so depressing to the action of the heart that it is not safe for anyone with disease of that organ to inhale it for any length of time.

Reviving perfumes come from herbaceous plants largely from the odors of mignonete, rosemary and lavender, and soothe the nerves.

The perfumes of lilacs, jasmine and acacia are pleasant and soothing to a healthy sense, though delicate nerves cannot enjoy them even in their garden freshness. Brought closer in clusters of blossoms, their odor is narcotic and depressing, so that persons grow faint at he smell of them, and may be put in a heavy slumber, as if drugged, by their odor.

GOOD TASTE IN PICTURE FRAMES.

For oil paintings use deep gold frames that bring out the quality of oil colors as no other frame can.

Keep the frames of photographs plain and simple. A narrow frame will bring out the brown tones of a carbon print, and the soft gray tints are suited by gray, black or a very thin gold frame.

Use wide mats in framing scenes, or else wide frames. It gives a better effect of distance.

Dark photographs, of Rembrandt's pictures, for instance, are thrown into strong relief by the right hand of a mat. Choose a Rembrandt mat, which shades from a light to a much deeper color.

Little classi cpictures in color look well in Neapolitan frames—carved frames covered with gold leaf.

For quiet little scenes flat, wide frames, oval or sqkuare, rustic in character, are the best.

Miniatures need the most careful selection for the frames. Delicate gold frames or gold mountings are necessary.

HEALTHY PLANTS

Require the Most Careful Attention as Well as Good Soil.

Did you ever see a rosebush which—despite the most beneficent environment of soil—of sunshine—and of atmosphere,—seemed never to achieve a healthy growth.

A ton of manure will not help a plant that has a canker eating out its heart.

You must destroy the cause before you can remove the effect.

You cannot cure Dandruff and Baldness by rubbing on hair lotions, and rubbing in vaseline, etc.

You must look to the cause of the trouble—it's a germ at the roots of your hair which causes it to fall out.

Newbro's Herpicide destroys the germ, and healthy hair is the sure result.

Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

LITERARY.

The new editors of The American Magazine have done well with their first number, the October issue. They have made their periodical interesting and significant; they have given it life and strength. One of the important contributions to the October number is an article on "The Power of the Press" by "Mr. Dooley." There are references to Grover Cleveland, Bryan, Roosevelt, Miss Tarbell, Lincoln Steffens, Ray Stannard Baker and others that make lively reading. The cartoons add to the gaiety of the magazine. William Allen White preaches a great sermon in his article on "The Partnership of Society." It is the brilliant Kansas novelist and essayist at his best. There is an editorial announcement of the plans of the new editors, and there are new portraits of the chief editorial associates and contributors. There is the first hint of a new serial, "Adventures in Contentment," soon to begin in The American Magazine. Samuel Hopkins Adams and Stewart Edward White proceed with their serial "The Mystery." Aside from Lincoln Steffens' short story there are stories by Edith Barnard, Caspar Day, May McHenry, Edwin Balmer, Maude L. Radford, and S. J. Rath. The poets are William Aspenwall Bradley and Arthur Stringer.

An interesting question is raised and answered by a writer on "A Lost Silver Mine," in the October Appleton's. He says: "How do the aborigines know their way through the country as well as the wild beasts that inhabit it? How do the natives know the way as well as the aborigines? How do explorers and travelers from without find the passes and fords of the rivers and creeks and easiest passages of the deep waters? How do they get hrough the forest and avoid the labyrinths and deadly tangles of underbrush?" Then he answers hi sown questions: "The answer is quite simple. Instinct moves the beasts on the shortest and easiest course compatible with their needs of existence. The Indian follows the trail of the animal. The native white man follows the trail of the Indian or bears close to it. Everybody follows a trail. Why did Boone pass into Kentucky through Cumberland Gap? How did he know that, bearing to the south from his North Carolina home, he would find a pass through the mountain? Because great herds of buffalo had passed through there and Indians in quest of them. Boone followed a trail, though later on he blazed one of his own for his wagons and first settlers."—Appleton's for October.

The October issue of The Metropolitan Magazine is a strong fall number, in which the best fiction and important, timely articles are well balanced. Perhaps its most interesting feature is the symposium of papers on the future of life insurance, argued from the facts as they really exist. Mr. Paul Morton and Mr. Charles A. Peabody each contribute sane discussions on the situation. These articles should be carefully read by every one who is interested either directly or indirectly in the preservation along sound, safe lines of this great American institution of life insurance. Anthony Hope leads the fiction with a dashing, clever, sentimental story, "Prudence and the Bishop." One of the most sympathetic magazine articles of the month is "The Pond," by Sydney Allen, which gives the effect of the country in early fall on the man who turns to it for rest from the rush and crowd of the city. This article is wonderfully illustrated with landscape photographs.

Stories of newspaper life that have made any lasting impression are few. One that will be certain to be remembered opens the October number of The Smart Set. William R. Lighton is the author, and he has chosen the appropriate title of "The Rules of the Game." The great human note in the story will make a strong appeal to every reader, and the clever way in which the plot is manipulated will win admiration. For the many short stories in this issue we have only praise. The Smart Set's fiction is always notably refreshing—nothing antiquated seems to be permitted in its pages. James Hopper, who has become so well and favorably known through his Philippine stories, contributes to this number a remarkably fine tale, entitled "A Jest of Fate." There is wonderful pathos in this story, which is relieved at the end by a delicious touch of humor. Owen Kildare is represented by one of his amusing sketches, entitled "Queer People;" and Edna Kenton tells, as she always does, an interesting story, "The Eternal Masculine." William Hamilton Osborne reveals great insight into human nature in his story of the Sussex, New Jersey, evangelists, entitled "The Anxious Seat;" and there is a play, remarkably striking and original, by May Harris, called "The Open Door."

Mr. Cleveland May Come.

Jersey City, Sept. 19.—Members of the Delaware Club are hourly expecting a reply to the invitation sent to former President Grover Cleveland by Colonel E. A. Stevens to preside at the demonstration to be given in the interest of the Senatorial boom for Colonel Stevens at Grand View Park next Friday. The colonel and Mr. Cleveland are close friends. Should Mr. Cleveland decline the invitation, some Democrat of national reputation will be asked.

Lavender Creighton's Lovers

By OLIVIA B. STROHM.

(Copyright, 1905, by Olivia B. Strohm).

Winslow laughed. "A sorry hero, Mr. Creighton; no gentleman but would gladly have been of service to your sister, and as to saving the life of Col. Boone—well, sir, anybody who cannot hit an Indian at 20 paces is a wretched shot."

But Gerald insisted: "You are too modest; it is well that your friends know your value, even though—like me, they are slow in learning it," he added with a blush, continuing hastily: "On my sister's behalf I thank you; on my own, I apologize."

"I can readily understand your prejudice, Mr. Creightton. I was certainly in a compromising position—your indignation toward me was, perhaps, well founded; you knew me slightly, you had no especial reason to trust me. But, sir—" and his voice hardened, and his eyes flashed, "for the suspicion of your sister you will pardon me if I have small charity."

Gerald accepted the repuke with surprising meekness. "I am ashamed of it," he said, "and have already asked her forgiveness."

Then he added with a touch of brotherly pride: "Lavvy is unlike the rest of her sex, in that a man can humble himself to her without having to grovel on his marrow bones."

Quick came the lover's added tribute: "Because she is generous—she is gracious."

But the fraternal enthusiasm already spent, Gerald seemed not to hear, but hurriedly began his thanks to Winslow for the surprise given him that morning in the offer of the position as teacher.

"You see," he said, blushing, "while we have every reason to suppose that Susan's land will prove as rich as yours, I—I don't care to depend upon that," and he gave a manly shake of his handsome head.

And then there was a pause while Gerald nerved himself to speak still further. Absently he tore the tiny spikes of green from a sword fern. When he had thrown the stem aside—an officer degraded—he said: "There is another matter of which I have long wished to speak; it is of my regret that your trouble in the forest when—when Jabez Miller was killed, was all brought about by a mistake for which I was primarily to blame. For I must say in justice to the old man, that he thought he was attacking me."

To Gerald's astonishment, Winslow seemed in no way surprised, but asked, coldly: "But why does this justify the old man—to imagine himself attacking you?"

Gerald colored and bit his lip. "It does not, in fact. I am only making allowance for drunken fancies. This explanation, sir," he added, curtly, for Winslow's attitude neetled him, "is given only because I wish you to know that I am very sorrow that you have suffered on my account."

Then the reproach which had so long hovered on Winslow's tongue found utterance. "Of the physical suffering, Mr. Creighton, I make small account; it is over, thank God, and the knife found no deeper lodgment in my flesh than yours would have afforded. No, I do not harbor that against you, but there is another—a scar that will ever abide with me a scar that is written—not on my shoulder which this camlet hides—but on my forehead, forever branding me in the eyes of the woman I love. It is that—that deeper mark I wear for your sake, which I find it hard to pardon."

All the pent-up indignation of weeks found vent in the words.

Gerald listened in open wonder, then demanded promptly: "You may as well talk to the open air, sir, as expect me to follow your railing. I am absolutely guiltless of any harm to you other than the bodily injury for which I have apologized. 'Brand?' 'Scar?' Ah, sir, I'm afraid you have been absorbing some of the rhetoric of the day," he concluded, between a laugh and a sneer.

Winslow fixed upon him for a moment a glance of proud disgust. But as Gerald's gaze met his own unflinching, the look gradually changed to incredulity.

At last he said: "Then you do not know that they think—that she, your sister, thinks that I killed that poor old man?"

"They certainly think so, and why not? It seems no serious matter to anybody. An assassin springing at you in the dark; why should you be ashamed of having given blow for blow?"

Winslow answered, speaking low and scornfully: "I am amazed, Mr. Creighton, that you continue this farce. Let us have done with it. As man to man why not acknowledge that you struck the blow?"

Gerald retreated, deathly pale. Then his lips, purple with rage, opened but slightly as he stammered: "I—struck what blow?"

Then, as the full force of Winslow's suspicion dawned upon him, he staggered to a seat on a fallen tree. "You thought I killed Sue's father? And she thought so? Thinks so still? Good God!" And he covered his face with his hands.

In the long pause that followed neither heard the rustle of grass near nor saw the two figures hovering on the outskirts of the grove.

Charles was the first to speak. "I am to understand, then, that you did not—"

Gerald sprang to his feet. "I did not. By what right am I accused? The old man was dead when I reached the spot; you were unconscious; what more natural than that I should think he died by your hand?"

"Perfectly natural, but a mistake, nevertheless. Then, since to neither of us belongs the guilt, let us think the death was heaven's own vengeance; for as we were the only men there we are not—" But he started as the sentence left his lips.

UNION COUNTY ORPHANS' COURT.

ADMINISTRATOR'S SALE.

In the matter of the insolvent Estate of Francis S. Runyon, Deceased. | Order for sale of land.

By virtue of an order entered in the above stated matter on the twenty-fifth day of March, A. D. 1903, I shall sell at public vendue, at the Hotel Iroquois, corner of Park avenue and East Second street, in the City of Plainfield, N. J., on Tuesday, the sixteenth day of October, A. D. 1906, at two o'clock in the afternoon, all those two certain tracts or parcels of land and premises, hereinafter particularly described, situate, lying and being in the City of Plainfield, in the County of Union and State of New Jersey.

The first tract beginning at a point in the northeasterly side of Westervelt avenue, being a corner of a lot of land conveyed by Francis S. Runyon to John B. Mills, by deed dated May 11, 1894, recorded in Book 277 of Deeds, page 212, etc.; thence running northeasterly along line of that lot one hundred (100) feet to line of land formerly Harriott's; thence northwesterly along that line forty-five and thirty-four one-hundredths (45.34) feet to a point for a corner of a lot of land formerly owned by said Runyon and Mills; thence southwesterly along line of that lot, one hundred (100) feet to the northeasterly side of Westervelt avenue; thence southeasterly along said northeasterly side of Westervelt avenue forty-five (45) feet and six (6) inches to the place of beginning. Together with the land in front of the same to the middle of Westervelt avenue, to be used as a public street. Being same premises described in a deed from John B. Mills and wife to said Francis S. Runyon, dated May 11, 1894, recorded in Book 277 of Deeds, page 216, etc.

The second tract beginning at a point where the centre line of South avenue is intersected by the centre line of Leland avenue; thence southwesterly along the centre line of South avenue two hundred and thirty-three (233) feet to a corner of lands of Charles L. Stanley, formerly Mary E. Childs'; thence southeasterly along said Stanley's line two hundred and thirty-three (233) feet to his corner in line of Charles Hyde's land, formerly; thence northeasterly along line of said Hyde, formerly, two hundred and thirty-three (233) feet to a point in the middle of Leland avenue; thence northwesterly along the middle of Leland avenue two hundred and thirty-three (233) feet to the place of beginning. Being part of same premises conveyed to said Francis S. Runyon by deed of Simeon Tingue and wife, dated August 1, 1874, recorded in Book 93 of Deeds, on page 228, etc.

Together with the appurtenances thereunto belonging, or in any wise appertaining.

Dated, September 8th, 1906.

DIAMOND DUST.

"Phil." Smith pitched for Garwood A. C. against New Brunswick at New Brunswick, on Saturday, and the home team won by a score of 5 to 4. The Plainfield boy was not responsible for the defeat, however, as he struck out eleven batsmen and allowed but six hits. Poor stick work on the part of his team mates and a lack of sharp playing lost the contest.

The present prospects for a fine baseball team at the Plainfield High School this year are excellent. Several of the best players of last year's team have returned for a post-graduate course, and some new material has come in that will be valuable.

"Lou" Wiltse will pitch for the West Ends, of Somerville, against Flemington, at the latter place on Saturday, and the Somerset county boys are sure of victory. They feel pretty sore over last Saturday's defeat, especially those who dropped some good money. It was a mistake to use Kraft in the box in a game of such importance, when Somerville was especially anxious to win. Besides in many respects Somerville played a decidedly amateurish game, nowhere near its usual standard.

"Lou" Wiltse has entirely recovered the use of his pitching arm and is in championship condition again. Unless he makes other arrangements he will return to Johnstown, of the Tri-State League, next season and if he does good news will be heard from him. Wiltse has not yet entirely given up the hope of getting into one of the big leagues and it is possible that he may succeed before the season opens next year. He would be a valuable addition to any of the clubs in either major league.

George Allen, the well-known catcher and first baseman from Scotch Plains, has been playing with the Garwood A. C. during the past few weeks and putting up a strong game. Allen is a good all-around player and should have no trouble in landing a berth.

Joe Weaner, formerly of Garwood, but now with the Flemingtons, will be married today at Somerville, and his team mates have planned to give him a good send-off. Joe is very popular with Flemington fans. The West Ends could have had him for $10 per and expenses earlier in the season.

George Bolsterle, formerly of this city, but now of Rutgers, where he is preparing for the ministry, was a valuable member of the team at that place last season. George was at one time considered one of the strongest players in the city amateur league.

GOLF.

The executive committee of the Eastern Professional Golfers' Association met in New York Monday afternoon and elected the following new members: John Hagen, Canoe Brook Country Club; Will C. Gaudin, Poughkeepsie, N. Y.; Tom Wells, VanCortlandt Park; Ben. Nicholls, New York Golf Club; John Inglis, Larchmont Yacht Club; Tom Clark, Wilmington Golf Club. The "pros" discussed the open championship question in an informal way. They realize that several clubs in the East are willing to offer their links for the championship. But from the trend of opinion expressed it is quite clear that the $300 offer of the Forest Hill Field Club is the most fancied. Other courses that have been mentioned are those at VanCortlandt Park, Apawamis and the Country Club, of Brookline.

The Huntingdon Valley Country Club, near Philadelphia, has a clean record in the series of inter-club team matches of the Philadelphia Golf Association. The second team of the same club also finished well up in the race.

The usual Southern entry is promised for the annual tournament to be held on the links of the Wilmington Golf Club, September 27, 28 and 29. Dr. Lee L. Harban, of Washington, a former winner, will be among the contestants.

The presence of Howard Wright here recalls the time when he was an important factor in the big events at the Plainfield Country Club. Wright was one of the best players in the club and he frequently won high honors. He has long since given up the game and never visits a golf course nowadays.

Among the local golfers who have been playing a strong, steady game this season is Arthur Murphy, of the Plainfield Country Club. Not only in driving, but in approaching and putting he plays equally well. He now holds fourth position for the Golf Committee cup, weekly competition.

"Marty" O'Loughlin is putting in some fine practice these days for the open championship tournament next week and his friends are predicting that he will make a good showing in the large field that is sure to be out.

Edward O'Loughlin, a brother of "Marty," the "pro" at the Plainfield Country Club, has taken a fancy to the game of golf and bids fair to make a good player with steady practice.

GOLF CLUB STANDING.

Mr. Stover Leads for Country Club Committee Trophy.

Although there is a strong rivalry in the weekly competition for the Golf Committee cup at the Plainfield Country Club, Charles A. Stover still holds the lead with 10¾ points, while Dudley H. Barrows is second with 9½ and Robert Abbott is third with 9 points. The next nearest competitor is Arthur Murphy who has 8½ points. However, there is likely to be some changes in the standing before the end of the season. The standing for the cup up to and including last Saturday's play is as follows:

C. A. Stover, 10¾; D. H. Barrows, 9½; R. Abbott, 9; Arthur Murphy, 8½; E. A. Stevenson, 8; H. W. Beebe, 8; S. H. Patterson, 7½; F. C. Talmadge, 6½; W. D. Riggs, 6½; E. J. Patterson, 6; G. F. Schoonmaker, 6; F. O. Reinhart, 5½; L. A. Chase, 4½; H. D. Hibbard, 4½; C. B. Morgan, 4½; E. B. Shoemaker, 4; W. B. Tyler, 3½; T. E. Stockton, 3½; E. E. Iremonger, 3; C. F. Abbott, 3; C. A. Reed, 3; Arthur Peck, 2; H. S. Rogers, 2; J. A. Hutchinson, 2; George E. Cathcart, 2; W. L. Glenney, 1½; Alex. Gilbert, 1½; J. P. Murray, 1½; J. E. Erickson, 1½; M. J. Dumont, 1½; J. A. Lane, 1; E. T. Willson, ¾; L. L. Tweedy, ¾; D. W. Taylor, ½; W. P. Boggs, ½.

COUNIHAN'S COLTS READY FOR DUNN'S DODGERS.

The Theatrical Baseball Teams Will Clash on Crescent Oval Tomorrow.

There have been all sorts of baseball games, good, bad and otherwise, played on Crescent Oval this season, but it is doubtful if any of them will equal the one scheduled for tomorrow. The contestants will be "Bill" Counihan's Colts, recruited from the employees and attendants of the New Plainfield theatre, and Arthur Dunn's Dodgers, made up from members of "The Little Joker" company, which appears here tomorrow night. Mayor N. B. Smalley will umpire and from the interest manifested there will be a big crowd of rooters on hand.

Dunn's team has been winning all along the line and Manager Counihan has determined to hand him a defeat.

The dramatis personae of the two teams will be as follows: Colts—Taylor Mehaffey, p; Mullen, c; Counihan, lf; Cunningham, cf; Voehl, rf; DeMeza, 3b; Woolston, 1b; Hoyt, 2b; Payne, ss; C. Flynn, reserve. Dodgers—Arthur Dunn, 2b; Frank Buckley, ss; Harry Burgess, 3b; C. P. Williams, 1b; John Wheeler, p; Henry Leone, c; Oliver Holden, lf; Gus P. Thomas, cf; Luke Wells, rf; Barney Reilley, reserve.

The contestants will leave the theatre at 3 o'clock and will proceed to the grounds by trolley.

N. P. H. S. A. A. ORGANIZES.

Elects Officers and Makes Plans for the Coming Season.

The North Plainfield High School Athletic Association met Monday night and reorganized for the coming season. The following officers were elected: President, Leslie Powlison; vice president, Malcolm Van Arsdale; secretary, Harry Smith; treasurer, Tone Overton.

Plans for the fall and winter were discussed and a tentative football team was selected to begin practice at once. Malcolm Van Arsdale will be captain and Harry Smith manager. Challenges have been received from teams at Somerville, Flemington and other places and they will be accepted.

During the winter the association will foster basketball and other intermural sports.

Alis Preparing for Football.

Percy Phillips, last year's captain, was re-elected to that position for the coming year at a meeting of the old Alis football team at the Y. M. C. A., last night, and George Bentley was re-elected manager. The candidates will turn out for their first practice on Thursday night at the captain's residence on Madison avenue. The team considers itself fortunate in securing the grounds at Arlington avenue and Randolph road, which have been named Alis Common and has granted the Plainfield High School the privilege of using the grounds through the week and on Saturday mornings.

Krom Works Quiet.

The hearing on the application of the Krom Machine Works for an injunction restraining the alleged pickets of the striking machinists was postponed yesterday by the Court of Chancery. Counsel for the Works was unprepared to submit certain necessary affidavits. The situation at the shop remains the same. The force of strikebreakers is working steadily, and the arrangements for housing and feeding the new men are proving very satisfactory.

Sudden Death of a Child.

Mr. and Mrs. William Schorb's three-months-old daughter died very suddenly this morning from collapse, which is an unusual trouble among infants. The child was taken very suddenly and Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan, who was passing at the time, was called in. Despite his best endeavors the child did not respond to treatment and died within a few minutes.

JERSEY CENTRAL MADE $23,101,089 IN YEAR

NET EARNINGS OF THE ROAD WERE $10,321,222.

The annual report of the Central Railroad of New Jersey for the year ended June 30 shows gross earnings of $23,101,089, compared with $21,676,536 last year, an increase of $1,424,552. At the same time operating expenses increased $833,104, to $12,779,866, leaving net earnings of $10,321,222, a gain over 1905 of $591,448.

Renewals, improvements, and the equipment depreciation fund absorbed $2,673,789, against $2,697,701 devoted to these purposes last year, but the addition of a fund for renewals and improvements to this account, to which $700,000 was charged, brought the net earnings from operation down to $6,947,424, compared with $7,032,072 in 1905.

An increase of $31,999 in income from investments brings the total of this account up to $1,151,197.

UNION COUNTY W. C. T. U. MEETS AT WESTFIELD TODAY.

Interesting Programme for Twenty-Second Annual Convention.

The twenty-second annual convention of the Union County W. C. T. U., is being held in the Presbyterian church, Westfield, today, and the local union is represented by a large delegation. The convention opened this morning with Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson, of this city, county president, in the chair. The programme opened with the crusade psalm and hymn and prayer by Miss Julia A. Barker, of Rahway.

Following the appointment of committees, Miss Emma L. Starr extended the greeting from the Union and Rev. W. I. Stearns, pastor of the Presbyterian church, gave the address of welcome on behalf of the church, the response being by Mrs. B. F. Carpenter, of Roselle Park. A feature of the morning was the president's address, in which she reviewed in an interesting way the success of the county association during the past year and offering encouragement for the future. Then followed the annual reports of the corresponding secretary and treasurer and the credenital committee, adjournment was taken for lunch. The convention will hold a session this afternoon and tonight. A feature of the evening session will be an address by Rev. Florence Randolph, of Jersey City, the subject being "The Need of the Hour." This afternoon there will be reports from all the various departments of the Union.

COLBY TO FACTORY MEN.

"New Idea" Leader Talks to Singer Employees.

The leaders in the "new idea" movement at noon yesterday addressed several thousand Singer Sewing Machine Company employees at Elizabeth from a builder's wagon which was drawn up in front of the big plant. Senator Colby got an ovation when he rose to speak. His remarks were on similar lines to those he has made in other places, and the principal points he took were much the same as he made in his former address in that city. He told of his efforts to get legislation enacted in Trenton in the interests of the people, and how he was continually fought by the corporations and the trusts and their agents, the paid lobbyists, who did all in their power to kill measures introduced in the interests of the public.

The Senator finished his address with a powerful and stirring appeal to the voters of Union county to attend the primaries September 25 if they wished to strike a blow at the legislative evils and official corruption from which the people of the State are suffering.

He was followed by Judge William N. Runyon who talked in a similar strain. The last speaker was Benj. J. Flechause, of Summit, who, like Runyon, is a candidate for Assembly on the Colbyite ticket.

Liquor Dealers Meet in Elizabeth.

The executive committee, of the New Jersey State Liquor Dealers' Association, will meet in Elizabeth, this afternoon, preceding the annual meeting of the association which will meet in that city tomorrow. The business meeting tomorrow will be held in Saenger Hall, where officers will be elected. George T. Carroll, of Elizabeth, is considered the most likely candidate for president. There will also be a parade during the day and in the evening there will be a banquet in Turn Hall at which there will addresses by several men of prominence in the State.

Miss Uhrhahn Entertains.

Miss Matilda Uhrhahn entertained about twenty friends at her home in Regent street, North Plainfield, last night, in honor of the nineteenth anniversary of her birthday. The evening was pleasantly passed in playing all kinds of games and a feature was piano solos by Miss Miriam Hall. The house was decorated with flowers and Japanese and Chinese lanterns were used with good effect to illuminate the porch. At a late hour supper was served. Miss Uhrhahn received a great many handsome gifts.

CLOSED PORTALS.

The initiatory team of Miantonomo Tribe, No. 118, Improved Order Red Men, conferred the warriors' degree upon two candidates last night.

George B. Allen and S. H. Allen, of Martha Washington Council, Daughters of America, attended the annual State convention of the order held in Trenton, yesterday. They were delegates from Martha Washington Council.

There will be initiation at the meeting of Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., tomorrow night. The quoit play will also be continued. Later in the season a tournament will be arranged among the members of the various councils.

PRIMARY DAY IS REGISTRATION DAY.

In Cities, Less Than 30,000, Says County Counsel Munn, of Essex.

Asked for an opinion as to whether primary day, September 25, is a day of registration in towns of 30,000 or less, County Counsel Joseph L. Munn, of Essex, submitted the following in writing:

"I am unofficially informed that opinions have been expressed favoring opposite views on this question, but my own conclusion in the premises is based upon the distinct provisions of section 14 of the primary law, numbered as section 269 of the general act to regulate elections, which section was not disturbed by the legislation of 1906, unless by implication should govern, if it exists.

"This section is so clear as to the right of a legal voter, and the duties of the district boards of registry and election, that I am convinced that on the primary day, September 25, any person legally qualified to vote at the general election may and must be registered during the hours of the primary election, if he apply in person to be placed upon the registry, during those hours, in any district in the county in which he has a legal residence."

LARGE ENROLLMENT AT MISS HARTRIDGE'S SCHOOL.

Private Institution Reopened Today Under Favorable Circumstances.

With the largest enrollment in its history, Miss Hartridge's School reopened today for the fall and winter terms. The enrollment is as large as when the school closed last June and several additional pupils are expected. While the number of pupils is large, Miss Hartridge does not permit over-crowding of the grades, a limit being placed on each one. In this way the good work of the school can be continued. The pupils took up the regular schedule of work today.

There is one new teacher added to the faculty this year, Miss Parsons, of this city, being engaged as an assistant to Miss Burt, the head kindergartner. All of the other teachers have returned to continue their work, and Miss Hartridge is especially gratified with the prospects for the coming year.

Who's Seen Clarence?

Clarence Emmonds, one of our town boys, is certainly making an impression in Plainfield as a carpenter. The carpenter trade seems to be a talent that comes naturally to Clarence. We wish him all the good luck in the world, but only regret that he is too busy to work up some contracts here. What we need is more dwelling-houses, at a proper rental. Clarence, this is a fact, and worth looking after.—Lebanon correspondence of Clinton Democrat.

Plainfield Clinical Meets.

The Plainfield Clinical Society, composed of members of the staff at Muhlenberg Hospital, held its quarterly meeting at the Casino, last night, and was the guest of Dr. Norman H. Probasco at dinner, afterwards. During the evening a paper was presented by Dr. Hanna, of Montclair, a guest of the society.

Rev. J. B. Oakley, of Elizabeth, and a number of girls from the Elizabeth Rescue Mission, will be at the Grove Street Rescue Mission Thursday evening. There will be speaking and singing. All are cordially invited.

Mrs. Agnes Jackson, of Somerset street, mother of Stonewall Jackson, is recovering from a sereve illness.

Henry C. Perkins, Hannen Jennings and Gardiner Williams, three wealthy Californians, who made most of their money in South Africa, will build magnificent homes in Washington this winter.

30TH REGT. VETS REUNION

Mayor Buckle Welcomes the Old Soldiers at Annual Meeting.

MARTINE THE ORATOR

Officers Are Elected and Dinner Is Served—The Plainfield Members.

The annual reunion of the 30th Regiment, N. J. Vols., is being held in the rooms of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., on East Front street, today, with a large number of veterans present from the various companies of the regiment. As near as can be ascertained there are about 150 members of the regiment still living and a majority are here today.

The meeting was called to order by Captain James D. VanDerveer, of North Branch, and after a few words, Mayor James F. Buckle was introduced and he made the address of welcome to the veterans, giving them the freedom of the city. Nelson Runyon, of this city, vice-president of the association, made the response, after which the address of the morning was delivered by James E. Martine.

Mr. Martine recounted the scenes and stirring incidents of the Civil War, especially the part taken by the 30th Regiment, and he praised the great work of the soldiers in their fight for the preservation of the country at a time when it was threatened with destruction. Mr. Martine was enthusiastically received by the veterans and his remarks were greatly enjoyed by every one.

During the business session all the officers were re-elected, it being a rule to keep the officers in their several positions as long as they live. It will be remembered that the late Captain J. Frank Hubbard was president of the association for many years up to the time of death.

Upon adjournment the veterans and their friends went to E. H. Cleveley's restaurant on North avenue, where dinner was served under the direction of a committee composed of David R. Weaver, of Plainfield; Nathan Compton, of Rahway, and Christopher Eni, of Somerville.

The various companies composing the 30th Regiment were organized in 1861, Company H being mustered into service in Plainfield, with the late J. Frank Hubbard as captain. It was a nine months' regiment and practically all of its services were performed at Fredericksburg and Chancellorsville.

The Plainfield members of the regiment who are attending the re-union today include Hugh Powlison, John Stryker, David R. Weaver, Peter V. Weaver, Co. A; Charles H. Randolph, Nelson Runyon, Theodore Runyon, J. L. Mundy, Randolph Thorn, Nathan B. Compton, C. B. Rogers, Co. H.

MISS LENA CARKHUFF NOW MRS. HARRY L. KEEN.

Home Ceremony Unites Well Known Local Young Couple.

In the presence of a gathering of relatives and friends, Harry L. Keen, of Sycamore street, and Miss Lena Carkhuff were married yesterday afternoon at the home of the bride's aunt, Miss Susan Cline, of West Fourth street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. L. R. Howard, pastor of Hope chapel, of which the bride is a member.

Miss Lizzie M. Kressler, of Brooklyn, a cousin of the bridegroom, was bridesmaid, and William Carkhuff, a brother of the bride, was best man. The house was very prettily decorated with palms, plants and cut flowers.

Following the ceremony a short reception was held after which Mr. and Mrs. Keen left for Falmouth, Mass., where they will spend a short time. On returning they will make their home in the West End. The groom is a machinist and is employed in one of the local shops. He is a member of Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P., and also the Arion Social Club.

Walter Colombo Nearly Well.

Walter Colombo, of Jersey City, who had one foot cut off with a mowing machine and the other horribly lacerated, while spending the summer on a farm near Berkeley Heights, has almost recovered. He is now able to get about the hospital in a wheel chair and it is thought he will be able to return home within a short time.

Newmanns' Recovery Assured.

Otto Newmanns, of Millstone, who received a fractured skull and lost several fingers of the right hand, by walking off a train a few days ago, is steadily improving every day and his recovery is assured.

—A special consignment of 225 baskets of fine white peaches will be placed on sale at Neuman Brothers' tomorrow. Just the thing for either table or canning.

TO GIVE OUT BALLOTS

Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh Holds That the Laws Are Conflicting.

DOUBT FAVORS VOTER

City Clerk MacMurray to Distribute the Tickets to Both Regulars and Colbyites.

Corporation Counsel Marsh gave out the following statement this morning concerning the city clerk's right to give out ballots before primary day:

"Supreme Court Justice Fort is quoted in this morning's New York Tribune, as saying, concerning the primary election law:

"'It seems to me, after careful examination of the statute (primary law), that the legislature tried to make the law as confusing as possible.'

"Lawyers agree with the judge.

"Section 14 of this law requires the voter at the primary to vote the ballot which is handed to him by the Board of Election. The corporation counsel, and two eminent lawyers who were called upon to pass on the question, both of them officials of high standing, held that this provision was wholly inconsistent with the idea that any official ballots could be delivered by the city clerk in advance of the holding of the primaries, as otherwise the section referred to would practically be rendered nugatory. City Clerk MacMurray and also the Borough Clerk were advised accordingly, although both desired to deliver the ballots in advance, in the same manner as in the case of ballots for the regular election in November.

"This morning the attention of the counsel referred to was called to another section of the primary election law which makes section 56 of the general election law apply to primaries. Section 56 is the section authorizing the distribution of ballots in advance of the holding of election. In this irreconcilable conflict of two provisions of the same law, it was decided to resolve the doubt in favor of the voter, and to allow the distribution of primary ballots in advance, as in the case of a general election, and the city clerk was notified accordingly. The city clerk had prepared ballots for delivery to both the regular organization and the opposition, and proposed to deliver them until he was expressly advised and directed that section 14 above referred to, would make it unlawful. He protested against this interpretation of the law, but was overruled until this morning, when, as already stated, it was decided that the city clerk was right in the first instance, and that he should deliver the ballots as he had proposed."

NORTH PLAINFIELD'S TAX RATE IS $2.34

ASSESSMENTS INCREASED 12 PER CENT. —A DROP OF 20 POINTS.

Announcement was made today that the tax rate in the borough for the year would be $2.34. This is a drop of twenty points from last year but as the assessment has been increased about twelve per cent. there will be no material difference in the bills.

The rate is figured up as follows: County, 66c; State school, 16c; borough, 66c; special school, 86c. The rate last year was $2.54, made up as follows: County, 64c; State school, 16c; borough tax, 76c; special school, 98c.

Collector George F. Brown has already commenced work upon his bills and will send them out as soon as possible.

Jewish New Year Being Observed.

The observation, of the Hebrew new year—Rosh Hashonah—in the Jewish calender the year 5667, began last night at sundown. The interval between the new year and the Day of Atonement, which commences Friday night, September 28, will be given over to feasting. From sundown of Friday the 28th to sundown of the day following devout Hebrews all over the world will abstain from eating and drinking.

Miss Grace Fillmore Marries.

Announcement was made today that Miss Grace Fillmore, of North street, and Henry Stephany, of the borough, were married last night at Westfield. The wedding was a quiet one, no intimation of it having been given before the date set for the wedding. The couple will reside in this city, where the groom is employed.

SALOONS MUST CLOSE DURING THE PRIMARIES

WINDOW SCREENS MUST BE REMOVED AS ON SUNDAYS.

The primary election Tuesday will have to be regarded in the same way as a regular election so far as the closing of saloons is concerned. It will therefore be a criminal offense for anyone to sell liquor on that day from 1 to 9 p. m., during which hours the primaries are being held. In past years saloons have always been open on primary day.

The change is a result of the new excise law. It will be necessary for saloonkeepers to remove their screens between the hours of 1 and 9 p. m. on Tuesday, as on Sundays, under the provisions of the bishops' law. Not only will offenders be liable for revocation of the license, but under the election liquor statute they must be criminally prosecuted, and if found guilty are subject to imprisonment.

In Newark the police have been instructed by City Attorney Joseph Coult that the primary day will have to be looked upon in the same light as election day. Chief of Police Adams was in doubt as to the position he should take, and wrote to the city attorney for advice. Mr. Coult replied yesterday. Acting on his advice the chief of police of Newark has issued orders that all saloons must be closed while the primaries are open.

City Attorney Connolly, of Elizabeth, has not given any written opinion to Chief of Police Tenney on the subject. He said that the law was general knowledge applicable to the whole State, and would have to be observed in every municipality.

Camp Meetings at Warrenville.

Under the auspices of the Springdale Methodist church, a series of camp meetings will begin tonight on the grounds owned by John Cooper at Warrenville. A large tent has been erected and ample accommodations have been provided for large crowds. The meetings will continue for a week or ten days and good speakers from Plainfield, Bound Brook, Somerville and other places will lead.

La Follette, Colby's Guest.

United States Senator Richard M. La Follette was the guest of State Senator Everett Colby in Newark yesterday, accompanying the latter to one of his noonday campaign meetings. He sat in Mr. Colby's automobile, at Washington and Crawford streets, while his host and several other promoters of the "new idea" expounded their principles to a group of workingmen.

Boys' Entertainment.

A programme of entertainment will be a feature of that reception that will mark the opening of the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. on October 28. On that night Secretary Barrows will be formally introduced to the members of his department.

ROBT. LA FOLLETTE HERE

Wisconsin Reform Leader Spellbinds Audience at Concert Park.

OTHERS ALSO TALK

Senator Two Hours Overdue, But the Crowd Waited Patiently and Stayed Until the End at 12:45 o'Clock.

For an hour and a half, after they had waited for his coming with a patience that old politicians called remarkable, the big audience that gathered at Concert Park last night to attend the Colbyite mass meeting, heard Senator La Follette speak with whirlwind force for political reform, for the demolition of "bosses" and the eradication of evil corporation influences from the seats of government. And they listened to him with deep attention, although long speeches had been made before he arose, and 11 o'clock was striking as he began.

The audience numbered between 1,200 and 1,500 people. All the seats were occupied, and the overflow was all about the Park edge. A number of women were present, and they stayed until the last word had been spoken.

La Follette was expected at about 9:15 o'clock, but it was an hour and three-quarters after that, when he reached the Park in Senator Colby's automobile. His speech in Elizabeth took up more time than he calculated. He was greeted with applause and cheers as he stepped forward, and from then until the hand-shaking bee with which the meeting closed there was no doubt that the Senator from Wisconsin had the assemblage with him.

He opened by saying that New Jersey's reform movement had attracted attention in the West, and that it gave courage to all those who were fighting for reform elsewhere. For New Jersey was the bother of most of the brood of corporations that were threatening the country, and it heartened the reformers all over the land to see New Jersey awakening.

The fight had become national, the speaker continued, and he urged his hearers to show themselves worthy of the heritage that the fathers of the Republic had handed down and join, whole-souled, in the battle for a restoration of the people's rights. Every man in the land was supposed to have a share equal to that of every other man in the government. The fathers carefully wrought out a system of representative government, and gave the people the ballot that they might have full and controlling part in it. It was all right so long as the representatives of the people represented them, but if anything happened so that they did not represent the people, but became tools of interests hostile to the people, then

DRINK-CRAZED MAN ATTEMPTS SUICIDE

WADED OUT IN SCOTCH PLAINS POND AND PREPARED TO DIE.

Suffering from a well developed attack of delirium tremens, Thomas Grady, of New York, a sailor, attempted suicide in Cook's pond, near the paper mill at Scotch Plains, yesterday morning. He became possessed of the hallucination that the metropolitan police had ordered him to make way with himself and he thought drowning would be the easiest method.

The depth of the pond at the point he selected is about four feet but a man would sink two feet in mud. Grady managed to make his way quite some distance from shore and was treading around for the most comfortable spot to lie down in when John Schmidt happened by.

A couple of questions sufficed to show him that the man was demented and he set about planning to get him out. Several other men came up at that moment and Grady was quickly hauled to shore. Dry clothes were procured for him and he was taken to the 'Plains lockup where Dr. Westcott conducted an examination. He advised that Grady be confined under surveillance a short time as he was in such a condition that rest was absolutely necessary.

This morning the effects of rum had somewhat left the would-be suicide and he gave an account of himself. He said he had saved up $105 and with a friend picked up in the city started off on a spree. When he woke up he was saturated with drink, his money had disappeared and so had the companion. He started out for Philadelphia and somehow or other wandered to the mountains back of the plains. Sympathizing 'Plains' people took up a collection for him and he will be placed on board a train for the Quaker City as soon as he is in a condition to start out.

King's Daughters Work.

As long as the present favorable weather continues the King's Daughters baby camp on the mountain will remain open. There has been a large number of sick babies cared for at the camp this season and there is no doubt but that the lives of several have been saved. The Day Nursery is open again after being closed for a month and the demand for accommodations for children is already large.

Bowling Green Ready Next Summer.

As it requires considerable time to lay out a bowling green before it can be used, the green at the Park Club will probably not be ready for play before next spring. The seeding process is in progress and it will take a good deal of work to complete the green. J. B. Betts is the leading spirit in the game and he hopes to enthuse many members by next summer.

FIRST ANONYMOUS CARD

Postal Circulated Insinuating Shellabarger is Bosses' Man.

MR. FISK INDIGNANT

City Chairman Also Has Something to Say Regarding Use of Money at Primaries.

Charles J. Fisk, chairman of the Republican executive committee and an active and influential spirit in the Third ward, where he lives, is indignant over the circulation of an anonymous postal card. He stigmatizes it as an insult to the Republican caucus which endorsed Joseph A. Shellabarger for councilman. The statements in the postal to which he objects are these: "Tyler is the issue in the councilmanic fight in the Third ward. He has been faithful to the public. The bosses refuse him renomination and seek to discipline him. Will you stand for that?"

In an interview with a representative of The Daily Press, Mr. Fisk said today when shown the postal: "There was no intent to discipline Mr. Tyler or anyone else. I took part in the caucus that endorsed Mr. Joseph A. Shellabarger for Council and we thought that he would be a man satisfactory to everyone. He is independent and would favor no one; he is not a factional man in any sense. I would like to know who these 'bosses' are that seek to discipline Tyler?"

Regarding W. N. Runyon's statement that he would take a pledge not to use any money at the primaries except for legitimate purpose and the latter's challenge for the regulars to make a similar pledge, Mr. Fisk had also something to say. "To the best of my knowledge there is but thirty cents in the treasury of the city executive committee. No money is being raised and I can say positively that so far as I know none will be used on primary day."

CO. W. C. T. U. IN SESSION

Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson Again Chosen Head of Women's Temperance Association.

A MEMORIAL SERVICE

No Person Should Attend Liquor Dealers' Meeting Is Declared in a Resolution—The Officers.

Encouraging reports and a general discussion of the work of the past year and plans for the coming year, together with the election of officers, engaged the attention of the members of the Union County W. C. T. U., at the annual convention held in the Presbyterian church, Westfield, all day yesterday. An important action during the afternoon session was the adoption of a resolution in which the county Union "requested in the name of humanity that all persons in the county will not encourage by their presence the convention of the liquor dealers' association at Elizabeth, today." This resolution was introduced at the request of Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson, county president, and signed by her and the secretary.

These officers and superintendents were elected for the coming year:

President, Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson, Plainfield; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Morris L. Rarick, Dunellen; recording secretary, Mrs. T. C. Bodine, Plainfield; treasurer, Mrs. Mary C. Cox, Cranford; superintendents—foreign work, Mrs. L. Ussing, Cranford; medical temperance, Mrs. Augustus G. Schmidt, Elizabeth; scientific instruction, Mrs. David B. Irving, Cranford; Sunday-school, Mrs. Frank R. Baker, Jr., Westfield; temperance literature, Mrs. W. H. Morse, Westfield; press, Mrs. L. H. Noe, Elizabeth; medal contests, Mrs. William Curry, Elizabeth; anti-narcotics, Mrs. C. W. Scott, Elizabeth; evangelistic and alms-house, Mrs. W. B. Deland, Elizabeth; systematic giving, Mrs. J. E. Brewer, Westfield; unfermented wine at sacrament, Mrs. S. Stoddard, Elizabeth; soldiers and sailors, Mrs. M. C. Dobbins, Plainfield; prison and jails, Miss S. J. Keron, Elizabeth; Sabbath observance, Mrs. M. Winter, Plainfield; purity and mothers' meetings, Miss Julia A. Barker, Rahway; railroad men, motormen and firemen, Mrs. Elizabeth A. Parse, Plainfield; flower missions, Miss M. L. Underhill, Rahway; social meetings and red letter days, Mrs. M. F. Francis, Elizabeth; legislation and petitions, Mrs. T. H. A YOUTHFUL DESPERADO

WOUND NOT SERIOUS

Assailant Flees From Borough to the City But Is Quickly Nabbed By Police.

For clean-cut, unalloyed desperadoism, nine-year-old Walter Watson, colored, of Warren street, has beaten all records in the annals of the borough police department. With a pocketknife clutched in his hand he pounced upon Joseph Pitts, six years old, of Chatham street, yesterday afternoon, and demanded $4 which he knew the little fellow had in his possession. The Pitts boy is deaf and dumb but he realized the nature of young Watson's actions and tried to run home.

Not to be daunted, the youthful highwayman jabbed the knife against Joseph's cheek inflicting a bad gash just below the right eye, causing him to drop the money from pain and fright and fall to the sidewalk. Watson caught up the $4 and fled to the city side of the brook with the idea of "blowing" it in.

The assault and robbery were witnessed by several other children and while some of them helped the victim home others informed Chief Marshal Weiss. In company with Marshal Dooley he started on the trail of Watson and the latter officer located him on Front street. He was nabbed before he had a chance to run and was locked up over night. He was temporarily released this morning and the officials are deliberating as to what can be done with him. Because of his age he cannot be sent to the Reform school and it is possible that he will be placed in some institution. He is the son of Rev. James Watson who is now serving a twenty-year sentence for the killing of James Christopher on Warren street last Fall.

An examination showed that the gash inflicted on the smaller boy is not serious and no after results are anticipated. He was going to a store with the money and it was found intact on Watson when he was caught.

The colored boy bears a bad reputation in the neighborhood and only a short time ago was arrested for beating a dog almost to death.

LOCAL DEALERS CANNOT GET A SUPPLY OF ICE.

Depending on the Output of the Hygeia Ice Plant to Supply the Trade.

Failing in its efforts to secure ice in any quantity from outside source, the Plainfield Natural Ice Company has been obliged to depend entirely on the output of the hygeia ice plant on North avenue. This is about twenty tons a day. Representatives of the company, as well as John Morton, an independent dealer, have been unable to find ice in any considerable quantity to ship to Plainfield.

It was stated yesterday on the best of authority that ice was to be had outside, but that the local wholesale dealers would not pay the price quoted. It could not be learned just where this ice is located, but according to the statements of the local dealers they cannot find it at any price. With the present warm spell a lack of ice makes it a hardship for many, and the dealers, as well as consumers, are hoping that cooler weather may arrive soon.

Mrs. Duffy's Funeral.

The funeral of Mrs. John Duffy, who died at her home on West Third street, Tuesday, was held in St. Mary's church this morning. The mass was conducted by Rev. Father Bogan and was attended by a large gathering of relatives and friends. The floral tributes were numerous and included a set piece from the young women at the Watchung shirt factory where Mrs. Duffy was employed. Interment was made in St. Mary's cemetery, the pall bearers being John Taylor, Alex. Kane, Stephen Bolan, D. W. O'Loughlin, Patrick Boyle and Robert Skinner.

Dog Case Thrown Out.

Justice Von Minden, in his court at Dunellen yesterday forenoon, ruled the suit of John Fitch against George Archibold, for $200 damages for the shooting of two pet dogs, out of court. Lawyer I. P. Runyon, for the defendant, brought out the fact that the dogs were on Archibold's property and were unlicensed. Fitch claimed the animals were thoroughbred fox terriers.

Little Child's Funeral.

The funeral of Ethel Josephine Schorb, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Schorb, of East Front street, who died suddenly yesterday morning, will be held from the parents' residence tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY

G. J. Corey, of Stelton, is making a hot fight for the nomination for assembly as a representative of Colbyism. He campaigns nightly, and is regarded as the chief lieutenant of Col. Fordyce, the reform leader. Mr. Corey is popular in Stelton, and the people of this section are beginning to think nothing can stop the success of the reform movement in Middlesex.

It is said that Beauty, the fox terrier of John W. Wagner, which died last week, was a victim of grief over the death of his mistress. After Mrs. Wagner's demise the dog refused to eat, and pined away until it succumbed to weakness.

Representatives of Wm. Ostrander, the Lincoln boomer, have had the new location of the New Market road at Lincoln surveyed. The new road is to be finely macadamized and of the best construction.

Dr. A. E. Ahrens, of Stratford, Ont., son-in-law of Stanley Day, has been awarded first prize by the Horticultural Society of his city, for the best kept lawn in the place.

A spring gun, it is said, is to be put in the loop restaurant, and set after closing hour. The constantly recurring robberies have made some such step necessary.

Paul Kratzel has fitted a small building on North avenue as a shoe shop. He had the structure moved from his recently purchased lot on Front street.

De Witt C. Fulton is painting the Nelson house in New Market, which has been occupied by Alexander Herlich and used for school purposes.

Will Russell, the twirler of the borough nine, will be back in the game Saturday, against Raritan, after a month's absence.

A number of boroughites went to Plainfield last night to attend the Colby meeting in Concert Park.

Andrew Forbush has entered H. L. Pierce's employ as clerk.

Arch Brakeley has returned to Princeton.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD

Mrs. Robert Walpole entertained the Ladies' Aid Society of the Harrison First Baptist church yesterday. The members were out in force, about twenty-five being present. Dinner was served on the lawn. The gathering was one which the society has made an annual event for the past four years. Mrs. Walpole at the time of her residence in Harrison was an active worker and at one time president of the society. Upon her removal to the Plains the members decided that they would hold a reunion each year. The trip is always made by trolley and the full day is enjoyed in reminiscent chat. The return home was made about 7 o'clock.

The local ball team will have a large following of local cranks at Crescent Oval Saturday afternoon, when they meet the Clinton Avenue team. Manager Johnston will play the regular team, with Frentz and Alberts as the battery.

Deegan's skating rink was open again last night. The crowd was not quite as large as the one at the opening Saturday night. Mr. Deegan expects to have an instructor by Saturday night, as well as new skates.

The political pot, neither Republican or Democratic, has not begun to boil yet. The two tickets as named for the primary meeting seem to please the followers of both parties.

Miss Mary Westcott, of the borough, has returned from a stay of several weeks with relatives at Bridgeton, N. J.

Mrs. Frederick Stephenson, of Lincoln, has been visiting relatives and friends in town.

Miss Mary Gallagher, of Metuchen, is spending a week with Mrs. William H. Lee.

The gang of painters has finished the work of painting the Fanwood station.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

"The Little Joker," the latest musical melange, with the popular comedian, Arthur Dunn, and a supporting company of thirty-five people, will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre tonight. It is not necessary to expound the merits of such a well known and popular comedian as Mr. Dunn or to exploit his numerous successes, as these facts are well known to all theatregoers and the announcement of his coming is always pleasant news to his many admirers and friends.

It is said that George V. Hobart, the author of "Mrs. Wilson, That's All," the new play which he has written for May Irwin and in which that comedienne will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow night, has provided what comes nearer to being a straight comedy than anything which that star has yet had. Mr. Hobart does not claim for it as being anything more than a farce, but yet an effort has been made at more pretentious things than is usual under the same circumstances. Miss Irwin has in the new play a character much to her liking, and one in which she is permitted to do work of a little more serious nature than has been her custom. The story is faithfully adhered to throughout the action and there are few interruptions for musical numbers. In fact, there is no chorus whatever and the tunefulness is supplied entirely by the star herself who has a number of new songs which she will render, since it would not be a May Irwin show without them.

The lovers of comedy in picturesque musical dress will welcome Paula Edwardes in "Princess Beggar," at the New Plainfield theatre on Saturday evening. To those familiar with the greatest successes of modern musical comedy, the name of Paula Edwardes recalls her winsome charm and her inimitable comedy at the Casino in its days of glory. Recalls her pre-eminence in "The Belle of New York" and later her unequalled popularity in Augustin Daly's greatest musical comedy triumphs. In "Princess Beggar," Edward Paulton, writer of the greatest comic opera success of twenty-five years, the wonderful and witty "Erminie," has provided Miss Edwardes with a remarkable role, combining opportunities for her petite, charming personality, her quaint, droll humor and her dramatic talents; one that is unique in its scope. Under the prestige and direction of Charles Dillingham, she is now surrounded by every advantage, a strong supporting company of sterling singers and fun makers, a gorgeous production and a perfectly trained chorus comprising fifty charming girls who really sing.

A play of many splendid parts is "The Ragged Messenger," which Creston Clarke will present at the New Plainfield theatre next Monday night. In accordance with his well-known practice not to shine at the expense of his associate players, but rather by contrast, Mr. Clarke insisted upon having several of the characters in his new play strengthened. As a result there is not a single unimportant or dull character in "The Ragged Messenger." Its unprecedented success is owing largely to this.

One of the chief factors in the long continued popularity of Pixley and Luders' musical comedy, "The Prince of Pilsen," which comes to the New Plainfield theatre next Tuesday night, is had in the fact that it has not been allowed to deteriorate in any respect, but is kept keyed up to the Henry W. Savage standard of excellence, which is the final word in theatrical productions. The numerous song hits in this piece have held an enduring grasp on public favor, "The Message of the Violet," "The Tale of the Sea Shell," "The Stein Song," with its ringing, swinging Heidelberg chorus, "The Song of the Cities," and "Pictures in the Smoke" all have been largely contributive to the continuously sustained interest in this entertainment. There is only one company playing the piece and in it are Jess Dandy, George Lydecker, Henry Coote, J. Hayden-Clarendon, Wilmer Bentley, Peter Swift, Pauline Guzman, Albertine Benson, Marie Welsh, Jeannette Bageard, Helena Delmore, Ida Stanhope and others.

Turgid sentiment, and ingenious snobbishness are absent from "The Galloper," Richard Harding Davis' new farce which Raymond Hitchcock will present at the New Plainfield theatre next Wednesday night. On the contrary, it is replete with an amusing and interesting series of incidents. The dialogue is exceedingly bright, and the lines sparkle with humor, wit and epigram of the true American flavor. The play gets its title—"The Galloper" from an expression used by English newspaper men and army people to describe a dispatch bearer who first gets to the wire. Mr. Hitchcock from all accounts has a role that gives opportunities for the quaint, refined humor that made his work captivating in "The Yankee Consul" and "King Dodo."

Alice Hosmer, for whom some doors would be quite too narrow, is the jolly parvenu mother of "Miss Dolly Dollars," in which role Blanche Ring is now starring under the management of Charles Dillingham. There are many whose hair is not yet grey, who remember Miss Hosmer as a slender slip of a girl whose high C's surprised and delighted those who heard the first productions in this country of "Fatinitza," "Boccacio" and other operas contemporaneous with them, and in which she was the prima donna. Miss Hosmer's splendid technique in singing is still noticeable, although the weight of years and flesh have added heaviness to her voice. She will be here at the New Plainfield theatre Friday night, Sept. 28.

Joe Morris and a singing and dancing company of forty people will be the attraction at the New Plainfield next Thursday afternoon and night. Light and catchy music, graceful dances, farcical situations and a rapid change of color effects with just enough story to interest, are the ingredients used to make the skit a pleasing entertainment.

ABOUT MILLINERY.

We can't say too much and we can't talk too often about our famous $4.75 Trimmed Hats. To say they are "$4.75 Trimmed Hats" is somewhat misleading—they are too good to be so designated. In most other stores they sell for a great deal more money—many of the designs, with the identical trimmings, quality and everything practically the same, sell in other stores that we know of for as much as $8 and $10. We sell them at $4.75 because of the enormous quantities we produce and because we are willing, in order to do this great volume of business, to sell them on close margins of profit. Few stores care to take so little profit on millinery.

This lot includes the well-known Gainsborough, Mayfair and Minerva makes and others just as good, and you will find in the lot all the new Fall styles in the most, wanted leathers, including plenty of shiny leathers—shoes that were intended to be sold at $2.50, $3.00 and $3.50, which we are selling for only $1.95

Women's Shoes of excellent quality vici kid with patent leather tips; neat extension soles; regular $2.00 grade, in lace only; to be closed out at $1.29

Boys' Shoes, substantially made; nicely finisht; neat looking; made of good quality satin calf skin; sizes 13 to 5—shoes that should sell at $1.50 a pair; special priced at..... $1.00

Douglas $3.50 and $4 Shoes $2.69.

The lot was large, for which those who have delayed may thank their stars, for it is seldom that shoes so worthy can be sold for so little.

The W. L. Douglas Shoes for men are known the country over as the best $3.50 and $4.00 shoes made, and these are as good as any he makes—as good as any turned out of the factory except for slight factory damages that are scarcely noticeable and do not affect the wear in the least. There are lots of good shapes in the lot; plenty of patent leathers; all sizes and widths, and you may choose from them at only..... $2.69

the latter was out of government. All the citizen had as his part in the government was his ballot and if the men he chose did not represent him, his ballot was taken from him as effectually as if he had been deprived of it by law.

The present situation, the speaker continued, arose out of the business conditions. When the trusts succeeded the corporations, who had been competing in the open market like individuals, and destroyed competition, the evil in them ran riot, unchecked. It was found that it was not necessary to bring all the corporations to control a certain line, and by this time it was difficult to name a line of business, of any importance, not controled, not only as to finished products, but the raw material, as well.

In thirty years, as the trusts grew and fastened themselves on the country, a great industrial and commercial revolution had taken place There was the trouble, the speaker believed, with the government. The combinations soon saw the importance of controlling legislation. They wanted franchises, special privileges, special exemptions, didn't want to pay their share of the taxes, and there were many things they wanted to prevent in legislation. They soon found their interests were identical, and could better control legislation by acting together. So they found it desirable to place around all governing bodies, municipal, county, State and National, their lobbyists and representatives. So the great industrial changs began to affect the government, and the destruction of representative government began. The trouble would never be cured until the peoplet went at that source of the evil.

Colby and his friends, the speaker paused in his argument to say, had wrought out a plan of legislation that would get at the evil here. Their candidates stood for something and the people knew what they stood for. He believed political should stand for Platforms were solemn compacts between the party and the voters, and the party should be bound to carry out its promise. The voter who valued his ballot aright would never vote for any organization that didn't say it stood for something. The regulars in this State hadn't made any statement yet, because they didn't dare say what they stood for.

All corporations acted together, the speaker went on; their interests were largely identical and their ownership largely identical. He gave figures to show how the bond issues were grossly inflated and how the charges were put up to carry the burden of water. The P. S. C. traction lines, he said, were capitalized at $227,000 a mile, and the whole road system could be replaced for $40,000 a mile. He spoke at some length on railroad rates, citing figures to show the true value of railroad properties in the country and the inflated value for which the shipper and the consumer must pay in high rates. All he asked for, said the speaker, was a fair and just rate, based on the actual valuation of the railroads. But he didn't believe in letting the corporation fix the rate. An impartial body should do it; not even the people, because they might put them too low.

Referring to Senator Colby at this point, Senator La Follette said he was a rare man—a man of fortune who was giving his time and his effort to a battle for the people. His leadership meant much to the voters who desired things he had outlined.

A Supreme Court decision had ruled that the public service corporations were entitled to charge only enough to pay operating expenses and a fair return on the money invested. The Supreme Court had so ruled, why was it not in force? Because Senators and Congressmen sent to Washington by the people would not pass a statute to enforce the Supreme Court decision.

It was at this point that Charles S. Sminck, of the First ward, asked a question.

"Did the Senator mean to say his fellow-senators were dishonest?" queried Sminck.

The Senator not only thought a legislator who served the corporations instead of the people who sent him to his place was dishonest, but he thought dishonesty a mild term. He believed him guilty of treason to the true principles of government.

Sminck asked again. "Will you go on record as saying they are guilty of treason?"

La Follette told him to begin with that he wasn't afraid of anything, or anybody, that he knew of, on earth. If a senator, under a solemn obligation to serve the people, he continued, worked instead for the interest of corporations hostile to the people, he was as guilty of treason to the vital principles of this government, as Benedict Arnold had been.

The speaker gave figures to show how the rates had been piled up in excess of fairness to carry all the water. The subject, he said, had gotten hold of his life, for he believed the country was menaced. He told how his amendments to the rate bill, empowering the Interstate Commerce Commission to fix valuations of the roads and to prevent judges who held railroad stock or railroad passes from sitting on rate cases were killed, and among the roll call of railroad senators—who killed the amendments—read by the speaker were the names of Senators Kean and Dryden. Each man who voted against the amendments had betrayed his constituency.

It was sad, the speaker continued, but so much of the press was governed by corporation influence it was hard to get a hearing. When he found a good paper that represented the people, he felt like commending it. He urged his hearers to tell the publishers of papers who served the P. S. C. to look to the P. S. C. for support. If they did that, a better class of papers would grow up. (Applause).

In closing, Senator La Follette urged the voters to go to the primaries next Tuesday, and to guard their ballot so that men who actually represented them, and not private interests, went into office.

Judge Runyon, and Robert Carey, city attorney of Jersey City, spoke in the early part of the meeting. Senator Colby came to the meeting just before Senator La Follette arrived, and was on the point of speaking when the Wisconsin leader came to the stand. Colby refused to go on talking, although the crowd cheered him lustily and urged him to continue.

Judge Runyon, who spoke first, was introduced by R. Henry Depew, who was chairman of the meeting. Mr. Depew spoke briefly on the necessity for cleaning out the bosses in the city.

Judge Runyon's speech was not long. He told of his experience with the overlord of the county. When a candidate for the senatorial nomination "Ham" Kean had told him he could not get the senatorial nomination; he was offered the U. S. District attorneyship in Alaska. He recounted the story of the proffer and rejection of the surrogateship and the judgeship. Such were the schemes of the bosses, he said, to stifle opposition. Misrepresentation in office was the citizen's own fault; the slothfulness of the electorate led to the growth of the bosses.

Mr. Carey, who followed Judge Runyon, made a great hit with the crowd. He spellbound his way into the affections of his hearers and they hated to see him stop. He told of his experience with machine politics, and how the puppets were moved. He believed in the Republican party, he said, but the dirt that had accumulated in it during the past few years was not the party and he wanted to see it swept out.

The organization, he said, meant one man. Down in Hudson county, when they spoke of the Union county organization they called it Ham Kean. "Up against the organization" meant up against Ham. In illustrating the workings of the State machine, the speaker likened it to a dog circus. He called one of the trick dogs "Perky," and the crowd laughed delightedly.

Mr. Carey said he had watched Mr. Ackerman at Trenton, and he impressed him as a gentleman, who was growing sick of the associations in which he found himself. He believed Senator Ackerman would be lined up, shoulder to shoulder, with Colby in 1907, when his eyes, like those of Colby's, would be open.

A labor party adherent asked a question or two and got swift answers, and Carey became more the hero of the crowd than before.

After a three-quarter-hour wait for La Follette, during which G. W. V. Moy and F. E. Kinsman filled in with speeches against time, the crowd yelled for Carey. He was in the swing of a story when Colby came, but the audience insisted on hearing him through. Mr. Moy explained the way to cast primary ballots.

Several well known citizens identified with the movement for good government were on the platform besides the speakers. Among them were H. C. Tracy, Rev. George Shaw, Rev. E. M. Rodman, O. S. Rogers, and Councilman H. D. Hibbard.

"Randolph's Quinine and Glycerine" Hair Tonic.

The proper treatment and care for the hair is very important. The tendency to baldness seems to be on the increase, but there is no need to be bald if you give your hair the proper attention and use "Randolph's Compound Quinine and Glycerine" Hair Tonic.

By imparting vitality to the roots of the hair, it stops it from falling out, irradicates dandruff, assures the continued growth and prevents baldness and final loss. It is richly perfumed and is an elegant dressing for the hair. Prepared either with or without oil—oil for dry hair and without oil for oily hair.

JERSEY JUDGES IN ROBES.

Custom Is Revived After Nearly a Century's Disuse.

Visitors to the Hudson County Court House, in Jersey City, witnessed an innovation yesterday when Supreme Court Justice J. Franklin Fort and Justices Blair and Parker appeared for the opening of the September term. They were clad in the black robes, which have not been seen in New Jersey for nearly a century.

The robes were resumed in compliance with a suggestion made by Chief Justice Gummere of Trenton, who thought they would add to the dignity of the office. In his charge to the new Grand Jury Justice Fort said there were no cases that called for special mention.

"The only matter to which I desire to call your attention," he continued, "is the manner in which the new liquor law is being enforced. I am in receipt of a letter informing me that the law is not being enforced uniformly throughout the county. If this is so you should make an example of the officials who are not requiring the observance of the act. If the law does not meet with public approval, the surest way to discover that fact is to enforce it."

INSPECTOR WARNS MR. COLBY.

As Result Senator Paints Numbers Lights of His Machine.

New Brunswick, Sept. 20.—The ubiquitous State automobile inspector, D. F. Smith, caught Senator Everett Colby, of Essex, and Colonel Alexander R. Fordyce, of Middlesex, in his net Tuesday evening, as they were going to Perth Amboy to meet Senator La Follette.

Mr. Smith saw the gentlemen getting into Mr. Colby's automobile in front of Columbia Hall after their speeches there last evening, and noted that Mr. Colby's machine had no numbers on the lights, as is required by the new automobile law. He told the Senator and the colonel that they couldn't proceed until the numbers were supplied. He finally agreed, however, to let the automobile proceed if Senator Colby would put the numbers on his lights at the first opportunity. Mr. Colby promised, and, when he reached Perth Amboy, got a can of paint and a brush and daubed the numbers on. It wasn't the most artistic job in the world, but it answered the purpose.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The Christian Endeavor Society of Faith chapel will meet early in October and elect officers and plan for the winter's work.

The Sunday-school of the Congregational church will hold rally-day exercises Sunday afternoon. An invitation is extended to all interested.

Rev. A. C. Nickerson, pastor of All Souls' church in Park avenue, having returned from his summer outing, the regular church services have been resumed for the fall and winter.

It is expected that several persons will be received into membership at the First Baptist church on Wednesday night, September 26, when the regular business meeting will be held.

The members of the First Presbyterian church are arranging a reception to be given to their pastor, Rev. C. E. Herring, on Thursday night, September 27, in the chapel of the church.

There will be a postponed meeting of the Plainfield Christian Endeavor Union at Faith chapel, tonight, when plans for the fall and winter will be discussed. It is likely that several public meetings will be held during the coming season, at which prominent Endeavor workers will take part.

LA FOLLETTE SPEAKS TO ELIZABETH VOTERS.

Wisconsin Senator Declared Government Is In Great Danger.

Senator La Follette, of Wisconsin, addressed a large and representative audience of Elizabeth Republicans last night in behalf of the Colby movement in Jersey politics. The Senator was introduced by former Assemblyman Robert B. Cissel, one of the leaders in the "New Idea" movement in Union county.

Senator La Follette said he came as a stranger to New Jersey, but wanted to arouse Jerseymen to the peril the country was in from corporation influence in legislative matters, and to tell them they ought to come to the rescue. The speaker said that he believed that Democracy, not as applied to a party, but as a republican form of government, was in great danger. He issued a warning against the corporations and trusts, which, he said, had been insidiously gaining headway during the last few years.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Sept. 23: "Interpreting God's Word to the World."

By REV. WALTER J. YATES, D. D.

Making it known to them.—II Cor. iii, 3. Showing the likeness of God.—Lev. xix, 2; Matt. v, 48. Finding our pattern in Christ.—I Pet. ii, 21; I John ii, 6. With convincing consistency.—I Pet. ii, 11, 12. Having His character we also share His triumph.—Rev. iii, 21.

It is a very striking figure of speech which Paul uses when he declares the Christians of Corinth are his own epistle and are also the letter of Christ written by the Spirit of the living God and ministered by him.

Plainly this must mean that God has a message for the world. In olden time He appeared to Moses and revealed to him the message for the chosen people. Moses was so affected by thinking on these glorious truths that the ecstasy of mind and soul appeared in his countenance. His face shone so that the people were afraid of him, and he had to put a veil on his face when talking with the people about God and His will. Paul says that as men now read God's revelation to Moses there is a veil over their hearts, and they still fail to see the full divine glory.

It is not to be so with us. We are all with unveiled faces now to see God's glory and to be ourselves changed into the same likeness, passing from one stage of glory up to another as we progress in the knowledge of God.

The transfiguration of Christ has a lesson for us in this regard. On the mountain as He talked with Moses and Elijah of His death His whole form and clothing became white and luminous. A fact of deeper import, however, was the transforming of His whole life by His knowledge of the Father's will until He showed the world the pattern of such a man as it had never before conceived. He lived the perfect white life before the world. He not only knew the Truth as no one before had understood; He became that Truth itself, its very embodiment, so that He could say in full consciousness of the fact, "I and My Father are one." "He that hath seen Me hath seen the Father." He was "the express image of the Father," as the coin is the exact reproduction of the mint stamp. He was and is visibly what the Father ever was and is invisibly.

We are to attain in increasing measure the likeness of Christ. This is not to be done by any peculiarity in dress or speech or bodily appearance, as some have vainly attempted. Pride may delight in the garb of severest plainness or humility be hidden under richest robes.

As one studies the Old Testament picture of the "Servant of Jehovah" as that picture is given in increasing clearness by successive generations of prophets, the heart yearning grows upon one to have a glimpse of that man who shall come in the strength of simple manhood and show us how to live the true, the real life, the godlike life.

With us, as with John Baptist, the waiting grows anxious. The open heavens may show us the down lighting Spirit as a dove resting on a man, our friend, but we long for more. Three years of companionship with that man increase our wonderment, which at times amounts to bewilderment. Only at Pentecost, when the Spirit not only rests on us, but enters into us, do we really come to know the Christ.

Gradually we grow until we exclaim with Paul, "That I may know Him and the power of His resurrection and the fellowship of His sufferings." Then the world will see in us God's word worked out.

Value of Soul Salvation.

Go to work! Nothing is more salutary to the human soul than the direct work of saving men. There is a basis of fact. There is the next ground for action. Whatever your theory may be of this or that doctrine, there is a man dying in his need, and there is a power which you may apply for his transformation. Therefore go to work upon men and with men. And, let me tell you, there is nothing you can do that would be more satisfactory to your own soul. I speak what I do know when I say that there is nothing which brings men back from the desert of sandy and arid speculation, nothing which brings a man in again to the shore from the cheerless ocean of doubt, nothing which gives us such faith and certainty, as laying aside all reasoning and engaging in the practical work of the gospel. I know that there is restorative influence in that work. I know that, whatever doubts I may have, once let my heart and hand join together in working with men for their salvation, and my doubts disappear. I know in whom I believe. I know the work to which I am appointed, and the sweetest that I ever had of God came to me in the act of laboring for my fellow men. The most glorious views I ever had of man's interior life and of essential divine truths were ministered to me when I was working for the salvation of others.—H. W. Beecher.

Be of Good Cheer.

Be of good cheer. Do not think of today's failures, but of the success that may come tomorrow. You have set yourself a difficult task, but you will succeed if you persevere, and you will find a joy in overcoming obstacles, a delight in climbing rugged paths, which you would perhaps never know if you did not sometimes slip backward, if the road were always smooth and pleasant. Remember, no effort that we make to attain something beautiful is ever lost. Some time, somewhere, somehow, we shall find that which we seek. We shall speak, yes, and sing, too, as God intended we should speak and sing.—Helen Keller.

THE PEOPLE ALL.
In Chorus Cried, Give Us Newbro's Herpicide.
This word of late has been in everyone's mouth, and many are wondering what the word signifies, though no one has yet been found, who will deny that NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE does the work. Well, for the information of thousands of people who like to know all about a good thing, we would say that HERPICIDE means, a destroyer or killer of "Herpes." Now "Herpes" is the family name of a disease caused by various vegetable parasites. A similar microbe causes dandruff, itching scalp, and falling hair; this is the microbe that NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE promptly destroys; after which the hair grows. Sold by leading druggists. CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Sept. 23.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—A strong will; how to get it and use it for temperance.—I Pet. iv, 1-11.

Christianity demands that we be temperate in all things, and temperance in many instances should mean abstinence. The apostle Paul was constantly urging the gentile Christians, who had been accustomed to live sinful and wicked lives, to give up sin. He did not suggest that they indulge in it moderately, but that they abstain absolutely from it. And in the reference before us the apostle Peter follows the same line. He teaches us that we should cease from sin, that we should not live in the flesh to the lusts of men and that we should be sober. Perfect sobriety demands total abstinence.

In order to meet the high demands made upon us by Christianity as interpreted by the apostle it is necessary for us to have strong wills, a control over ourselves such as will make it possible for us to do or not do as we may elect. There are few things sadder in life than weak willed men; men who can easily be led astray; men who have little power to resist temptation; men who are like clay to the potter in the hands of those who would lead them to ruination and destruction. A clean life demands a strong will. A strong will is necessary to the person who has never fallen into sinful habits. He needs to be strong to withstand temptation. Temptations come to all. To what young person has not the tempter come, denouncing virtue and painting the path of vice in glowing colors? And if the unspotted are to keep themselves unspotted from the world, they must have sufficient power of will to say no to every siren voice of temptation and to stand by that position. Men reformed from evil habits also need strong wills. Satan never easily gives up his victims. Every resource at his command will be used to replace the shackles of vice that have been broken. Intensest cravings for the habits of the past will be excited and he who would stand must indeed be strong.

Under such necessity for strong wills it is most fortunate that we need not depend entirely upon ourselves. God is able and willing to strengthen us. His will can replace our wills, and then no power on earth or in hell can lead us into temptation. How foolish and vain for us to depend upon ourselves alone when we have divine power at our command. The strongest human will alone is weaker than the weakest human will supplemented by the will and power of God. Let us not, therefore, stand in our own strength, but in the strength of God; and, in His strength, let us "be sober and watch unto prayer."

China's Own Endeavor Badge.

It was the interior of a Chinese yamen, and the missionary's wife had been invited to tea by the wife and daughters of the mandarin.

"Oh, how pretty," said the prim little Chinese ladies as they spied a gold C. E. pin on the lady missionary's dress. "What a funny shape!"

"These are foreign letters," answered the visitor.

"Foreign letters! Well, they are not like ours, but they are 'nice to look at!' What do they mean?"

CHINESE C. E. BADGE.

"They mean that people who wear these letters belong to 'The Put Forth Much Strength society.'"

"What do they put forth strength for?"

"To help other people in every way, but especially to lead them to trust in the Lord Jesus Christ."

And then the tea was handed round, and the poor little rich ladies tucked up their little feet, drew long whiffs from their pipes and wondered what sort of experiences folks had who were permitted "to put forth strength" instead of living lives of luxurious indolence. And so the little badge carried its message, and as result a C. E. society is soon to be formed in that remote part of the foreign field. China has now her own C. E. badge. The characters seem very strange to us, but this little badge is worn and treasured by many hundreds of Endeavorers in the Celestial empire. There Christian Endeavor is quickly spreading and proving a distinct help to the missionary in winning the country for Christ.—Irish Endeavorer.

The Immortal Book.

Since John wrote in his cell on Patmos and Paul preached in his own hired house at Rome the world has been turned upside down. All old things have passed away. All things on earth have changed but one. Rivaling in fixedness and more than rivaling in brightness the stars that saw our world born and shall see it die, the stars that rejoiced in its birth and shall be mourners at its burial, the word of God stands forever. Time, that weakens all things else, has but strengthened the impregnable position of the believer's faith and hope and confidence, and as year by year the tree adds another ring to its circumference every age has added the testimony of its events to this great truth. "The grass withereth, the flower fadeth, but the word of the Lord endureth forever."—Thomas Guthrie.

Lavender Creighton's Lovers.

By OLIVIA B. STROHM

(Copyright, 1905, by Olivia B. Strohm).

Out of the sheltering shade a tall, plumed figure stalked, and a voice said:

"Blame not the Great Spirit; you were not the only men there."

Gerald rose with a quick exclamation, and Winslow turned to see Owatoga, his face as motionless as the arms that were folded on his gun.

Before further words were said a second figure had joined the Indian, and Lavender stood by his side.

With pale face uplifted she laid one hand gently on his shoulder. "You have more to tell, Owatoga?"

The savage looked down upon her, while a soft gleam shot across his brown eyes like a ripple on dark waters. "Owatoga has only to tell that his master and the white maid's brother were not the only men there. Owatoga was there, too," and with a glance full of meaning—cruel, revengeful, but chastened finally by a smile at Lavender, the Indian departed. None sought to detain him, nor question him further, as he strode away, a very tower of dignity and pride.

Left with the two men, Lavender stood blushing and eager, looking from one to the other. She stammered a little breathless apology:

"Excuse our sudden appearance unannounced, but I—I saw you two go off together, and, mistaking your errand, I thought it might be just as well if I and Owatoga came too."

The little purl of embarrassed laughter, the bashful grace with which she twisted her bonnet strings—her very presence, so full of girlish charm and lightness, eased the strain of the situation and relaxed the men's tense nerves.

Gerald said, laughing: "You could not trust your hot-headed brother, could you? Well, this time your guess was wrong. I invited Mr. Winslow to this place—not to fight him, but to ask his pardon for many things. He has granted much—all."

"With a glad heart," Winslow added—but he was not looking at Gerald. Lavender met his eyes, and her own slowly drooped with a demure and sidelong glance.

Then, with a sudden quick gesture, she took the hand of each, and placing them together between her own palms, said: "You are friends now, friends—and brothers."

CHAPTER XXXII.

Monsieur le Deputy sat in an armchair at the door of his cottage in St. Louis. With eyes fixed upon the garden he yet saw nothing of the beauty of the little place, abloom with the reckless prodigality of late summer. There was no grass and few trees. Instead, he had chosen to make of his garden spot a maze of beds, fantastic in design, where, in riotous profusion, everything blossomed as though in haste to catch all the life of sun and breeze before the blasting breath of autumn. There was a carpet of petals on the ground, and the dust and down from falling blossoms danced to death in long shafts of sunshine.

Monsieur le Deputy noticed nothing of this. His thoughts were of the past, roving restlessly from camp to camp, changing as he had changed with uniform and flag. But to each true; the varied service had left on his conscience no scar, only a broad-minded charity for every race and creed. Reminiscence, therefore, brought no sting, and he puffed contentedly and abstractedly away, watching the rings of smoke drift into various shapes with the wind's fancy.

A locust's note sounding its dreary prophecy startled him. For this old soldier, who had faced without flinching, sword and bullet's nail, shrank each year from autumn's carnage. Summer, with its warmth and light, was the prototype of life and living; under its beams he was young, revivified. With the chill of autumn he was old—seemed to lose many years with the coming of each winter. And each year the warning sounds of falling leaf and locust's cry were to him as the passing bell to hope and prime.

Thoughts like these saddened his eyes, made grave the corners of his mouth, and he sighed, restlessly knocking ashes from a pipe against the hollow of his hand—that hand yellow, as with the rust of a sword. He was roused by voices at the gate, and a hand slipped the latch. The wicket opened to admit a man and woman, who sauntered together up the path.

The deputy's face was aglow as, starting from his chair, he met the visitors half way.

"You are very welcome, Monsieur Winslow—and this lady—"

"Is my wife, your excellency."

"Your wife? Tres bein, I congratulate you, Monsieur," and with soldierly courtesy the old man raised Lavender's hand to his lips.

Then he brought chairs for his guests, asking a multitude of questions—chiefly of how Winslow had spent his time since they last met, adding, with a smile at Lavender, "It has not all been wasted; that one may read who is running."

Hiding her amusement at his quaint speech, Lavender led him to talk of himself, of his past, of the hero at whose name more hearts than his own thrilled. The old soldier grew eloquent. "Ah, madame, could you but see Napoleon le Grand! You must see him to say 'I have lived!'" And he struck his chest dramatically. "He is the sun; he shall have the face of the world for his dial."

"But even the sun has his hour for setting, your excellency," Lavender ventured, with teasing archness.

"True, gracious lady, but he will rise again. The world needs the sun, madame, the world needs Bonaparte."

"The world is to be congratulated that it has both, Monsieur," she replied sweetly.

Winslow interposed. "Now, having satisfactorily disposed of his excellency's hero as the light of the world, suppose we descant upon mine? I am bound on a long journey to see Aaron Burr."

But he corrected himself, with a fond look at Lavender. "I mean, that is to be a part of our mission."

"Ah, Monsieur le Colonel Burr? Oui I have heard that he is—how you say, trying?"

Winslow and Lavender exchanged glances at once amused and sympathetic.

AS TO CHOOSING WIVES.

Says Avoid "Giggling Fools, a Painted Doll" and Similar Kind.

Millville, Sept. 20.—As all the townsfolk know Rev. Frank Anderson is to take a second wife next Christmas, and as his dead wife's sister is to be that new helpmate, there has been great interest in the series of sermons he has begun on "The Wedding Ring," and as Sunday night's special topic was "Choosing a Partner," the First Baptist church was crowded by persons eager to hear his views on so momentous a theme. After telling of the failures made by many prominent men in their matrimonial selections, the clergyman closed by giving the following advice and rules to young men in the selection of life partners:

"Do not have anything to do with a girl that sniffs at religion. Do not be carried away with a pretty face. Our worst women are usually what the world calls pretty. Be sure the girl has character. This is often what the world calls homeliness. What you want is a noble, a true, a devoted wife, not a butterfly, a giggling fool, a painted doll, a dressmaker's model a gossip or a mixture of artificiality which leaves you in doubt where the humbug ends and the real woman begins."

Rev. Mr. Finn to Speak.

Rev. A. E. Finn will address the great open air meeting to be held under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. in Band Concert Park on Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The Jenkins Orphan Pickaninny Band and Jubilee Concert Co., of Charleston, S. C., will again furnish special music.

—The Jenkins Orphan Pickaninny Band and Jubille Concert Co., of Charleston, S. C., will give another concert under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. on Saturday evening. A silver offering will be received at the box office.

Baseball and General Sports

DIAMOND DUST.

The sporting writer of the Jersey City Journal is trying to figure out how the Skeeters can win the Eastern League pennant and this is what he says: "To win the flag Jersey City must win every game and at the same time four defeats must be handed to Buffalo. A condition that is not at all probable, therefore the team has little prospect of getting beyond their position. Four defeats for Buffalo in the next five games and a straight string of victories would give Jersey City a percentage of .596 and Buffalo .593."

This is another way the Jersey City writer figures: "There is still another condition under which the Jerseys might yet carry off the flag, should the weather clerk join issue with the Skeeters and send continuous rain upon the Buffalo team, and at the same time permit the sun to shine at Toronto and Montreal and the Jerseys succeed in winning all five games, then victory would follow."

An effort will be made to hold a meeting of the Plainfield Baseball Association on Saturday night at the Iroquois Hotel, at which time it is expected that Manager Daab will be present. A meeting is desired to settle up the old accounts. Mr. Daab has written Vice-President N. B. Smalley that he would like to have the association affairs adjusted and if Charles W. Runyon, the treasurer, returns from Philadelphia in time the meeting will be held.

The New York Americans are not justifying their right to the title of near-champions judging by their play during the past few days. They have been dropping games too frequent to please their fondest supporters and their is a dark cloud in the sky for those who saw visions of a championship flag floating at the American League grounds in New York at the close of the season. However, it is not too late yet to redeem lost honors and it is to be hoped that the Highlanders will do the trick.

There is no doubt but that "Christy" Mathewson has had an off year, but he will be heard from next season, and there is every indication that he will do some fine work in the box. The old cry that he has gone back and will never be good again is disputed by those who know his condition.

Fred Burchell, of the Baltimore Eastern League team, could easily make good in one of the big leagues and it is too bad that he cannot have the chance. He would be a strong addition to anyone of the big league teams.

GOLF.

There is a possibility of Jerome D. Travers and Walter J. Travis competing in the invitation tournament to be held on the links of the Morris Country Golf Club today, tomorrow and Saturday. Max Behr holds the amateur record of the course at 72, but it is believed that with a strong field competing this mark will be at least equaled.

Max Behr made his record several years ago, and despite repeated efforts on the part of any number of strong players it has never been threatened. The course is not considered a difficult one, covering as it does a playing length of a trifle less than 6,000 yards. In the qualifying round of the New Jersey State championship at Morris county in the spring, Percy R. Pyne, 2d, won the low score prize with 77.

Dr. Lee L. Harban, of Washington, last year's winner, will be one of the favorites in the annual open tournament to be held at the Wilmington Golf Club, September 27, 28 and 29.

The further development of property adjacent to the Park Golf Club calls for the opening of a new street through the course. However, this should not affect the course materially, as similar conditions exist elsewhere.

A kickers' handicap has been arranged for the golfing members of the Dunwoodie Country Club on Saturday, eighteen holes medal play. Prizes will be presented to the first three players having net scores nearest to bogie, and there will also be a gross prize.

It is expected that between sixty and seventy entries will be received for the invitation tournament which begins at the Morris County Golf Club, today. Entries have been received from Charles B. Macdonald and H. J. Whigham, the Scotch amateurs, who helped to make golf history in this country back in the 90's.

According to the present outlook October will be unusually lively among the golfers. There is a chance of the Baltusrol Golf Club entering the list with an open tournament. Other important events are the women's national championship tournament to be held over the links of the Brae Burn Country Club the week of October 8; the annual championship gathering of the Intercollegiate Golf Association to be held at Garden City, probably the following week, and the first annual championship tournament of the Eastern Professional Golfers' Association to be held over a nearby course next month.

Theatrical Game On.

The ball game scheduled between "Bill" Counihan's theatrical team and the nine picked from Arthur Dunn's "Little Joker" company will be played this afternoon commencing at 3 o'clock.

ANNUAL REUNION OF 14TH REGIMENT

CIVIL WAR VETERANS HOLD 28TH SESSION AT ELIZABETH.

Survivors of the Fourteenth Regiment, New Jersey Volunteers, some of whom are Plainfielders, held their twenty-eighth annual reunion in Elizabeth, in Arcanum Hall, Broad street, yesterday. They began to arrive at about 10 o'clock, and were cordially greeted by members of the reception committee. The hall was decorated with flags, among which was the old war flag carried through the war by Company C, which was recruited by Col. Chauncey Harris, who was chosen president of the regimental association at a meeting held at Rahway last year.

At 10:45 o'clock the assemblage was called to order by Col. Harris, who spoke words of welcome, and said he was pleased to see so many members of the association in attendance.

Mayor Berry was introduced and made an address of welcome. He welcomed the veterans of the city, where he said they would see much to interest them in the historic buildings. Mayor Berry referred to the sacrifices the veterans had made in the war for the Union, and hoped they would enjoy their reunion.

Prayer was offered by the Rev. D. Sorter, of Trenton, a member of the association.

Major John C. Patterson, secretary of the association, reported that the site for the monument to the memory of the veterans of the Fourteenth Regiment at Monacacy would be dedicated on July 9, 1907. He said the Legislature would undoubtedly make an appropriation to have the veterans and their wives and daughters taken to the battlefield on that day. It was resolved that the next reunion would be held at the site of the new monument on that date.

After listening to the report of the treasurer, Captain Putnam, of Rahway, and the appointment of a committee to nominate officers, the veterans and their wives as guests of Ulric Dalgren Post, No. 25, Grand Army of the Republic, and headed by a detail of the post, marched to the Soldiers and Sailors Monument at Military Square. The procession was led by the drum and bugle corps of the Christ Church Cadets, of Elizabeth.

Col. Chauncey Harris marshaled the parade. On arriving at the monument a hollow square was formed.

By request, Sergeant Elias D. Smith, of the Fourteenth, read the poem which he had read at the dedication of the monument on July 4. It was greeted with applause. After the reading of the poem all joined in singing "My Country, 'Tis of Thee."

Many persons were attracted to the spot, among the number being a class from school No. 10, whose pupils were interested spectators of the exercises. At 1:45 o'clock the exercises at teh monument were ended. Then, with the young musicians playing a lively air, the veterans returned to Arcanum Hall, where dinner was served at 1 o'clock.

The reunion was continued yesterday afternoon, on the programme being an address by the Rev. Dr. T. E. Vassar, who was an army chaplain. Miss Luella C. Harris, a daughter of Colonel Harris, sang.

About 100 members of the Fourteenth Regiment attended the reunion. They were given souvenirs indicating the location of historic buildings in Elizabeth, prominent churches, etc.

The Fourteenth N. J. Volunteer Infantry was recruited in 1862, Company C, under command of Captain Chauncey Harris, representing the city of Elizabeth. It served until the close of the war, and was honorably discharged in June, 1865. The regiment participated in many of the hardest-fought battles of the Civil War.

Major John C. Patterson, secretary of the association, read the following letter of regret from President Frank Bergen, of the Soldiers and Sailors' Monument Association:

"My Dear Col. Harris—I regret very much that I will not be able to meet the veterans on Wednesday net at the Soldiers and Sailors' Monument in Elizabeth, as I must be absent in New England. I should be happy indeed to extend to them a very cordial welcome at the site of the monument on behalf of the association, and personally as well.

"In July when I had the honor of presenting the monument to the city I realized that it is impossible to express in words the obligations of our generation, and indeed of our race, to the brave and patriotic gentlemen who offered their lives for the Union in the Civil War. Indeed, I have wondered sometimes whether even the soldiers and sailors themselves fully realized the magnitude and grandeur of their action. It is hardly possible that anyone could have foreseen through the fearful clouds that obscured the feature in 1861 that the Union soldiers and sailors were about to force civilization forward and upward more rapidly than it had ever been advanced before, and at the same time to secure, apparently for all time, every advanced position that should be taken.

"The granite shaft which we have erected is an effort to express popular admiration of the soldiers and sailors who actually, for the first time, founded the Union through the Civil War is the whole country. Nothing else so grand was ever brought into existence and secured by the intelligence, heroism and sufferings of man.

"I sincerely trust that you and your comrades may live long to enjoy the affectionate regard of your fellow citizens. Sincerely yours,

"FRANK BERGEN,
"President of the Soldiers and Sailors Monument Association of Elizabeth."

from State reports, Mrs. L. H. Noe, Elizabeth; Loyal Temperance Legion, Miss May E. Howlett, Plainfield.

The afternoon session was concluded with a memorial service during which eulogistic remarks were made by the officers and members concerning those who have died during the past year.

The feature of the evening service was an address by Rev. Florence Randolph, colored of Jersey City, who gave an interesting talk on "The Need of the Hour."

THE FORUM.

Mr. Tracy's Views.

Plainfield, Sept. 20, 1906.

Editor, The Daily Press:

Will you or Mr. Buxton please indicate in what part of Mr. Depew's letter he states that he is or has been in favor of a special election to consider the water question?

His charge is that the proposition to bring the matter before the voters for an expression of their opinion has not been decided by the council. This is admitted by Mr. Buxton, who states that a meeting of his committee is to be held next week, after the primaries, to decide whether the matter should be submitted to the people at the general election. We do not yet know whether it is to be so submitted, and for aught we know, Mr. Buxton's committee may decide to recommend that it be not so submitted.

HOWARD C. TRACY.

(From Mr. Depew's statement one would naturally infer that he coincided with the views of the councilmen who endeavored to have a favorable vote taken on the resolution by that body in order to hold a special election sometime in June. That was the plain intention of those who wanted the Council to act at once. Mr. Depew says:

"For some time past one of the independent members of the Common Council has been endeavoring to have brought before the people, for an expression of opinion, the question as to whether they favor a thorough investigation of the subject with the end in view of the city acquiring its own supply and system. Prompt action upon this subject has been and is most important, as the longer it is delayed the more difficult it becomes, owing to the increasing value of the franchise. Despite this fact it seems to have been impossible to get it out of the hands of the committee, the chairman of which is a good and true member of the machine."

It will be recalled that the majority of the councilmen were against holding any special election, preferring to have the matter come up at the general election, and for that reason if we mistake not seven of the eleven members voted to hold the resolution over. Mr. Buxton, we believe, stated at that time that he could see no good reason why action should be taken then when it would mean an expense of $1,000, which could be saved the city by having the question decided at the general election. We fail to see why Mr. Depew should censure Mr. Buxton, whom he calls "a good and true member of the machine," simply because the Common Council decides that no special election be held. We believe that Mr. Buxton has all along intended to bring the matter up again in ample time for the general election, although the four who wanted the matter disposed of in June have made no effort since then to have the Common Council act.—Editor.)

LAW LEADS TO LOVE.

Pastor to Marry Girl Interested in a Church Suit.

A happy sequel to the suit of St. Matthew's Lutheran church, in Wayne street, Jersey City, against Mrs. Lohse, widow of Henry Lohse, a wealthy grocer, for a bequest of $2,000 to the church, was announced yesterday. Mrs. Lohse defeated the church in the courts.

Now the pastor, Rev. Arnold Bavendam, is to marry Mrs. Lohse's youngest daughter, Miss G. Marie Lohse. Pastor Bavendam is twenty-eight years old and lives at No. 92 Mercer street, adjoining his church. He has been in Jersey City five years. Very soon after his arrival the contest over the Lohse legacy began.

Mrs. Lohse and her two daughters live at No. 104 Jersey avenue. Miss G. Marie Lohse is eighteen years old. Notwithstanding their contest with the church over the Lohse will, the widow and her daughters have remained steadfast supporters of the church. The date of the wedding has not been fixed.

Henry Leifke and B. Frank Coriell have been spending two days at the Allentown Fair.

—On a competitive basis, Councilman Herbert Buxton, of this city, secured the insurance for $25,000 placed on the furniture and fixtures in the new court house at Elizabeth.

SOMERSET CO.'S SCHOOLS

Supt. H. C. Krebs in Annual Statement Compares Town and Rural Schools.

STATISTICAL REPORTS

Total Enrollment 6,417—Increase in Teachers' Salaries $7,368—New Schoolhouses.

Superintendent H. C. Krebs, of the North Plainfield schools, who is also county superintendent, has submitted the annual report of school affairs in Somerset to State Superintendent Charles J. Baxter. It shows them to be in good condition and notes an increase of twenty-nine per cent. in attendance over last year. The report contains many excellent suggestions for making further progress from both the teachers and pupils' standpoint and in details is as follows:

"The statistical report for Somerset county shows this year a total enrollment of 6,417 pupils, an increase over last year of 93 pupils. In spite of this small increase there were employed seven teachers more than last year. The daily attendance increased 29 per cent., tardiness decreased by 1,310 cases. The average annual salary of male teachers (not including superintendents and supervising principals) rose $54, that of female teachers $6.36. The increase in total teachers' salaries was $7,368, in manual training $2,000, text books $288, transportation of pupils $151, tuition of pupils in other districts $210.

"The number of grammar school graduates rose from 65 to 115, an increase of 77 per cent.

"The most important figures are always those that relate to the district tax. At the annual meeting in March the people voted a total increase for all school purposes of 26 per cent. The total increase for current expenses was 21 per cent. Conspicuous among the districts that increased their amounts for current expenses are, Bernards Township, 100 per cent; Hillsborough township, 82 per cent; North Plainfield township, 43 per cent; Bridgewater township, 37 per cent. The last named added 46 per cent a year ago. It may be stated that in almost every instance these increases were voted unanimously. In Bernards township the school meeting was very largely attended, but not one vote was cast against doubling the tax. The largely attended, but not one vote was cast against doubling the tax. The people of that township were gratified with the progress of the schools, and were perfectly willing to bear the expense of the improvements. The same feeling actuates the voters in nearly all parts of the county, though I regret to state that in several cases, the failure of the boards of education to ask for more money and use their influence toward securing it has neutralized all efforts toward the improvement of their schools.

"There has been some activity in the building of new school houses. Bridgewater township completed and occupied its four room addition at Raritan, and established a one year's high school course. North Plainfield borough opened its $40,000 addition in September; and at the same time the eight room $100,000 building at Bernardsville was turned over to the district by the donor, Mr. Frederick Olcott, with appropriate exercises.

"Last April Bound Brook vited $20,000 for an eight room building to be known as public school No. 2. Bedminster township is about to erect an eight room building at Peapack, and a four-room building has been voted in the borough of Rocky Hill. A four years' high school course has been established at Bernardsville, a one year's course at Peapack. Somerville has introduced a special teacher of drawing and manual training.

"The Somerset County School Board Association held two meetings during the year under the presidency of Judge L. H. Schenck. Both were well attended, and of much profit.

"The Somerset County Teachers' Association held three meetings, the last of which was the largest in the history of this body. President C. G. Horner arranged an excellent program for each occasion.

"It has been a great pleasure to me to note the increased efficiency of our teachers in the graded and in the ungraded schools. Especially in the latter has there been a marked improvement in the enthusiasm and inspiration. One feels the tone of the school in a few minutes; and tone is the difference between life and death. It results from the efforts of an inspiring teacher to touch the souls of the pupils. When these are in accord the air of the school is charged with electric power, and wonders are accomplished in the way of awakening pupils to high ideals.

But after this is said, it is still

GILES DECIDES TO DROP POLICE CASE

LONG STANDING CHARGE DISPOSED OF AFTER CHANGE OF PLEA.

A police court case that had hung fire for two months and a half was disposed of this morning, when John Giles, arrested on July 2 for drunkenness and disorder, appeared before Judge Runyon and changed his plea of not guilty to guilty. Sentence was suspended.

When the case first came up charges of assault were threatened against Roundsman Flynn, who made the arrest, and Giles' friends made a to-do over the matter that made a troublous time for the officer appear imminent. It was charged that the roundsman dragged Giles from his own premises and pounded him without cause. Flynn swore and was prepared to bring proof that Giles resisted arrest stubbornly. The defendant employed Fred Pope, of Somerville, as his lawyer, and the latter made preparations to fight the case to a finish.

Giles decided, this week, that he wanted the matter dropped, and he made a formal statement to that effect in court this morning. Sentence was suspended.

REPORTERS ENTERTAINED AT THE COUNTRY CLUB.

The Daily Press Defeats the Courier-News On the Golf Links.

Through the courtesy of the Plainfield Country Club, the reportorial staffs of The Daily Press and the Courier-News were given the privileges of the club yesterday afternoon, when a match game of golf was played. The scribes were first entertaind at the clubhouse, where, under the direction of David Shay, the club secretary, Mrs. Lena Hellstrom prepared and served a fine luncheon in one of the private dining-rooms. The menu was a choice one and was thoroughly enjoyed.

After the luncheon, Mr. Shay saw that each man was properly fitted out for the "great" contest on the golf course. "Marty" O'Loughlin, the club professional, provided the drivers, putters, mashies and balls and at 4:30 o'clock play was started. It required something over two hours to complete the match, when it was learned that The Daily Press team had won.

M. F. Elderton and Walter C. Dobbins were the first to tee off, and they were the first to finish, although several times it looked as though the other players would overtake them. Thomas M. Muir and George Ballentyne followed the first pair and Harry Knowles and Archibald Hacquer were the last to get away. Considering the fact that some of the players had never participated in the game before the scores were considered excellent. The summary follows:

The Daily Press—Walter C. Dobbins, 83; Thomas M. Muir, 84; Archibald Hacquer, 109.

The Courier-News—M. F. Elderton, 89; George Ballentyne, 100; Harry Knowles, 109.

COURT AGREED WITH HER.

Judge Runyon Sends Mrs. Cahill Where She Will Find Company.

"I am all alone, Judge, and I go out for company," said Mrs. Catherine Cahill, an untidy middle-aged woman when arraigned before Judge Runyon on a charge of drunkenness this morning. The testimony showed she had been in the habit of inviting herself to booze-fights in a neghbor's house.

"I guess you are too lonely where you are," agreed the magistrate. "I'll send you where you will have company. Forty days."

Sues For Separation.

Mrs. Olive B. Dunn has sued her husband, Wesley J. Dunn, for a separation. The petition was filed in the Court of Chancery this week, by William G. DeMeza, counsel for the wife. She alleges extreme cruelty and incompatibilty of temper. Mr. and Mrs. Dunn have not lived together for six months. They were married about three years ago.

Mrs. Kate Bowers Arrested.

Mrs. Kate Bowers was arraigned in the city court this morning, charged with disorderly conduct, on a complaint preferred by Mrs. Mutter. The case was postponed to Thursday morning at the request of the defendant's lawyer, W. G. DeMeza.

JOHN R. M'CALL DIES AT PROVIDENCE R. I.

END CAME WHILE HE WAS VISITING HIS SISTER.

Word came by telegram to the city yesterday announcing the death of John R. McCall, for many years a prominent resident of Dunellen. He passed away at the home of his sister, Mrs. Mary Delano, of Providence, R. I., early Wednesday night. He had been living there for a short time, his summer home being at Sheepshead Bay.

Mr. McCall was about seventy-five years old and until his retirement a short time ago was one of the oldest and best known engineers on the New Jersey Central. For a long time he ran the passenger train which leaves Plainfield for New York at 5:34 in the morning, Emory Robinson being the conductor and Tom Jones the baggage master. He quit the railroad a few years ago and had since been living a retired life.

He was a charter member of Perseverance lodge, No. 74, K. of P., the Pythian Endowment Rank and also Jerusalum lodge, F. and A. M., all of this city. He frequently came to meetings of Perserverance and Jerusalem lodges and was last here in August.

The telegram came from Mrs. Delano to Joseph C. Blimm and gave but few particulars. It stated that the funeral would be held Sunday afternoon at 2:30, but did not say where. It is presumed it will be at Providence and that interment will be at that place.

TALK OF A FOOTBALL LEAGUE IN COUNTY

ORANGE FIELD CLUB HAS A TEAM THAT COULD WIN THE CHAMPIONSHIP.

Talk of a county football league has been heard in several quarters, and the chances for the organization of one are no worse, at least, than they have been in other years. Which means that it may happen and it may not.

It is proposed to have representative teams from Elizabeth, Rahway, Summit, and Plainfield in it. Westfield is said to be out of the football game this year, and all the best talent there have joined teams in other places.

The Orange Field Club would jump at a chance to go into the league, and would make a strong bid for the championship. Some sort of trophy—a cup probably—would be hung up. The O. F. C. team looks like the best that has come out in this city in years. On paper it is what George McVoy calls the real candy kid of a team. Roy Phillips, the Alis veteran, will manage it.

The O. F. C. has plunged into heavy practice, and two nights a week from now until the season opens next month, the members will work hard to get into the pink of condition.

Dunellen is to have a strong team, too. Capt. Robert Maltby is sanguine of showing the O. F. C. a thing or two with his followers. There is an old rivalry between the two teams and if the elevens come together the wool will fly on both sides.

C. E. UNION MEETS.

Plans For the Coming Winter Discussed Last Night.

A very interesting meeting of the Congress of the local C. E. Union was held last night at Faith chapel. Besides the ordinary business, plans for the winter campaigns were discussed. As one branch of the work, it was decided to carry on extensive missionary work in and about the city. Cottage prayer meetings are to be held in the Clinton avenue district every week, commencing the first Thursday in October. It is desired that all Christian Endeavorers give their support in this work.

At the union meeting to be held next month in some large church of the city, it was decided to have the Rev. Henry Wood as the speaker. There was also a discussion for the betterment of the individual societies of the union. Following the meeting refreshments were served.

Installing Larger Manholes.

The New York and New Jersey Telephone Company, subway department, has just completed the installation of new manholes at Park avenue and Second street and Park avenue and Front street. They are extra large ones, replacing smaller ones which were inadequate for the number of cables to be laid in Park avenue and Front street.

Rev. Emmett Miller, pastor of the colored mission at Grace church, who has been quite ill for several weeks the result of an abcess is now improving.

SOUTHSIDE SEWER BIDS

To Be Received at the October Meeting of the Common Conucil.

SPECIFICATIONS READY

Scarcity of Labor and Pipe May Hold Up Improvement—Italians Prefer Other Kinds of Work.

While the Common Council expects to receive bids at the October meeting for the construction of the proposed southside sanitary sewer, the street committee, which has the improvement in charge, is a little doubtful about getting the work started very soon. There is a scarcity of labor, and this, added to the difficulty in getting pipe, may prove a barrier for carrying out the proposed plans.

At the September meeting bids were to have been received for the work, but the plans and specifications were not quite complete, and besides very few bids were received for the reasons mentioned. Of course, it would be possible for the city to make the improvement, but it would probably cost more money that it is willing to pay. While there is a need for this addition to the sewer system, the improvement is not what would be called imperative. However, there may be bids received next month within the calculations of the street committee and if so the work will be undertaken at once.

The work on the East End sewer is still progressing, but the contractors are still meeting with difficulty in getting a sufficient number of laborers. The Italians, mostly employed on sewer work, prefer other kinds if they can get it, and as the Public Service Corporation has been doing a great deal of repair work in town this year, and the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company has been pushing the underground work, a large number of Italians have been employed by these two corporations, resulting in a great scarcity of labor for sewer improvements.

Luncheon Parties at P. C. C.

Yesterday was a particularly busy day at the Plainfield Country Club, where a number of private luncheons were served. Among those who entertained were Mrs. A. G. Hooley, who gave a luncheon to a party of six; Mrs. Frederick W. Butler and Mrs. Henry L. Hall, who were in a party of six; Miss Sarah Schuyler and Miss Adelaide Ball, who entertained Miss Edgar, of Ilderan, champion tennis player of the East Jersey Lawn Tennis Association. Gordon Abbott also gave a luncheon to a party of Philadelphia friends, and Mrs. Henry C. Irons entertained a party of Plainfielders. W. M. Sperry and his brother, T. E. Sperry, of Cranford, were also among those who had lunch at the club.

Walter Colombo Returns Home.

Walter Colombo, of Jersey City, who has been in Muhlenberg Hospital for several weeks under treatment for injuries received by coming in contact with a mowing machine at Berkeley Heights, was discharged this morning and returned to his home. At the time of the accident, Colombo, who is a young lad, had one foot cut off by the mowing machine and the other one was badly lacerated. The prompt response of a trained nurse, who lived near Berkeley Heights, saved the boy's life. She gave temporary treatment, stopping the flow of blood and the hastened with the lad to the hospital, holding him on her lap with one hand and driving with the other.

Tennis at the P. C. C.

Among the events at the Plainfield Country Club, yesterday afternoon, was a tennis match, singles, between Miss Sarah Schuyler, of the home club, and Miss Edgar, of Ilderan, champion of the East Jersey Lawn Tennis Association. The latter won the match, 9-7, 6-3. Another match, doubles, between Mrs. Edgar and Miss Robinson, of Elizabeth, and Miss Adelaide Ball and Mrs. Boardman, of the home club. The Elizabeth pair won, 6-4, 6-3.

Goes Back to the Wheel.

Accepting the challenge of some of his friends, Captain W. C. Smith proved yesterday that he was a cyclist by riding a wheel up Somerset street at a good clip. He became so enthusiastic over the result that he immediately placed an order for a new coaster brake machine and will do his share toward reviving the sport.

Berrisberg Was Noisy.

John P. Berrisberg, a German, was arrested by Marshal Pope last night for raising a disturbance at the Mobus tables. He was discharged by his employer Wednesday and went back to see how much trouble he could make. Mayor Smalley will hear the facts tonight.

COUNCILMAN TYLER WILL SPEAK TONIGHT

TO TAKE THE STUMP AT THE FIRST WARD MEETINGS.

Judge Runyon and R. Henry Depew spoke for the reform ticket at the Quincy - Sergeant - Manchester Works, West Front street at noon today. No meeting was held last night, the rain falling just as the orators were getting ready to gather the crowd on Front street.

Two street meetings will be held in the First ward tonight. One will be at Richmond and Third streets, and the other at Netherwood and North avenues. Councilman William S. Tyler will be one of the speakers. Judge Runyon and R. Henry Depew will also speak.

It will be Mr. Tyler's first appearance as a speaker in the campaign. It is expected that he will have something to say of his experience with the city organization a year ago.

GOOD CARD FOR RACES AT THE DRIVING CLUB

MATINEE MEET TOMORROW WILL BE THE BEST OF THE SEASON.

One of the best cards offered this season at a matinee race will be run off at the Driving Park tomorrow afternoon. Horses from Perth Amboy, Woodbridge, Rahway, Westfield and this city will compete. Some fast steppers are entered, and the going will be interesting.

There will be three classes. The following horses have been entered so far, and more are expected:

Pioletenna Sphink, s. m., owned by Mr. Prawl, Perth Amboy; Bangnett, s. m., owned by Mr. Way, Rahway; Bessie Salsburry, owned by Mr. Thorne, Rahway; Maud, b. m., owned by Mr. Walling, of Woodbridge; Hal, b. g., owned by B. E. Carpenter, Woodbridge; black gelding, owned by B. E. Carpenter, Woodbridge; Albert L., b. g., owned by Jonh Barber, of New Brunswick; Prince, b. g., owned by Mr. Buckalew, of New Brunswick; black colt, owned by Harry Evans, of Westfield; Jessie Dine, owned by C. Smith, WeWstfield; Ben Butler, ch. g., owned by Thomas Brantingham, Plainfield; Roan View, r. g., owned by George Conover, Plainfield; Hartwood Bel, owned by J. W. Johnson, Plainfield.

A big attendance is hoped for. No charge will be made for admission, and the club members would like to see the grandstand filled. Some pretty heats are promised.

BASKETBALL LEAGUE.

Y. M. C. A. Team To Enter Northern New Jersey Group This Season.

The basketball team of the Y. M. C. A. will hold its first meeting of the season tonight. The chief matter to be discussed is the formation of Northern New Jersey league of Y. M. C. A. teams, which the local association will almost certainly join. The league is to be composed of teams from Orange, Newark, Montclair, Summit, Jersey City, Morristown and Passaic.

The association will also probably join a bowling league to be composed of practically the same associations, with Elizabeth in addition. The bowlers will meet next week.

This year's basketball team will probably be the same as last season's: Leary, Letson, Smith, Scull, Gavet, Thompson, Utzinger and Neal.

MAZE WAS REPENTANT.

Little Man Furnishes Amusement to City Court Room Crowd.

Maze Green, of Somerset street, a little, oldish man with an appetite for fiery waters, was arraigned before Judge Runyon in the city court, this morning, for accumulating a full-sized load yesterday afternoon. Maze had the shakes and was full of repentance.

"If you let me off this time, judge," he quavered, "I will never come back before you. I'd rather drown myself."

"That's what you tried to do yesterday," said Judge Runyon, and the crowd in the court room laughed. Sentence was suspended.

Miles—Ackor.

Invitations have been sent out by Mr. and Mrs. Philip H. Ackor to the marriage of their daughter, Miss Rosetta Allen Ackor, to Charles Albert Miles, on the afternoon of Wednesday, October 3, at 5 o'clock, at the home of the bride's parents, 147 Westervelt avenue. Mr. Miles is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Miles, of Somerset street.

Hymen Adelberg, of East Second street, has just returned from Toronto, Canada, where he attended the convention of the Odd Fellows, as delegate from Canton Hope, No. 6.

WIFE-BEATER SHED VAIN TEARS IN COURT

WALSH SOBBED A PETITION FOR MERCY BUT HE GOT SIXTY DAYS.

Weeping and sobbing, a drunkard wife-beater pleaded vainly for mercy in the city court this morning. James Walsh, the prisoner, was sentenced to sixty days in jail.

Walsh was arrested last night by Patrolman McKeon at his home on West Second street, after he had beaten his wife and children so brutally that the neighbors were forced to interfere. McKeon, Detective McCarthy and Chief Kiely testified that he was a heavy drinker and had assaulted him wife with weekly regularity. The family appeared to suffer for want of food and clothing, the officers said, and there was nothing they knew in Walsh's favor.

Big tears coursed down the prisoner's face as he faced the magistrate, and his body shook with sobs.

"Give me a chance, judge, please," he begged. "I'll take the pledge and I'll never lay a hand on my wife again. It's the drink, judge. I don't know what gets in me when I'm this way. Give me this chance and I'll never touch it again."

"A man who will strike the woman he has promised to honor and protect, the woman who has borne his children, is a dog," said the magistrate sharply. "I can't see that you are entitled to any chance. Sixty days."

Walsh's sobs filled the courtroom as he was led back to his cell, and the noise of weeping filtered through the partition after he was locked in.

ABBOTT TURNS IN THE BEST SCORE.

Intercollegiate Champion Wins the Score Trophy and May Get Chief Cup.

Robert Abbott, of this city, champion of the Intercollegiate Golf Association, led the field in the eighteen-hole medal play qualifying round of the invitation tournament which began yesterday on the links of the Morris County Golf Club. Abbott returned a score of 79. He also won in the first round at match play, and is now favorite for the chief cup. H. J. Whigham and Charles Macdonald, who were expected to be formidable opponents, failed to make as good a showing as their friends hoped for.

Abbott's score in the qualifying round was: 41—38—79. In the first round match play, Abbott defeated W. E. F. Moore, Englewood, 5 up and 4 to play. The first and second beaten eights and the beaten quartette started in again this morning for fine cups. Last night the players were entertained at a ball in the clubhouse.

Two Cars Shipped from Pennsylvania Are Now Two Days Overdue.

The ice question in Plainfield is still one for much concern on the part of dealers and consumers. Depending practically on the supply from the hygeia plant on North avenue, the Plainfield Natural Ice Company finds it impossible to meet the demands. This morning it was stated that the company expects a couple of cars of ice from distant points. They were due yesterday, but for some unknown reason have been delayed.

Consumers who have been getting a daily supply of 800 and 900 and even greater quantities have to be satisfied with about half the quantity. Representatives of the local company, as well as the independent dealers are still on the lookout for a supply and are making every effort to get ice. The product of the hygeia plant is used just as fast as it can be turned out, the machinery being run day and night.

Boys' Club Courses.

Plans for the opening of the Boys' Club on Sycamore street have been made by the Y. M. C. A., and classes will start the first week in October. The usual courses in carpentering, pattern-making, mechanical drawing and moulding will be offered the members. Boys' Secretary Barrows, of the Y. M. C. A., will be in charge of the work. Kenneth Robbie, now general secretary-elect of the Y. M. C. A., conducted the club last year.

Thespians Did Not Play.

The baseball game scheduled for yesterday afternoon on Crescent Oval between a team from the "Little Joker" company, which appeared at the Plainfield theatre, last night, and Manager Counihan's staff, was not played owing to wet grounds.

Tea For Miss Patterson.

MR. MELLICK DECLINES

Advisory Committee's Candidate Decides Not to Accept Mayoralty Endorsement.

GIVES HIS REASONS

Henry L. Hall, Leslie M. Daniel, E. H. Ladd, Jr., and John B. Dumont Mentioned Now.

Formal announcement is made by Councilman George P. Mellick of his declination to become a candidate for mayor, his decision having been made known in letters to that effect sent to former Mayor Charles J. Fisk, chairman of the Republican city executive committee, and former Mayor Alexander Gilbert, chairman of the Republican advisory committee. Following the receipt of the letter last night, Mr. Fisk arranged to meet with Mr. Mellick tonight to ascertain what steps the advisory committee would take to fill the vacancy.

Mr. Mellick's letter follows:

New York, Sept. 19, 1906.

My dear Mr. Fisk:

I have this morning sent a letter to Alexander Gilbert, Esq., chairman of the Republican Advisory Committee, of Plainfield, requesting that my name be not brought before the committee as candidate for mayor.

Believe me, I have given this matter most thoughtful consideration; I have tried very hard to see my way clear to permit my name to be brought before the convention, but it is impossible. I know I would regret it exceedingly were I to assume this additional responsibility.

I have sent the letter to Mr. Gilbert so that he may present it at a committee meeting, at his convenience. It does not seem proper that I should withhold my decision any longer. I do not want the criticism of keeping anyone in the "dark" and the newspaper could easily misinterpret a further delay on my part as being intentional, which would not only bring discredit upon me, but also upon the gentlemen who are most anxious for me to accept the nomination. You will see my point in this. I am sure.

Very sincerely yours,
GEORGE P. MELLICK.

Charles J. Fisk, Esq.,
Chairman City Executive Committee,
Plainfield, N. J.

Discussing the sudden turn given the political wheel by Mr. Mellick, Mr. Fisk said to-day: "As it stands, the regulars go to the primaries with delegates but without any candidate for mayor. I consider this unfortunate and I think undoubtedly that some steps will be taken in the direction of securing a candidate. In the present political situation, I feel that it is for the best interests of good government that the regulars should select the very best man in the party for the office, so that they can go to the primaries for the endorsement of the voters with two men, either one of which the voters would be willing to support should he receive the nomination."

County Chairman Frank H. Smith declined to make any statement.

Among the men who are now mentioned for the endorsement, according to talk on the street, are Henry L. Hall, former Councilman E. T. Barrows and Councilman Leslie M. Daniel. Mr. Hall has persistently declined but, it is said, great weight is being brought to bear on him to change his decision and accept the regulars' endorsement. Mr. Daniel, another man who stands high in the estimation of the voters irrespective of faction, is likely to be urged to become a candidate. Former Councilmen John B. Dumont and E. T. Barrows are men who have been of inestimable value to the city in the past.

The Colbyites were jubiliant when they heard that Mr. Mellick declined to run. They consider that their cause has been materially helped by the blow suffered by the organization and hope to benefit by it.

The name of George P. Mellick appears on thousands of the official ballots which have been delivered to the city clerk, but that fact will cause no trouble.

Starts Work On New Stores.

Titus Laury, who was awarded the contract for general masonry and carpentering work for Dr. A. W. Anderson's stores on the southeast corner of Front street and Watchung avenue, has started excavations for the same. The work, which is to be re-enforced concrete, was prepared by the Consolidated Engineering Company of America, of Wall street, New York city, and is to be done under the supervision of Mr. du Mazuel, president of the company.

Fred Dunavan, of North avenue, attended the wedding of Miss Nellie Breen, of Philipsburg, and Arthur Comings, of Perth Amboy, last night, at the home of the bride in Philipsburg.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY

Mrs. Martin Brennan, Francis McGuirk and William Kelly were arraigned before Justice Von Minden yesterday morning, on charges preferred by Martin Brennan. He accused his wife of drunkenness and disorderly conduct and McGuirk and Kelly with assault and battery. The charges grew out of a row at McGuirk's home in the Goth building Saturday night. Brennan went there after his wife, who he alleges was drinking and carrying on. He was badly used up in the scrap that followed, one of his ribs being broken, and the marks he showed in court made it evident that some lusty blows landed on him. Kelly admitted hitting Brennan, but claimed that he did it to protect Mrs. Brennan from her husband, who, it was alleged, started to beat her. Brennan denied the allegation. Mrs. Brennan said he did assault her. McGuirk took no part in the fight, according to the testimony of all the witnesses. Justice Von Minden fined Mrs. Brennan $25 or 30 days in jail and held Kelly for the Grand Jury in $200 bail. McGuirk was severely scored by the court, but released under suspended sentence. Mrs. Brennan and Kelly were taken to the county jail in default of the fine and bail.

Conscience-smitten after six years, an Elizabeth man, this week, sent Dr. P. W. Brakeley ten cents to settle up a debt on a glass of soda. He left the Doctor's drug store, while the physician was in a rear room, without paying for a drink that had just been served him. It was a five-cent drink, but he sent the extra nickel for interest. In his letter to the Doctor he says he has acquired a fortune of $70,000 since then, but all the time he had only a nickel in his pocket and would have had to walk to Plainfield, where he had friends, if he had paid for the soda. The dime, he assures the Doctor, wipes out his last indebtedness.

LETTER WRITTEN BY HENRY CLAY ON CONVENTION THAT NOMINATED TAYLOR

There is in the possession of Mrs. Georgiana J. Bohlen, of 217 Mulberry street, Newark, former corresponding secretary of the New Jersey Woman's Press Club, a letter sent by Henry Clay to David Webb, Mrs. Bohlen's grandfather, in the fall of 1848, after the nomination of Zachary Taylor for the Presidency and when Clay was being importuned by leaders of the various sections to allow his name to be placed in nomination for the fourth time for the Presidency. Mr. Webb lived at that time at 432 Pearl street, New York.

The paper is faded and yellow, but the writing is clear and distinct as the day on which Clay penned it. Probably the most interesting thing about the letter is that while in it are discussed matters of national issue, it has never been made public. It is marked "private" and contains in no uncertain language Mr. Clay's wish to have the letter kept from the newspapers.

More than half a century has passed since then, and there are not left many who can remember the stormy contest of '48, when "Old Rough and Ready," as Zachary Taylor was called, came home from the Mexican war to find his name on almost every tongue, and to hear himself hailed as the next President. Henry Clay had been disappointed three times, the first in 1824, the second in 1832 and the third in 1844, yet there was a strong feeling that fall that he should be the next can-

"Dear Sir:—I received and thank you for your friendly letter. I have been perfectly persuaded that the movements in New York and elsewhere, since the Philadelphia convention, to present my name as a candidate for the Presidency, proceeded from the warmest regard and atachment and the most friendly motives toward me. I have felt the deepest gratitude to my friends for the sentiments which they do me the honor to entertain. And I have felt the injustice and impolicy of the attacks made upon them by a part of the newspaper press most severely.

"After the nomination made at Philadelphia there was but one alternative for me, either to submit to it or to contest it upon the ground that it was not fairly made. Whatever I might have thought of the conduct of the convention itself, or that of particular delegations or that of particular delegates, standing as I did in an interested attitude, it did not become me to contest the decision. I therefore submitted to it. Having promptly resolved on this course, when I saw, in New York and other places, my name again announced as a candidate, I could not remain silent. Silence would have been acquiescence and that equivalent to express assent. Besides, I was formally addressed in several instances and asked if I would consent to become a candidate.

"I shall regret extremely if any of my friends are dissatisfied with the declaration which I have felt bound, uniformly and explicitly, to make, that I could not consent to the use of my name in connection with the Presidency.

"Although I have not the honor of a personal acquaintance with you, the very friendly tenor of your letter entitles you to these explanations, and I shall be happy if they command your approbation. I am, respectfully, your obedient servant,

H. CLAY.

"David Webb, Esq.

"P. S.—I have no objection to your showing this letter to any friends, but I have an invincible repugnance to appearing in the newspapers.

"H. C."

The repairs at the railroad crossing are finished; the old planks being replaced by new ones.

Too Heavy.

"So the engagement's off between May Plumpers and Jack."

"Yes, he says she was simply insupportable—"

"I guess it must have been rather a strain on his knees; she's no fairy, that's a fact."

700,000 DIVORCES.

Record Made in This Country Since 1867; in Canada 69.

Scranton, Sept. 21.—Rev. David C. MacDonald, of this city, made startling revelations of the divorce evil in a paper read Tuesday before the Methodist Ministerial Association. He stated that 700,000 divorces have been granted in the United States since 1867, as against sixty-nine in the same period in Canada.

He believes that the chief cause of the appalling conditions in this country is the growing tendency to look upon marriage as a civil contract and the failure to realize the sacred character of the relation.

Cleveland For Senator.

GERMS CAUSE DYSPEPSIA

IF YOU DON'T KILL THE DISEASE GERMS THEY WILL KILL YOU. PEPSOIDS DRIVE THE GERMS OUT OF THE STOMACH AND REBUILDS IT. WRITE FOR A FULL SIZED BOTTLE—FREE.

A noted physician of Pittsburg, Pa., in a recent letter to Dr. Oidman says:

"In your prescription known as 'Pepsoids' you have given the medical world the greatest and most valued discovery in medicine of the present century. You have at last solved the problem that has baffled the skill of the best physicians of recent times, how to cure permanently all Acute or Chronic Stomach Diseases known as Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Catarrh of the Stomach and Digestive Weakness. I have used your prescription, 'Pepsoids,' in hundreds of cases without a single failure. I attribute the success of your treatment mainly to the fact that the disease germs of the stomach cannot resist Pepsoids. Your theory that most Stomach Diseases are brought about by multitudes of nefarious disease-breeding germs must be correct, judging from the remarkable results attained from the use of your 'Pepsoids.' I consider 'Pepsoids' the best and most valuable remedy yet discovered, for the treatment of stubborn stomach ailments."

Pepsoids cure Dyspepsia and all Stomach Diseases, in a new way, by repairing the wornout lining of the Stomach and at the same time, destroy all disease-breeding germs. Dyspepsia and the worst forms of Stomach Disorders once cured in this way never returns.

Pepsoids are sold at drug stores at 50c. a bottle on an absolute guarantee or money refunded.

If you have not used Pepsoids before, we will send you a 50-cent bottle FREE. Send us your name and address and you will receive promptly, a full sized bottle.

You do not obligate yourself to pay a cent. All we ask, after Pepsoids have cured or greatly benefitted you is, that you recommend Pepsoids to your friends. Try Pepsoids to-day—they will cure you. The Vio Chemical Co., Chicago, Ill. 9

FOOTBALL.

With the football game on the threshold of the season, the time is about ripe that everyone playing the game or otherwise connected with the sport should be thoroughly acquainted with the changes in the 1906 rules. Following are the clauses that have been principally altered:

The length of the game has been shortened by ten minutes, the two halves each thirty minutes in duration.

The line of scrimmage for each is an imaginary line parallel to the goal line and passing through that point of the ball nearest the side's own goal line. It will be noted that there are thus two lines of scrimmage, one for each team, and the two teams are thus separated the length of the ball.

A player attempting to make a fair catch must signal his intention by raising his hand clearly above his head while advancing toward the ball.

Further addition has been made to the rule regarding "down." That is that the referee shall blow his whistle whenever any portion of the person of the runner with the ball, except his hands or feet, touches the ground while he is in the grasp of an opponent. The ball is also "down" when it goes across the goal line on a kick which has struck the ground in the field of play, except the kick-off, and also when it goes over in the same manner on a forward pass.

Hurdling is forbidden. Hurdling in the open is jumping over or attempting to jump over an opponent who is still on his feet. Hurdling in the line is jumping over or attempting to jump over a player on the line of scrimmage with the feet or knees foremost within a distance of five yards on either side of the point where the ball is put in play.

Holding has been specifically defined to include the following: Grasping an opponent with the hands or arms, placing the hands upon an opponent to push him away from the play, circling any part of the opponent with the arm or any use of the arm to lift an opponent in blocking. The only allowable use of the arm in blocking or obstructing an opponent is with the arms close to the body.

One forward pass shall be allowed to each scrimmage, provided such pass be made by a player who was behind the line of scrimmage when the ball was put in play, and provided the ball, after being passed forward, does not touch the ground before being touched by a player of either side.

The necessary distance to be gained in three downs has been doubled. That is, the side in possession of the ball must gain ten wards in three downs instead of five, as formerly. This is the most direct legislation against mass plays. It means fewer mass plays and more kicking.

When the ball has been kicked by a player other than the snapper-back, any player on the kicking side shall be on-side as soon as the ball touches the ground. This is also a very radical change.

Tripping and tackling the runner when clearly out of bounds, piling up on a player after the referee has declared the ball dead, hurdling and other acts of unnecessary roughness are punishable by a fifteen-yard loss. Tackling below the knees is punishable by a five-yard loss. Unsportsmanlike conduct, abusive or insulting language to opponents or officials is punishable by suspension for the remainder of the game.

A player on defense is forbidden to strike in the face with the heel of the hand an opponent who is carrying the ball.

On penalties that would carry the ball to or across the goal line, where formerly the distance has been halved, the ball will now be placed at the one-yard line.

DIAMOND DUST.

Billy Keeler, of the New York Americans, is reputed to be worth close to $100,000, the bulk of his money earned in baseball being invested in Brooklyn real estate.

Three players of the Tri-State League will join the St. Louis Nationals in Philadelphia this week—Outfielder Tom O'Hara, of Lancaster; Third Baseman Zimmerman and Pitcher McGlynn, of the York champion team.

Frank Farrell, owner of the New York American League Club, says that he is not opposed to a post-season series of game with the Giants, provided his team fails to win the pennant, but just now the Highlanders are too busy trying to finish in first position to talk about the post-season series.

Alexanler Bannister, of Buffalo, the star twirler, who signed with Rochester, has just received an offer for a try-out with the New York Giants for the rest of the season.

Plainfield, N. J., Sept. 21, 1906.

TO MR. NEW YORK MAN.

The New York Evening World last night presented an excellent argument why the New Yorker of moderate circumstances should abandan his "bird-cage" abode and settle with his family in the suburbs, within thirty miles of New York. That the editor must have had Plainfield in mind is not hard to imagine, for what he says applies particularly to this suburban community. Plainfield, the model town of New Jersey, unexcelled for its advantages and general conveniences, is connected with New York by fast expresses running at frequent intervals day and night. The social life is one of its chief attractions. So far as amusements are concerned not even the big city of Newark can surpass it, and so far as its schools and sanitary conditions are concerned few cities in the whole United States are equal to it.

The World says:

"What the tenant pays the landlord for the use of the landlord's property is popularly called 'rent.' In reality, rent includes also the cost of daily transportation. The dollars the people of New York city pay annually for shelter are almost fabulous in amount. The total is $560,000,000, or $140 for every man, woman and child.

"This is an enormous sum, and the way to reduce its amount is a pressing problem. High rent means crowded tenement-houses, and reduced expenditure for food, clothing and recreation. It means longer hours of toil, fewer comforts and luxuries, less sanitation, worse health and a higher death rate. Its evils are not inevitable! They cannot be wholly prevented, but they can be mitigated.

"The rent which the tenant pays for shelter has two elements, payment for the use of the land and payment for the use of the building. The land was placed where it is by thousands of years of geological processes. The building was either put there by the landlord or built by some one else whom the present landlord paid. The value of the building is fixed by the cost of replacing it. The value of the land is determined by the quantity of it accessible and the number of people who desire to use it. A tax on buildings increases the rent, while a tax on land does not affect the tenant's rental payments.

"The number of buildings is limited only by the cost of their construction. The amount of land cannot be changed. But the area of its accessibility can be enlarged. This situation makes the transportation problem inseparable from the rent problem. If all means of daily passenger transportation were abolished everybody who worked on Manhattan Island would have to eat and sleep within walking distance, and the value of that land area would be still further increased. If passenger transportation were costless and instantaneous a man could live in the Catskills or the Adirondacks and work in New York. The value of the land on Manhattan Island used for residential purposes would be greatly lessened, and the rent problem would be solved.

"Rent can never be made lower than the interest on the cost of building a house and the taxes and repairs. And any scheme which promises free rent is impossible of execution.

"The land and buildings of New York city are assessed at five and a half billion dollars. Their market value is $8,000,000,000, one-twelfth of the total wealth of the United States. The taxes annually collected from this source are $80,000,000. The annual cost of passenger transportation, including all the surface and elevated roads, the subway and the daily commuters, is $80,000,000. The average net rental is about five per cent., or $400,000,000. Adding to this the taxes, repairs and transportation, the total fully equals $560,000,000.

"Of these real estate values half represent the value of the land and half the buildings. Below Canal street on Manhattan Island the land is worth more than the buildings. Even in the suburbs the value of the unimproved land makes up the excess value of the building where the lot is improved. The only way to lower the rentals on this land value is either to diminish the population of New York or to make more land available. The latter alternative is entirely feasible.

"Within thirty miles of City Hall there is enough land to give every family in New York city a lot fifty feet by one hundred. Within fifty miles there is enough land to give every family an acre plot.

"When the tunnels under the Hudson and the East River are completed and when electric traction is applied to all the suburban roads, Putnam, Orange, Suffold and Passaic counties will be as accessible from downtown New York as were Washington Heights before the subway was built. Not everybody will want to go to the country. Many people will prefer to live in a crowd. But the accesibility of 2,000 square miles of additional land will enable any one to escape from high rents.

"The gain will mean more than a lowering of rents. The general cost of living can be reduced. A fifty foot lot will raise enough vegetables to supply any family from spring to winter. A corner of the lot gives room for enough chickens to furnish the household eggs. The cost of food can be decreased a third. Old clothes can be worn out in the country. The children will be healthier, happier and sturdier.

"The mistake many people in going to the country make is in trying to do too much. They buy more land and build too big house, which are expensive to heat and care for. They feel that they have to have horses or automobiles. They are not satisfied to do without many things which they would never think of having did they live in an apartment or a flat. Such expensive efforts make country life a bugaboo.

"The new system of concrete building is most adaptable to dwellings and will help solve the problem of country living. It requires simple construction without gewgaws and fancy scroll work, which make enlarged bird-cage houses hideous in appearance and expensive for repainting and repairs. The old Dutch farmhouse construction carried out in modern concrete is cheap to build, cheap to heat, easy to keep in order and simple to live in."

T. J. HILLERY CALLS COLBY PARTY TRAITOR

DECLARES COLLEAGUE REMAINS IN REPUBLICAN RANKS TO GAIN OFFICE.

With State Senator Thomas J. Hillery as principal speaker, the organization Republicans of Hudson county opened their campaign last night with a well attended mass meeting in Hasbrouck Hall, Jersey City. Representative Mashall Van Winkle was chairman.

Referring to Mayor Fagan's candidacy for Assembly on the New Idea ticket, Senator Hillery said the Mayor's name was simply put on the ticket as a drawing card, and asked why the so-called reformers didn't name the remainder of the Assembly ticket. He characterized Mayor Fagan, Senator Colby and Corporation Counsel Record as traitors to their party and their benefactors in the past.

Continuing, Senator Hillery said: "The Democratic party, in the history of the State, has never made such infamous charges against the regular Republican party as has the leader of the New Idea. Their purpose in remaining in the Republican party is to hoist themselves into office. Whether they remain in the party depends upon whether they win at the primaries.

"Mr. Record is going about the State declaring that the money to be paid into the State Treasury by the railroads because of the Equal Taxation law formerly went to the political bosses. If these great railroad corporations have the power Mr. Record and Mr. Colby say they have, why did they permit the legislators to pass the bill increasing the taxes of the railroads, the bill abolishing the fee system and also the bill prohibiting the diversion of portable water to Staten Island?

"Why are the New Idea leaders trying to obtain control of the Assembly and the Senate? Because they want to elect George L. Record to the United States Senate.

"I ask you, who are neighbors of Record, if you think he is a fit man to represent New Jersey in the United States Senate?"

A chorus of "No!" was the reply.

Senator Hillery declared that Mr. Record had illegally collected $7,000 in fees while he was counsel for the New Jersey State Riparian Board. "I want to ask you if that is the kind of man you want to represent you in the United States Senate?" concluded Mr Hillery. Another chorus of "No!" and the band played "Yankee Doodle Dandy" as Senator Hillery retired in favor of Prosecutor of Pleas William

SHE SAYS HUSBAND IS GUILTY OF BIGAMY.

Declares Man Imposed on Police With False Story of Highway Robbery.

Mrs. Frank Powers, of No. 188 Irving street, Newark, went to the Second Precinct Police Station yesterday and asked for a warrant for the arrest of her husband, whom she charged with being a bigamist. A warrant was refused her when she said the alleged offense was committed in Hagerstown, Md.

Mrs. Powers is young and a professional musician. She informed Police Captain Daly that she met and was wooed in record time by Powers at Hagerstown about a year ago. She was playing at a concert at that place at the time and said that the marriage took place three days after her first meeting Powers.

Mrs. Powers said that she has since learned that her husband, who posed as a single man, had a wife and three children at the time of his marriage to her. She said she obtained this information from her father-in-law, who also informed her, she said, that a charge of bigamy had been made against Powers by his first wife at Hagerstown.

The woman told the police that it was her husband who complained to Captain Daly last June that he had been assaulted and robbed by two men in a lonely spot near Mount Pleasant cemetery. The police investigated this story and declared it a concocted yarn.

Mrs. Powers declared that the police were correct in their conclusion, as Powers had followed her to Newark and had no money to be robbed of.

Saved Drowning Pupil.

Chatham, Sept. 21.—H. Loock was the hero in a life-saving episode yesterday afternoon. Owing to the intense heat a number of the school children betook themselves to Edwards' pond for a swim. Among the number was Willie Joyce, the twelve-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Joyce, who was unusually venturesome. His cries for help attracted atention and Loock jumped in to his rescue fully dressed. He succeeded in bringing his ashore without much difficulty, but the lad lost consciousness meanwhile, and it was some time before he was brought to.

State Fair Opens Monday.

Trenton, Sept. 21.—The Interstate Fair of 1906 will open here Monday, September 24, and continue until Friday evening, September 28. There will be many special features this year, and prominent among them will be the exceptionally fine racing programme and Knabenshue, the aerial navigator. Special attention has been paid this year to the racing.

TWO ITALIANS GET INTO SERIOUS FIGHT.

Rassie Sent to Jail for Throwing Stone at Fellow Laborer at Westfield.

Westfield, Sept. 21.—A scrap took place between two Italians of the Central Railroad section gang, at this town Wednesday, while the men were at lunch, with the result that one man's ear was nearly torn off by a stone, and the man who threw the stone was arrested and sent down to the county jail for thirty days.

Frank Rassie, of Jersey City, was arrested upon complaint of Frank Thomas, the latter charging assault and battery. The stone used by Rassie was produced in court and was smeared with blood. Thomas was obliged to call upon a physician, who dressed his wounds. Judge Toucey fined Rassie $10 or thirty days in jail.

Wings and Flies

By Tom Muir.

Following his first song in "The Little Joker," last night, New York friends and well wishers of Arthur Dunn presented him with an immense floral horseshoe composed of American Beauty roses. It was as high as Dunn himself, wh poroudly lays claim to five feet and was sent out from the city by special messenger. Other members of the company were also remembered with tributes.

Ezra Kendall is to return to Plainfield this season in his new play, "Swell Elegant Jones," from his own pen and that of Herbert Hall Winslow. Last year Ezra appeared in "The Vinegar Buyer."

William Crane, one of the three Crane brothers familiar to vaudeville patrons, died Monday at Saranac Lake after a short illness from tuberculosis. He was a life-long friend of William L. Holbert, the former Plainfield and coach of the Hope Y. M. A. minstrels, the two spending their boyhood days at Scranton, Pa. The Crane brothers presented a sketch called "The Mudtown Minstrels" and William Crane will be instantly recalled by many Plainfielders when it is stated that he was the "middleman' wh ostepped to the footlights and said in a squeaky voice "special announcement."

Another galaxy of stars will hold the boards at the New Plainfield next week. Creston Clark appears Monday night in "The Ragged Messenger;" Jess Dandy in "The Prince of Pilsen," Tuesday; Raymond Hitchcock in "The Galloper," Wednesday and Blanche Ring in "Miss Dolly Dollars," Friday. In addition, "Lovers and Lunatics," one of the best musical comedies on the road, will be presented Thursday night.

WOMEN APPLAUD BOUTS.

Tom Sharkey Boxes and Referees at Englewood Carnival.

Hackensack, Sept. 21.—Tom Sharkey, the sailor pugilist, boxed and refereed bouts at the hospital carnival at Englewood last evening, and won the plaudits of many women as well as of the men. In fact, the women seem to spur the pugilists on, and it is feared that their encouragement may lead to a knockout before the wind-up on Saturday night. "Kid" McCoy will spar at the carnival on Saturday night, and the management expects a good man to meet him. The boxing bouts have become a feature of the carnival.

Miss Laura Drake Smith, chairman of the women's bazaar, reports that her many booths have been well patronized during the week, and several freak tents are doing a rushing business, thanks to the efforts of the corps of willing amateur "barkers."

Mack Deserts Hearst.

New York, Sept. 21.—Norman E. Mack, of Buffalo, Democratic national committeeman, and one of the most active advocates of the nomination of William Randolph Hearst for governor by the Democratic party, hurled a bomb into the Hearst camp yesterday by repudiating the New York millionaire newspaper owner and notifying the district delegates of the second district Democratic convention that if he should be elected delegate to the State convention it must be with the understanding that he will oppose Heart's nomination.

An Important Commission.

Governor Stokes yesterday appointed James H. McGraw, of Madison; A. B. Leach, of South Orange, and Assemblyman Alfred N. Barber, of Trenton, as members of the commission provided for by a resolution adopted at the last session of the Legislature to investigate and report to the Legislature upon the feasibility of a law providing for a division of the profits of public utility corporations among the municipalities which may grant such corporations permission to do business.

"Randolph's Quinine and Glycerine" Hair Tonic.

The proper treatment and care for the hair is very important. The tendency to baldness seems to be on the increase, but there is no need to be bald if you give your hair the proper attention and use "Randolph's Compound Quinine and Glycerine" Hair Tonic.

By imparting vitality to the roots of the hair, it stops it from falling out, irradicates dandruff, assures the continued growth and prevents baldness and final loss. It is richly perfumed and is an elegant dressing for the hair. Prepared either with or without oil—oil for dry hair and without oil for olly hair.

SOMERSET CO.'S SCHOOLS

true that there is a wide gap between the rural and the town schools; and that gap is increasing because more rapid progress is being made in the town and city than in the country.

"The town pays good salaries. It engages none but trained and experienced teachers. It furnishes them with all the facilities needed for the best work. It gives them a pleasant school room, and recognizes success by an increased salary.

"The rural school pays a low salary. It is compelled therefore to take many untrained and inexperienced teachers. These have few facilities for work, and there is little to encourage them to put forth their best efforts.

"Yet in the rural school is precisely where the best possible teached is needed. In the city there are many opportunities for inspiration and culture outside of the school; but in the country the teacher is often the only uplifting force in the community. If the children of the country get no inspiration from the school, they never get it at all, and thus lose their intellectual and moral birthright. Yet into this position of almost fearful moment to he children we send our untrained, inexperienced, and often helpless teachers. The child has this one chance for life, and we call in the poorest doctor. It seems to me that the State fails in its duty to its people when it permits untrained teachers to practice on the souls of children, just as it would be culpuable if it allowed untrained physicians to practice on their bodies.

We have come to the point in our educational development when no license should be granted to an untrained applicant who wishes to enter the profession of teaching. The country child is entitled to as much as the city child; and the State should see that it is granted that right.

The increased amount of State aid due the districts will make it possible for teachers' salaries to me materially raised without additional local tax. To make this desideratum effective a law should be passed fixing the minimum salary of teachers at fifty dollars per month. The law now compels suitable school buildings, a nine months' term, and regular attendance. Let it now go a step further and compel good teachers. Let us give the country boys and girls a chance, and not continue to deny them the opportunity of advancement.

"The minimum salary mentioned would make it possible to get trained teachers from other States when the supply furnished by our own State shall have been exhausted. If it be thought unpatriotic to do this, let us consider whether it is more patriotic to sacrifice our children as a matter of State pride. It is our duty to get the best possible teachers wherever they may come from. Our city schools have been doing this for years, and have prospered accordingly.

"The schools of Somerset county have suffered a severe loss in the retirement of Miss Lizzie S .VanKirk from the profession. Miss VanKirk taught in the schools of this State for thirty years, fifteen of which were passed in Montgomery township. She is a noble woman whose spiritual power has been a source of untold inspiration to the many pupils under her care. Though receiving a salary so small that it could hardly do more than provide the bare necessities of life, Miss VanKirk secured the regular instruction of music in her little country school out of her own slender means and in every other way brought influences of culture and refinement to her pupils. Moreover she was progressive in her methods of teaching, a regular attendant and active member of the County Teachers' Association, and an effective religious worker for her community. But for failing health she might have continued her splendid work. It is fitting that this official record be made in appreciation of her services to the youth of our land.

RAPPED BISHOPS' BILL.

Liquor Dealers in Convention Declare Opposition to It.

The Bishops' bill was rapped good and plenty by speakers in attendance at the New Jersey State Liquor Dealers Association convention at Elizabeth yesterday.

In a strong address, President Thomas Hayes, of Newark, declared that the members of the association would do everything possible against the bill and to defeat for office those who had voted for it. Colby and Fagan, he said, were among those who had been marked by the saloon keepers.

There were 400 delegates at the convention and all wore buttons representing Uncle Sam clinking glasses with Miss Columbia. Underneath was the significant sentence: "By Jingo, no Bishops' bill for us."

No Report On Gas Matter.

The Public Service Corporation is now extending its large gas mains into the city through Park avenue, while the work toward Metuchen, where the main will connect with the main line to Camden is being pushed rapidly. The Common Council decided to employ counsel to ascertain the rights of the company to open streets without permission, but no report has been made. The company, it is said, claim the right under the old charter of the Plainfield Gas and Electric Light Co.

Like a Geyser.

Atlantic City, Sept. 21.—Pacific avenue's newly laid asphalt pavement was damaged yesterday by the bursting of the water main at Pacific and New Jersey avenues, where it raised a great swelling in the material and caused the water to shoot up like a geyser from a manhole. Pacific avenue was flooded until the water was cut off. Some of the paving has been undermined and is sinking.

Athletic Association Directors.

The Athletic Association of the Plainfield High School elected these directors this morning for the coming year: William Douglass, Victor Todd, Samuel Reid, Paul Brakeley and Charles Loizeaux.

The thirty-ninth anniversary of the Y. M. C. A. will be observed by a special service at the association on November 11, the day of prayer for young men. The open-air meetings of the association at Concert Park will close the week after next. U. R. Monroe, vice president of the Niagara Lithograph Company, Buffalo, N. Y., will speak next Sunday.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

At the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow night, Paula Edwardes will be seen in her greatest success, "Princess Beggar," libretto by Edward Paulton, music by Alfred G. Robyn. As its name and those of its author and composer show to discerning theatre-goers, it is not a list of vaudeville specialties, strung upon a flimsy thread of plot and disguised by showy dress in that modern nondescript thing called "musical comedy." It is a picturesque comedy opera; with a quaint story of action which holds keen interest from start to finish and a flow of irresistibly droll humor which never slackens. There's much in names. Paula Edwardes' suggests a reigning favorite of the Casino in its last big blaze of glory in comedies of music, as well as the brilliant charm and talent which made her a favorite in the late Augustin Daly's splendid musical productions. Paulton's also suggests the Casino. He was the author of delightful "Erminie," the greatest success which that theatre ever saw. With Robyn's musicianly and mirthful music, he has created in "Princess Beggar" a remarkable vehicle for Paula Edwardes' remarkable personality and talents. Her petite personality, charming prettiness and droll humor have all free scope, while Charles Dillingham's name provides all the prestige and influence which can surround an artist with every accessory that trained artists can devise or money procure.

That much discussed play, "The Ragged Messenger," will be the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre next Monday night, with the gifted actor, Creston Clarke, in the leading role of John Morton, the clergyman. In the hands of a less capable actor, "The Ragged Messenger" would still attract attention and create favorable comment by reason of its own merits. Under the deft touch of Creston Clarke, it becomes the most powerful emotional drama that has been presented in years. Its advance sale indicates a large attendance.

"The Prince of Pilsen," the tuneful musical comedy by Frank Pixley and Gustav Luders, will be the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre on Tuesday night. It has been the lot of few musical comedians to survive the vicissitudes of a half dozen seasons but "The Prince of Pilsen" seems to stand in a class alone and its re-current visits serve to add to its popularity. Its familiar story has always an air of freshness, it songs are dainty and poetic and the Luders music suggests spontaneity and inspiration rather than the reminiscent pilferings of made-to-order compositions. Manager Henry W. Savage finds it possible to keep the presenting company well up to the standard fixed by the original performances. In vocal strength the present company is one of the best yet heard. Jess Dandy is again Hans Wagner with "splintered speech." Pauline Guzman is the widow, Jeanette Bageard, the original Sidonie, is in the cast and the company in general is note-worthy.

A theatrical attraction that possesses a many-sided interest is the forthcoming engagement of Raymond Hitchcock in the new Richard Harding Davis farcical comedy entitled "The Galloper," which Manager Henry W. Savage will offer at the New Plainfield theatre next Wednesday night. Concerning Mr. Hitchcock's popularity and talents as a comedian it will be superfluous to add words at this time. Suffice it to say his series of notable successes, in musical comedy are a matter of proud record and his progress to the stellar ranks has been uninterrupted to the present exalted position which he occupies among America's foremost comedians. In Mr. Davis' new comedy Mr. Hitchcock is said to be admirably fitted with the role in which suavity, good nature, delicious humor and effrontery are happily intermingled. Mr. Savage has surrounded his star with a company of extraordinary excellence, and the engagement here should prove one of the most attractive of the season.

The musical farce "Lovers and Lunatics," by Walter Coleman Parker, is the announced attraction at the New Plainfield theatre on September 27. The play is said to be one of those light breezy musical entertainments featuring Joe Morris in his original character of "Ikey Rosenstein." A dainty chorus of pretty girls is one of the inducements offered.

Ida Crispi has furnished the Philadelphia critics and the audiences at the Garrick theatre in the Quaker City, with one of the greatest surprises with which they have ever been startled. In the first act of "Miss Dolly Dollars" she appears as simply a servant to Miss Dolly Dollars, the role played by Blanche Ring, and has very few lines to speak. These she does so simply as to attract little or no attention. In the second act she appears in a grotesque costume, which is explained by the fact that a masquerade ball is in progress. Her very long and extremely slender arms are bare and her hands are encased in green gloves. She starts to sing a song and does it in such an awkward amateurish manner that the audience wonders what on earth she is doing in such a position and in such a company. Her song is a plaintive Cockney ditty and during it she begins to wave her double-jointed arms and then her purpose begins to be understood and the laughter at her awkward gestures is incessant. It is not, however, until after she has sung the second verse that she really reveals herself. It is then that she turns loose her double-jointed limbs and the most awkward, grotesque, ludicrous dance ever done by one of her sex follows, while the audience utterly gives itself over to convulsions of laughter and shrieks of agonized joy. After it has subsided and the encores are over there is a turning to the programmes and a buzz of inquiry all over the house in the endeavor to find out who this marvellously funny slip of a girl is. "Miss Dolly Dollars" will be at the New Plainfield theatre next Friday night.

RUTGERS OUTLOOK BRIGHT.

Fourteen of Last Year's Football Team Return to College.

New Brunswick, Sept. 21.—With fourteen players of last year's team back at college trying for the eleven and with several promising candidates from the prep. schools in store, the football prospects at Rutgers College this season look exceedingly bright. Practise has been under way for the last week under the coaching of Frank Gorton, a Colgate College man, an active athlete who has been associated with Dr. Anderson, of Yale, a physical director at Peddie Institute, and the squad has showed up to good advantage. The team will experiment with several new plays this year.

Douglas Fisher, of the '08 class, will captain the team and play halfback. The others of last year's team back are: Corbin, Baker and Babcock, who are out for the backfield; Thorp and Loblein, centres; Segoine and Lawrence, quarterbacks; McNeill, Wallace and Stover, ends; Black, Demarest and Wyman, linemen. The most promising of the newcomers are: German, from Erasmus Hall; Goode and Hawkins, of Peddie Institute; Case and Cox, of Rutgers Preparatory School; Winnie, from Hackensack High School, and Hancock, from DeWitt Clinton High School.

The schedule consists of nine games, beginning September 29, with Fordham College at New Brunswick and finishing November 2 with a game at home with Ursinus College. It also includes two games with Stevens Institute, one of which will be decided at home and the other at Hoboken. The schedule follows:

September 29, Fordham College at New Brunswick; October 6, Stevens Institute at Hoboken; October 13, Villanova College at Villanova; October 20, Haverford College at Haverford; October 27, Delaware College at New Brunswick; November 6, New York University at New York; November 10, Jefferson Medical College, New Brunswick; November 17, Stevens Institute at New Brunswick; November 24, Ursinus College at New Brunswick.

HAS "PETE" ELOPED?

Father Looking for Arthur Sutton, Married Admirer.

Ntw Brunswick, Sept. 21.—Figuring in a popular novel of several years ago as the home of a romance, Ross Hall, an historic old house, now occupied by the New Brunswick Golf Club, has a new romance in real life. The heroine is a pretty and winsome miss of sixteen summers known about the Ross Hall farm as "Pete." She left her home on Sunday, and Wednesday afternoon her father, Robert Miller, was in this city trying to get a warrant for the arrest of Arthur Sutton, an admirer of the girl.

Sutton is a married man, but not blind to the beauty and charms of the sixteen-year-old girl, and became a persistent admirer. He has also left his home, and his present whereabouts are unknown.

Record Replies to Dryden.

Corporation Counsel George L. Record, of Jersey City, New Idea Republican candidate for United States Senator, sent yesterday an open letter to United States Senator Dryden asking him to explain why he voted against an amendment offered by Senator La Follette to the railroad rate bill, providing for an investigation into the cost of railroads, for the purpose of re-establishing freight rates on the basis of a fair return upon the investment of stockholders.

W. M. Smith, of Elmwood place, has been visiting his sister at Orange for several days.

PRACTICAL POLITICS.

He made a fine oration,
In fact, 'twas simply great,
Imploring every voter
To save the Ship of State.

He showed the mists and dangers
In words both strong and pat,
But when the speech was ended
It fell extremely flat.

The other fellow followed,
Success was quick to see;
His brief address so stirring
Was just: "Have one with me."

'Twas only human nature,
While going through the fog
The eighty million sailors
Were hankering for the grog.
—McLandburgh Wilson in the New York Sun.

STORIES ABOUT ANIMALS.

Feathers, the only chicken-raising cat in the world, is owned by George F. Nones, a poultry expert. Since Feathers first came into his possession Nones has been training her to care for chickens. At first Feathers learned to protect incubator chickens. Some weeks ago, however, Nones determined to try her at raising a brood from the shell. Thirty-two eggs were put under Feather and in due time twenty-three chicks picked their way through to the light. The cat takes as good care of her tiny flock as any hen could and resents with extended claws and arched back any attempt to lay hands on them. Nones says he has refused a big price from a fancier for his cat and her first brood. He says Feathers will be kept at work raising chickens as long as he is in the business.

A Scotch collie owned by Gilbert H. La Place, of Deep River, Conn., earns his breakfast every morning by filling the wood box. He carries one stick at a time in his mouth from the wood pile outside into the kitchen. He also notifies members of the household when the telephone rings if they are outdoors or calling on neighbors. There are several subscribers on the line, but the dog can distinguish the La Place call.

The mound bird, found in Australia, builds the biggest nest in the world. It makes mounds sometimes as great as 150 feet in circumference, in which it buries its eggs five feet deep.

An African elephant is of value only for its ivory, of which a full grown animal yields from $250 to $300 worth. On the other hand, a working Indian elephant can not be bought for less than $2,500 to $2,500. This is because of the greater intelligence of the Asiatic animal, which makes him valuable as a servant.

Deskman Quackenbush at police headquarters, Paterson, N. J., was filling out blank forms for dog licenses recently when a coach dog walked up to him, wagging his tail and holding in his mouth a $2 bill, the license fee. The policeman took the money and spoke to the dog, which wagged his tail more than ever. Soon after that a young man appeared and explained that the dog was the property of J. A. VanWinkle, a feed merchant. The license was inclosed in an envelope and placed in the dog's mouth. Th animal then left for his home.

THE NAGGING HABIT.

One big row is worth many days of nagging.

When a man wants to sleep or eat, a woman feels most like nagging.

A man always nags when a woman is dressing in a hurry to go out.

A nagging woman is like a scratching hen—she begins again when she has finished.

Tho' a man have the disposition and attributes of an angel, he can become a devil if nagged at continually.

Babies cry when they're hungry; men nag.

Nagging at the table is a mighty poor appetizer.

Some boys leave home and mother because they are nagged.

A Suggestion.

"Give me a title for my new farce comedy, will you?" asked De Riter.

"Lemme see," mused Grittick. "Now, if you were to call it 'The Six O'clock Trolley' you might make a hit."

"What do you mean?"

"Well, that's suggestive of 'standing room only.'"

Something to Learn.

"Yes, Markley came in for a fortune the other day. He's actually got more money now than he knows what to do with."

"Yes, but there are certain people who will be anxious to meet him now and after that he'll know more."

Yum! Yum!

Miss Pechis—He said I was "kissable," didn't he?

Cousin Tom—O! he went further than that.

Miss Pechis—Indeed?

Cousin Tom—Yes, he said you were positively "edible."

Idle Contentment.

"Now, I think," said the plodder, "that every man should be satisfied to leave well enough alone."

"Nothing to it!" replied the hustler. "No man who feels that way ever reaches 'well enough.'"

Mrs. Voorhees Laing and daughter, Miss Ethel Laing, of East Front street, are home from Asbury Park, where they have been spending several weeks.

FOR THE GENTLER SEX

PRETTY EYES.

The woman who wants pretty eyes will not have them circled with dark lines. Nor will she have great eye sacs under her eyes. The pretty girl's eyes are never heavy in the lids. They are never laden underneath with great bags. They are never red as to the lashes, and the brows are never unruly. On the contrary, the eyes of the pretty girl are of the shining variety, beautifully clear, and of the kind which can open widely and look one right in the face, says the Philadelphia Bulletin.

To get eyes like this one must not abuse the eyes. The girl who sews late at night, the girl who rubs her eyes, the girl who lets her lids and lashes become neglected, this girl cannot hope to have pretty eyes.

The eyebrows should not be neglected. The woman who wants nice eyebrows can beat a little almond oil and apply it nightly to the eyes with a small brush. In this manner the eyebrows can be influenced. Often they are inclined to grow straggly. But by painting them with a brush regularly they can be trained into shape.

NO AND DON'T.

There are a few things more conducive to disobedience and stubbornness in children than the constant use of the word "no" and "don't." The mother should hesitate more than once before saying them. Listen patiently to a little one's request before saying "no," no matter how trival it may seem to you. It may mean much to him. If the request is reasonable, even though it may cause you some little inconvenience, try to grant it, says Harper's Bazar. If, however, saying "yes" to the child is going to cause a great deal of discomfort to some one else, if it is not for the child's good, or if after deliberation what is asked seems wrong in your judgment, give the child a short but intelligent reason for a denial, then let no amount of teasing change your decision. It is not necessary to be stern in this matter, but firm, and the child will soon learn to accept your pudment without fretting, satisfied in the feeling that you know best. Always think twice before saying "no," but once said, stick to it; do not retreat.

Spiced Grapes.

Choose the choicest bunches of grapes, those not too ripe and which have no bruised ones among them. Make a sirup a vinegar and sugar in the proportion of one pound of sugar for each pound of grapes and one pint of vinegar to each four pounds of sugar. Add to it two teaspoonfuls each of cinnamon and allspice, one teaspoonful of cloves, and one-half teaspoonful each of mace and salt. Drop the bunches of grapes, which have been washed and allowed to dry, into the boiling sirup and allow them to remain in it for five minutes; remove and boil down the sirup, then pour it over the grapes. The sirup should be poured off and boiled down for three successive mornings, when the grapes may be covered with paramn-paper and put away.

To Keep the Hair in Curl.

Damp weather is severe on locks that are not natural. A lotion that will keep the hair in curl can be made of gum arabic, 1 ounce; good, moist sugar, ½ ounce; pure hot water, ¾ pint. Dissolve. When this solution is solid, add alcohol. 2 fluid ounces; bichoride of mercury and salammoniac, 6 grains each. The last should be dissolved in the alcohol before admixture. Lastly, add enough water to make the whole measure one pint. Perfume the cologne or lavender water. Moisten the hair with the fluid before putting it in the papers or curlers.

PERSONAL NOTES.

Dr. Albert A. Hurd, for fifty-five years a professor in Knox College, at Galesburg, Ill., has just died.

Mme. Jusserand, wife of the French Ambassador, has one of the finest collections of fans in the world, to which she in continually adding. At present she is in Brittany, from which place she recently sent Mrs. Root a dainty silk fan, such as the Breton belles use on fetes and holidays.

Dr. Hubert Jansen, of Berlin, for four years has had in charge the compilation of the technolexicon which the Society of German Engineers undertook. The work is nearing completion and printing will begin early in 1907. Publication will be in English, German and French.

Frederick Braun, the world's authority on crinoids, has been working for several months near Crawfordville, Ind., finding some rare specimens. Crinoids or sea lilies are the remains of prehistoric animals, and to produce them requires thousands of years and a complete change in the earth's topography. He has the finest collection in the world at his Brooklyn home.

The Mustache.

A few years ago a girl would have been quite ashamed to have introduced a clean-shaven man to her friends as her fiance. During the past decade she has been almost equally anxious not to present one with a mustache. Yet, withal, I believe in her heart of hearts women likes a good mustache.—Ladies' Pictorial.

DIAMOND DUST.

Because Hal. Chase and Moriarity, of the New York Americans, played with an independent team in Elizabeth on Sunday, September 2, the National Commission has fined them $50 each.

Fandom will have the opportunity of seeing a fine game at Crescent Oval tomorrow afternoon, when the Clinton Avenues will meet the Scotch Plains. There is great rivalry between these clubs and both have claimed to be the superior of one another. Tomorrow's contest will go a long ways toward settling the dispute. Both teams will have the strongest lineup out and a close contest should result. The game will be called at 3:15 o'clock.

The West Ends, of Somerville, will journey to Flemington tomorrow and once more try to defeat the Hunterdon county boys, in retaliation for last week's result. "Lou" Wiltse, of this city, will be on the firing line for Somerville, and he hopes to bring victory to his team. At least one hundred fans will accompany the team to Flemington. Joe Weaner, who was married on Wednesday at Somerville, and who has been such a puzzle to Somerville, will be in the box for his team.

President McCaffrey, of the Toronto Club, announces that his team will play its games next season, rain or shine. The club has purchased a huge tarpaulin, big enough to cover the entire skin portion of the diamond, and whenever it rains this will be brought into use. It is claimed that after the rain the infield will be as dry as a nut, and it will not be necessary to call off games.

It is now known that overtures have been made to the Tri-State League to accept the protection from the National Commission. Just now the matter is passing through the slow preliminary stages and it will be a month before anything definite is decided. It remains for the various clubs to determine the question, but it is stated that protection or no protection, the league will be stronger next year than ever.

The Dunellens will have their strongest lineup out tomorrow when they meet the Raritan A. C., at Dunellen. Manager Churchill, of Dunellen, says he will have the best team that ever represented the town on the diamond, and as this contest will decide the series between the teams the contest should be exciting. Randolph and Davis will be the battery for Dunellen.

GOLF.

The invitation tournament which opened yesterday on the course of the Morris County Golf Club, recalls the olden days when home-bred champions were known. When the United States Golf Association held the amateur championship at Morris county in 1898, Whigham was the title-holder, having won it in 1896 and 1897. Prior to that Charles B. Macdonald had been champion. At Morris County, however, Whigham was unable to qualify, being weak after a long illness. Macdonald did well, but lost to Walter Smith, of Yale, who eventually reached the final round against Findlay S. Douglas, the real favorite. Like Whigham and Macdonald, Douglas learned to play the game in Scotland. In fact, he had not been in this country much more than a year when he gained his national title, at Morris County. Douglas made his first try for the championship in this country at Chicago, in 1897, when he lost to Whigham in the final. The former is not a contestant at Morristown this week, as he has not returned from his trip abroad. Since Whigham left this country several years ago for foreign parts he has not kept at the game regularly, although frequent rounds over nearby courses since his return to this country have been sufficient to put him in something like his old-time form. Macdonald and Whigham in entering this week's tournament will find themselves opposed to a fair field. Robert Abbott, the intercollegiate title-holder, is among the entrants, as is also Dwight Patridge, the former interscholastic champion, beside a host of the best players in the metropolitan district. Abbott played in rare form yesterday, winning the medal for the lowest score.

Something novel in the way of golf contests has occasionally been sprung up in the Chicago section this season. Not long ago one of the clubs held a tourney for left-handed players, and only the other day the Onwentsia Club ran off an event open only to golfers thirty-five years of age or over.

There will be the weekly competition for the Golf Committee cup, play for the September Handicap cup and possibly the play-off of the finals for the Semi-scratch cup between W. Lester Glenney and C. B. Morgan, provided Mr. Glenney returns in time. He has been out of the city, hence the postponement of the match.

The usual weekly dinner-dance will be an attraction at the Plainfield Country Club tomorrow night. Music will be furnished by an orchestra and a gne programme has been prepared.

Play for the President's and club trophies will be the attraction at the Park Golf Club tomorrow. Many new members as well as the older ones are now taking an interest in this competition and there promises to be a large field out.

FOOTBALL.

Fifteen players of the Alis football team were out last night for their first practice. Captain Phillips is very much pleased with the outlook for the coming season and has called a light practice at Alis Common for tomorrow afternoon and also Tuesday and Thursday nights of next week, when the regular lineup will be chosen. The team will probably play its first game on September 29 on Alis Common.

TENNIS.

A. M. Abbott, of Myrtle avenue, won the annual fall handicap tennis tournament at Knollwood Country Club, White Plains, N. Y., yesterday afternoon, defeating A. G. Miles, of New York, 7-5, 6-4.

CANADIANS HISS THE AMERICAN FLAG.

New Jersey Odd Fellows Led by Plainfield Canton.

Toronto, Sept. 21.—During the parade of Odd Fellows yesterday the American flag carried by many of the cantons was hissed by the spectators. Members of the Ontario reception committee expressed keen regret that there had been any hissing, and said that it must have been done by irresponsible persons who could not control themselves.

They promised to have 15,000 men in line and conservative estimates put the number at about 16,000, of whom 5,000 were chevaliers of the uniformed rank. Promptly at 2:30 o'clock the line moved and the parade took two hours to pass a given point. There were forty-two bands and drum corps to frunish marching music. A mounted herald with a Union Jack was in front.

All chevaliers from New Jersey marched under the banner of the Plainfield Canton, and the plain clothes members joined forces behind the ensign of Trenton Lodge. There were seven decorated floats in line, with various designs typical of the work of the order.

Some of the lodge delegations appeared in sailor suits, others carried colored umbrellas, and one lodge with ninety members in line divided the men into three sections, one section wearing red blouses, another white and the third blue.

Laurel lodge, of this city, had 120 men in line. They wore black suits and high silk hats, and each man carried a laurel wreath.

Many Canadians claim that the parade was the greatest fraternal order demonstration ever seen in Toronto, and the officials of the order expressed themselves as satisfied with the demonstration.

FULLER TO BE LAW JUDGE.

Governor Stokes Will Make the Appointment of Justice Trenchard's Successor.

Trenton, Sept. 21.—The uncertainty as to who would be named as a successor to Supreme Court Justice Thomas W. Trenchard as Law Judge of Cumberland county came to a termination yesterday with the announcement that Counselor Royal P. Fuller, of Vineland, would be named to the place.

Governor Stokes will make the appointment at an early date. This determination on the part of the Governor brings to an end the friendly contest for the place which has been waging for several weeks between Prosecutor J. Hampton Fithian and Assistant District Attorney Walter Bacon.

Lavender Creighton's Lovers

By OLIVIA B. STROHM

(Copyright, 1905, by Olivia B. Strohm).

Winslow replied, soberly: "He is indeed, Monsieur, 'trying.' Trying to prove that he is an honest man. I pray that he may succeed to the satisfaction of the world; it needs no proof for my judgment."

Then you will see le General Wilkinson?" the deputy asked.

His guest's face hardened. "I may have business with him. I am told he has turned traitor to his friend."

The Frenchman raised his hand in deprecation. "No, Monsieur, Gen. Wilkinson writes that he can do nothing against your Burr in the persecution—is that how you call it?"

Winslow laughed dryly. "Persecution—yes, that is just what I call it."

The other proceeded: "In the persecution, without the letters."

Winslow gave a start. "'Letters!'" he echoed.

"Oui; he was expecting letters, but perhaps Monsieur Burr decided not to send them. Monsieur Wilkinson is sorry; he says they would be of use to the government.

Instinctively Winslow clapped his hand to his waistcoat pocket and fell into deep thought.

Some intuition made Lavender change the subject, and she led the talk to other channels.

Then they told the kindly host some of the things which had befallen them in the new settlement. Told of the quiet double wedding in the little church with 'the iron finger,' when the Rev. Ballinger—"who was ever my friend, made me his debtor for life," added Winslow, with an adoring glance at his wife. Seeing interest in the old soldier's face, Charles told him further of their plans; how he and Lavender would return at once to St. Charles, whence they all expected to go home to Virginia. Only Gerald and Susan would stay behind to watch over the school and keep the friends in the new home; to guard the interests left there. This led him to speak of the value of his land, and of Sue's, which joined it. This, he explained, was the cause of their trip to St. Louis.

"Expediency," Winslow concluded, with a laugh, "expediency is the weight holding us to earth when sentiment would carry us skyward. It was a matter of expediency that the land be disposed before we undertook our return home. Now since it is found that we can live, we are free to love."

The deputy inquired further of the "mission"—that which would take them from the new territory, and Lavender said, with an air almost solemn: "We are going back in answer to prayer." And there was a short silence, while she gazed deeply into her husband's eyes.

Recalled by the mystified air of her host, she added: "My mother has long wanted to return home. I have prayed that she might go; he is taking us both."

Returning to the hotel late in the evening, Winslow locked the door of the little dark, wainscoted room. "Now," he said, turning to Lavender, "Now for the letters."

He produced the crushed, soiled packet, at which both started doubtfully a long time in silence. Outside, the wind whistled and a dog whined restlessly.

Lavender was the first to speak. She went up and gently touched his arm. "Listen, Charles; once before I disposed of writings in a summary fashion, and we have never regretted it. Why not—see, there is a fire in this grate, too," she concluded with a meaning smile.

As if to second her suggestion the flames leaped up, and the wood crackled invitingly.

Winslow smiled satirically. "And is this all of my mission? Truly, it ends in smoke."

"But would you place that bundle in Wilkinson's hands now?"

"A thousand times no. Didn't the deputy tell us that the general was waiting for those very letters to use as evidence against Burr?"

"Exactly so, sir. Then the fire is their proper destination. Don't underrate your 'mission,' dear. You might have blundered; you might have sent them, or in some way allowed them to get into the general's hands. You did none of these. Your service is of the 'waiting' sort, and that is often best, you know."

She moved to take the letters from him.

He shook his head. "Do you realize, Lavender, that the destruction of these supposes a doubt of the innocence of Aaron Burr? For an innocent man fears no evidence—his every word or line is for the world to read and hear."

"Not always. Remember the twists and turns of the law; remember the quibbling of lawyers! Remember—but no, remember nothing but Aaron Burr's words, 'In the hands of an enemy they might do me harm.'"

SHE PLACED THE LETTERS ONE BY ONE UPON THE FLAMES.

Pleadingly, tenderly, she extended her hand and slowly he released the packet.

COUNTY S. S. CONVENTION

Twenty-Sixth Annual Meeting to be Held at Elizabeth Next Month.

WESTMINISTER CHURCH

Between Sessions Conferences Will Be Conducted by State Officers of the Organization.

The twenty-sixth annual convention of the Union County Sunday School Association will be held in Westminster church, Elizabeth, Thursday, October 11. The sessions, will be held at 10, 2:15 and 7:30 o'clock, with special conferences, between the sessions, conducted by the officers of the State association.

Some of the principal addresses of the day are to be as follows:

The Rev. George H. Trull, assistant minister, Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church, N. Y.; the Rev. Pascal Harrower, D. D., rector of the West Brighton Episcopal church, West New Brighton, N. Y.; the Rev. W. H. Morgan, of St. Paul's M. E. church, of Newark; and the Rev. E. Morris Ferguson, general secretary N. J. Sunday School Association.

A special feature of the convention will be the music under the direction of Messrs. Tullar and Meridith, of New York. The first half hour of each session will be devotional and in charge of Grant Colfax Tullar, who will lead a special choir consisting of the best singers in the Elizabeth churches. Isaac H. Meredith is a soloist of rare power and will sing at each session.

The association represents 126 schools in this county. The delegates to the convention are appointed by each of the schools for each department.

The full programme of the convention will soon be furnished to the pastors and superintendents, showing how all phases of the work of an up-to-date Sunday school for all departments, from "Cradle Roll" to "Home Department," are to be considered.

A colla will be served to delegates from a distance by the members of the schools in the vicinity of Westminster church. The Rahway Valley railroad will run a special train to Springfield and Summit, leaving Elizabeth in the evening after the convention adjourns. The officers of the association are: President, Walter M. Irving, Westfield; first vice-president, Rev. W. T. Stuchell, Rahway; second vice-president, Rev. C. J. Greenwood, Westfield; third vice-president, Rev. J. B. J. Rhodes, Cranford; secretary and treasurer, Richard P. Greaves, P. O. 681, New York city; recording secretary, Rev. W. B. Hamilton, Elizabeth; home department superintendent, Wm. S. Webb, Westfield; elementary superintendent, Miss Edith Cairns, 444 W. 54th street, Plainfield.

The executive committee is as follows: Rev. William R. Mulford, Fanwood; Elias D. Smith, 13 S. Second street, Elizabeth; Wm. Dodge Porter, Summit; Mrs. Alonzo Pettit, 116 W. Grand street, Elizabeth; Geo. H. Krause, Cranford; O. S. Rogers, 606 Madison avenue, Plainfield; Wellington Morehouse, Westfield; Geo. G. Teller, Cranford.

TO CONDEMN AMERICANISM.

Pope Pius Will Issue a Syllabus Covering 100 Questions.

The doctrine of "Americanism," as condemned by Pope Leo XII., is to receive another blow, according to private advices received here, from Pope Pius X. Priests arriving from Rome say it is common talk in European clerical circles that the Pope is preparing a Syllabus of condemned propositions which will cover many branches of church doctrine, and which will reject many assertions made by Catholic writres.

According to the gossip current in New York clerical circles, the condemned propositions will be 100 in number, including Biblical, social, disciplinary, and political matters. ome will contain references to the present situation in France.

Others are to discuss Biblical interpretation as set forth by such eminent scholars as the Abbes Houtin and Loisy and Mgr. Fuzet and Father Schell. "Americanism," as the word is interpreted in the document, which is intended to be an exhaustive exposition by Pius X. of the views he, as Pope, entertains regarding the more liberal doctrines.

POLICE FORCE ARRESTED.

Claimed They Beat a Man and His Wife.

New Brunswick, Sept. 21.—Cornelius Buckelew, a probation officer, has arrested the entire police force of the borough of South River, enar this city. Complaint was made against the two borough marshals, Peter Johnson and Cashmere Offenberger, by Joseph Janczewski.

It was alleged that the marshals entered his home on September 16 and beat him and his wife. He was arrested and fined $20 for alleged disorderly conduct. The marshals were both arrested on the charge of assault and battery. The men were released on bail.

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Chapman, of Stelle avenue, are home from their outing at Bread Loaf Inn, Bread Loaf, Vermont.

APPEAL BY THE BISHOP

Calling For Peter's Pence He Comments on Persecution of Church in France.

ITS NEEDS EXPLAINED

Letter Will Be Read in All the Churches of the Diocese Sunday Morning.

Bishop O'Connor, after continued silence since the outbreak of trouble between the church and the French Government, discussed the question for the first time in a letter which has been sent to all pastors of the Newark Diocese appealing for the annual Peter's Pence collection. The bishop regards the situation as a bitter persecution to the French church and points out the necessity of the people of America replacing the funds taken away from the Vatican by liberal contributions in the Peter's Pence.

The faithful of the Newark Diocese received the Papal blessing last year for their contributions, and Pope Pius X, wrote a personal letter to Bishop O'Connor commending him for his efforts.

In the letter to the clergy, which will be read Sunday, September 23, from the pulpits of the various churches of the diocee, Bishop O'Connor says:

"During the past year our Holy Father has had much to afflict him and to grieve his paternal heart, and once more does it become our filial duty to give expression in a substantial way to our feelings of loyalty to the Holy See and of our personal love and veneration for him whom Providence has chosen to bear the heavy burdens and weighty responsibilities of the government of the Universal Church.

"The bitter persecution of the church in France at the hands of an irreligious government, and the consequent difficulties to be encountered by the bishops and priests of that unhappy country to preserve in spite of adverse legislation, the faith in the hearts of the people, will necessarily deprive the Holy Father of much of that pecuniary assistance and support which in past years he has received from the nation hitherto known as 'the eldest daughter of the church.'

"It is but natural that he should now look to his children in the great republic of the West, in which the church enjoys the fullest freedom, to develop herself on the lines of her divine constitution, and where she is unhampered in her mission of charity and of teaching mankind the truths of salvation—to supply him with a more abundan portion of the means requisite to carry on the sublime work which devolves upon him as the vicar of Christ and the spiritual ruler of so many millions of souls. His appreciation of our efforts last year was made manifest in an autograph letter, in which he expressed his gratitude to the prieses and people of this diocese for their generous offering and bestowed on them his apostolic benediction.

"An error which sometimes prevails even among Catholics is the mistaken belief that because the Holy See is a spiritual power in its nature and purpose it is entirely independent of material means in fulfilling the high office for which Divine Providence has established it. A few moments' reflection, however, will suffice to dissipate this error. Though the kingdom of Christ is not of this world, yet it is in this world, and until the consummation of all things on the day of judgment the church on earth—the church militant—will need financial resources to enable her to continue the work appointed for her by her Divine Founder.

"The expenses of our national government, or even of any one of our State governments, will suggest an idea of the needs of the Holy See. We have only to remember that not only all the nations of the Christian world, but also all the countries which are still seated in darkness and in the shadow of death, have been entrusted to the Holy Father's spiritual care. To the latter he must send the gospel of salvation, and hence must equip and support the devoted army of missionaries—men and women—who are heroically toiling for the salvation of souls in heathen lands. In the Catholic nations of Christendom he must maintain his representatives for the furtherance of the interests of the church. In Rome ,the capital of the Christian world and the seat of the government of the church, there must necessarily be a numerous corps of officials for the efficient transaction of the vast and varied business that comes before the Holy See in matters affecting the faith, the discipline, the laws, the public worship of the church, and calling for the exercise of her executive, judicial and legislative powers. Moreover, the college of cardinals, from which the right to elect the sovereign Pontiff resides, must be maintained, not only for the perpetuation of the divine office of the vicar of Christ, but also for the work of the sacred congregations, which are the advisers of the holy fathers in matters of supreme moment to the faithful throughout the world.

"It is true, indeed, that the Pope himself, who all his life has been a model of apostolic simplicity, requires but little for his personal maintenance. But the office which he holds—the spiritual service of his faithful children in every part of the world—renders it imperative that he should receive from his subjects such an abundance of financial aid as will enable him to carry on successfully the government of the church and thus uphold and perpetuate the kingdom of God among all nations."

The bishop, in conclusion, requests that the priests explain the pressing needs of the sovereign pontiff and exhorts the people to be unusually generous in the annual offering to Pope Pius X, which will be taken up in all the churches on October 14.

GOTHAM'S AMUSEMENTS

After three years of constant preparation and three months presentation in Chicago, Pittsburg and Baltimore, where it scored a demarkable success, Klaw & Erlanger's production of Gen. Lew Wallace's "The Prince of India," dramatized by J. I. C. Clarke, with music by Prof. Horatio Parker, of Yale University, will receive its New York premiere at the Broadway theatre next Monday evening. From the standpoint of scenery, costumes, armors and elaborate mechanical effects, this is the greatest theatrical production ever made in this country. Notwithstanding the magnitude of its physical side, however, the story of the play is not eclipsed by it and the wonderful tale of the love of Sultan Mahommed and Princess Irene and the effort of the Wandering Jew, known as "The Prince of Inadia," to bring the whole world into one brotherhood in God with one simple religious creed for guidance, with the thrilling historic background of the siege of Constantinople and the fall of the city behind them, claim first attention. "The Prince of India" is staged in a prologue and five acts with eleven scenes showing Constantinople and the Golden Horn from Galata; the gate of Blacherne on the Golden Horn and panorama of the Bosphorus during a great storm; the White Castle of the Turks on the Sweet Waters of Asia; Princess Irene's palace at Therapia on the Bosphorus; the hall of audience in the Imperial palace at Blacherne, where the Prince of India expounds to Emperor Constantine the great bibles of the East; the tent of Mahommed before Constantinople; room in the palace of Princess Irene in Constantinople; within the walls of Constantinople during the siege; night on the broken walls after the capture of the city by Mahommed; a street near Sancta Sophia, and interior of the church of Sancta Sophis. The last four scenes show the tragic event of the Fall of Constantinople and the extinction of the Byzantine dynasty of over a thousand years duration. In this part of the play 600 men appear as Greek and Turkish soldiers. Klaw & Erlanger have selected a remarkable cast for this production. Emmett Corrigan, the original Shiek Iiderim in "Ben-Hur," will play the title role. William Farnum, the young heroic actor who is regarded as the only legitimate successor of the late John McCullough, will play Prince Mahommed. Adelaide Keim, who made a great hit last season in heroic roles and as Hamlet, will play Princess Irene. Other leading parts will be acted by Boyd Putnam, Julius McVicker, Harrison Armstrong, W. H. Leyden, Marshall Farnum, Monroe Salisbury, Julie Herne, Adele Davis, Florence Chase, Lucille Fallon, Elsie Smith, Agnes Mark and Jane Burdette. Matinee performances will be presented Wednesday and Saturday afternoons.

BISHOP LAW AIDS THE BANK SAVINGS.

Liquor Traffic Act Said to Have Increased Deposits of Wage Earners in Banks.

Trenton, Sept. 21.—In spite of the effort that is being made in certain parts of the State to discredit the Bishops' bill, passed by the last Legislature for the better control of the liquor traffic, there is coming in from all sources a perfect stream of evidence showing the beneficient effect of that measure.

Among other things there has been a marked increase in the deposits in savings banks and similar financial institutions where the money of the wage earners is placed.

Another respect in which the bill is said to be most beneficial to employees and employers alike is that it has almost entirely abolished the bugbear of "blue Monday." It has been the custom for years for many workingmen to spend Sundays in the saloons and then fail to report to work until Tuesday morning. In this way it was impossible to run the mills full handed on Mondays and the sober men of the establishments suffered because of the indiscretion of the drinkers.

Now it is the rule for all of the workers to report for duty Monday morning, with no Sunday "booze" to be worke dout of their systems before they are ready for the toil of the week. The result, it is said, is that the men make more money and the output of the mills is increased correspondingly.

Admiral Dewey to Attend.

POINTS FOR THE BUYERS

A. E. Hoagland, Park avenue, is the best expressman you can get in Plainfield. Remember that.

Before you purchase your winter coal consult V. W. Nash, Sr., of Park avenue. It will be to your advantage.

If you want a good carpenter, go to M. D. O'Keefe, West Fourth street. He will give the highest satisfaction.

Purer milk and cream than Marchant Bros.' sell you cannot get. Richer would be very hard to find. Office, North avenue.

eGorge F. Brown, of Somerset street, is all ready to sell or lease desirable property or sell the best fire or accident insurance.

Mary A. Brown, West Second street, dyes and cleans clothes. Dyes and cleans them right. No makeshifts enter into the work.

E. B. Maynard, the North avenue barber, conducts a first-class shop and only experienced men are employed. The shop is strictly sanitary.

Feel dull and out of sorts? Sluggish blood and clogged pores is more than likely the cause. Take a Turkish bath at Brookside Sanitarium, Somerset street.

There is never any question about the quality of meat sold at John A. Koch's butcher shop at Watchung avenue and Second street. It is the best at lowest prices.

When you send your clothes to H. W. Marshall's laundry on East Front street, you can rest assured that they will be washed, cleaned and ironed right, and the prices will be reasonable.

Now that the tog end of summer weather is going swiftly, the women folk think of fall suitings. If they get them at S. C. Peck's store, West Front street, they will get them of right quality and just the sort they want.

There is one banking institution in the city that stands out and above the others in the public mind. The Plainfield Trust Company is fast becoming the leading bank of this section. It is the youngest of them, and has the strength and energy of virile youth.

MISSING COUPLE WERE CAMPING IN THE WOODS.

Husband of Woman Takes Her Home Because She Had Their Child.

Morristown, Sept. 21.—Mrs. Sarah Harley, of Hampton Junction, and Harry Hammer, of New Hampton, were arrested Tuesday night by Marshal Ethelbert Byram and Detective Nixon in the woods near Dover, where, according to the police, they were preparing to camp for the night.

The woman is the wife of John Harley, a railroad man, whose work keeps him away nights. He declares that Mrs. Harley and Hammer packed up Monday night what goods they wished to take with them, and went to Washington, Warren county. Harley says they left there early in the morning, and Mrs. Harley took hre nine-year-old son with her. That is Harley's explanation why he followed her.

A revolver was found in Hammer's possession, and Police Justice Young, of Dover, sent him yesterday to the county jail at Morristown for carrying concealed weapons. Mrs. Harley would not give up the boy, and the child said he wanted to stay with her. Harley finally took them both back, in order to get the boy home.

DAMP REFORM MEETING

Rain Failed to Break Up the Cart-Tail Gathering Last Night.

DEPEW CHIEF SPEAKER

Makes a Hit With the Crowd by Pluckily Defying Downpour—S. H. Tugwell Makes Vigorous Speech.

Rain failed to dampen the arder of the campaigning Colbyites of the First ward last night. Despite the downpour, which came just as the speaking began, the open-air meeting at Richmond and Third streets was held. Two hundred men heard the forepart of the oratory, and the better part of the number stayed about, under the awnings of the stores on the corners, and heard the speakers through. Some of them were wet through, but their devotion to the cause of reform overcame the effect of the discomfort.

Stephen H. Tugwell, chairman of the First ward branch of the reform organization, opened the meeting with a vigorous declaration of the principles of the movement. He addressed the crowd from Patrick Kane's open wagon.

Colbyite speakers came to the people, he said, in their own places and told them frankly what they desired to do and what they stood for. Machine politicians dared not do so. They had not the courage of honest convictions and a desire to help their fellow citizens to give them courage to speak or anything to speak of.

Colbyism stood for something, the speaker continued, that stood for the voters. The local candidates were the champions of municipal ownership, in no half-hearted way. They felt, as did the organization, that the water used by the citizens of Plainfield should be owned by the city of Plainfield, not owned by outsiders. (Applause.) The candidates on the Colbyite ticket stood pledged to bring that new condition of affairs about. They were not merely in favor of it, the voters were to mark, but they were under solemn pledge to work to accomplish municipal ownership just as soon as it could be brought about, irrespective of the private interests that might be opposed to such a move. Mr. Tugwell said a certain young man in the council had suddenly awakened to the M. O. question after Mr. Depew's letter, and was earnestly engaged in stealing thunder.

It started to rain while Mr. Tugwell was speaking, and after he finished there was a wait in the hope that it might prove to be a passing shower. When a lull in the downpour came, R. Henry Depew, the Colbyite choice for mayor, mounted to the cart tail amid vigorous applause. He had been speaking only a few minutes when the rain came down twice as hard as before. Mr. Depew hoisted an umbrella, and kept on talking. The crowd liked his pluck, and expressions of admiration were heard as the men jumped for shelter under the nearby awnings. From there they applauded the forceful arraignment of bossism to which Mr. Depew gave expression.

He borrowed the illustration and by Robert Carey at the mass meeting at Concert Park, and told his hearers how the legislature, under boss rule, was like nothing so much as a dog circus, with the little trick dogs skipping and running at the crack of the master's whip. He mentioned "Perky" as one of the dogs.

The Colbyites, said Mr. Depew in closing, stood for a square deal for every man. For the return of power where it belonged, in the people's hands. The sentiment was applauded by a sustained burst of handclapping.

An amusing incident marked the close of Mr. Depew's speech. Just as he was finishing, the horse, restless under the pelting raindrops, started up. It was caught before it had gone more than a few feet, and Mr. Depew made the incident wholly humorous by asking: "What's that horse's name—Andy or Jim?" The crowd laughed and applauded.

J. B. Hill, the First ward reform candidate for the Councilmanic nomination, spoke after Mr. Depew. He pledged himself to work for municipay ownership of the water supply, and to act only for the interest of his constituents, irrespective of any one man or set of men. He asked the voters to greet him whenever they met, because he wanted to know them all. He declared that if elected he would consult them on every important measure that might arise and on every question of municipal government that might come up. That was something that he had never heard of as being done by a councilman in Plainfied as yet.

Mr. Tugwell spoke again after Mr. Hill, to impress the voters with the fact that the reports in circulation that Colbyite workers were not Republicans were false. They were all

MAY IRWIN STARTS OFF IN NEW HOBART PLAY

BIG AUDIENCE WELCOMED HER AT THE NEW PLAINFIELD.

Mrs. Black—beg pardon—May Irwin came back to the New Plainfield last night and for the first time on any stage presented her new play, "Mrs. Wilson, That's All," a comedy in three acts from the pen of George V. Hobart. The combination of Irwin and Hobart is always an enticing one and when the curtain dropped for the last time, the big audience declared it was glad it come and the heat wasn't so bad after all, so there.

"Mrs. Wilson, etc.," is not unlike other Hobart concoctions and in its general theme bears a strong resemblance to "Mrs. Black Is Back," Miss Irwin's vehicle last season. It has splendid dialogue, however, and affords the fair, fat and—May just the opportunities she needs to display her own individual style of fun-making. She holds the stage the greater part of the time, but she knows how to do it and there's no harm done.

The supporting cast is good and includes John Hazard and Lillian Dix, who as "Gerald Sweeney" and "Aunt Libbie" took some of the limelight from the star. Their style of humor is of the higher type and contrasts for the better with the horse-play that is so frequently served up as comedy.

During the play Miss Irwin sang ten songs, which were well received. Among them were "Good Bye, Andy," "And He Said He Was a Friend of Mine," "Moonshine," "My Summer Girl," "Mrs. Wilson Wants to Know," and "Sleepy Head." She gave one in the last act which might be left out of her repertoire as it does not add any to her reputation as a purveyor of all that is clean.

The author of the piece and a large gathering of New York newspapermen witnessed the performance. Mr. Hobart said afterward it moved the smoothest of any "first night" he had ever attended.

REGISTRY BOARDS LAX IN THEIR WORK.

Many Voters Made to Suffer by Neglect of Canvassers.

There is considerable dissatisfaction in all four wards of the city concerning the work of the boards of registry and election, especially the canvass which is alleged to have been thorough. It is known that in every ward there has been a failure to register the names of people who have voted here for years. Why this is so has not been explained by the members of the election boards. There is some talk among those whose names do not appear on the registry list of attempting to vote in the primaries on Tuesday for the purpose of testing their rights in the matter.

It is said that only five persons at Truell Court were registered, and it was stated today that several voters were missed in the Jackson building and the New Madison, and similar reports have been heard in other wards. In one section of East Fifth street four or five voters were missed, persons whose names have been on the registry list for several years past. These reports coming from all parts of the city indicate that the work of canvassing for voters has not been done thoroughly and efficiently and there is a chance that the matter may be taken up with the Union County Board of Election and Registry with a view to preventing a repetition of such work. Of course, those whose names do not appear on the registry cannot vote at the primaries to be held on Tuesday, and that is what makes them feel indignant. There will be another opportunity later to register before election day. but this year especially everyone is anxious to take part in the primaries which mean much more than the election.

BRICKS IN COURT.

Becker Brought Them Along to Show Just What Popco Threw.

George Becker and Vincento Popco, Poles both, appeared in the city court this morning, the former charging the latter with disorderly conduct. He claimed Popco threw bricks at him in a fight that occurred a week ago.

Becker brought two bricks to court with him as evidence. Interpreters were used to untangle the twisted language of the principals, and Judge Runyon learned that Popco called Becker something very unpolite. He was fined $5.

Camped in Mountains.

Boys' Secretary H. W. Barrows and several members of the Y. M. C. A. junior department camped, last night, in the Notch back of Scotch Plains. The party included David and Frank Wilcox, Carl Strong, John Schofield and the Parsons boys.

POLITICS IN SOMERSET

S. S. Swackhamer is Being Boomed For Democratic Nomination For Assembly.

CASE HIS OPPONENT?

Edward Garretson Wants to Be Sheriff—Talk Among the Politicians.

The political pot is boiling in Somerset county this fall and as the date for the primary election draws near interest in the contest grows apace, and possibilities for the Assembly nomination are discussed pro and con. This is about the only important office to be filled in Somerset at the coming general election in November and hence there is an unusual amount of talk centred about who "may be" for each of the two great political parties. It is generally understood that Irving Hoagland, of Franklin Park, who has had two terms, does not seek the honor again, but there are friends of his who say that he will take the nomination if it comes to him without a great amount of opposition.

With Hoagland out of it the most prominent Republican in the race would be Clarence E. Case, of Somerville, a law partner of former Congressman Alvah A. Clark, and a brilliant young pleader. Mr. Case has been active in politics for a number of years and during the last campaign was president of the Somerville Republican Club.

Another possibility in the Republican camp is Ed. Garretson, of Millstone, but the wily Ed. has the sheriff bee in his bonnet and it is believed he is too cautious to accept anything that will interfere with the future.

In the Democratic party there is some sentiment favoring the nomination of former Assemblyman Samuel S. Swackhamer, of North Plainfield. It is argued by his friends that he has never been defeated and they will make a strong endeavor to have him take the nomination.

The candidacy of Robert L. Stevens, of Bernards, is urged because his brother, Col. E. A. Stevens, of Hoboken, is a possibility for the U. S. Senate.

The prospects are also bright for William H. Page, Jr., of Far Hills, W. V. Steele, of Somerville, and several others. Steele is a former prosecutor and a lawyer of high standing at the county seat.

In Somerville (Bridgewater township) there are two important local offices to be filled—those of assessor and collector. Frank T. Ross, the present assessor, will not have the office again and William E. Maxwell, a furniture dealer of Somerville, has filed a petition. He is a Democrat. Bogart T. Conkling, the popular manager of the West Ends, has also filed a petition. He is a Republican.

The race between these two promises to be an exciting one on election day and the betting is even. For collector, Ferdinand Vander Veer, who has held the office many years and has made a most conscientious official, is the only one who filed a petition. He is a Democrat. The last time he ran he was elected without opposition.

There is a hot fight on in the Fourth District of Bridgewater as the result of the removal of a member of the registration board, Bernard McNally, by Lu. Moore, who is the Democratic executive committeeman in that district. The friends of Mr. McNally object very much to this, not having been consulted as to the change at all. The removal is charged up to a prominent local leader, who some time ago had a personal difference with Mr. McNally. Friends of Mr. McNally contend that this man should not have any influence in the Fourth District, where he does not reside. Therefore a special effort will be made to restore Mr. McNally to the position, from which his friends believe he was wrongfully removed. The leader's delegates are Stewart A. Kenney and John P. Gaffney, while Mr. McNally and M. W. Scully are the delegates favoring the restoration of Mr. McNally to his former position.

This is the only district in Bridgewater in which there has been more than one petition filed for delegates to the county convention.

Approaching Wedding.

Invitations have been issued by Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Manning, of Dunellen avenue, to the marriage of their daughter, Miss Edith Manning, and Clarence Brouard, of West Seventh street. The event will be celebrated on Wednesday, October 3, at the home of the bride's parents.

Cornerstone Laying Set.

The cornerstone of the new Warren chapel, now being erected at Watchung and Fairview avenues, will be laid next Thursday evening at 6 o'clock. The programme has not yet been completed but it will comprise speaking and the usual exercises.

AS TO PRIMARY ELECTION

Corporation Council Corrects Prevailing Idea as to Registration Law.

LISTS OPEN ON TUESDAY

If Voter Has Not Registered Before He Can Do So At Primary and Cast His Ballot.

Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh issued an opinion this morning that upset a general idea regarding the casting of votes at the primary. There was an impression, shared in by the election boards, that voters not registered on the regular registration day previous to primary day could not cast their ballots at the primary election. Mr. Marsh rules that the voter who enters the polling room and registers, as is required by law, for the general election is qualified to cast a ballot at the primary.

Mr. Marsh's opinion is as follows:

"To the Boards of Registry and Election of the City of Plainfield:

"Gentlemen:

"Having been called upon by several election officials, for an opinion respecting the matter mentioned below, I have to advise you as follows:

"That all Boards of Registry and Election in this city are, by the law of this State, required (in the manner provided by law) prior to, or at and during the primary election to be held on September 25th inst., to register the name of every person who is legally qualified to vote at the ensuing general election for members of General Assembly, and that all persons so registered are entitled to vote at said primary election unless, if challenged, they shall refuse to take the oath or affirmation prescribed by law; that no person should be allowed to vote at any primary election unless his name shall appear upon the registry list for the election district where he offers to vote, as made up at the time of opening the polls for such primary election, or unless his name shall be placed thereon before he casts his vote; and that each voter on entering the polling room at the primary election, is required to register for the ensuing general election if qualified to do so, unless his name shall be already registered.

"The amendment of the primary election law, approved May 16, 1906, expressly provides as follows:

"'At such primary election the voters registered or who thereupon register for the ensuing general election, shall be qualified to vote at such primary.'

"See P. L. 1906, p. 498, section 1.

"Section 14 of the original primary election act of 1898, particularly sets forth the duties of the Board of Registry and Election, and the rights and obligations of each voter on entering the polling room at such primary election, and that section stands on the statute book without change or amendment. It has not been expressly repealed, and in my opinion, has not modified or repealed by implication in the respects above mentioned.

"Respectfully submitted,
"CRAIG A. MARSH,
"Counsel to the Corporation."'

Notable Authors Here.

The performance of "Princess Beggar" at the New Plainfield theatre tonight will be witnessed by a gathering of distinguished playwrights and composers. Among them will be the authors, Edward Paulton, who also wrote "Erminie," and Alfred G. Robyn, composer of the music for "The Yankee Consul" and other successful comedies. They came to Plainfield from New York in a large touring car, this afternoon, accompanied by Paula Edwardes, the star.

A Family Jar.

A scrap occurred among the members of the McCready family on Pearl street, yesterday, and the neighbors complained to the borough police. Mrs. William McCready and her son Elisha McCready were cited to appear before Mayor Smalley last night but the former was the only one to show up. She was fined $5 and a warrant was sworn out for the son. He was arrested by Chief Weiss this morning and gave $20 bail to insure his being in court tonight.

Ballot a Secret One.

Stories circulated about the Fourth ward to the effect that when a voter hands his ballot to he election officer at the primaries on Tuesday the latter has the right to look at it, have caused indignation among the Colbyites. As R. Henry Depew, their candidate for the mayoralty nomination, says, no election officer or any one else has a legal right to examine the ballot of a voter.

Peddler Arrested.

Antonio Dimajo was arrested yesterday for peddling without a license. Judge Runyon suspended sentence this morning.

FISK NOW A CANDIDATE

Gilbert Wins His Consent to Stand For Mayoralty.

HELD LONG CONFERENCE

Convinced That It Was His Duty to the Party, the City Chairman Steps Into the Breach.

Charles J. Fisk has consented to take the place of Councilman George P. Mellick as the standard-bearer of the regular Republicans in the primary contest. After a lengthy conference with Alexander Gilbert, chairman of the Advisory Committee of 125, last night, Mr. Fisk consented, at his request, to come out as a candidate for mayor.

Mr. Fisk met with Mr. Gilbert as chairman of the City Committee, to discuss the question of Mr. Mellick's substitute. Mr. Gilbert urged Mr. Fisk to run. The city chairman was more than reluctant to do so, and declined again and again to consent. The talk went on until after midnight, and Mr. Gilbert's urgings finally won the city chairman over.

Mr. Fisk felt that he was burdened with responsibility enough in municipal affairs and it was not until Mr. Gilbert insisted that it was his duty to take up the standard and lead the regulars that he gave in. He said then that if it could be shown that the delegates chosen with Mr. Mellick's nomination in view wanted him, he would run. It was quickly made plain that they did, and Mr. Fisk gave his full and final consent to the use of his name.

The Colbyites were jubilant yesterday over the declination of Mr. Mellick, this morning other feelings surged in their hearts. The regulars were as jubilant as the Colbyites had been yesterday. They feel that Mr. Fisk is a much stronger man and candidate than R. Henry Depew, and they can see nothing to the contest for the mayoralty now but a whirlwind victory for Fisk.

Another development of the situation is the circulation among the voters of the Third ward of the following card in support of William S. Tyler's renomination:

"The undersigned destre to call attention to the fact that Mr. William S. Tyler is a candidate in the Third ward for renomination to the Council. Appreciating the value of Mr. Tyler's services in the Council during the past four years, and believing that men of his character and efficiency should be continued in office, we desire to call especial attention to the fact that unless Mr. Tyler be nominated as councilman at the primary election on Tuesday, September 25, he cannot be voted for at the election, and we therefore ask the voters to attend the primaries and vote for the renomination of Mr. Tyler.

"D. E. Titsworth,
"Isaac W. Rushmore,
"Leonard Waldo,
"Edward H. Ladd, Jr."

To a Daily Press reporter, this morning, Mr. Gilbert made the following statement regarding the situation:

"The declination of Mr. Mellick to allow his name to be used, coming so near to the primary election that it was impossible for another meeting or caucus, at my earnest solicitation, Charles J. Fisk has consented to take the nomination for Mayor if all the delegates in nomination representing George P. Mellick should be elected and favor him, in other words if the delegates who were nominated to support Mr. Mellick favor Mr. Fisk, he will be the candidate on the regular Republican ticket."

MISS MARGARET SMITH ESCAPES SERIOUS INJURY.

Falls Beneath a Train and Is Rescued by a Brakeman.

Miss Margaret Smith, of Bound Brook, who is employed as an operator at the local telephone exchange, had a narrow escape from serious injury Wednesday morning, as she attempted to board a train on the New Jersey Central to come to this city. The steps of the coach were wet and when she reached the third step her feet slipped and she was thrown backward, falling under the train. The train was about to start, but fortunately one of the brakemen saw her and ran to her assistance.

She suffered a severe sprain of the right arm and left foot, compelling her to return home. She is now improving and able to fill her position.

M'CARDELL TO SUE PAPER FOR LIBELLING HIM

He Retains Counsel to Secure Damages From Courier-News and Robert L. Lee.

CAMPAIGN SENSATION

Former Councilman's Letter Derogatory to McCardell Cause of Trouble—Hetfield, Sr., Makes Statement.

The first real sensation of the hot campaign being waged in this city between the regular Republicans and the Colbyites was sprung this morning when Factory Inspector Andrew McCardell retained counsel to sue the Courier-News Publishing Company and Robert L. Lee, a former councilman who is active in the "new idea" movement, for alleged defamation to his character. The action, a civil suit for libel, will be instituted, he says, on Monday, the papers now being in the course of preparation. Walter L. Hetfield, Sr., has been retained by him as counsel.

Mr. McCardell, who has been particularly active as a leader in local politics for a number of years, has been the object of repeated attacks on the part of the Republican party daily, but up to today he has apparently paid no attention to its criticism. Early this morning, however, he went to the office of Mr. Hetfield and after a short consultation, the lawyer announced that civil suits would be instituted immediately.

"See my counsel," said Mr. McCardell when approached by a representative of The Daily Press today. Mr. Hetfield was seen and this is his statement: "I have been retained by Mr. Andrew McCardell to bring civil suits for libel against the Courier-News and Mr. Robert L. Lee. You can say that the papers in the suit are now being prepared by me and that they will be filed Monday when the proper writs will be issued.

The article appearing in the paper in question forming the basis for the suits is as follows:

"To the Editor of the Courier-News:

"Several days ago an evidently inspired letter was published in the Daily Press, signed by Edward Harding, and purporting to have been written by him in which he strongly doubts whether or not we have a political boss or bosses in Plainfield.

"Perhaps the following circumstance will remove his doubts and prove absolutely that we really have such a thing as a political boss. If it does not I am prepared to furnish others that may tend to make him 'stop and think.'

"Inasmuch as he is a 'regular' and not a Republican, he undoubtedly remembers the time when Councilman Murphy stated that he would not vote for John Goff's or any other liquor license. Andrew McCardell was more interested in John Goff's application for a liquor license than any other person in Plainfield and on hearing of Councilman Murphy's determination to vote against the granting of the said license he was absolutely beside himself with anger and realizing that he could not deliver Murphy's vote he demanded Murphy's resignation as a member of the common council in order that he (McCardell) could put some one in his place who would vote for this license and enable McCardell to redeem his pledge. To McCardell's mortification and chagrin he was unable to compel Murphy to resign or vote for John Goff's license, which so incensed him that he said in the presence of myself and other members of the common council, accompanied by language unprintably vile, "I will break Clarence Murphy politically, financially and socially, and any other councilman who does not do as I want him.'

"The result of the ensuing election showed conclusively that Boss McCardell knew whereof he spoke, and with the assistance of James T. MacMurray, who was likewise deeply interested in John Goff's application for a liquor license, five of the then members of the common council who would not be controlled by the said two bosses, failed of renomination.

"This same course is now being pursued by these same bosses against Councilman Hibbard and Tyler, and for the same reason.

"All I ask Mr. Harding is to 'stop and think.'

"ROBERT L. LEE."

DEWITT C. IVINS NOW FAVORITE OF DEMOCRATS

JAMES MARTINE STRONGLY FAVORS FORMER POLICE COMMISSIONER.

Democratic choice of a mayoralty candidate is rapidly narrowing down to Dewitt C. Ivins, according to the indications discoverable today. The leaders, yesterday, had hopes that James E. Martine might accept the nomination, but Mr. Martine eliminated himself this morning by a positive declaration to consider the nomination.

"I will not be a candidate for the nomination," said Mr. Martine very emphatically. "I would like to see DeWitt C. Ivins the nominee. Without attempting to anticipate the convention or pre-form anybody's choice, I feel moved to say that Mr. Ivins would make a most creditable candidate.".

One of the Democratic leaders said this forenoon that he would like to see Albert H. Atterbury who ran against Mayor Buckle, nominated again. He said he thought Mr. Atterbury would make a mayor who would shed honor and credit on the municipality. It is not known whether Mr. Atterbury would consider the nomination.

SECOND BIGGEST MAN ON EARTH IS IN TOWN.

His Name Is Rory McKenzie With Major Tacked In Front.

Major Rory McKenzie, the Irish giant, second largest man in the world, and press agent of Barney Gilmore's "The Rocky Road to Dublin," which will be one of next week's attractions at the New Plainfield theatre, visited The Press office today. Major McKenzie stands seven feet two inches, military measurement, and weighs 328 pounds. The only man on earth that exceeds him in height and weight is the Russian giant Machnow. A show giant is usually a haggard, tottering individual who has achieved longitude at the expense of health, but Major McKenzie is perfectly proportioned, with ruddy complexion, a strikingly handsome face, and altogether is a superb specimen of magnified manhood. He has appeared twice by command before King Edward, and refused an offer to join his majesty's bodyguard, as well as any number of circus engagements, preferring to be an actor and "a man among men."

Rory went to India with the Gordon Higlanders as drummer boy and served in Afghanistan, Egypt and South Africa and rose to the rank of Major. Receiving an honorable discharge he came to American to try his fortune. Barney Gilmore offered him a place as advance agent for his show and the Major accepted. He appears with the show.

R. P. BACHE RESIGNS.

Quits P. S. C. to Take a Job Out West.

Ralph P. Bache, who has been assistant superintendent of the electric department of the Public Service Corporation, with Plainfield, Bound Brook and Somerville, as his territory, for the past two years, has resigned to accept the position of manager of the Colorado Springs Electric Company and the Colorado Springs Light and Power Company. He will enter upon his new duties October 1. Mr. Bache will have entire charge of all the electric business of the abovementioned companies at Colorado Springs.

Mr. Bache has been connected with the Public Service Corporation and its constituent companies for nine years. Prior to his connection with the Public Service Corporation he represented a Pittsburg house on the road. Since coming to Plainfield Mr. Bache has secured many improvements, including the new transmission lines between Plainfield and Bound Brook, Lincoln and Somerville and the old steam plants at Greenbrook and Somerville have been abandoned. The electric service has been greatly improved and it was largely through his efforts that the local rates for lighting were reduced.

Republican Fifth Congressional District Convention.

The Republican voters of the Fifth Congressional District of the State of New Jersey composing the Counties of Morris, Union and Warren, are requested to elect delegates at Primary Elections to be held according to the provisions of the statute of the State of New Jersey, on Tuesday, the twenty-fifth day of September, A. D. nineteen hundred and six, to the Congressional Convention to be held in Jacobs' Theatre in the City of Elizabeth, Union County, New Jersey, on Friday, the twenty-eighth day of September, A. D. nineteen hundred and six, at twelve o'clock noon for the purpose of nominating a member of the House of Representatives to be supported at the ensuing election. The basis of the representation of each election district of each of the townships, wards or boroughs under this call is regulated by Chapter 237 of the laws of New Jersey, Session 1906, page 505, viz.: One delegate for every one hundred votes cast by the Republican party for its candidate for Governor at the last Gubernatorial Election, viz.: Election 1904, and one delegate for each fraction thereof over forty, but every election district in each of the townships, boroughs or wards which at the last Gubernatorial Election cast less than one hundred votes shall be entitled to cast one vote in this Convention.

By order of the Fifth Congressional Executive Committee.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

Real music, real comedy and real opera is promised at the New Plainfield theatre tonight when Charles Dillingham will present Paula Edwardes in "Princess Beggar," the little comedian's latest success. Its libretto is by Edward Paulton whose "Erminie" was probably the last real great success in genuine comic opera before the advent of the modern hybrid-musical comedy. The music is by Alfred G. Robyn, whose tuneful melodies in "Yankee Consul" tickled the ears of so many thousands. In "Princess Beggar" these writers are said to have provided the winsome Paula with the best vehicle of her career. Not since her days—or nights—of brilliant effulgence in the leading musical comedies of Augustin Daly, has she had such scope for her droll characterization, her quaint humor, nimble wits and dainty personality.

"The Ragged Messenger," in which Creston Clarke is this season winning a most gratifying success, is a perfect marvel of the playwright's craft. Many of its situations are startling in the extreme: its dialogue is crisp and at time prophetic, dealing as it does with the gigantic problems of the present day, and the atmosphere that permeates it is charged with all the portents of a terrific storm, when suddenly it clears and a rainbow appears on the horizon of the lives of its principal characters. No more intensely absorbing play has ever been presented. "The Ragged Messenger" will be the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre next Monday night.

"The Prince of Pilsen," the tuneful musical comedy by Frank Pixley and Gustav Luders, will be the theatre's attraction next Tuesday night and the interest shown indicates that the engagement will be one of the chief events of the season. This entertainment seems to bloom in perennial popularity and its repeated engagements do not dull appreciation of its tuneful music and romantic story; its play of humor and the poesy of its lyrics. The company coming at this time is the only one playing "The Prince of Pilsen," and its personnel includes Jess Dandy, George Lydecker, Henry Coote, J. Hayden Clarendon, Wilmer Bentley, Peter Swift, Pauline Guzman, Albertine Benson, Marie Welch, Jeannette Bageard, Helena Delmore, Ida Stanhope and others. As in the past the chorus contingents will provide an alliance of good voices and good looks, a combination rare in itself but one which Manager Henry W. Savage successfully effects.

In the new farcical comedy, "The Galloper," in which Henry W. Savage will offer Raymond Hitchcock at the New Plainfield theatre next Wednesday night, Richard Harding Davis is said to have quite outdone himself in this latest effort from his prolific pen. That is saying much when one considers the success which has attended "Soldiers of Fortune," "Ranson's Folly," "The Dictator," "Captain Macklin," and others of his plays. Mr. Davis has taken his material for "The Galloper" from his own experience as a war correspondent in Greece during the recent Graeco-Turkish war. The play deals largely with war correspondents at the front, and the role which Mr. Hitchcock plays as "The Galloper" is one replete with bright comedy lines, and humorous situations. Of course there is a woman in the case, in fact several women, which add a delicious feminine side to the story. As may be surmised the background of the play is full of romance and color, describing scenes around Athens and at Volo in the Grecian mountains. The pictorial side is said to have been splendidly described by the well-known scenic artist, Walter Burridge, and Mr. Savage has surrounded his star with an admirable company of comeians.

Music, mirth, pretty girls, handsome costumes and a pot-pourri of love and lunacy are the ingredients used by Walter Coleman Parker to make "Lovers and Lunatics" an enjoyable evening's entertainment, and the patrons of the New Plainfield theatre will have an opportunity to draw their own conclusions on Thursday night next. While a number of the features which contributed to its success last season have been retained, there are so many new and delightful additions that the play certainly merits a second visit. Among our old friends of last season are Joe Harris in his original character of "Ikey Rosensteins; J. Maurice Helden as "Cornelia;" George P. Watson as "Lieutenant George Richmond," and Florence Little as "Nellie Richmond." Among the new comers are several well known farceurs that have made your acquaintance in other plays, notably Lillian Lawson, who assumes the role of "Nellie Huntington;" Wilbur Mack as "Richard Hamilton," and Henry P. Nelson as "Heinrich Dinkelspiel." The famous dainty beauty chorus have been given new chances to show how cute they can be.

Ida Crispi, for several seasons past the reigning favorite among the eccentric dancers of London, was brought to this country last May for the purpose of heading the company producing "Mamselle Champagne," which ran all season at the Madison Square Roof Garden in New York. She is now supporting Blanche Ring in "Miss Dolly Dollars" in the role of a slavey and doing her excruciatingly funny dancing. She will be seen here at the New Plainfield theatre next Friday night.

Example: Abundant hair plus dandruff microbes, plus a few years, equals baldness.

BALDNESS BEGINS EARLY

"Baldness begins in the young and increases, whether rapidly or slowly, up to the fiftieth year." So says Dr. Sabouraud, of Paris, the world's greatest authority upon diseases of the hair and scalp.

Dr. Sabouraud confirms Dr. Unna's discovery, that baldness is a contagious disease caused by a microbe. Ask your family physician about these two authorities.

Dr. Sabouraud goes further, however, and says that "Baldness as a chronic malady, is a disease not of old age, but of youth; in bald old men we simply see the result of a disease that has been slowly doing its work for many years."

The dandruff microbe is an invisible growth of vegetable character; minute fragments of it are easily passed from one head to the other, through the medium of public hair brushes, towels, etc.

In the hair these fragments are inert until they come in contact with the natural hair oil from the sebaceous glands of the scalp, when they will begin to grow and form one colony after another; in a similar manner, dry fragments of yeast cake are inert until they find the proper medium, when they promptly begin to "work."

On the back of the head, most of these fragments of microbic growth fall out of the hair before they find permanent lodgement in the sebaceous glands, and this is one of the reasons why baldness begins, and is often confined, to the top of the head.

It often takes years to produce dandruff, but after it is well established in the scalp the destruction becomes more and more rapid. The hair becomes dull, brittle and lustreless, but occasionally there is excessive oiliness. Itching of the scalp and falling hair usually follow excessive dandruff, and unless something is done to check the disease, baldness will surely follow.

NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE — the ORIGINAL remedy that "kills the dandruff germ"—will overcome any stage of this malady, except chronic baldness. It acts by destroying the growth that causes the disease, and when this is done, the hair is bound to grow as nature intended.

More men and women get positive results from the use of NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE than from all other hair remedies combined.

It is delightfully refreshing to use, and it stops itching of the scalp almost instantly. Remember that you must destroy the cause to remove the effect. Do not wait for chronic baldness, for it is incurable. THE TIME TO SAVE YOUR HAIR IS WHILE YOU HAVE HAIR TO SAVE.

When my back hurt the worst cold sweat stood out on me, and if I caught cold it always settled on my kidneys. I got so bad with these troubles that I had to quit work, but though I doctored faithfully, no medicine struck the right spot until I began using Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Randolph's pharmacy. I took in all three boxes and they stopped my many aches and pains and regulated the action of the kidneys. DAMP REFORM MEETING

Republicans, he said, and better Republicans than the machine men, and they purposed putting the control of the party where it belonged, with the voters and the men who made the party. He urged the Republican voters to go to the primary on Tuesday.

"There will be no monkeying with the ballots this time," he said. No shenannegans will go at the primary this trip. We have taken steps to fix all that, and no voter need fear intimidation."

Councilman W. S. Tyler, who was also to have spoken, was unable to come out. Judge Runyon had to go to Westfield and New Providence.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The annual meeting of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the East New Jersey Baptist Association will be held in Westfield early in October.

Rev. Dr. Halleron, presiding elder of the Elizabeth District, will have charge of the second quarterly conference at the First M. E. church Wednesday night, September 26.

A varied and pleasing entertainment will be given by the Jenkins' Orphan Pickaninny Band, of Charleston, S. C., at the Y. M. C. A. Hall this evening at 8 o'clock. A silver offering will be received at the box office.

Rev. A. E. Finn will speak and the Jenkins Orphan Band will furnish special music at the M. Y. C. A. meeting to be held at Concert Park tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. If the weather is unfavorable the meeting will be held at the hall.

The Congregational church Sunday-school will hold its annual rally day service tomorrow afternoon at 2:45 o'clock. There will be the roll call of classes, special music and the feature of the programme will be "Four Fives." The morning service will begin at 10:30 o'clock.

The local Christian Endeavor Congress has decided to hold a series of cottage prayer meetings in the West End of the town during the fall and winter. They will be in charge of the Endeavorers. Next month a public meeting will be held in one of the city churches and it is expected to have Rev. Hervey Wood, of New York, present to make an address.

A friend of the Missionary Aid Society of Warren chapel informed the members a few days ago that he would contribute $100 to the furnishing fund of the new building, provided a like amount was raised by the society by October 1. At a meeting yesterday the Missionary Aid learned that it had $66 in cash and enough pledges on hand to make it $85. It is now practically certain that the necessary $100 will be secured in time.

CORTELYOU NOT A CANDIDATE.

Postmaster-General Says He's Going to Stick to Present Job.

Oyster Bay, Sept. 22.—Postmaster-General Cortelyou, who came here yesterday to see President Roosevelt on official business, when reminded that he had been mentioned as a possible candidate for Governor of New York, said:

"You may quote me as saying that I am as Postmaster-General of the United States engaged in efforts to improve the postal service. When I am a candidate for any other office I will say so."

President Roosevelt had as luncheon guests yesterday Archbishop Ireland and Archbishop O'Gorman, of Sioux Falls, S. D.; Jacob A. Riis, William A. White and Horace R. Knowles.

SERVANT GIRL PROBLEM PUZZLES PLAINFIELDERS

ONE MAID REFUSES POSITION AT $35 A MONTH IN FAMILY OF FOUR.

One of the questions that is vexing local housewives is the inability to engage servant girls to do housework. Never before in the history of the city has there been such a scarcity of domestic help. Prominent society families by the score are unable to secure servants, and as a result of the famine in cooks and kitchen girls more than one matron is obliged to do her own housework. What present conditions will have on the social season during the coming winter is hard to conjecture at this time.

What girls are still willing to do housework duty are demanding high rates of wages, which housewives declare "is simply outrageous." In one instance, a few days ago, an applicant was offered a position for $35 per month. The wages suited her apparently, but when she was informed that the family consisted of four, husband, wife and two children, she politely declined to take the situation, giving for her reason that she did not care to work in large families.

Some of the housewives have been in the habit of securing help from New York employment offices, but in the majority of cases the girls leave after receiving their month's wages, and seek other positions. The local employment bureaus are overrun with applications from distracted housewives who are unable to secure domestic help. A manager of one of the bureaus ascribes the reason of present conditions to the fact that girls of the present day have no desire for housework, preferring to work in factories and offices.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. Ida Jones, of Suffield, Mass., is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Shirley, of College Place.

Former Councilman William Starr Bullock, of East Second street, has returned from a business trip to Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Owens, of Lee place, are the parents of a little daughter who came to their home a few days ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Leroy J. Ellis and daughter, Miss Dorothy Ellis, left yesterday for Nashville, Tenn. Miss Ellis will remain in Tennessee for a year in school.

H. de W. Rapalje, formerly of this city, but now with the engineering department of the Carolina Trucking Development Company, of Wilmington, N. "Randolph's Quinine and Glycerine" Hair Tonic.

The proper treatment and care for the hair is very important. The tendency to baldness seems to be on the increase, but there is no need to be bald if you give your hair the proper attention and use "Randolph's Compound Quinine and Glycerine" Hair Tonic.

By imparting vitality to the roots of the hair, it stops it from falling out, irradicates dandruff, assures the continued growth and prevents baldness and final loss. It is richly perfumed and is an elegant dressing for the hair. Prepared either with or without oil—oil for dry hair and without oil for oily hair.

POINTS FOR THE BUYERS

When you want sanitary plumbing work of any kind done consult A. H. Enander, of Watchung avenue.

John Winzenreid, of Lee place, is a reliable trucker, and all work left in his charge will be attended to right.

Brokaw's creamery on East Front street is the place to get fresh butter, milk, cream and eggs. Lowest prices.

When you want good fruit, fruit that will be fine enough for any table, go to Alex. Lusardi, West Front street.

People with epicurean tastes may find the delight they crave at the tables of the Southern Restaurant, Madison avenue.

Boice, Runyon & Co., of Park avenue, sell the best grade of anthracite coal at the lowest market prices, well screened and full weight. Give the firm your order.

Go slow in awarding your painting jobs. The work may be so done as to spoil the house's appearance. Give it to J. C. Hanson, East Front street, and be sure of good work.

By trading with "The White Store," on West Front street, you always get your money's worth and the best goods. The firm is constantly receiving new fall and winter goods and an inspection is invited. The millinery department is a great attraction as is every other department in the store. Trading stamps are given and on the third floor of the building you can see the handsome premiums.

Lavender Creighton's Lovers

By OLIVIA B. STROHM

(Copyright, 1905, by Olivia B. Strohm).

She turned, and sinking to her knees placed the letters one by one upon the flames, that blinked in a mockery of presage, until the last blackened wisp whirled up the chimney.

Charles sighed, but Lavender whispered, softly: "'They also serve who only stand and wait.'"

CHAPTER XXXIII.

"God answers sharp and sudden on some prayers,
And thrusts the thing we have prayed for in our face,
A gauntlet with a gift in't."

Scarcely were they home again in St. Charles when they began planning for the return to Virginia.

Lavender was all excitement, all interest. Was not this the desired end of her hopes? The direct answer to prayer?

But her mother watched the preparations quietly, without enthusiasm.

At Lavender's gentle remonstrance she forced a smile to hide the sigh. "Yes, I know, child, we are 'almost there.'"

But the daughter's happy, hopeful heart did not see the meaning with which a swift and undefinable prescience burdened the words.

Once America spoke in a muffled tone of alarm. "Honey, hab yo' noticed dat yo' ma's allus axin' what time it is?"

The mysterious manner struck a chill to Lavender's heart, though the words seemed senseless.

Rolling her eyes until the whites were in startling relief against the black setting, the old woman continued: "Dey do say as dat's a bad sign, honey."

Then, as she noted the effect of her speceh: "Nebber mind my fool talk, chile; come out an' see de nice new moon."

She playfully pushed the younger woman to the door. Just above the circle of trees on the western horizon loomed a mass of clouds, from which the sunset glory faded fast.

"Tu'n 'roun' quick, honey, yo're lookin' ober yo' lef' shoulder."

But Lavender did not move. Silently, miserable,depressed with a nameless dread, she watched the moon. Across its glittering crescent was a streak of purple cloud like a smear of dried blood. She shivered and hurried into the house, followed by the old negress, quaking with superstitious fear.

Toward the close of the next day they led Mrs. Creighton out of doors for a breath of fresh air. For it was hot and close in the little cabin, and she was better to-night.

"Much better, are we not, dearest?" And Lavender nestled in the grass at her mother's feet, gently swinging the hammock in which she lay.

The night was very still—too still, Lavender thought. Earth and sky seemed waiting for something; the katy-dids, the doves, were silent; no sound nor stir came from any living creature; the owl's cry was hushed; only a bat blundered by with soft swish of wings.

Lavender reached out her hand for Charles' comforting clasp. "How still the night is," she said. "It awes, it frightens me. Even so I think it will be on that dread, final night. The world will be still—so still, beloved, that the last waiting ears will hear the whirling of the globe, the swing of the stars in space."

"Lavender!" Mrs. Creighton's voice startled them—loud, but clear and sweet as water over stones.

"Yes, mother, dearest,' and the daughter clasped the knees of her who now sat upright in the hammock, her whole frame tense, rigid. On her face was a look of unearthly fairness, a beauty that was young again, with the last, eternal youth.

Her eyes were wide with expectancy, a smile parted her lips. "'Are we almost there?'" she murmured.

For one long moment the daughter gazed, not daring to draw breath—breath now was precious.

She watched the last faint sign of color fade from her mother's face, leaving it gray as a wasted ember. Only those eyes burned bright with the fire of the deathless soul.

Then waves of grief enveloped the young, untamed heart, her whole being ached with agony as in a flash the thought confronted her. She had not prayed right; she had blasphemed; she had demanded of her God this boon. And now the cup was at her lips, but she must not taste—the Promised Land was in sight, but she must abide on Pisgah.

"Too late!, too late!" Lavender moaned, as she lay, face downward, hidden in her mother's hands—those restless hands that, for the first time, failed in a responsive caress.

"Where are you, daughter? Come home with me. Look! We are almost there! See, the larch by the gate is dead, and the tiny nest still swings on the withered arm. That is the nest which the lazy blackbirds stole, do you remember? How tall the grass is, and see, they—they have let the—weeds—grow, but—" her voice was fainter, and the daughter's tears failed to warm the shrunken hands. "But I shall—have it all—lovely again." And her head drooped slowly back.

There was yet no sound in earth nor sky. Only the hoarse breath of the mother and the daughter's crying disturbed the peaceful night.

"How good the children are! They are taking me home—home."

Then her voice sank to a troubled whining. "But we—we cannot get in. The gate—the old red gate is—is locked."

And when the others came they found them together, and for one, Death had opened the gate.

THE END.

Couldn't Carry the Cabbage.

She was a very small girl indeed, and she stood contemplating in despair a very large cabbage just as a young lady of benevolent mind passed by. The young lady took note of the despair.

"Can I do anything to help you, dear?" she asked kindly. "Can't you carry that cabbage?"

"No'm," said the child, hopefully.

The young lady considered her ten spare moments and picked up the cabbage.

"If you don't live far I'll carry it for you," she said; and forthwith balanced the cabbage on her open hand to show how very strong she was. "You can carry it just to the door—can't you, honey?"

"No'm; I can't," very positively.

"But why not?"? It isn't heavy." The young lady was plainly puzzled.

"No'm; but there's a big worm on it right where your hand is, and I don't want to touch it. It's a horrid worm, like—"

But the cabbage had dropped with a thump and the young lady was already hurrying off toward the corner with a handkerchief tightly clutched in her hand.—Judge.

DIAMOND DUST.

The Chicago Nationals are now the winners of the pennant in the National League for this year, and no matter what the results of the games to be played are, the Windy City team cannot lose their well-earned honors. It remains to be seen, however, who will win the American League pennant, the Highlanders and Chicago Americans are still fighting hard for supremacy. At present the New Yorks are ahead a few points.

The Clinton Avenues and Scotch Plains will meet at Crescent Oval this afternoon and the friends of both teams will be out in large numbers to root for their favorites.

The Buffalo Eastern League team has cinched the pennant in that league, with only a few games remaining to be played. The Bisons have shown their right to first place by steady, consistent work throughout the season.

A special train will take the West Ends, of Somerville, and their friends to Flemington this afternoon. The contest has attracted the attention of fans throughout Somerset and Hunterdon counties and both teams will play the game of their life to win. "Lou" Wiltse will pitch for Somerville.

Taylor Mahaffey, who returned to the Plainfield High School this year, will be a strong man for the school baseball team. He is undoubtedly the best third baseman that the school has had in several years and he is also good with the stick and very fast on bases.

The prospects for the baseball team at the North Plainfield High School next season are unusually bright. Some excellent material has come in and there will undoubtedly be a strong nine to represent the school.

Manager Daab's Hoboken team, representing Red Bank, still continues to win, notwithstanding the fact that the other teams in the Atlantic Coast League have beent greatly strengthened, in one case by the importation of the whole York Tri-State League team, winners of the pennant in that league this season. Clinton is doing most of the pitching for Daab and is strengthening his reputation as a twirler. "Jack" O'Neil is doing all the catching.

Recreation Park, Westfield, the scene of many hard-fought battles, has been sold and the fence and grandstands are to be removed.

GOLF.

One decided improvement at the Plainfield Country Club has been the removal of the old barn and other smaller buildings near the roadway. Practically a new barn has been built for the care and keeping of the horses and utensils used on the course, and the surroundings have generally been improved. The cinder walk now extends from the trolley terminus to the clubhouse, thus obviating the old habit of walking across the course during play.

The events at the Westfield Golf Club today will include play for the September Handicap cup. There is considerable rivalry for this cup and many contestants are attracted to the course weekly.

Robert Abbott, of this city, who has been playing great golf at the Morris County Golf Club, will be called upon to defend his title as intercollegiate champion a little later. He will have a large field opposing him, but judging by his present form he should be able to retain the honors.

Dudley H. Barrows, who will soon return to Princeton, will undoubtedly be a member of the golf team at the college and is likely to be a factor in the intercollegiate tournament to be played later in the season. With Abbott and Barrows in this tournament Plainfield will have two worthy representatives.

The Middlebrook Country Club golf course at Findern is now in fine condition and a large field visits there every week. A cup is being competed for and the social features at the club are attracting many of the society people from Somerville and nearby places.

Several additional bunkers have been placed on the Plainfield Country Club, making the play more difficult. It is doubtful whether there are any better links in the metropolitan district and the local course is well taken care of.

The list of scheduled events at the Plainfield Country Club run up to and including Thanksgiving Day. On that day the active season will conclude with a cross-country tournament, commencing at 10 o'clock in the morning. The club decided that it would be wise to close the season earlier than formerly and not run chances of having disagreeable weather to wind up with.

The active season at the Park Golf Club will close about Election Day with special events. It has never been the custom of this club to extend the season very late. All things considered the club has had a prosperous year and the events have been full of interest.

ROBERT ABBOTT IS DEFEATED IN GOLF PLAY.

George Borup Wins Hard-Fought Match With Intercollegiate Champion.

Extra-hole matches proved a feature of the invitation tournament at the Morris County Golf Club, yesterday. In the struggle for the chief cup, the survivors were George Borup, of the New Haven Country Club, and Marshall Whitlach, of the Montclair Golf Club.

Conditions were ideal for golf and most of the matches were fought out to the home green. The first surprise of the day came in the defeat of Robert Abbott, of this city, the intercollegiate champion, at the hands of Borup. All the luck was with the latter. He saved himself a halve at the third hole by laying his opponent a stymie, and again at the fifteenth he had the good fortune to see his ball strike a tree and bound back on the course, after it sailed over the fence out of bounds. Playing the sixteenth hole, Abbot's third shot lay dead to the cup. Borup putted the odd from a distance of thirty feet and the luck of the game was still with him, as his ball, which was considerably off the line, struck Abbott's ball and carromed into the hole.

They halved this hole in four, which left Abbott 1 down, with two holes to play, and although he drove the seventeenth and eighteenth greens, an indifferent short game prevented him from taking advantage of opportunities presented by the other. These last two holes were halved in 4s, leaving Borup a winner by 1 up. George T. Brokaw was generally fancied to defeat Borup in the semi-final round, but failed.

JOIN THE LEAGUE.

Y. M. C. A. Basketball Team Votes To Go Into Strong Combination.

The Y. M. C. A. basketball team voted, last night, to enter the Northern New Jersey League of Y. M. C. A. teams. The decision means a fine schedule of games. The league will include some of the strongest teams in the State.

Home games will be played Monday nights, and out of town games on Saturdays. Candidates will meet at the Y. M. C. A. next Friday night at 8 o'clock. All members of the association who would like to make the team will be welcomed at the meeting.

Choir Boys' Club.

The Holy Cross church choir boys met last night to organize a club. Thirty-nine names were enrolled. A meeting for the election of officers will be held next week.

REVERSED FLAGS START SMALL RIOT.

Trouble Follows Liquor Dealers' State Convention Held At Elizabeth.

Incidents connected with the annual meeting at Elizabeth of the New Jersey State Liquor Dealers' Association, which closed Thursday, have caused considerable discussion.

There was a small riot Thursday night at a saloon kept by a man named Clark, at Third avenue and Jersey street, resulting from the fact that three American flags were flying all day upside down from the top of the building. One of the flags was half-masted. Persons who saw these apparent signals of distress concluded the saloon man intended to show his feelings toward the Bishops' law.

A crowd, composed mainly of workingmen, went to the saloon in the evening and demanded that the flags should be displayed properly or else hauled down. The proprietor explained the flags had been hung out by an immigrant who probably didn't know the correct way to display them. Nevertheless, the flags were not changed.

After threatening to wreck the place, some of the crowd went to the roof and, after hauling down the flags, raised them in proper style. Then the angry citizens descended to the saloon and it would probably have gone hard with the saloonkeeper but for the timely arrival of the police. The crowd was dispersed promptly.

Although Mayor Berry did not welcome the saloonkeepers to the city, it is generally thought that he has been placed "in a hole" by the man who did. Prior to the meeting of the convention the Woman's Christian Temperance Union requested the Mayor "in the name of humanity and all that is decent" not to offer a welcome to the visiting saloon men.

The Mayor found it convenient to leave the city, and Col. Collins, president of the City Council, welcomed the liquor men to the city. In doing so he remarked that he had been requested by the Mayor to offer a welcome to the visitors, and it is this statement that has aroused the anger of the temperance folk. Another thing that has aroused the indignation of the opponents of the liquor business is that by order of the City Council the City Hall was decorated in honor of the visitors. Even the police station was gay with flags and bunting.

Col. Collins is commander of the Second Regiment, N. G. N. J., and also president of a brewing company.

LA FOLLETTE'S BIG RECEPTION AT NEWARK.

Addresses Three Thousand Persons for New Idea at Krueger Auditorium.

Senator La Follette made last night a campaign speech in a temperature above blood heat to more than 3,000 persons in the Krueger Auditorium at Newark. The meeting was held in the interest of the Colby movement. Many women were in the sweltering thousands.

The meeting was called to order by Gardner Colby, ad Chandler W. Riker, a "new idea" favorite for United States Senator Dryden's seat, was made chairman. Speeches were made by Senator Colby and Assemblyman William P. Martin, State leaders of the Reublican reform movement. Both were warmly received.

Senator La Follette pledged the remainder of his life to fight corruption. He chided the people of New Jersey for submitting to the rule of bosses and special interests, and he passionately appealed to them to redeem the name of the State whose soil had been washed with the blood of the early martyrs shed in order to obtain that representative government which has now been lost and has given place to the domination of corrupt influences.

In the afternoon the galaxy of New Idea stars addressed a big meeting at East Orange.

Alexander Brown.

Alexander Brown, aged forty-three years, died last night at his home at 228 East Front street. He had been ill for a long time. He was a stone-cutter by trade and came to Plainfield from Newark, where he belonged to West End lodge, A. O. U. W., and other organizations. A widow, one son and two daughters survive him. The funeral will be held from his late home Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock and interment will be at Hillside.

Mrs. Caroline Honnig.

Following an illness of several weeks, Mrs. Caroline Honnig, widow of Gottfried Honnig, died at her home on Lake street this morning. She was forty-eight years old and leaves ten children. The funeral will be held from the house Monday afternoon at 4:30.

Proper Enough.

"I noticed Mrs. Senator Crookit in on eof the autos," said the society reporter.

"Yes," replied the sporting editor.

"Who was in that big blue car?"

"Mrs. Undertaker and Embalmer Berriam."

Dr. and Mrs. O. L. Jenkins, of East Front street, have returned from Atlantic City, where the doctor has been resting for the past two weeks at The Chalfonte.

VOTERS CAN ORDER MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP

Council Would Have Full Power to Acquire Plant After a Favorable Vote.

OPINION BY MR. MARSH

Ample Authority For Council to Investigate Wisdom of Immediate Action Before Election Is Held.

Whenever the voters decide, by ballot, in favor of municipal ownership of the water supply, the city will have power to acquire a plant of its own. Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh so expresses himself in an opinion submitted to Councilman Herbert Buxton, chairman of the Public Affairs Committee, in reply to his questions regarding the submission of the question to the voters.

In his opinion, Mr. Marsh says the city may, in the event of a favorable vote, either purchase the present plant, acquire it by condemnation or build a system of its own. It would have the power to borrow up to $1,500,000 for the purpose and to issue bonds for that amount. The present or any future council would have full power to act on the question as soon as the election returns were duly filed.

Should the council desire to investigate the question of the advisability of immediate proceedings with regard to municipal ownership, it may do so. There is ample authority for it to use money for that purpose out of appropriations already made for municipal use.

Mr. Marsh's opinion in full is as follows:

Plainfield, N. J., Sept. 21, 1906.

"Mr. Herbert Buxton,
"Chairman of Public Affairs Committee,
"Plainfield, N. J.

"Dear Sir:

"Answering your inquiries concerning the proposed submission to the local voters of this city, of the question whether to adopt for the city the provisions of the 1876 Supply Act, I have to say: that if the voters shall be in favor of adopting the act, the city would thereupon immediately have power to purchase the present water works, or to acquire them by condemnation proceedings, or to build a water works system of its own, and would also immediately have power to borrow for any of such purposes, any amount not exceeding $1,500,000, and to issue bonds therefor not exceeding that amount, bearing interest at not exceeding five per centum per annum, the principal to be payable at periods of not less than ten nor more than fifty years from date, and upon the bonds being issued, the city treasurer would immediately have power to dispose of said bonds either at public or private sale, for the best price that could be obtained, not less than par. See General Statutes, page 646, pl. 902, &c., and particularly the amendment in P. L. 1900, at page 44. After the election shall have been carried in favor of adopting the act, no further authority from the people by vote or otherwise will be necessary. The present or any future council would have all requisite authority in the premises immediately upon the filing of the election returns.

"Answering your question as to whether in advance of an election being ordered, it is competent for the common council to make investigation as to the wisdom of taking immediate proceedings toward the acquisition of a water works system for the city, I have to say that the common council has ample power to do so. I know of no limitation upon its power in that respect, except that it can incur no expense or obligation in excess of the limit of expenditure. There would appear to be no reason why any available moneys not already appropriated for other municipal purposes, may not be drawn upon for the purpose of such investigation, if the council shall decide to cause it to be made.

"Yours truly,
"CRAIG A. MARSH."

Mr. Buxton stated this morning, in giving out Mr. Marsh's opinion, that the subject would be brought before the Common Council for careful consideration at the next meeting.

McCready Fined $10.

Elisha McCready, who was arrested for his part in a family scrap and who failed to appear in court at the time specified, was arraigned before Mayor Smalley Saturday night. He was fined $10, five for the original offense and five for staying away. The amount was paid.

M'CARDELL MAKES A FORMAL DENIAL

HE BRANDS LEE'S STATEMENT AS ABSOLUTELY FALSE.

Walter L. Hetfield, Sr., counsel for Andrew McCardell, stated today that he is still at work preparing the papers in Mr. MacCardell's proposed suits for libel against the Courier-News and Robert L. Lee, over the publication of the latter's attack on the Fourth ward leader in the paper on Friday.

Mr. McCardell sent the following letter of denial to the Courier-News this morning:

"In your editorial of September 21st, referring to the letter of Robert L. Lee, published in your news columns of the same issue, you say that if I have any denial or different version of Mr. Lee's story the Courier-News will be glad to present my side of the case to the voters.

"With the idea of determining how nearly you mean what you say, I ask you to give this letter the same prominence which you accorded to Mr. Lee's tale.

"Mr. Lee's story that I stated that I 'would break Clarence Murphy politically, financially and socially, and any other councilman who didn't do as I wanted,' is wholly and absolutely false.

"His insinuation that I was 'interested' in Goff's application for license, in any other sense than that it deserved as much favorable consideration as did some other licenses which were granted, is equally false.

"The trouble with Mr. Lee is that, he wanted to be elected collector of taxes. The salary of the office is probably what attracted him. He had the same chance to secure the approval of the voters as had any other candidate. They, however, seemed to think that he was not the proper man for the place. He seems to imagine that I, in some mysterious manner which he does not disclose, prevented the three thousand Republican voters of the city from electing him, and hence his repeated attacks upon me.

"He does me entirely too much honor and by the token he belittles the voters of the city. I never had and never claimed to have any such power as he ascribes to me.

"My private opinion is that the voters did not want him because they had come to know him ofr what he really is. If so, they will hardly be influenced at the coming primaries by any campaign canard which he and his band of five other sore and defeated comrades may publish.

Yours truly,
"ANDREW McCARDELL.

MISS LEWIS BECOMES MRS. NELSON DANIELS

CEREMONY PERFORMED AT BRIDE'S HOME IN ASHAWAY, R. I.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Abbie Lewis, formerly of this city, and Nelson Daniels, of Willamantic, Conn., which was celebrated on Monday, September 17, at the home of the bride's father, W. W. Lewis, in Ashaway, R. I. Rev. Clayton Burdick, pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, of Westerly, R. I., performed the ceremony. Among those who attended the wedding were Mrs. George H. Babcock, an aunt of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. Nathan E. Lewis, of this city. Mrs. Daniels is a sister of Nathan E. Lewis and Howard A. Lewis.

Mrs. Daniels is well-known here, where she attended the Plainfield High School and from which she was graduated two years ago. At that time she made her home with Mrs. George H. Babcock, of West Eighth street, but during the past year she has been living with her father at Ashaway. The couple will reside at Willamantic, where the groom is engaged in business.

Urged Shellabarger's Nomination.

Prominent Third ward residents have sent out a circular urging the Republican voters to support Joseph M. Shellabarger for council, his opponent being William S. Tyler. The appeal is signed by B. Frank Coriell, George A. Beaton, George S. Ring, H. W. Beebe, Elliott T. Barrows, Lemuel W. Serrell, William T. Kaufman, William C. Kinney and L. E. Waring.

Received Undertaker's License.

Under a law passed last spring, undertakers and embalmers in the State must take out a license before October 1. A. M. Runyon & Son received theirs today having made application and filled all requirements.

RUNYON TALKS ON FISK

Deplores His Association With the Workers of the Regular Organization.

SAYS HE IS A SHIELD

Judge Put Out, After Street Meetings, By Construction That Is Put On His Statement Regarding City Chairman.

Two street meetings were held by the Colbyites Saturday night. Judge Runyon, R. Henry Depew and G. W. V. Moy spoke at Somerset street, and Mr. Depew and the Judge addressed a crowd at Liberty and Third streets. It was the first meeting in the West End, and the reception accorded the New Idea orators gratified them.

In the course of his speech, Judge Runyon referred to the candidacy of Charles J. Fisk. It was a pity, he said, that Mr. Fisk should lend himself to the elements in control of the organization, and allow his high standing, his popularity with his fellow-citizens to bse used as a shield of respect ability.

His complacent attitude toward the bosses at this time, the Judge continued, indicated what his course in regard to them would be if elected. It was the part of the logical believer in the furtherance of the New Idea to vote for Mr. Depew's nomination instead of Mr. F.sk'si

It was said by reform leaders that after the meetings, machine sympathizers spread the report that Judge Runyon had said that Mr. Fisk's election would be a detriment to the city. Judge Runyon was not pleased over the report.

Mr. Moy and Mr. Depew spoke in the same vein as at the other meetings. They urged the voters to keep clearly in mind the necessity of wresting th city from the control of men friendly to bosses higher up, and argued for municipal ownership of water supply, equal taxation, taxation of public utility franchises and the popular selection of United States senator.

Arrangements for primary day were completed by the Colby central committee Saturday night, at a meeting in the Babcock building. The whole city is to be covered by members of the reform organization, and the regulars will be opposed everywhere by earnest workers.

Several street meetings will be held to wind up the campaign tonight. Judge Runyon and R. Henry Depew will speak at Netherwood and smaller meetings will take place in the downtown section.

OX LOST ITS CUD.

Odd Incident Attends Visit of Archaic Vehicle to Town.

A team of oxen was seen in the city Friday afternoon for the first time in a long while. It was driven down Front street by a man who looked as if he had come from very far back in tae mountains and the combination of oxen, cart and driver excited a lot of attention.

An odd incident marked the progress of the team through town. One of the oxen began to act queerly and the driver could not discover what was wrong. The animal seemed to be in distress, and the driver finally sent for Dr. Herbert, the veterinary. The vet looked the animal over, and discovered that its uneasiness lay in the fact that it had lost its cud.

"It must be along the road somewhere," said the driver, "and I'll go back a way and look for it."

He found it a mile back and returned in triumph with it to the ox. With its cud back in place, the ox contentedly returned all its attention to work, and the team went on. The driver said he was on his way to Finderne.

Special Wednesday Night Topics.

Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, pastor of the First Baptist church, has arranged a programme of special topics for the Wednesday night prayer-meetings for the next few weeks. The general topic will be "Consider Jesus," and the divisions for the various nights are as follows: September 26, as a member of the family; October 3, as a member of society; 10, as a servant of God; 17, as a student of Scripture; 24, as a worshipper; 30, as a worker; November 7, as a sufferer.

Will Remove to Plainfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester B. Harris, of Mt. Pleasant, entertained a party of friends at their home Friday night, prior to their removal to this city to live. There was music, dancing and supper was served. Mr. Harris has purchased a house on East Front street and will take possession October 1.

SITUATION IN UNION CO.

Leaders Reticent as to Figures But Regulars Appear to Have the Advantage.

BOTH SIDES HOPEFUL

Defeat of "Colbyism" Now Seems Probable—Some Forecasts About Union.

Unless that doubtful quality, the "silent vote," does all that is claimed for it by those who have proclamed the "new idea" through the highways and byways of Union county for the last three months, there is hardly a possibility that the Colbyites will defeat the regular Republican organization in that county at the primaries tomorrow.

Just what that much mooted "silent" vote will amount to and how far it will go to help the reform movement are matters of conjecture on the ever of the battle in Senator Kean's county. Neither the county chairman, Frank H. Smith, of the regular organization, nor City Judge William N. Runyon, leader of the forces whose slogan is "Down with bossism!" will give out any figures on the probable vote.

Smith admits that the Colbyites are dangerous, but declares he is not at all worried. Judge Runyon, who is president of the Union County Republican League for Equal Taxation and a Colbyite candidate for the Assembly, confines himself to a prediction that there is every reason for him to believe the Colbyites will carry Summit and have a show in Elizabeth, Cranford and other places.

In Elizabeth the Colbyites found it uphill work at first to arouse interest. Senator Kean's popularity in his own city served to retard the "new idea," as its principal issue is "bossism," and he and his brother, Hamilton F. Kean, are the reputed bosses of the county. Within the last fortnight, however, the reformers have been more aggressive, particularly in the Eleventh and Twelfth wards. William F. Groves, who is on the ticket for an Assembly nomination, has not aroused enthusiasm. This, it is also said, is true of Benjamin Flueckhaus, of Summit, the third man on the Assembly ticket.

Thomas Debevoise, vice president of the Colbyites' county league, says the league will sweep Summit, but Sheriff William B. Lawrence, local party leader, is credited with saying the "new idea" will likely carry the First ward, but that the Second ward is surely safe. There are only two wards in that city.

Mayor George Wilcox, of Summit, has withdrawn from the ranks of the "new idea" forces. Mr. Wilcox has written an open letter, in which he says that he entirely misapprehended the plans and intentions of the Republican League for Equal Taxation. He then goes on to say that he finds the league making a bitter attack upon men who are influential in local politics, charging them with using the Republican party for their own selfish purposes. The use of his name in such a connection, he declares, is without justification. He gives the men connected with the regular organization of Summit, who are referred to in the "new idea" literature, a clean bill of political health and repudiates all connection with the attack upon them.

In Rahway Mayor Furber's friend. Assemblyman Tillman, is a regular candidate for renomination, and, as it appears to the organization leaders, Rahway will stand by the party ticket. Westfield, where Mayor Randolph Perkins, leader on the floor of the House in Trenton, marshals his forces, is generally considered a stronghold of the organization. Perkins himself is a candidate for renomination to the Assembly. The regulars do not believe, either, that there is any strong sentiment for the "new idea" in Roselle, Cranford or any other of the small towns that dot the county map.

In this city, each side claims that victory will perch on its banners. The Colbyites are sanguine, but it is likely that the regulars will control the city convention and will have a majority in the delegation to the county and congressional conventions. Councilmen Hibbard and Tyler are the strongest cards on the local ticket of the Colbyites. Judge Runyon's candidacy has been of immeasurable benefit to the anti-organization ticket and it is not unreasonable to expect that he will make a fine run.

Y. M. C. A. Meeting.

Attracted by the Jenkins' Orphan Band, another large crowd attended the open air meeting of the Y. M. C. A. at Concert Park yesterday afternoon. The band played splendidly, and the meeting was one of the most enjoyable that has ever been held under the association's auspices. Rev. A. E. Finn, of the Park Avenue Baptist church, spoke.

PLATFORM OF REGULARS

Regulars' Mayoralty Candidate Gives Party's Position on Municipal Matters.

FOR GOOD GOVERMENT

Republican Organization Stands for Principles of Colbyites As Contained in Depew's Letter.

Following the example of his opponent, R. Henry Depew, the Colbyite candidate, Charles J. Fisk, the choice of the Regulars for the mayoralty, announced his platform today. Here it is:

To the Republican Voters of the City of Plainfield:

An election has never been won by making false and misleading statements in regard to your opponents. Facts and truth must prevail. The candidates for nomination at the primaries and those who are to be named hereafter by delegates to the city convention known as the regular nominess not only stand for all the principles laid down by the "Colbyites" as set forth in the letter of R. Henry Depew, dated Sept. 18, viz.:

"1. To promote the best interests of the Republican party in the county of Union.

"2. To eliminate bossism and corporate control of the Republican party.

"3. To further the cause of equal taxation, limited franchises, taxation of franchises, popular selection of United States senators, popular interest in primary elections and such other progressive measures as may be necessary in the interests of the people.

"4. To promote honest elections and prevent political corruption in every form."

but in addition they are well known advocates of the following fundamental doctrines, and they stand firmly for these principles in this contest:

If elected, they will work and vote individually and collectively for the best interests of the whole people of our city, regardless of political faction or private or personal interest, and will use their best efforts for the cause of good government at all times and in every department.

No man or set of men will at any time be permitted to dictate to them or to substitute the views of others for their own sense of individual responsibility to the people direct.

Regarding the question of municipal ownership of water supply, they will, if elected, use their best endeavors to bring about such prompt and thorough investigation of the subject, either by the Common Council, or by committee of citizens or otherwise, as may be consistent with the law, and best calculated to enable the people of teh city to act intelligently in regard thereto. Furthermore, if the result of such investigation shows that such ownership is reasonably feasible, they will vote and work to have the question submitted at an election to the voters for their determination.

They have made no pledges or promises whatsoever as to their official conduct in any respect whatever, except the foregoing, and they are absolutely free to act, and if elected, will act at all times, solely as conscience and reason shall dictate, for the best interests of the whole people of the whole city.

Take the one question in regard to municipal ownership and control of the Plainfield Water Supply Company. The matter is not in proper shape to bring before the voters at this election. The law does not provide for submitting the matter to the people, simply for an expression of opinion as to whether they favor an investigation or not in the form proposed by Mr. Depew. Divested of all legal wording the only question that can be submitted is, shall the city have its own water works? If a majority of the voters should vote in favor of the city owning the water works it would carry with it the power for the present Common Council or any Council elected herafter, to bond the city to the amount of ($1,500,000) one million five hundred thousand dollars, without any further action of the voters and to buy, condemn, or build a city water works. Before giving anybody of men this power the matter should be thoroughly investigated, all details gone into, plans and estimates made, all statements in regard to cost and all reports, etc., made public, so that the voters will be fully posted, and then the definite question submitted at a special election held for that purpose—Shall we or shall we not have our own water works? Don't be led astray by a statement made purely for political effect by men wh ohave only superficial ideas; but stand by the men you know who will thoroughly and honestly investigate this subject or any other subject that may be

MELLICK POURS HOT SHOT INTO COLBYITES

An Independent Councilman Urges Voters to Support Charles J. Fisk For the Mayoralty.

RAPS W. N. RUNYON

"New Idea" Speakers' Utterances a Tissue of Falsehoods and a Slander on Plainfield's Name.

George P. Mellick, councilman-at-large from the Second ward, who declined the regular Republican endorsement for the mayoralty nomination, sent the following letter to this office today:

Editor, The Daily Press:

The citizens of Plainfield will do well to consider carefully what the leaders of the Colby movement are preaching in their talk to the public at this time. Much that is being said is misleading to those who are unfamiliar with the real condition of our municipal government—citizens who have kept in close touch with the affairs of our city know that many of the recent assertions at the Colby meetings are flagrant untruths. It has been stated that the present Common Council is not independent, but under outside powerful influence, which dictates how the affairs of the city shall be administered. I contradict this most emphatically and claim that any person making such assertion brings unwarranted discredit upon the fair city in which we live and proves himself a falsifier of the truth. I ask if anyone can refer to an instance during the present year when the vote of the Council showed that either a good measure was defeated or a bad measure adopted by reason of the so-called machine control. Was the effort of Judge William N. Runyon in his attempt to bring politics into the Plainfield fire department by his desire to have appointed a person in no way entitled to the honor, to the office of second chief of the department? No, this endeavor was defeated by members of the Council who would not then or now bend to anything tricky or deceitful—and the political debt was not paid.

What did Mr. Hill mean in his statement Friday night (as reported) that the water question was now at a stand-still "because the men of the Council were too much interested in the water supply?" Such utterances deceive the public, and are made by those who appear to desire political prominence and so resort to such misleading statements. There has been no effort to hold up the proposition of the municipal ownership of the Plainfield Water Supply.

It is a question of such serious importance that to go into it blindly might put our city into a most embarrassing position. There are legal questions incidental to this matter of great importance, and as a member of the committee on Public Affairs I can state that this question has received much thought and intelligent consideration and will in the future be taken in hand in a fearless and straightforward manner. In further proof of the injustice of those who have attacked the Council in regard to delay on this water question, I submit with this a copy of a letter which I have received from Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh under date of September 19, which reads as follows:

"Dear Sir:

"In further answer to your recent letter respecting the proposed submission to the legal voters of the city, of the adoption for this city of the water supply act of 1876, it is important to correct a misconception apparently shared by some members of the Common Council, newspaper editors, and many citizens. The impression seems to prevail that upon the election being carried in favor of adopting the act, the city would merely have the power to make investigation and negotiation as to the wisdom of buying the present water supply plant, or acquiring the same by condemnation proceedings, or building a water supply system of its own, but would not have power to actually make the purchase, as cause the condemnation to be made, or to build and erect water works, and bind the city therefor without gaining the authority of the voters. The contrary is the fact. If the election should be in favor of adopting the provisions of the act, the city would thereupon immediately have power to purchase the present water works, or to condemn the present water works, or to build its own water

VANDALS WRECK THE MOUNTAIN BABY CAMP

DAMAGE AMOUNTING TO $125 DONE OUT OF PURE MALICIOUSNESS.

Vandalism of the most despicable type was revealed to the borough police, yesterday, when Chief Marshal Weiss discovered that someone had broken into the King's Daughters' baby camp, locates on Johnston's drive, and caused damage amounting to at least $125. Sillverware, crockery and furniture in the building were smashed to bits and the walls of the structure were battered as if a maniac had swung a club against them. Everything was in a state of ruin and as yet it has been impossible to tell whether or not anything was carried away. The destruction seems to have been done out of pure maliciousness.

The camp is a frame building wherein the sick children of poor people are kept free of cost during the summer months. It is one of the city's most worthy charities yet there is hardly a year when the place is not wrecked by vandals or robbed. The season closed but a short time ago and all the furnishings had not been taken away. Chief Weiss was asked to look after thet property until this could be done and it was through one of his visits that he learned of the destruction.

An investigation is being conducted but as yet there is no clue to the perpetrators.

E. S. HOOLEY BUYS $3,000 SHOW PAIR

PLAINFIELDER ACQUIRES EASTER BELLE AND FLORA BELLE TO EXHIBIT.

Edwin S. Hooley is rapidly assembling a stable of show horses second to none in the fashionable summer colonies which centre around Morristown, Bernardsville, the Oranges and this city, making the neighborhood horse shows of Northern New Jersey among the most successful in the metropolitan district. Mr. Hooley last week added to his string the beautiful chestnut mares Easter Belle and Flora Belle, winners in single and double harness at the Durland Horse Show last spring, since when they have not been exhibited.

Mr. Hooley will show them at Morristown next week. The purchase was made of George D. King and the price paid was $5,000. The mares are 15.2 hands high, golden sorrel in color and of exceptional conformation and quality, Both are trotting bred, by Golden Link, 2:22½, a grandson of Young Jim, of the handsomest son of George Wilkes, 2.22.

ATTEMPT AT SUICIDE?

Police Hear John Hill Is at Coney Island Hospital.

A telephone message was received from the Brooklyn police at police headquarters yesterday morning, asking that Mrs. John Hill, of 946 West Fourth street, be notified that her husband was at the Reception Hospital at Coney Island.

It was reported about town that Hill had attempted to commit suicide by inhaling gas at Coney Island Saturday night. The police here had no knowledge of any such attempt this morning. They delivered the message.

Hill was known to be alive last night.

Will Soon Announce Tax Rate.

It is believed that the County Board of Taxation will complete its work this week and that it will be possible to ascertain the tax rate for the coming year. The Elizabeth assessors have completed their work and the books have been turned over to the county board for revision. There are yet several matters of importance to be decided before any announcement can be made, but the opinion is that by the last of the week a complete report will be ready.

Opera Club to Meet.

The first fall meeting of the Plainfield Operatic Asscociation will be held at the Casino on Monday, October 1, when plans for the operas to be given this winter will be considered. It has already been decided to give "The Chimes of Normandy," early in the season, but the other performances have not been agreed upon as yet.

124-126-128 W. Front St. THE WHITE STORE. Plainfield, N. J.

THE substantial increase in our business since June 1st, at which time we introduced the "Sperry & Hutchinson" Green Trading Stamps, confirms our judgment that this form of cash trade inducement is not only approved by, but is more popular with the purchasing public than ever. As we have not especially featured them, it may be many are unaware of the splendid "Premium Parlor" maintained upon the third floor of this building, easily reached by elevator from any department.

THOSE who have given little or no thought to the subject of collecting "S. & H." Green Trading Stamps have in store for them a pleasant and profitable surprise. We are positive that without exception any one who will personally inspect the premiums displayed in our "Premium Parlor" must become an enthusiastic trading stamp collector. Giving trading stamps is but one of our forms of advertising. They cost you absolutely nothing, but are given to you free with all purchases.

Wednesday, September 26, Will be "Red Letter Day."

Ten {10} Stamps FREE to Each Adult Visiting Our Premium Parlor.

New Fall Goods Are Ready for Inspection.

New Silks and Dress Goods

We will be ready to show Imported Models for the trade including designs from our own workroom and exhibiting conceptions of the very latest creations. Among them: "The M'lle Modiste," a picture Hat of Paon Velvet having large shadowing lines, caught up at the side with two large white Plumes, finished off with a large Chou of Black Morie Ribbon. Also showing the latest styles in small Turbans. Our first season's great success establishes us as having the leading Millinery Department in Plainfield. You are cordially invited to attend the Opening on second floor—(elevator service)—where competent salespeople will be pleased to serve you.

PERSIAN RUG SALE.

Under the direction of Mr. Serges Y. Hosanna, of Urmia, Persia, who brings with him a big line of various sizes in the Genuine Persian Rugs. Mr. Hosanna was in Plainfield last year and did a large business, all who bought of him were much pleased with their purchases, as his prices are much less than what would be charged in New York.

These goods will be on sale on our second floor, where we have opened a new Rug and Drapery Department. Mr. Hosanna will be glad to show these Rugs and give all information desired. Prices range from $10 to $300.

TAKE ELEVATOR.

New Fancy Goods

We are now showing a fine line of the following Goods in the latest styles at as low, if not lower prices than the same can be bought where "Green Trading Stamps" are not given.

Ruffs, Collars, Ribbons, Handkerchiefs, Automobile Veils, Veilings, Laces, Braids, Gloves, Art Goods, Yarns, Hosiery, Embroideries, Pocketbooks, Bags, Purses, Belts, etc.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY

To give a hearing on the petition of the Bound Brook Water Company for permission to lay pipes in East Bound Brook, the Township Committee will hold a special meeting tonight.

A church rally service will mark the prayer meeting at the Presbyterian church Wednesday night. Roll will be called, and special exercises will be held.

Sunday-school rally services were held at the Baptist church yesterday morning. A special programme was much enjoyed by a large congregation.

Miss Mary Baldwin returned yesterday from a week's visit at Clinton. She resumed her work after a two weeks' vacation this morning.

Thomas Mohr, who has been spending a few weeks at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Dayton, has returned to his home in Millville.

The top flat over Dr. Brakeley's drug store has been rented to Lloyd Gheman, who came to the borough not long ago from Reading, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Jones, of New York, have returned home after spending a week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Liscomb.

Mrs. Henry S. Garretson has returned from a week's stay with her parents, in Piscataway.

Dr. and Mrs. T. H. Platt, Jr., have returned from their stay in Maine and New Hampshire.

Mrs. Bernard Siriski has become a member of Campanion Court, I. O. F., of Westfield.

H. S. Garretson has been drawn on the grand jury. The jury began sitting last week.

The roof of the Methodist Episcopal church is being repaired.

Several boroughites took a trip up the Hudson yesterday.

The stone crusher has resumed operations.

Valentine Kirby has been ill.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD

The primary election will be held tomorrow in Excelsior Hall. Polls will be open from 1 until 9 o'clock. The election, from the outlook at present, will be a most harmonious one; both tickets nominated at the caucus meetings seem to suit the voters of each party, and it does not look as though there would be any sort of a contest. The New Idea or Colby movement has not manifested itself in the Republican ranks and the party stands united. Several places are still open. The Republican voters failed to nominate a collector to run against John Z. Hetfield, the present collector, who was renominated at the Democratic caucus and the Democratic caucus failed to nominate a candidate for Township Committee. Both tickets will likely be filled by the voters tomorrow, although no candidates have been announced. The Democratic nominee for freeholder to run against Freeholder John Robison has not been announced yet by the two delegates, one from the borough and the other from the township; they will probably agree upon a man and name the candidate tomorrow.

The rain Saturday afternoon prevented the local ball team and Clinton Avenue meeting at Crescent Oval. This is the third time this season games between these two teams have been prevented by the weather conditions. Another effort will be made next Saturday afternoon.

Willie Deegan has added fifty pair of the latest ball bearing roller skates to his stock. The new skates were put in use Saturday night, and were found to be a great improvement over the others.

Saturday's rain did one good thing. That was to lay the dust so that the residents were not annoyed as usual yesterday with the dust clouds raised by passing automobiles.

Rev. William Pringle, of Ireland, occupied the pulpit at the Baptist church at both services yesterday. Rev. T. Moore-Smith will return from his vacation this week.

The Chicago (N. L.) Newark game at Weidemeyer Park yesterday afternoon drew a number of the fans from here who had missed their usual Saturday ball game.

The Registry Board meets tomorrow. If you are not on the registry list you cannot vote at the fall election. Better see if your name is on the list.

D. T. Hendrickson, principal of the public school, spent Saturday and Sunday with his family at Port Monmouth, N. J.

The weekly meeting of the Baptist Young People's Society was held last night in the parlors of the church.

Mr. and Mrs. William Deegan have been entertaining Mr. Deegan's sister from New York for a week.

Joe Alberts will cover left field for the Loughlin team, of Brooklyn, for the balance of the season.

Joseph Clark has returned from a weeks' stay with his daughter, Mrs. Peter Smith, at Lincoln.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Don't forget the play and dance in Washington Hall tomorrow night, beginning promptly at 8 o'clock. The cast of characters is as follows: John Downley, a confirmed bachelor, Phillip Smith; Clarence Frit-Downley's servant, Monroe Pyatt; John Foxton, a married gentleman, Edward Horne; Foxton's wife, Josie Randolph; Major Pepper, U. S. A., Roy Clawson; Arabella Pepper, an old maid, Florence Johnson; "Polly," waiting maid at the South Plainfield station, Mildred Johnson; characters in "Jumbo Jim," Mr. Gobbleton, a wealthy gentleman, Phillip Smith; Mrs. Gobbleton, his wife, Josie Randolph; Adelaide, his ward, Florence Johnson; Hannah, his maid, Mildred Johnson; Jumbo Jim, Monroe Pyatt; Mr. Cheatem, a lawyer, Roy Clawson; Henry Merville, Robert Horn; laborers, Raymond Payne, Earl Darlington and Stewart Elliott. Dancing after the play, for which a small fee will be charged.

Plainfield ice dealers are hauling ice from the Lehigh Valley Railroad, which comes to Perth Amboy by steamer from Maine.

Every good citizen should be on hand at the primary election tomorrow. It will be on from 1 to 9 o'clock p. m.

Peter Johnson has recovered from his recent illness, and is able to attend to his business.

Judge Steele's old butler, who has been in his employ twenty-four years, is seriously ill.

Albert Manning visited the Mardi Gras at Coney Island Saturday night.

J. H. Jones is much improved from his recent illness.

Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, who returned on Saturday from his vacation trip in Europe, occupied his pulpit in the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church yesterday, and the fall and winter schedule has been resumed.

The regular business meeting of the First Baptist church will be held Wednesday night, when it is expected that several letters for membership will be received and other important matters considered. Pastor Chambliss will be in charge.

Fall and Winter Opening
Millinery, Garments, Waists.

Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Sept. 25, 26, 27.

This magnificent show, ready to be revealed Tuesday morning, is the triumph of this store's over a third of a century of business life. Fashion's evolutions for the coming season, as conceived by the master designers all over the world, have come to us in all their freshness and originality. We show them as produced by the highest fashion experts of Europe; we show many of them from foreign designers, adapted by our own experts to the wants and tastes of our discriminating clientele—a superbly comprehensive collection.

Elegance and Originality in Millinery

Past achievements are eclipsed by this display. Critical women who give this house millinery leadership, will once more help us to a decided fashion victory. And every woman who chooses her hat shares in our glory through the distinctiveness and refinement added to her attire—whether street or dress—a simple walking hat or a creation for evening wear; whether for girl or matron.

Distinguishing Styles in Garments.

Ours are models that quickly strike the eye in a throng—singled out through their chic-ness and air of superiority—attributes so dear to women who desire individuality. The gathering of rich, new modes is without a flaw.

Appropriate Newness in Waists.

The beauty of this splendid gathering af waists lies in harmonious blending of the best fashion notes. While every design has an air all its own, each preserves prevailing style ideas; a rare combination that means complete approval, whether waists of lace, net or silk, all our waists.

New Rails In Use.

The Public Service Corporation completed the work of laying new rails and ties on West Front street Saturday night and the new tracks are now in use. This week the roadbed will be filled in with crushed stone and put back in good condition. The surplus dirt removed in connection with the improvement is being used to fill in on West End avenue, between Front street and the new bridge, Street Commissioner Gavett having arranged to have the city carts put it there.

Miss Grace M. Bowzer Married.

Miss Grace Marcella Bowzer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bowzer, of East Third street, and James Cornelius Willis, of Wilmington, N. C., colored, were married Friday night at 127 West Thirtieth street, New York, by Rev. Hutchins E. Bishop, rector of St. Philips Episcopal church. The couple was attended by William H. Scudder, of New Haven, and Daniel LaPort, of New York. Mr. and Mrs. Willis will live in New Haven for the present.

Miss Bella Booth Married.

Miss Bella Booth, formerly of this city, was married in Jersey City on August 19 to William Dwinnell, of Greenville, where they are now residing.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

It was not an easy task for Manager Jules Murry to find a role for his clever star, Creston Clarke, that would fit him so perfectly as did the title role in "Monsieur Beaucaire." In "The Ragged Messenger," however, which will be the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre tonight, Manager Murry has secured a notable successor to "Monsieur Beaucaire," the character of John Morton, the clergyman, seemingly having been written for Mr. Clarke. "The Ragged Messenger" is a modern emotional drama, telling the story of the ambitions, temptations and triumphs of one of God's noblemen, whose work in the slums of New York city, without any hope of reward for himself, has earned for him the title of "the mad parson," which sobriquet seems to be well merited by his subsequent action in giving away the immense fortune to which he falls heir. The clergyman, in fact, is somewhat of a dreamer, until suddenly his whole nature is awakened by a great, all conquering love, when it is seen that he is a man with the same primal passions as his fellow men. "The Ragged Messenger" is intensely dramatic, and in the role of its principal character Mr. Clarke has aided another great triumph to his already long list.

There are more than a score of song hits in "The Prince of Pilsen" and each one of them has held an enduring grasp on popular favor. "The Song of the Cities" is one of the most impressive and popular of the musical numbers. "The Message of the Violet," "The Tale of the Sea Shell," "The Stein Song," with its chorus of Heidelberg students, and "Pictures of the Smoke" are other big song hits largely contributive to the emphatic success of this musical play. A natural factor in the continuously sustained interest in this production is had in the fact that it is never allowed to deteriorate but is maintained at the highest possible notch of ecellence. This popular musical comedy, the most successful entertainment of its class, shown in recent years, comes to the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow night.

Richard Harding Davis' farce, "The Galloper," which was one of the notable successes of New York last winter, and in which Raymond Hitchcock scored one of the conspicuous hits of his career, will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre Wednesday night as it was presented during the long run at the Garden theatre. The scenes of this play are laid in Greece during the Graeco-Turkish war, and Mr. Hitchcock of course has the leading role, that of a wealthy New Yorker, who goes to the front as a make-believe newspaperman, where he impersonates a real hero war-correspondent which leads him into many ludicrous and humorous situations. The farce which is in three acts, is in Mr. Davis' best vein, and the title character is ideally suited to Mr. Hitchcock's quaint comedy methods. A numerous company will assist Mr. Savage's "star"-comedian, including Edgar L. Davenport, Herbert Corthell, Roland C. Gordon, Philip Smalley, Herbert Cawthorne, E. B. Tilton, Aleander Kearney, Pauline Anthony, Caroline Hull, Susie Forrester Cawthorne, Irene Gaunt and others.

A merry melange of catchy music, pretty girls, genuine fun and graceful dances is "Lovers and Lunatics," the dainty musical farce by Walter Coleman Parker, which is the announced attraction at the popular New Plainfield theatre Thursday night. The author has based his story on the mistake of a chance visitor who, arriving at the Dinkelspiel Manor, imagines it to be the State lunatic asylum, which it adjoins, and proceeds to try his new music-soothing system on the guests, taking them for lunatics. They, discovering the illustion, agree to carry out the deception, incidentally accomplishing their several objects. The cast includes Joe Morris, J. Maurice Nolden, Wilbur Mack, Lillian Lawson, George P. Watson, Florence Little, Henry P. Nelson and Emmelet Fabri.

Ida Crispi, for several seasons past the reigning favorite among the eccentric dancers of London, was brought to this country last May for the purpose of heading the company producing "Mam'zelle Champagne," which ran all the season at the Madison Square roof garden in New York. She is now supporting Blanche Ring in "Miss Dolly Dollars" in the role of a slavey and doing her excruiatingly funny dancing. She will be seen here at the New Plainfield theatre next Friday night.

"A Lucky Dog" with Nat Wills in the stellar role will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre on October 12. In "A Lucky Dog" Mr. Wills will be seen in his best character, the happy tramp, with music and laughter and pretty girls studding the most lavish scenic environment ever accorded a musical comedy. The music is original and catchy and Mr. Wills has a number of new comic songs and parodies.

The first fall meeting of the Young Women's Mission Band of the First Baptist church will be held Friday afternoon in the lecture room of the church at 3 o'clock. Mrs. J. A. Chambliss will have charge of the devotional exercises and Mrs. Reuben Knox will give a talk appropriate to the occasion.

Plainfield, N. J., Sept. 24, 1906.

REPUBLICAN STRIFE.

Between the hours of one o'clock tomorrow afternoon and nine o'clock tomorrow night, the fiercest battle of ballots that has occurred in this city in many years will be fought to a finish. The Republican party is divided against itself but while the fight will be to the death at the primaries the opposing forces have agreed that the vanquished cohorts will march under the banners of the conquering army at least until after the election.

The attack on the party organization is being made by some good and sincere men who believe that "bossism" dominates the municipal government which for many years has been conducted solely by Republican officials. It is not claimed that there has been any graft or incompetency in the management of the city's affairs, neither is it asserted that any official is corrupt. The contention is that certain men usurp the rights of the people and control the affairs of the municipality to advance their own political fortunes.

The regular Republican organization is inclined to rest its case on its own record. Its leaders point to a long line of able and independent men who have served in the Common Council, and other branches of the government. That there has been any misuse of the public money or graft in any form no one asserts, but that Plainfield today stands as the model city in all New Jersey and that its position is due to the calibre of men who have given of their time and ability without stint, is the proud boast of the organization now under attack.

When a man becomes a candidate for public office, the best way to find out what the people really think of him, is to inquire what did they say of him before he became a candidate. In the case of Charles J. Fisk, for instance, the application of that test leaves the question from from doubt. In June last at the banquet tendered him in recognition of his many valuable services to this city, he was hailed by all as "Plainfield's first citizen." The following quotation from one of the speeches on that occasion was greeted with spontaneous and continued applause:

"The newspapers have hailed Mr. Fisk as an exception to the proverb that a prophet is not without honor save in his own country and in his own house. I dissent. He is no exception to that rule. He has long since passed the stage of prophecy. For ten years or more he has been fulfilling prophecy. Instead of words and promises, there has been fulfillments and achievements. As the toastmaster has well said, Mr. Fisk is a man who does things, and we all know that that kind of a man always has honor even in his own country and in his own house. I speak whereof I know, when I say that Mr. Fisk is a man who does things."

When such a man, at a great personal sacrifice, consents for a second time, to serve the city as its chief executive, it can hardily be doubted that the voters will make sure that by no mischance or neglect on their part shall the municipality lost the benefit of his services.

THE POLLING PLACES.

For the information of the voters announcement is made here that the following places have been designated for the primaries to be held tomorrow afternoon and night from 1 to 9 o'clock:

First Ward.

First District: At No. 183 North avenue.

Second District: At No. 545 East Third street.

Second Ward.

First District: At No. 343 Watchung avenue.

Second District: At No. 699 South avenue.

Third Ward.

First District: At the Casino, West Seventh street.

Second District: At Taylor's barn (formerly Clifton's), corner West Seventh street and Spooner avenue.

Fourth Ward.

First District: At No. 204 West Second street.

Second District: At No. 672 South Second street.

Third District: At No. 921 West Third street.

A Meeting For Colored Men.

Colored voters in the city will hold a meeting in Reform Hall tonight for the purpose of having a "heart to heart talk with colored men, by colored men, for colored men" as circulars sent out describe it. The subject, "Is Liberty Worth Preserving?" wil be discussed. Spencer Conway will be chairman and the speakers will be Jesse Lawson, of Washington, D. C., G. W. Bailey and others.

brought to their attention, wholly and solely in your interest, inform you of every detail, and then submit the matter to you in an honest, straightforward, definite shape and in a manner that you can vote intelligently, knowing eactly what you are voting for.

The Republicans known as the "regulars" have nothing to say against the 'Colbyites." This is not their way of fighting a battle. They stand to win or loose on their own merits. If you honestly think the New Idea candidates are the only honest, straightforward, intelligent men in Plainfield, by all means cast your vote for them at the primary tomorrow night. If not, if you think there are others, if you believe I am sincere, if you have confidence in me that all promises made by me and through me will be carried out in good faith and that all measures in the interest of the people will receive prompt and careful attention vote for the nominess and delegates named by the "regulars."

We leave the decision in the hands of the Republican voters and will abide by their verdict.

Yours very truly,
CHARLES J. FISK.

ANOTHER ENDORSEMENT FOR CHARLES J. FISK.

J. B. Dumont, Alexander Gilbert and O. T. Waring Come Out Strongly For Him.

The following letter of endorsement of Charles J. Fisk's candidacy has been issued b a trio of public spirited citizens:

"To the Republican Voters of Plainfield:

"At a good deal of personal sacrifice, Charles J. Fisk has consented to permit the use of his name as a candidate for Mayor. Mr. Fisk is so well-known in this community that it would seem hardly necessary to say very much with regard to his qualification for the office. His large experience in public life, his well-known public spirited character, and the services he has rendered Plainfield in the past makes it reasonably sure that if elected he will give to Plainfield a wise and efficient administration of municipal affairs. For the past fifteen years he has been almost continuously in public life—as Councilman, as Mayor, as President of the Board of Health and during that time has freely spent his time, his energy, and his money for the public good. In appreciation of this let the Republicans of Plainfield give him a handsome majority at the primary elections on Tuesday, the 25th inst. The polls will be open from 1 to 9 o'clock p. m. Remember the date, Tuesday, 25th inst., 1 to 9 o'clock. A vote for the delegates originally chosen to represent the candidacy of George P. Mellick will be a vote in favor of Mr. Fisk.

"Alex. Gilbert,
'J. B. Dumont,
"O. T. Waring."

A Quartette of Scrappers.

A quartette of young men from the city side of the brook were arrested by the borough police at 12:30 yesterday morning, for creating a good-sized disturbance on Somerset street. The air was being punctured with cuss words and clenched fists when Chief Weiss and Marshals Dooley and Pope took a hand. They got hold of William Dunham, Adam Dunham, Cormack Muldowney and Thomas Ryan. They secured their release during the day by furnishing bail and will appear in court tonight.

The Borough Primaries.

The primaries in the borough, tomorrow, will be conducted the same as in the city, but there is practically no contest. The Democrats have named two sets of delegates, one filed by David Carney and the other by Walter Linbarger. The polling places are located in Trewin's barber shop for the First district and in Jeroloman's cigar store for the Second district. They will be open for balloting from 1 o'clock in the afternoon until 9 at night.

Miss Edwardes a Favorite.

Paula Edwardes and her company of sixty gave a very pleasing performance of "Princess Beggar" at the New Plainfield theatre Saturday night. The opera is filled with wholesome humor, bright music and costumed as prettily as anything that has visited the house in months. Miss Edwardes was new to local playgoers but she will be warmly welcomed again. Manager Counihan hopes to secure the production for a return date later in the season.

Belated Announcement.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Doretta L. Winn, of Linden avenue, the borough, and Resue Magee, of Browntown, this State. The event took place at Elizabeth on Sunday, September 2. The couple is living here for the present.

Drunks Fined.

Randolph Thorne, arrested Saturday night for drunkenness, was fined $5 by Judge Runyon in the city court this morning. James Frazee was fined the same amount for the same offence, which was aggravated by bad language.

Under the auspices of the Women's Society for Christian Work of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, a birthday sociable will be held in the parlors of the church Sunday afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock.

"(Signed) CRAIG A. MARSH."

Is the voter of Plainfield to be influenced by the enthusiasms of the "New Idea" movement and made to believe that individuals, many of whom have never given an hour's work to the affairs of our city, can, in two or three weeks' time, know it all and be teachers of the people to tell them how and when negotiations of great importance to the city's interests should be consummated?

Mr. R. Henry Depew is quoted as stating at a meeting held last Friday that "if we are elected, every man, woman and child will have his rights." Are we such a miserable down-trodden community that we must depend upon this aspirant for mayorality honors to restore to us life and liberty and municipal health?

The gentlemen of Plainfield who are marching under the Colby manner claim to be possessed of a "New Idea" which only means they stand for good government and clean politics; the rank and file of the Republican party have always stood for this idea and it cannot be controverted that all through its history under a Republican administration, Plainfield has enjoyed as large a measure of good government as any city of its size in the State.

With the knowledge I have of the conditions as they exist in our city, I shall cast my vote at the primary for those delegates to the city convention who will favor the election of Charles J. Fisk for mayor. He knows our city thoroughly; he reluctantly permits his name to come before the people, at the urgent request of mature and thoughtful citizens, who firmly believe that the welfare of the city of Plainfield and the taxpayers will be safe in his hands. If elected mayor, Mr. Fisk will undoubtedly have before him in the near future two very important measures—the municipal ownership of a water supply, and the question of consolidation of Plainfield and North Plainfield,—two financial propositions which much be handled by a man of wide experience in the financial world such as Mr. Fisk has had.

Respectfully yours,
GEORGE P. MELLICK,
Councilman-at-Large.

Dated, Plainfield, N. J.,
September 24, 1906.

OBITUARY.

J. Elmer Angleman.

J. Elmer Angleman, the youngest son of John J. and Nellie F. Angleman, who resided in this city until a few years ago, died yesterday at the parents' home in Newark. He was twenty years old and while living in Plainfield was well known as a ball player, as was also an older brother. The funeral will be held from St. Joseph's church, Newark, tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock. The body will be brought to this city at 12:30 noon for interment in St. Mary's cemetery.

Miss Lizzie Payne.

Miss Lizzie Payne, colored, aged twenty-five years, died Saturday at Muhlenberg Hospital. The funeral was held this morning and interment was made in Hillside cemetery.

Robert L. Suffern, of Sycamore avenue, has been on a trip to Lake Placid during the past week.

Mrs. E. A. Stewart, of Manning avenue, has gone with her sister from Brooklyn, N. Y., to Atlantic City to spend a week or two. They will stop at Haddon Hall.

—You can save money by buying peaches at Neuman Brothers'. A nice lot of white fruit will be sold at very low prices tomorrow.

"Randolph's Quinine and Glycerine" Hair Tonic.

The proper treatment and care for the hair is very important. The tendency to baldness seems to be on the increase, but there is no need to be bald if you give your hair the proper attention and use "Randolph's Compound Quinine and Glycerine" Hair Tonic.

By imparting vitality to the roots of the hair, it stops it from falling out, irradicates dandruff, assures the continued growth and prevents baldness and final loss. It is richly perfumed and is an elegant dressing for the hair. Prepared either with or without oil—oil for dry hair and without oil for oily hair.

INTELLIGENT FIRE HORSE LEADS RUNAWAY TO STALL.

Animal Made Its Escape from Headquarters Through a Chain Breaking.

One of the city fire alarm circuits became crossed with a trolley wire, Saturday, and caused the gong to blow a number of times. The trouble was located yesterday and quickly remedied.

Early Saturday evening the current from the cross was sufficient to open all the stall doors at headquarters save the ones occupied by the chemical team. The horses ran to their places and the noise worried the ones left behind because they believed they should be out. A moment or so aftrward another top opened their doors and the cnemical team dashed forward and in its impatience one of them, a "green" animal, plunged against the door chain. It gave way and the horse ran into the street with its mate, "Tom," closely following it.

The animals went up Second street and "Tom" soon took the lead. He is one of the most intelligent equines in the city service and in a knowing way, swung the other horse into Church street, thence to Front and by way of Watchung avenue back to the house. The men had statred out in pursuit but Chief Doane declared it was of no use as "Tom" would take care of the runaway and his assertion was verified when the team came dashing back and went straight to their stalls.

Neither animal was injured in the slightest or caused any damage through their flight through the streets caused a lot of excitement.

Almost Severed His Hand.

While trying to cut a large piece of meat at W. W. Wilson's grocery store in the West End, Saturday night, John Coffey, the butcher there, almost severed his hand in two with a cleaver. He had just placed the side of beef on a hook and was holding one end of it with his left hand, intending to cut in two with the cleaver which he held in his right hand. In some way he missed his aim, and the cleaver struck the hand with full force, inflicting a deep and painful cut. A physician was sought at once and it was necessary to take a great many stitches to close the lacerations.

"The Old Idea."

Over 1,500 people attended the open-air Gospel meeting held at Concert Park, yesterday afternoon, under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. Rev. A. E. Finn, of the Park Avenue Baptist church, was the speaker and the members of the Jenkins' Orphan Band, played and sang. Mr. Finn spoke on the "New Idea" in religion, comparing it with the "New Idea" in politics. He said that in politics it was really the old idea, while the new idea in religion are but the old, old story. Next Sunday the last open-air meeting will be held at Concert Park, when F. H. Jacobs, the evangelist, will speak and sing.

Miss Anna Smalley, of Manning avenue, has gone to visit her brother, Rev. D. Smalley, at Stroudsburg, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Harrington, of Rockview terrace, have been spending a few days at Binghampton, N. Y.

Charles A. Mathewson, instructor of biology and German in the High School, was called to his home in Cincinnati Saturday by the sudden death of his father.

GOLF.

The tour of "The Vanderbilt Cup" has been terminated abruptly because of the illness of several of the cast. It was to have appeared in this city next week.

"Panhandle Pete," the musical comedy founded on a series of newspaper cartoons and which had its opening performance in this city, came to grief at Rochester, N. Y., Saturday, a victim of lack of money and the hot weather. Harrigan, the tramp juggler, star of the cast, tried hard to keep the company together so that they might play a week booked at Montreal, but was unsuccessful. It is possible reorganization will be brought about later in the season.

Sam Cunningham, treasurer of the New Plainfield, is a warm personal friend and former businesss associate of Creston Clarke, who comes here tonight in "The Ragged Messenger." The two were interested in the same company for several years. Clarke is a popular star in New York, Philadelphia and other cities and has been receiving flattering notices for his work in "The Ragged Messenger."

A group of local young men were dining in the "Amen" corner at Timbo's, Saturday night, and incidentally lifted their voices in song. They jabbed and uppercutted vocally several of the season's popular ditties and finally drifted into "Maybe," one of last winter's biggest successes. Despite some frightful discords, a prosperous looking man seated across the aisle seemed interested and when the warblers had finished remarked that it was very good.

"Sure," said one of the group, "it's a nice song, don't you think so?"

"Well, as I wrote it," replied the stranger, "I should be inclined to say yes."

There was a visible stir among the singers and one of them who keeps track of such things, exclaimed, "then you must be Frank Tannehill."

There was a nod in the affirmative and at Mr. Tanneville's request "Maybe" was given a second time. His appearance in the restaurant was due to the fact that he dropped in after the performance of "Princess Beggar," which he staged for Charles Dillingham. "Miss Dolly Dollars," which comes here Friday night, and several reigning New York successes were produced under his direction.

The Misses Beatrice Liddell, Ada Robertson, Bessie Hawman, Dorothy Marlowe, Louise Hawman and Seppie McNeil, comprising the original English "Pony Ballet," have been especially engaged to appear this season with Blanche Ring in "Miss Dolly Dollars." They, with Miss Ring, created a furore in New York during the past summer, and were literally the talk of the town. These young women form undeniably the most expensive group of dancers, it might be said, now before the American public, and they are altogether worth the money. They have no equal or anyone even approaching them in agility, grace and abandon and they are usually cheered by their audience whenever seen. They were on the stage of the Iroquois theatre in Chicago with Eddie Foy when the fire occurred which cost 600 lives.

POINTS FOR THE BUYERS

Are you thinking about having your house painted or papered? If so, let Charles Conover & Co., of Elmwood place, estimate on the job.

Furniture values to be found at Powlison & Jones' store, East Front street, are always the best to be found in this vicinity. The P. & J. store is really a bit of the New York furniture district in Plainfield.

The H. E. Gayle Hardware Company sell only first-class hardware of recognized make. When you trade at this store there is no question but that you will receive full value, whether it be hardware, stoves or kitchen utensils.

When looking around for a place to purchase meat, fish or poultry just stop at Roth & Co.'s market on East Front street, and you will go no further. The firm sells the highest quality meat, strictly fresh fish and the best poultry. Just remember also that the prices are reasonable.

Full of suggestions for the young man with a taste for dressy clothes is the stock at Harry Werner's store, West Front street. The range of style and price will appeal to the prospective buyer who wishes to combine good dressing with economy. Satisfaction always follows a purchase at Werner's.

Time to think about your new winter suit and overcoat and M. Weinberger, the West Front street clothier, has just what you want at low prices. His stock of clothes is very large and only the best goods of the latest styles are sold. The line of furnishings is second to none and represent the best make. Inspect the stock of goods here before purchasing elsewhere.

Mr. and Mrs. William O. Worth, of the borough, have gone to New York for the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Lounsbury, of East Seventh street, who have been abroad, have returned home.

Mrs. C. E. Coffin, of Philadelphia, is the guest of her brother, J. W. Gillies, of Grove street. She is accompanied by her son, R. F. Coffin, and wife, also of Philadelphia.

THE REAL TEST

Of Herpicide Is In Giving It a Thorough Trial.

There is only one test by which to judge of the efficiency of any article and that is by its ability to do that which it is intended to do. Many hair vigors may look nice and smell nice, but the point is—do they eradicate Dandruff and stop falling hair?

No, they do not, but Herpicide does, because it goes to the root of the evil and kills the germ that attacks the papilla from whence the hair gets its life.

Letters from prominent people everywhere are daily proving that Newbro's Herpicide stands the "test of use."

It is a delightful dressing, clear, pure and free from oil or grease.

Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

SELECTED STOCK

raised by the best stock growers in the country and purchased by us direct, enables us to furnish of superior quality.

The Lamb, Beef, Veal and Pork that we offer is rich, tender and of fine flavor.

Our prices are not higher than other dealers, but we claim our meats are much better.

DIAMOND DUST.

There is strong probabilities that Trenton may be represented in the Tri-State League next season. Billy Gilbert, of the New York Giants, whose home is in Trenton, may not be with the New Yorks after this year and there is talk of his interesting himself in a Trenton team which would be made strong enough to enter the league. He would play an infield position himself. There is also a chance that Wilmington may join the same league and be managed by Pete Cassidy, now of the Jersey City Eastern League Club. Pete has a business in Wilmington and is naturally interested there.

There will be a meeting of the clubs of the Lackawanna League tonight to decide the championship in that league. Dover, Chatham, Summit and Morristown are tie for first place, but there is a game played by Summit and Morristown in dispute and it is likely that it will be thrown out in favor of Chatham and this would give the latter team the championship.

Red Bank, represented by Manager Daab's team, closed the season at Red Bank on Saturday by winning the pennant in the Atlantic Coast League. Red Bank defeated Matawan in Saturday's game. York, which was representing Long Branch, defeated Chatham at Long Branch, by a score of 2 to 0. Meyers, of the winning team, allowed neither a run or hit. York has now arranged a series of games with Scranton, winners of the New York State League.

Butler, catcher of the Jersey City Eastern League Club, will go with Brooklyn next year, and Fred Buchell, of the Baltimores, will go with the Philadelphia Nationals. Del. Mason, also of Baltimore, was drafted by the Cincinnatis, but he has refused to go with that club for the money offered. He wants more salary, but the management of the club wants Mason to demonstrate his ability first.

A record for heavy hitting was made last week by the Des Moines team, winners of the pennant in the Western Association, in a series of four games with Omaha. The Des Moines club made a total of 71 hits in the four contests, almost an average of eighteen hits a game.

It is practically settled that Manager Murray, of the Jersey City Eastern League Club, will become the manager of the Philadelphia Nationals next season. Grant, who has been playing with the Skeeters, this season, will also join the Skeeters next year.

Bob Davis, of Jersey City, owner of the Newburg Hudson River League team, is thinking seriously of putting the team in Hoboken next season.

Rain caused a postponement of the Clinton Avenue-Scotch Plains game at Crescent Oval on Saturday. The contest will be played next Saturday at 3:15, with the same lineup.

PERSONAL.

Edward Shay, of New York, has been spending several days with his brother, David Shay, at the Plainfield Country Club.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Green, of West Third street, was brightened by the arrival of a son Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Alfred Marsland, of Brooklyn, who has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Fred Phillips, of West Front street, has returned home.

Mrs. William McIntosh, and daughters, of College place, have returned from a pleasure trip to the Pacific Coast. Mrs. McIntosh, who met with an accident while away, has recovered.

Robert Abbott, who took part in the invitation golf tournament at the Morris County Golf Club, last week, returned home Saturday night. He is scheduled to participate in several other tournaments this fall, including that for the intercollegiate championship.

—For best results try The Daily Press.

—The New York and New Jersey Telephone Company, which has just completed laying conduits along West Front street, from Madison to Grant avenues, will begin the work of putting the cables in next week. When this is completed and the connections are made the telephone poles will be removed and all overhead wires taken down.

Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., will hold a regular meeting tomorrow night to plan for the winter work.

Mrs. Andrew Cox and Mrs. Augusta Dodge, of Mizpah Lodge, No. 1, U. O. of I. O. L., have been in Boston attending a convention of the order.

HORSE SHOW OCTOBER 13

Announcement of Classes For Fall Exhibit of Riding and Driving Club.

PRIZES ARE OFFERED

Entry List Open to All Owners Between Elizabeth and Somerville Inclusive—The Officers.

The Plainfield Riding and Driving Club has about completed arrangements for its one-day exhibition to be held at the new show grounds, Woodland avenue and Randolph road, Saturday afternoon, October 13, comencing at 12 o'clock noon, and the prize list, together with the several classes have been issued in pamphlet form. As stated a few weeks ago the show will be held to encourage owners of local thoroughbreds, who might think that they would not have a chance in a big exhibition such as was held in June, and the officers of the club expect to receive a large number of entries from this city, as well as the various towns between Elizabeth and Somerville, where there are some fine horses. It is proposed to make it as local as possible and there is no doubt but that the show will be a success.

The classes are as follows: Horses in harness—Class 1, roadsters shown to road-wagon, blue ribbon winners of recognized horse shows barred. Class 2—Pacers shown to road-wagon. Class 3—Combination class, horses over 14.2. Class 4—Horses and depot wagon; horse to count 60 per cent, appointments 40 per cent. Class 5—Horses over 14.2 and not exceeding 15.1. Class 6—Horses over 15.1. Class 7—Pair of horses over 14.2, and not exceeding 15.1. Class 8—Pair of horses over 15.1. Cass 9—Horses suitable for women's use, to be shown to an appropriate vehicle, women to drive. Class 10—Horses shown to delivery wagon, horses only to count.

Ponies in harness—Class 11—Pony over 13.1 and not exceeding 14.2. Class 12—Pony 13.1 and under, children to drive.

Saddle horses and ponies under saddle—Class 13—Horses over 14.2, and not exceeding 15.1. Class 14—Horses over 15.1. Class 15—Pony over 13.1, and not exceeding 14.2. Class 16—Pony 13.1, and under.

Hunters and Jumpers—Class 17—Green or qualified hunters (light weight) up to carrying under 165 pounds to hounds. Performance over fences 75 per cent., conformation 25 per cent. Class 18—Green or qualified hunters (middle or heavy weight) up to carrying 185 pounds to hounds. Performance over fence 75 per cent., conformation 25 per cent.

All exhibits must be owned and driven by amateurs residing within five miles of the New Jersey Central from Elizabeth to Somerville, also including New Brunswick. The hunters and jumpers classes are also open to horses owned by members of the Watchung Hunt Club. All exhibitors will have a badge of free admission, sent them and a single attendant's badge will be given to each exhibitor of one or two horses, and the same proportion for a larger number of horses.

The officers, directors and horse show committee are as follows:

Officers—President, Charles W. McCutchen; vice president, Lewis E. Waring; treasurer, J. Herbert Case; secretary, Lewis G. Timpson. Directors—George A. Beaton, Wm. J. Buttfield, Robert A. Fairbairn, Charles J. Fisk, Edward H. Ladd, Jr., Edwin S. Hooley, George P. Mellick, Charles W. McCutchen, Orville T. Waring, Lewis E. Waring, Harry G. Runkle, Daniel F. Ginna. Horse show committee—Robert A. Fairbairn, chairman; William J. Buttfield, George P. Mellick, Lewis E. Waring and Orville T. Waring.

Election Board Fills Vacancies.

The Union County Board of Election and Registry met yesterday at Elizabeth to fill any vacancies that might have occurred throughout the county. At Summit William Klocksin was appointed in place of Benjamin Fleuckhause, who is an Assembly candidate and two vacancies were filled in Elizabeth.

Miss Honeyman Engaged.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Maude Honeyman, the charming daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. V. D. Honeyman, and Kent Bender, of Waterbury, Conn. The date for the wedding has not been set.

Primary Returns at Theatre.

Providing they are received in time, returns from the primaries will be read from the stage at the New Plainfield theatre tonight. They will be given between the acts of "The Prince of Pilsen."

H. Mills Force, of Saltees, Montanna, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Sharp, of West Front street.

CONCEDE COLBYITES 19 OF 140 DELEGATES

SMITH MAKES PREDICTION—RUNYON DECLINES TO GO ANY GUESSING.

County Chairman Frank H. Smith, of this city, refused to make any prediction as to the outcome of the primaries until he had conferred with the leaders in the various parts of the county this morning. He met many of them in person at Elizabeth and others he conversed with over the 'phone after returning home.

This is what he had to say just before the polls opened at 1 o'clock:

"The outlook looks all right to me. Out of the sixty-two votes that Elizabeth has in the county convention, the Colbyites will not capture more than ten. Of course the councilmanic fights in the Eleventh and Twelfth wards may give them a few more, but the leaders assure me that there is not the slightest fear of that. Now so far as Summit is concerned. Colbyism has petered out there. I've just been talking with one of the leaders and I learn that Summit will be solid for the party; the Colbyites will carry neither ward.

"Westfield," continued Mr. Smith, "is solid and so are Cranford and Roselle. The same is true of Rahway. New Providence is the only place outside of Plainfield and Elizabeth where the Colbyites have a chance of getting any delegates to the county convention. In New Providence there's only one man running and he's a Colbyite.

"Here in Plainfield, I do not count upon the opposition getting more than eight of the twenty-seven delegates—they'll be lucky if they get that many."

City Judge Runyon, the county leader of the Colbyites, declined to make any prediction.

MURDEROUS DOG.

Tramp Bull Terrier, In a Rage, Attacks Fox Terrier.

Angered by his inability to get at another dog inside a fence on Clinton avenue yesterday morning, a tramp bull terrier turned on a pet fox terrier accompanying Alice Babcock, a little girl living on Dunellen avenue, and half killed it before a delivery wagon driver beat it insensible with the butt of his whip. The terrier was aroused by the barking of the dog inside the fence, and made several ineffectual attempts to get at it. Beside itself, apparently, with rage, the bull sprang at the fox terrier, who ran by at the time.

It was shaking the life out of it when the driver of the wagon, attracted by Alice Babcock's screams, ran to the little dog's rescue. He hammered the bull into insensibility with the butt of his whip, and got the fox terrier away from it in time to save it. He left the bull terrier lying in the road. It had disappeared an hour later.

IMPORTANT INSTRUCTIONS FOR THE VOTERS

The primary election is held between the hours of 1 and 9 p. m., at the usual places for holding general elections in each voting district of the State.

The regular election officers will conduct the primary election. These election boards will be composed of two Republicans and two Democrats, and there will be official challengers designated to act for both parties.

There will be separate boxes for the reception of ballots of the voters of the different parties. The Republican election officers will have charge of the Republican boxes, and the Democrats of the Democratic boxes, but the four officials must participate in the counting of all the ballots cast.

All legal voters will be entitled to cast their ballots. Before voting it will be necessary to register. Every voter must register before casting his ballot. A considerable portion of the voters have been registered already, but voters not yet registered in this municipality may do so today.

After having registered, the voter will ask for and receive from the election board the primary ticket of the party to which he belongs. He will then retire to a booth and prepare his ballot. There will be but one Republican ballot. It will contain the names of the men favorable to the "new idea," as well as the candidates selected by the "regulars." The voter will use a black leadpencil and erase from the ballot the names of the candidates for delegates to the various conventions, and the names of the candidates for office to be directly nominated by the primary, for whom he does not desire to vote. All these will be found in the left hand column on the ticket. Do not erase any names in the right hand column. It is most important to bear this matter in mind.

After having prepared the ballot and folded it, the voter will present himself before the election board and offer his ticket for deposit in the box of the party to which he belongs.

A first voter, or one who has never voted at a primary election, can vote any party ticket he chooses. So can any voter who has never voted in this State before.

But a voter who voted in the primary box of one political party last year cannot legally vote in the box of another political party today.

In case a voter is challenged, he may be forced to take two separate oaths. One will call upon him to swear that he is a citizen of the county, city and State, resides in the district, and is twenty-one years of age. The second oath, provided by the primary law, is:

"You do solemnly swear (or affirm) that you are a member of the ——— political party (specifying the political party to which the affiant claims to belong), that at the last election for members of the General Assembly at which you voted you voted for a majority of the candidates of said party whose names were printed on the ticket of said party, and that you intend to support the candidates of said party at the ensuing election."

This means that no man who voted for a majority of the Democratic candidates last year on election day can vote in the Republican primary box, even though it be his intention to vote the Republican ticket at the ensuing election.

In case the would-be voter refuses to take either of the above oaths, he will be debarred from casting his ballot, but if he takes the oaths his ballot must be received by the election board and counted, though a man who swears falsely will be liable to arrest and punishment for perjury.

After the vote has been deposited in the ballot-box the voter's duty is done, and the duty of recording the wishes of the electorate is placed upon the boards of election.—Ex.

SOMERSET COURT OPENS

Lengthy List of Causes in the Supreme and Circuit Courts.

GRAND JURY AT WORK

Two Murder Cases to Be Investigated—Garretson and Schenck on the Bench.

The September term of the Somerset County Courts opened at Somerville at 10:30 this morning, with Justice Abram Q. Garretson presiding. Judge Louis H. Schenck was also on the bench. There was a large attendance of lawyers and spectators.

The Grand Jury, which took its oath, will be called upon to investigate two murder cases.

The list of causes was gone over. Those of interest to Plainfielders are:

Supreme—Frank L. Dealaman vs. John F. Mundy, et al., partners, etc., on contract, Codington & Swackhamer, Reed & Coddington, filed June 27, 1906; Lester Pach vs. H. M. Herbert & Co., on contract, Malcolm Mac Lear, Dungan & Reger, filed August 3, 1906; Rock Hill Construction Co. vs. Charles B. Walton et al., on contract, Vredenburgh, Wall & Van Winkle, J. Lefferts Conard, filed August 16, 1906.

Circuit—Dora Dater vs. Wilhemina Weigand, on contract, Horace Codington, Dungan & Reger, issue joined April 25, 1906.

Justices' Appeals—Pasquale Tullo ads. Philip W. Mundy et al., jury, Januar 10, 1906, Justice Cooper; Beekman & Vosseller, Horace Codington. John Van Fleet et all, ads. John D. Smith, Admr. George W. Smith, dec., jury, tried January 5, 1904, Justice Smalley; Codington & Swackhamer, Reed & Coddington. Mary J. Spencer et als., Exrs., vs. John W. Mundy, jury, tried April 11, 1906, Justice Kitchen; Horace Codington, F. A. Pope. George Bowers ads. Christopher Herlich, jury, tried June 13, 1906, Justice Brampton; Horace Codington, F. J. Blatz.

It is believed the civil list will soon be disposed of, but the criminal cases will probably take weeks for trial.

Mr. Macnab Returns.

James D. Macnab, commercial instructor at the High School, who has been seriously ill during the past month, returned to his duties yesterday. During his absence the work in the commercial department has been conducted by Miss Howard, a member of the faculty last year, Donald Mortimor and C. Bertram Leggett, advanced commercial students.

—Fifty baskets of choice Damson Green Gage plums at Neuman Brothers' tomorrow. The will be sold at very low prices, so make selections early.

AFTER CLOCK COMPANY

Borough Board of Education Wants Somerset School Time-Piece Put in Order.

NEW MOTOR PROMISED

Various Other Matters Taken Up at the Regular Monthly Meeting Last Night.

At its regular monthly meeting, last night, the Borough Board of Education took decided steps to compel the Standard Electric Time Company, of New York, to place the Somerset school tower clock in such condition that it will work properly. Almost from the day it was put in position it has kept time to suit itself and those who have attempted to set watches by it have frequently found themselves ahead or behind. Samuel Townsend recently entered a vigorous protest and in reply received a letter from the company, stating that an expert had looked over the mechanism and found that the trouble was due to the motor and that another one had been ordered.

Mr. Townsend read the letter to the board and on motion it was decided to give the Standard people until October 8 to get the clock in condition to record the proper time. If it is not done by then, the necessary measures will be adopted to bring about a change.

It was reported by Superintendent Krebs that the enrollment in the Somerset kindergarten is now fifty-six, making the class too large for one session. It was voted to divide the pupils into two classes and have morning and afternoon sessions, increasing the pay of the teachers $5 a month because of the extra work.

In connection with an informal discussion of school matters, it was stated by Mr. Townsend that he had spoken to J. Brognard Betts, assistant State superintendent of schools, with reference to having a State law passed giving Boards of Education the authority to take school census. It would prove of great assistance to these bodies in making preparations for new accommodations by giving the number of new pupils that might be expected. Mr. Betts, so Mr. Townsend said, had considered the matter in a favorable light and that he would undoubtedly carry it up.

On motion of Mr. Miller, the clerk was authorized to borrow $5,200 in anticipation of monies and $50 was added to the appropriation for furnishing teachers' rooms in the Somerset and Watchung schools. The bonds of D. J. Galbraith and James C. Hansen, wh odid work on the new building, were returned at their request.

NEW CLUBS FOR THE BOYS OF THE Y. M. C. A.

Unusually Active Season Planned By Department Cabinet At Season's First Meeting.

Increased activities will mark the new season in the Boys' Department of the Y. M. C. A. The Boys' Cabinet, at its first meeting of the fall, yesterday afternoon decided enough to make that a certainty.

Several new clubs will be formed among the members. The exact character of them has not been determined upon, but the idea is to give the members a full opportunity of grouping together for the enjoyment of favorite sports or pursuits or religious work. A special effort is to be made to keep the High School boys on the move.

The formal opening reception, with which will be combined the department's greeting to Hayden W. Barrows, the new secretary, will be held Thursday night. An entertainment will be held in the main hall, and the reception proper will follow in the boys' room upstairs.

100-Foot Deadline.

Chief of Police Kiely has served formal notice on the recognized leaders of both parties and on the Colbyite captains to observe athe law forbidding electioneering within 100 feet of the polling places. His attention was called to the fact that the law applied to the primary by Judge Runyon, and after a consultation with Corporation Counsel Marsh, he issued the order. Chief Kiely and Detective McCarthy started from polling place to place in an automobile this afternoon to see that the law is obeyed.

Buys Plainfield Property.

Lester Harris, of Mt. Pleasant, has purchased of L. E. Hart the latter's property on West Front street, formerly occupied by Dr. Gaston. The consideration is said to be $7,000. Mr. Harris will take possession October 1.

—S. Scheuer & Co.'s store will be closed during the day next Saturday, Sept. 29. Open in evening at 6 o'clock. 9 25 4 ***

END OF STREET MEETINGS

Judge Runyon and R. Henry Depew Speak to Netherwood Crowd.

RAPS FOR REGULARS

Judge Says They Are Engaged In Deathbed Reformation — Asks Democrats to Stay Away From Republican Primary.

The Colbyite campaign in this city came to a close last night in Netherwood. Judge Runyon and R. Henry Depew were the speakers. They addressed a crowd of about fifty voters, at Leland and North avenues.

Mr. Depew spoke first. Stephen H. Tugwell, the Colbyite chairman of the ward, introduced him in a brief speech. Mr. Depew emphasized the points he has been making all through the campaign. The votes that gave the big bosses their power lay in the city, he said, and to curtail that power it was necessary to take the control of party organization from the little bosses of the cities and the wards. Those little bosses were parts of the boss-chain, and to leave each link of the chain intact was a foolish way of trying to break down its strength. He spoke for municipal ownership and the other planks of the Colbyite platform.

Judge Runyon, on whom the reformers have depended all through the campaign to meet the new developments, turned his lance on the re-formed ranks of the regulars as they ranged up in the yesterday's papers. He said their attitude was specious and transparent. He called attention to the openness of the Colby campaign all through the fight and said it was strange that the regulars waited until the eve of primary day, the final moment, before they made their announcements. If what the Colbyites had been saying was false and untrue why were they not met and so characterized before?

One of the plans in the platform of the bosses, continued the Judge, declared for the abolition of bossism. If the bosses meant that, it was a declaration of suicidal intent, and he had doubts of its sincerity. "When the devil was sick, the devil a monk would be." He thought the old adage applied very patly to the lusty protestations of the regulars as to virtuous ways and independence.

Mr. Fisk had said that if the people had confidence in him, he asked for their votes. While the speaker had no doubt of Mr. Fisk's sincerity, he doubted even his ability to make those with whom he was associated politically keep their promises.

The Judge had something to say to the Democrats in the crowd. He asked them to remain true to their Jeffersonian principals, and not allow themselves to be weaned away from their party for use at the Republican primaries.

It was the Colbyites' intention to hold several other meetings in the downtown section, but the plan was abandoned on account of the lateness of the hour when Judge Runyon and Mr. Depew came back from Netherwood. G. W. V. Moy and the other cart-tail orators were too busy on election plans to speak.

N. P. H. S. Pupils Entering College.

Miss Mary Robley, daughter of James H. Robley, of Myrtle avenue, entered the Woman's College at Baltimore last week on the certificate of th North Plainfield High School. She was granted advanced standing in German by taking an examination in that subject, which was pronounced by the dean to be very creditable. John Peacock, another graduate of last year's class of the North Plainfield High School, took the entrance examinations for Princeton last week and was admitted to the college without condition. Arthur Dunning, a third member of the class of '06, entered the electrical engineering course at Pratt Institute on certificate. Seven other members of the class of '06 have returned to the North Plainfield High School for advanced work.

May Install Lunch Counter.

The Borough Board of Education is considering the advisability of installing a lunch counter in the Somerset street school to accommodate the pupils. The matter was taken up at the meeting last night and H. A. Woodruff was appointed a committee of one to study the plan in vogue at the city High School and report at the next session. At present the pupils leave the school grounds and purchase candy and cakes in nearby stores and the members feel that it would be better to have a regular lunch prepared for them.

Bible Study Conference.

A conference of the men who will enter Rev. Dr. Jesse Lyman Hurlbut's class for Bible study will be held at the Y. M. C. A. on Thursday night. The conference will be presided over by W. D. Murray.

RICHARD CORIELL DIES IN NEW YORK HOSPITAL

FATALLY STRICKEN WHILE AT WORK YESTERDAY MORNING.

Richard E. Coriell, of Fairview avenue, for many years a prominent resident of the city or borough, died this morning in the Hudson Street hospital, New York. He was taken ill yesterday morning in J. Wesley Johnson's jewelry establishment on John street, where he was head salesman, but at first refused offers of aid, saying that he would soon recover. He sought rest on a couch but quickly sank into a comatose state from which he could not be aroused. He was removed to the hospital and died without regaining consciousness. Members of his family were present when the end came. Apoplexy is ascribed as the cause of death.

Mr. Coriell was sixty-seven years old and had a wide local acquaintance. He was a member of Jerusalem lodge, F. and A. M., and was one of the organizers of the Somerset Club. By many old residents he was considered one of the best posted men on the early history of Plainfield, practically his whole life having been spent here. He was connected with Mr. Johnson's establishment for years.

He is survived by a widow, one son, W. W. Coriell, of Netherwood, and two daughters, the Misses Emily and Margaret Coriell. He was a brother to Mrs. Johnson and W. W. Coriell, of Lincoln place.

STEALS DAUGHTER OF HIS CAPTAIN

FORMER CADET IN MILITARY ACADEMY ELOPES TO THIS CITY TO WED.

Residents of Nyack were surprised yesterday to learn that Miss Marguerite Wilson, daughter of Captain Joel Wilson, owner and manager of the Hudson River Military Academy, had eloped last Friday to this city with J. Harold Randolph, who last year was instructor in English and military tactics in the academy. Her friends knew she had gone away for a few days, but the fact that she had been married was not known until today. Then the news spread like wild fire as both are popular here.

Randolph and Miss Wilson were married here Friday night. They became acquainted two years ago, when he was a cadet in the academy. Their friendship became love, but he was discouraged in his attentions by her parents. After his appointment as instructor he renewed his suit, and so emphatic was Captain Wilson in his refusal to give his consent to a marriage that the young man resigned and entered the University of Chicago.

Randolph returned to Nyack two weeks ago and clandestinely met Miss Wilson several times. It was arranged that she should drive to this city, where Randolph's sister lives, and be married in his sister's house. The programme was successfully carried out and the couple are now on their honeymoon.

SHORT COURT SESSION.

Judge Newcorn Disposes of Four Cases At Extra Sitting.

District Judge Newcorn held a brief session of his court this morning, to dispose of those cases the papers of which were issued and made returnable before he arranged to hold court yesterday.

The Tower Manufacturing Company, of New York, secured a verdict against Scribner & Taylor, on contract, by affidavit. It was awarded $66.93 and costs.

In two landlord and tenant cases, John Daly against Herbert Van Fleet and John Van Fleet, possession of the premises was awarded.

It was reported to the court that the attachment case of J. A. Smith & Bro. against Ernest Barrett had been settled.

Piscataway Contest.

The Republicans of Piscataway Township have one contest on at the primary election. Dr. M. J. Whitford, the present assessor, is opposed for renomination by George W. Coriell, and an active canvass is on. The Doctor was appointed to the office to succeed George Bunting, who was elected last fall to the County Commission. His friends say he took the office when no one seemed willing to shoulder the work, and is entitled to a full term.

In the Borough Court.

Kate Stevens and Charles Brighton, colored, who were arrested by the borough police for creating a disturbance on Race street, were arraigned before Mayor Smalley last night. The woman was given five days in the borough jail and Brighton twenty days at Somerville.

NEGROES MAKE DEMANDS

Colored Men Pass Resolution Asking Republican Party For More Recognition.

400 AT THE MEETING

Andrew Carey Is Shut Off When He Speaks for the "New Idea"—Jesse Lawson in Command.

An exciting termination of the colored regular Republican mass meeting at Reform Hall was threatened last night, at the close of an enthusiastic speech by Jesse Lawson. William P. Douglass as chairman of the meeting and the trouble arose over a speech made by Andrew Carey and in adopting a resolution petitioning the Republican party to put another colored man on the police force.

Mr. Carey was introduced by Mr. Douglass, as one who he believed to be a friend of the Republican party, although he said that he did not know the man. Mr. Carey started off all right, but he soon gave evidence of being a follower of the "New Idea" movement, when he declared that he was for the negro first, last and all time, and if it was necessary to go over the Republican party to get anything, he would not hesitate to do so.

Just as the speaker was warming up, Mr. Douglass arose and said: "Young man we will excuse you and you can sit down while I present a resolution." The aspiring young man gracefully retired to allow the resolution to be offered.

There were a good many ideas as to how the resolution should be drafted, some wishing to frame it in the form of a demand upon the Republican party that another negro policeman be put on the force. Others counseled more moderate terms, and finally the following one offered by Jesse Lawson, was adopted: "Resolved, It is the sense of this meeting of colored Republicans assembled that we petition the Republican party in control in Plainfield to grant us a regular officer on the police force or any other favor within reason." It was then decided that a committee of five be appointed to wait on the Republican party and present the resolution.

There was further trouble in the appointment of the committee, it being decided that the chairman select the members. William Rastus was chosen from the First ward, Jacob Dunham from the Second ward, William Mayhew from the Third ward and William Kline from the Fourth ward. There being one more member to be appointed, Mr. Kline suggested that Dr. J. C. Anderson be selected from the Third ward.

Dr. Anderson jumped to his feet and said that his views were similar to those of Mr. Carey, that is, he was for the negro first and would not put the Republican party ahead of his people.

Mr. Lawson interposed at this time and said that Dr. Anderson ought to be a member of that committee and he moved that he be appointed. Several men present called for the motion just as Mr. Douglass was about to take exception to the appointment, and before he could say a word the motion was carried by a standing vote.

Immediately Mr. Kline moved that the meeting adjourn and insisted on being recognized by the chair. As Mr. Douglass declared that the meeting adjourn, he added, "I guess we had better adjourn as things are getting warm."

As the crowd of nearly 400 negroes dispersed there were rumors of dissatisfaction and some of those present went away feeling displeased.

The speaker impressed upon his audience that their votes counted just as much as those of Judge Runyon and Charles J. Fisk and that in this respect everyone present is the equal of every other man and in casting the ballot the responsibility is just as great.

Mr. Lawson said that in the bosom of the Americans there is a sense of fair play and he urged his people to appreciate this fact and not abuse their privileges. If the Republican party had been lukewarm toward the negro it was because of his independent spirit and desire to dictate. He said that organization was also a necessity and if the negro hoped for recognition it must be through the regular Republican party.

After Mr. Lawson concluded his speech, Edward F. Maynard, of West Fourth street, made a few remarks urging the negroes to stand by the old party.

Sues Clothes Cleaner.

Leonard Bartlett has brought suit against Abraham Wolf, a cleaner and dyer, for $100 in the District Court, in a tort action. Bartlett claims that Wolf failed to return a suit left with him for cleaning, and sues for the value of the garments. F. J. Blatz is the plaintiff's lawyer.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday, September 27th, 28th, 29th.

We will be ready to show Imported Models for the trade including designs from our own workroom and exhibiting conceptions of the very latest creations. Among them: "The M'lle Modiste," a picture Hat of Paon Velvet having large shadowing lines, caught up at the side with two large white Plumes, finished off with a large Chou of Black Morie Ribbon. Also showing the latest styles in small Turbans. Our first season's great success establishes us as having the leading Millinery Department in Plainfield. You are cordially invited to attend the Opening on second floor—(elevator service)—where competent salespeople will be pleased to serve you.

PERSIAN RUG SALE.

Under the direction of Mr. Serges Y. Hosanna, of Urmia, Persia, who brings with him a big line of various sizes in the Genuine Persian Rugs. Mr. Hosanna was in Plainfield last year and did a large business, all who bought of him were much pleased with their purchases, as his prices are much less than what would be charged in New York.

These goods will be on sale on our second floor, where we have opened a new Rug and Drapery Department. Mr. Hosanna will be glad to show these Rugs and give all information desired. Prices range from $10 to $300.

TAKE ELEVATOR.

New Fancy Goods

We are now showing a fine line of the following Goods in the latest styles at as low, if not lower prices than the same can be bought where "Green Trading Stamps" are not given.

Ruffs, Collars, Ribbons, Handkerchiefs, Automobile Veils, Veilings, Laces, Braids, Gloves, Art Goods, Yarns, Hosiery, Embroideries, Pocketbooks, Bags, Purses, Belts, etc.

We cordially invite you to look these lines over.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY

The death of Mr. Brown in New York, recalls the fact that his property here is the old William Marsh Rice place. The property was sold by the murdered millionaire to Judge Von Minden's father when he moved away. Mr. Von Minden sold it to the late Mr. Dixon, from whom Mr. Brown purchased it. An odd coincidence in connection with the ownership of the property is that Mr. Dixon also died under an operation in New York. Those facts, taken in connection with the way Rice died, would seem to give the superstitious grounds for the belief that there was something fateful about ownership of the property.

In common with the rest of the State, the borough and village are in the throes of the primary election this afternoon. The throes are very mild in the Republican party in Dunellen and scarce a tremor is felt in either party in the village, but Judge Campbell and John Moynihan are stirring things over the Democratic nomination for borough collector. The polls will be open until 9 o'clock. The man who has not registered yet, may register today and cast his vote at the primary.

C. T. Rogers will return from a visit to various places in New York State Thursday or Friday. He has been attending the centennial anniversary of the Rogers family at Oxford, N. Y.

The supply of water has increased since Saturday's rain. The wells were getting very low. More rain would be welcome.

Mrs. Jeptha Runyon, of Newark, has been spending several days with her sister-in-law, Mrs. Firman Walker.

Miss Alice De Mott, of Gladstone, has returned home after a few days' visit to her uncle, N. B. Dunn.

Mrs. Carrie Voorhees, of Grove street, Plainfield, will entertain Friendship Circle tomorrow.

Frank Squier has returned to New York, after spending part of his vacation in the village.

Nelson B. Dunn is putting a new roof on his barn. He expects to make other repairs soon.

William Schein has resigned from Levering & Garrigues' employ.

Magnus Johnson has returned from a visit to South Orange.

Miss Nettie Baldwin has returned from a stay at Clinton.

August Krohn is working at the Scott shop, Plainfield.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD

Saturday's game with Clinton Avenue at Crescent Oval will be a fast one as the locals are putting up a strong game and Clinton Avenue will present its strongest lineup in an effort to wipe out past defeats administered to them by the Plains team this season.

The enrollment this year at the public school is the largest it has ever had, 203 being the total number of pupils.

Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand Schmidt, of Forest avenue, enjoyed a Hudson River trip yesterday.

The primary election is on today in the town hall. Polls are open from 1 until 9 p. m.

John Fahry has returned from a visit of several days at his home at Dover.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The Young People's Club expects a full house tonight at their entertainment in Washington Hall for the repairs of the horse sheds at the Baptist church. Dancing after the entertainment. Irrespective of the play many have sent in subscriptions to swell the fund for so worthy an object. The curtain will rise promptly at 8 o'clock.

George Mendel and his son, Charles, a lawyer in New York city, have purchased the old Holly farm, near here, and will make it their summer home. It is their intention to remodel the house and beautify the grounds by clearing away the waste land which for so many years has been allowed to grow up unmolested.

The Bank of Montreal, of New York city, for whom Phil Smith pitched the game of ball Saturday, in Philadelphia, won by a score of 12 to 4.

Jack Higgins has returned from a short vacation and is back to his post of duty as baggagemaster at the Lehigh Valley station.

MILLINERY.

We have planned to make this season's showing surpass all previous years, and to this end have employed artist milliners of high repute; many of whom have aided us so largely in past seasons in scoring triumphs. The display you will see here tomorrow contains many magnificent specimens of their handiwork and reveal the fact that each year we more nearly approach the marvelous taste and ingenuity of the Parisian milliners.

We may expect the usual twaddle about hats from France—the creations of Madame This and Madame That, even from the trashiest of trashy stores, who glibly talk of "our own importation," though not one store in fifty actually imports a hat. Because of this we hesitate to talk about the hats we show and sell which are really direct importations and give our patrons definite examples of the fashions prevailing in Paris and help them to the ideas of the French in hat making.

We are showing more genuine Paris-made hats than all the other stores in Newark combined—possibly the only real importations that will be seen in New Jersey.

It should be remembered that only a few stores have any such foreign connections as this one—few such full and free entree to the best sources of supply, and it is doubtful if any can command such favors as are shown the mighty organization of which this store is a part.

Amongst our Parisian Hats are pleasing specimens of the handiwork of such notables in the millinery world as

MME. FEURLY, CAMILLE ROGERS,
LOYS SOEURS, MME. CARLIER, MAISON LEWIS, ESTHER MEYER,
MARIE CROSET, MME. JASSE,
LINN FAULKNER,
MME. POUYANNE, and last but not least the famous VIROT.

The model Hats, Toques and Bonnets, which actually come from the shops of these famous designers of headwear, will interest those who attend our Opening, but perhaps not more so than the clever productions which have come from our own workrooms and in which we take just pride.

See the foreign hats and see the American-made hats. Judge them both fairly. Give the American hats their due if, in your judgment, they are more beautiful or more tasteful.

Official Notice of the Republican Primary Election.

Notice is hereby given by the Republican City Executive Committee of the City of Plainfield to the Republican voters of said city that the primary election will be held in each election district of the four wards for the City of Plainfield, on Tuesday, the twenty-fifth day of September, nineteen hundred and six, polls being open from one o'clock in the afternoon until nine o'clock in the evening of that day, to elect delegates to the Congressional, County and City Conventions and to nominate candidates for the following offices:

Each ward is entitled to nominate and elect

One councilman, one justice of the peace, one constable, three members of the city committee, two members of the county committee, except in the Fourth ward, which is entitled to three members of the city committee and three members of the county committee.

The following list designates the number of delegates to which each election district is entitled at the Congressional, County and City Conventions.

	Congressional.	County.	City.
FIRST WARD—
First District	4	4	4
Second District ...	2	2	2
SECOND WARD—

THIRD WARD—
First District	4	4	4
Second District ...	2	2	2
FOURTH WARD—
First District	3	3	3
Second District ...	3	3	3
Third District	3	3	3

The primary election will be held and governed by the primary election law of nineteen hundred and three, with the supplements and amendments thereto. The places for holding the said primary election are the regular designated places for holding the general election in each election district.

The following is a list of the candidates to be selected at the various conventions:

Congressional Convention—One Congressman.

County Convention—Three members of the General Assembly and One Coroner.

City Convention—One Mayor, City Collector, two members of the Board of Freeholders and one member of the Board of Education.

Petitions placing candidates and delegates in nomination must be filed with the Municipal Clerk not later than the fifteenth day of September.

By order of the Republican City Executive Committee.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

GOLF.

Saturday was a disagreeable day for golf enthusiasts and in consequence there was a decided falling off in the field at the Plainfield Country Club, while at the Park Golf Club no scores were returned. The weather also had its effect at the Westfield Golf Club, where but a few players turned out. The heavy rain during the day inundated some of the holes at the Plainfield Country Club, chiefly the eighteenth, and the feature of the afternoon there was the play of Frank O. Reinhart and Morris J. Dumont.

These two players had made the circuit of the course partly through a driving rain, and when they reached the last hole they were not going to be stumped. The green and hole was covered with water but they waded in and while Reinhart was playing Dumont baled the water out with his hands, and Reinhart did the same for Dumont. The former made the hole in five, but his opponents' score was higher and he did not post. The play was watched by a crowd of spectators on the clubhouse porch who cheered the contestants.

C. B. Morgan won first honors for the Golf Committee cup with a net score of 77, while Arthur Murphy finished second and Julius E. Erickson third. These scores were posted:

C. B. Mrogan, 80, 3—77; Arthur Murphy, 85, 7—78; Julius E. Erickson, 92, 13-79; Frank O. Reinhart, 80, 0—80; Henry D. Hibbard, 86, 5—81.

Frank O. Reinhart olso won a leg on the September Handicap cup with a score of 80. Another event of interest was the final play between C. B. Morgan and W. Lester Glenney for the Semi-scratch cup. These players had to go around the course in the rain and conditions were far from being good for the best work. Glenney won the contest, defeating his opponent 2 up and 1 to play.

Notwithstanding the small field on the course, there was a large number of members and friends at the clubhouse for dinner and the dance which followed in the evening. The affair was equally as enjoyable as those held during the past month.

The annual championship tournament of the Intercollegiate Golf Association will be held at Garden City on October 16 to 20. Added interest will be lent to this year's meeting through the admission of Williams College into the association. The players from Williamstown swept everything before them in the New England Intercollegiate Golf Association last season, and in the spring of this year played matches on several local courses and made a favorable impression.

For years Yale, Harvard, Princeton, Pennsylvania, Columbia and Cornell have been the only members of the association. With the acquisition of Williams, however, the association is likely to lose in another direction. The rumor now is that Columbia may withdraw. At present the local institution is badly off for golfing material, and there is little likelihood of a team being mustered.

Cornell, which has not been represented in the tournament to any extent for several years, is showing signs of renewed interest, and the Ithaca university will at least have entries in the individual championship. There is considerable uncertainty as regards Pennsylvania's plans.

The first two days will be devoted to the team championship and the last three to the individual. At present all honors are held by Yale. In the team contest at Garden City a year ago the New Haven college proved too strong for both Harvard and Princeton, while in the individual championship Robert Abbott, of this city, defeated his colleague, Ellis Knowles, in the final.

The Princeton University Golf Club, of which Howard J. Gee is manager and W. T. West captain, has arranged for an active fall season. In addition to competitive events at home three team matches are listed.

Next Saturday the Princeton players will compete on the links of the Montclair Golf Club. On October 6 the collegians will play at the Philadelphia Country Club, and on October 15 Princeton is scheduled to visit the Nassau Country Club.

The Princeton golfers will compete over their home links today in an eighteen-hole medal play handicap, while four-ball foursomes are arranged for Thursday. On October 2 the qualifying round of the club championship will be decided. Conditions call for eighteen holes, medal play, the first sixteen to qualify. Best-ball foursomes have also been arranged for October 11.

Programmes are out for the open tournament of the Richmond County Country Club on October 4, 5 and 6. There will be an eighteen-hole medal play qualifying round, contestants to qualify in three sixteens. A thirty-six hole medal play handicap is on for the last day.

On Friday and Saturday of this week the annual individual championship tournament of the East Jersey Golf League will be held over the links of the Deal Golf and Country Club. According to the conditions, the first eight in the eighteen-hole medal play qualifying round will continue on at match play. There will also be a handicap on Saturday.

The Dyker Meadow Golf Club has issued its fall schedule. According to the announced conditions, the players who returned the lowest sixteen gross scores in the seven monthly club handicaps or the year shall qualify to be drawn at match play. The first round must be completed before October 15.

Robert Abbott went to Baltusrol, yesterday, where he took part in a four-ball match with Ellis Knowles, his colleague at Yale, who he defeated at Garden City, last year, for the intercollegiate championship; Miss Hurry and Miss Mix. Abbott is putting in his spare time these days for the intercollegiate tournament to be held at Garden City, October 16 to 20.

DIAMOND DUST.

Even with the great "Christy" Mathewson to assist in the box, Scranton, champions of the New York State League, defeated the Giants on Saturday.

There is just one thing that would be largely instrumental in giving Newark a champion team in the Eastern League, and that is the selection of a broad and liberal-minded manager in place of Manager Burnham, who seems to have adopted a penny-wise and pound foolish policy. Burnham is always selling his best players for the highest price, but instead of keeping good men and strengthening his team, he picks up second-raters, the kind that could never win a pennant. This year he has lost and will lose good men, who have been drafted or sold, but if Burnham is permitted to remain as manager, Newark will have to be satisfied with any old position in the league. With a pennant-winning team, Newark would be one of the best baseball cities on the circuit.

Pitcher Henry Thielman will begin the practice of dentistry early next year either in Jersey City or New York. Thielman is one of the most popular men who ever played with the Jersey City Club.

Jim Robertson, formerly of the Westfield and Plainfield teams, has been playing fine ball for Wilkesbarre, of the New York State League, this year.

The Jersey City Eastern League Club will play the Hobokens at West Side Park, Jersey City, Saturday. The record now stands two victories for Hoboken and one for Jersey City. The game will be a benefit one and the last game the Jerseys will play on their home grounds. Sunday they will play their last game at St. George's Cricket grounds, Hoboken.

Hoffman, who has been playing the last two seasons for the Holyoke team, of the Connecticut State League, will undoubtedly be with the Philadelphia Athletics next season. He is a good one and will surely make the team.

Billy Beck, who formerly pitched for the Plainfield team, is now holding the indicator at Englewood, where he has engaged in the plumbing business.

Prospects for the organization of an amateur league here next year received unexpected strengthening last week. An organization that is peculiarly fitted to make the scheme go has interested itself in the plans, and although it is not yet ready to identify itself with the movement formally, those who are in a position to know feel sure that it will father the project at the proper time. It may be safely predicted that an amateur league will be started next season.

TENNIS.

The Plainfield Country Club tennis tournament for boys' handicap singles begins tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. Boys under eighteen years are eligible. The club tennis tournament for junior mixed doubles begins Saturday morning at 10 o'clock. Boys and girls under eighteen years who have never won a prize at this club are eligible. Cups will be presented by Henry L. Hall. Entries close with T. M. Day on the evening preceding the tournament. In the men's singles tournament for the club championship the match between Owen H. Fleming and J. Whitney Baker in the semi-final round was commenced Saturday, Baker winning the first set, 6-4. Further play was prevented by the rain. The match will be finished on Saturday afternoon, and the winner will then play Henry J. Cochrane in the first round for the beautiful cut-glass emblem, overlaid with silver, presented by George P. Mellick.

(Other sporting news on page eight).

District Court.

Only one contested case was heard in the district court yesterday, Bernard Mann's action against L. G. Henry, the grocer, for the possession of his store on West Fourth street. Henry claimed that a yearly tenancy had been established and that in the absence of due notice at the experation of the last year, he was entitle to twelve months more of tenancy. Judge Newcorn ruled that he was a tenant by sufferance, and gave the plaintiff possession of the place. S. S. Swackhamer appeared for Mr. Henry. F. J. Blatz conducted the plaintiff's case.

ONE ON THE NEWARK NEWS.

Bubbling over with joy because he had refused to become the regular candidate for the local mayoralty nomination, the Newark Evening News said on Saturday that George P. Mellick is "an honorable gentleman, a capable official and a most worthy citizen." The News told the exact truth, but won't it jar that paper to learn that the same Mr. Mellick today arraigns the Colbyites for the campaign they have conducted and openly declares himself in favor of Charles Joel Fisk for mayor?

THE FORUM.

Scores Saloon Keepers.

Editor, The Daily Press:

In regard to the man who in his drunken frenzy abused his family, what intelligent, disinterested person would not say, if instead of giving him free board and lodging at the expense of the taxpayers for two months, he had been permitted to sign the pledge and go to work and support his family, who must now be cared for by the city or by charitable people then the authorities should have ascertained who sold that man the drink in violation of the city ordinance, which forbids selling intoxicants to drunkards. Those authorities seem to forget that in cases of intoxication an ounce of prevention is worth a good many pounds of cure, but then how would those poor people earn their salaries if there were no poor drunkards to arrest and convict.

MRS. DE FOREST.

Plainfield, N. J., Sept. 24, 1906.

Editor, The Daily Press:

I received a letter this morning containing two circulars and a Republican (?) Primary Ticket for the First District, Third Ward. Upon reading the circulars I find instructions to do my duty as an American citizen and to exercise my own judgment, in voting at the primaries, and not follow the will of the bosses, yet the ballot enclosed is all prepared and marked in favor of the self-called "reformers" and leaves me no choice whatever to exercise that great right which they refer to. I also notice in the way they have marked the ticket that while our next mayor, Charles J. Fisk, is good enough to act as a delegate to the congressional convention and as a member of the city committee, yet, he is not competent enough to vote for as a member of the county committee, his name being marked off in favor of Robert L. Lee.

I would like to ask the reformers why the voters of the Third ward have to be instructed as to how to vote and why, if Mr. Fisk is a proper ma nfor one place why he is not in another?

Yours respectfully,
JOHN F. AUTEN,
308 West Fifth Street.

Editor, The Daily Press:

I was reading in your paper Thursday evening of the almost incorrigible boy who "stabbed a deaf mute and stole money from him, an awful crime, and the officials didn't know what to do with him." I would like to suggest he be sent to "The George Junior Republic" for boys and girls at Freeville, New York, which place I visited this summer with several friends one afternoon. Personally meeting Mr. George who (after a guide, one of the girl citizens), had taken us through several buildings, jail, court house, etc., etc., then took us through his home, library, chapel, school house and one of the cottages for boys who could pay good board and get accordingly, i. e., free rooms and meals, use of a piano, etc., because the better the behavior and the higher wages they received and earned, the finer accommodations they got in return as an incentive to do better in every way. And they were fit for any college fellow. It is one of the finest organizations ever opened for street gamins. The first principle is to cultivate self control and self government. It is a village by itself run by the boys and girls as far as law is concerned. It is duly incorporated under the membership corporation law of New York State; owns nearly 200 acres of farm land, over a dozen buildings, situated on a beautiful site overlooking miles of mountain valleys and rich farms. Air is fine, the whole atmosphere of the place is beautiful. Mr. George being such a magnetic lively christian man, full face and figure, everybody loves him and he loves everybody. He says: "I wouldn't change places with anybody in the world. I believe I'm the happiest man in the world." He was a prosperous business man in New York city and rubbing up against the street gamins every day he was more and more impressed with the idea something must be done for their betterment, the outcome of which is this wonderful Republic. Everybody calls him "Daddy," and with such respectful and loving accent. His wife and family are, too, very helpful in this great work. Their motto is, "Nothing without labor." They are taught farming, carpentering, (I saw handsome mission furniture and grandfather clocks made by the boys), painting, shoemaking, printing (print their own literature and papers), plumbing, laundry, domestic science, bread and wafer baking, all boys, (they supply bread for certain grocers in nearby cities and villages, and the bread and wafers were as good as any I ever have eaten).

They have a fine school system. All are compelled to attend until they graduate; then they may go and do for themselves. A number go to college. I saw larger boys who were skilled mechanics and are at liberty to go but stay there from choice.

For recreation they have baseball, tennis, croquet, basketball, football, swimming, skating and various indoor games. All are called citizens, are paid for their labor in special aluminum currency and all pay their own way and more.

They have a president, vice-president, secretary of state, secretary of treasury, courts, judges, district attorney, police officers and jails. Only one prisoner the day I was there, recently committed by the court of cits. Other convicts were digging ditches. They take the toughest of toughs and the change in them in a short time is most wonderful. The girl who was our guide only a year ago was one of 'em. Upon inquiry the reason she was there only last year that she could run the city in which she lived in Pennsylvania.

The assistants to Mr. George in work, teachers, matrons, etc., are fine men and women, and by their lives live examples of good to the citizens.

The Junior Republic "yell" composed by the citizens is:

Hear ye this!
Down with the boss,
Down with the tramp,
Down with the pauper,
Down with the scamp;
Up with the foreman,
Up with the wise,
Up with the thrifty!
Who are we? Why, we are
The citizens of the G. J. R!

Very respectfully,
M. P. LA BOYTEAUX.

The Workingman's Friend.

Editor, The Daily Press:

I hope the workingmen will all help to nominate C. J. Fisk, because I know he is the poor man's friend. I know a case when a poor man's house was burning on a very cold night. Mr. Fisk was there to help and when the fire was extinguished he remained to see if the family was comfortable, saying come to my house if you have not a comfortable place to sleep. Another time, when a gang of men were grading a street they were delayed by early freezing until near Christmas. The payment could not be collected until after the next Council meeting. Mr. Fisk said to the foreman, "take my check and pay all these men; they will want money for Christmas."

Attempt at Suicide.

Editor, The Daily Press:

941 West Fourth Street,
Sept. 24, 1906.

Will you allow me, through your columns, to tender my best thanks to the headquarters of this city for prompt attention on my behalf? Also kindly correct the statement or report of the above attempt. I innocently, unfortunately inhaled gas during sleep. If I had attempted suicide I certainly would have been arrested for same. The reception hospital officials at Coney Island were extremely kind to me. I tendered my best thanks on my leaving the hospital Sunday noon. Thanking you in anticipation,

Yours truly,
JOHN HILL.

CITY CONVENTION.

Republican Executive Committee Makes Its Plans.

The Republican City Executive Committee met last night and completed arrangements for the Republican City Convention which will be held at the Casino, Saturday night at 8 o'clock, for the purpose of nominating candidates for the following offices: Mayor, city collector, one member of the Board of Education, two members of the Board of Freeholders.

The representation at the convention will be as follows:

First ward—First district, four delegates; Second district, two delegates. Second ward—First district, four delegates; Second district, two delegates. Third ward—First district, four delegates; Second district, two delegates. Fourth ward—First district, three delegates; Second district, three delegates; Third district, three delegates.

Other business of importance was considered last night in planning the approaching campaign and many details were attended to. There was a full attendance of members and the reports received from the different parts of the city were very encouraging to the committee.

P. S. C. Change.

W. J. Davenport, who has been the division superintendent of the Public Service Corporation with headquarters at the Watchung Avenue Stand, has resigned his position to take a similar one in the west. Mr. Davenport has been with the company seven years advancing from a motorman to that of assistant superintendent of this division. He has been held in high esteem by all the employees under him. He will leave Plainfield October 1. F. H. Brown, who was the district superintendent of the company, and who left the company several weeks ago, is now manager of the suburban lines at Pawtucket, R. I.

Mrs. John V. Arrowsmith.

Mrs. John V. Arrowsmith, a native of this city and sister of Joseph B. Coward, died yesterday at her home in Keyport. She leaves one daughter and one son. The funeral will be held at Keyport tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock and the body will afterward be brought to this city for interment in the North Plainfield cemetery.

"Randolph's Quinine and Glycerine" Hair Tonic.

The proper treatment and care for the hair is very important. The tendency to baldness seems to be on the increase, but there is no need to be bald if you give your hair the proper attention and use "Randolph's Compound Quinine and Glycerine" Hair Tonic.

By imparting vitality to the roots of the hair, it stops it from falling out, irradicates dandruff, assures the continued growth and prevents baldness and final loss. It is richly perfumed and is an elegant dressing for the hair. Prepared either with or without oil—oil for dry hair and without oil for oily hair.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The Park Avenue Baptist church will resume the publication of its weekly bulletin October 1.

Commencing Sunday night, Rev. E. E. Roberson, pastor of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, will conduct special services.

Under the auspices of the Epworth League of the First M. E. church the first fall social will be held in Vincent chapel Friday night.

The Ebenezer Baptist Sunday-school will hold a lawn party Thursday night at 8 o'clock on the church lawn, 602 East Third street.

The vested choir of the First M. E. church will give its first musical service of the season on Sunday night. Several special selections will be rendered.

Rally day exercises will be held at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church Sunday at 12 o'clock noon under the auspices of the Sunday-school.

Friday night the Young People's Association of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church will begin its study in mission classes. All persons interested are invited.

The big meeting at Concert Park next Sunday will be the last open-air gathering of the year by the Y. M. C. A. F. H. Jacobs, the singing evangelist, will be the speaker.

Dalzell Schoonmaker, of this city, who has been working among the mountaineers of North Carolina, will tell of his work at a meeting to be held at Warren chapel tonight at 8 o'clock. The public is invited.

Rev. Charles Fountain, of West Seventh street, has returned to Crozer Theological Seminary, Chester, Pa., to complete his preparation for the ministry. During the past summer he was engaged in mission work.

The members of the Women's Home Missionary Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church are spending the day at the home of Mrs. Charles F. Dayton, New Market, preparing a barrel to be sent to a western missionary.

The Men's Association of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church is arranging for the opening of the fall season with an entertainment to be given at the church on Thursday night, October 11. Robert Randall Diehl, an elocutionist, and other talent will appear.

The Epworth League, Elizabeth District group four, will hold a rally in the M. E. church, Somerville, tomorrow night. Rev. F. C. Baldwin, of Calvary M. E. church, East Orange, will make the address. The local M. E. churches will send large representations.

The music at the last of the open-air meetings of the Y. M. C. A. at Concert Park Sunday afternoon will be of an unusual nature. In addition to the Y. M. C. A. orchestra, there will be a large mixed chorus choir. F. H. Jacobs, the singing evangelist, will speak, and he is a man who knows how to get the most out of musical arrangements of that sort.

JAMES MARTIN TO BECOME A BENEDICT.

Assistant Postmaster to Take a Bride at Somerville Tomorrow.

Announcement is made of the approaching marriage of James Alfred Martin, of Westervelt avenue, and Miss Emilie L. Moser, formerly of this city, but now of Somerville. The wedding will take place tomorrow at the home of the bride.

Mr. Martin, who is now the assistant to Postmaster Elias H. Bird, is well known here, having been identified with public affairs for many years. He is the son of the late Dr. Martin, who for many years was one of Plainfield's leading physicians. For several years he was a member of the fire department, holding the position of assistant chief. Later he was elected tax collector succeeding Elias H. Bird in that office. He afterwards returned to the fire department and when Mr. Bird was appointed postmaster he made Mr. Martin his assistant to succeed John Whitenack. The couple will take up their residence in Westervelt avenue, after their marriage.

Will Lay Corner Stone.

The laying of the corner-stone of the new Warren chapel will take place at Watchung and Fairview avenues, Thursday night at 6 o'clock. Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, will preside, and Rev. J. O. McKelvey, pastor of the chapel, will lay the corner-stone. The address will be delivered by Mr. McKelvey's father, Rev. Alexander McKelvey, of Boonton, Morris county. The public is invited to attend.

Doctors in Patrick Case.

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 25.—Nearly 3,500 physicians of the State, representing 551 cities and towns, and including some of the best known in the profession, are signers of a petition presented to Governor Higgins yesterday in behalf of Albert T. Patrick, the lawyer, convicted and under sentence of death since 1901 for the murder of the aged Texan millionaire, William Marsh Rice, in September, 1900.

Death of an Infant.

Margaret McInery, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank McInery, of 516 West Fifth street, died yesterday from an attack of erysipelas. The funeral and burial in St. Mary's cemetery was held this moring.

Saloons Shut Up.

Carrying out the law, Chief Kiely served notice on all saloon keepers this morning that their places must be closed during the polling hours. They will be allowed to reopen at 9 o'clock.

Register and Vote.

All voters in Plainfield can both register and vote at the primaries today. The ruling has been made by Corporation Counsel Marsh and has been adopted by the election officials.

WILL SUE RECORD.

Col. Dickinson Claims New Idea Man Libelled Him.

Jersey City, Sept. 25.—Colonel Samuel D. Dickinson, secretary of State and the Republican leader of Hudson county, has retained Prosecutor of the Pleas W. H. Spear to begin suit against George L. Record and certain newspapers for publishing an alleged libellous speech which Record delivered Wednesday night.

City Collector Edward Fry is also threatened with a suit by City Clerk George M. McCarthy. Fry is quoted in a local newspaper interview as saying that McCarthy held back the primary ballots from the printer, intimating that it had been done for the purpose of preventing the New Idea advocates from attacking the validity of the ballots of the Republican organization.

Charles Arnold a Local Visitor.

Charles Arnold, a former resident of Plainfield, but now of Milwaukee, Wis., in company with Mrs. Arnold, came to Plainfield Saturday for a visit with his niece, Mrs. C. E. Varian, of East Ninth street. Mr. Arnold is vice president of one of Milwaukee's largest banks and is numbered among the best known bankers in the middle west. His personal office staff comprises fifty-four men. He is a brother to William F. Arnold, cashier of the City National Bank, and James K. Arnold, of the borough.

Rally Day Exercises.

Rally day services under the auspices of the Sunday-school held at the Congregational church, Sunday afternoon, were largely attended. There was a special musical programme including a bass solo by B. F. Tallamy; piano and organ selections by Miss L. B. Morgan and Miss Grace Morgan, while a double quartette from the school led in the singing of hymns. There were four five minute addresses by Alexander Miller, Kenneth Robbie and George P. Fisher.

Big Pottery for Brunswick.

New Brunswick, Sept. 25.—Money has been paid in part for the purchase of a tract of land just outside of this city for the location of a big pottery plant which will shortly be established here. It will be located on the line of the Raritan River Railroad, and it is expected employment will be given to several hundred operatives. The plant will be located close to where several other large industrial establishments are being erected.

Ice Men's Troubles.

A carload of ice consigned to the Plainfield Natural Ice Company, which was due in Plainfield on Friday, did not arrive until Saturday, and then it came over the Lehigh Valley Railroad to South Plainfield, where the company was obliged to go after it. The delay on the road, as well as the time required to go for the ice at South Plainfield, caused a considerable loss, all of which added to the troubles of the ice company in serving the trade on Saturday.

Autos to Get Out Voters.

Instead of hiring carriages to get the voters out, the Colbyites will use more advanced methods today. They have secured the loan of five automobiles for the First ward alone and two in the third. It is possible also they will have others in the Second and Fourth.

YOUR HAT
May Be a Stylish One, But It Makes Trouble.
A man usually buys a hat that's "in style," but the modern hat for men has lots to answer for.
Baldheads are growing more numerous every day. Hats make excellent breeding places for the parasitic germs which sap the life from the roots of the hair.
When your hair begins to fall out and your scalp is full of Dandruff it is a sure sign that these countless germs are busily at work.
There is but one way to overcome the trouble and kill the germs—that way is to apply Newbro's Herpicide to the scalp—it will kill the germs and healthy hair is sure to result.
Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

"The Prince of Pilsen," the tuneful triumph among musical comedies, will be played at the New Plainfield theatre tonight, with Jess Dandy again assuming the role of Hans Wagner, the Cincinnati alderman from over the Rhine. Manager Henry W. Savage in sending the popular Pixley and Luders' musical comedy upon its fifth tour designs to make the season a memorable one and has provided a cast of principals which suggests an unusual measure of excellence. Pauline Guzman will have the part of Mrs. Madison Crocker and has already enacted the wily widow both in this country and in England. Jeanette Bageard, who retired from the company and the stage two seasons ago, has been engaged for Sidonie, the French maid, the part which she created in the original production of this play.

The engagement of Raymond Hitchcock and a notable company of associate players is the attraction which Manager Counihan announces for tomorrow night at the New Plainfield theatre. Mr. Hitchcock will be seen this time in a play which is a distinct departure from the class of vehicle with which he has hitherto been identified. The new play is by the well-known war-correspondent and dramatist, Richard Harding Davis, and possesses the unique cognomen of "The Galloper," a title by the way, which suggests speed. The scenes are laid in Greece, and the story deals in part with that picturesque and rollicking band of craftsmen who go to the front at war time to describe the progress, pomp and circumstances of war. Mr. Davis' comedy is in three acts, and Mr. Hitchcock assumes the role of Copeland Schuyler, a New Yorker, who, through certain complications volunteers to act as a genuine war-correspondent where numerous comic mishaps befall him.

Coming to the New Plainfield theatre on Thursday afternoon and night are Joe Morris and a merry company of players in the musical farce "Lovers and Lunatics." The scenes are laid at the Dinkelspiel Manor adjoining a lunatic asylum. Heinrich Dinkelspiel, believing his end is near, sends for his nephew and agrees to make him his heir, provided he marries his ward, but as is common with nephews, he has married a few days previous and does not care to become a bigamist. The ward comes to the rescue and poses as the wife. Then the ward's real lover comes and mistakes the manor for the asylum, and there are warm times for a while but things end peacefully, of course, by the ward and her sweetheart getting married. Numerous catchy musical numbers have been introduced, giving opportunity for a pretty chorus to show their ability.

Blanche Ring scored an enormous hit at the Garrick theatre, Philadelphia, in her premiere performances of "Miss Dolly Dollars.' This musical comedy is generally credited with being the masterpiece of its creators, Harry B. Smith and Victor Herbert. It was seen last season with Lulu Glaser in the title role and was one of the biggest successes on the road. This season Mr. Dillingham has not only changed the star but has had the piece practically re-written to meet the new star's requirements. It is the general opinion of the critics of Philadelphia that the work has been extremely well done and that the production is now very much superior to last season's. As for the star herself, the critics are almost exaggeratively enthusiastic. It is well known that as a singer of songs Blanche Ring has had the greatest success of all American singers. She possesses more than all others, that peculiar faculty of placing her audiences instantly en rapport and it is the usual thing for audiences to join her in singing the choruses of her songs. This has been accomplished occasionally by other singers but usually only after the most persistent urging. She will be seen here in "Miss Dolly Dollars' at the New Plainfield theatre on Friday night.

Nat M. Wills, who is starring in a new musical comedy by Mark E. Swan called "A Lucky Dog," does not belie the name this season because it's the best musical play he has ever been seen in and the utmost capacities of theatres where he plays is taxed at every performance. The play is funny, the music bright and catchy songs predominate, while Broadhurst and Currie have surrounded Wills with a company of exceptional merit and a chorus of pretty girls who can sing and dance "to beat the band." It will be at the New Plainfield theatre on October 12.

No More Hookey for Willie.

Willie Sullivan, a ten-year-old pupil of St. Mary's parochial school, was brought before Judge Runyon yesterday morning on a charge of truancy. Willie weepingly promised to stop playing hookey and the magistrate gave him a chance to reform.

Easy on Engi.

John Engi, a New Market laborer, was released under suspended sentence yesterday when arraigned before Judge Runyon on a charge of drunkenness. It was his first jag in two years, and his employer said nice things of him.

Studying Local Methods.

George M. Ellis, superintendent of the Ocean City, N. J., High School, visited the city High School yesterday, studying the methods in the different departments.

RED LETTER DAY

WEDNESDAY SEPTEMBER 26 — 10 STAMPS FREE To Each Adult

COLLECTORS of "S. & H." Green Trading Stamps will doubtless be pleased to learn that a "Red Letter Day" has been announced for Sept. 26th. We are prompted to do this because in some quarters the variety and quality of our premiums is not fairly understood. No argument equals a material demonstration. Ten stamps FREE on "Red Letter Day" is the inducement we offer for the privilege of showing what you actually get as premiums for S. & H. GREEN TRADING STAMPS.

Come and judge for yourself on Wednesday, September 26.

Preferably no books will be redeemed on Sept. 26. This will enable attendants to devote their entire time to exhibiting the merchandise

GOLF.

Charles A. Stover, who holds the lead for the Golf Committee cup at the Plainfield Country Club with 10¾ points, is now closely followed by Arthur Murphy, who now has 10½ points. Mr. Stover has not advanced his position much of late and unless he gets busy he is likely to be overtaken by other ambitious players. Dudley H. Barrows is in third position with 9¼ points. The standing for the cup up to and including last Saturday is as follows:

C. A. Stover, 10¾; A. Murphy, 10½; D. H. Barrows, 9¼; R. Abbott, 9; E. A. Stevenson, 8; H. W. Beebe, 8; S. H. Patterson, 7½; C. B. Morgan, 7½; F. C. Talmadge, 6½; W. D. Riggs, 6½; E. J. FREEHOLDERS GIVE PRIVILEGE TO 'PHONE CO.

Permit to Run Four Heavy Cables Across Elm Street Bridge.

The committees from the Boards of Freeholders of Union and Somerset counties met yesterday at the Elm street bridge to consider the application of the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company for permission to run four telephone cables across the bridge. The permission was granted under the conditions that the company pay one-third of the cost of painting the bridge whenever it needs it, that it will remove the cables within ten days, if necessary, to make repairs or any changes in the structure.

The company also paid each county $30 for the expenses of holding the meeting. These four cables weigh 2,500 pounds, considered a heavy weight to place on the bridge and the freeholders desired to protect the interest of the counties as far as possible.

Funeral of Alexander Brown.

The funeral of Alexander Brown, who died Saturday after a long illness, was held at his late home on East Front street, yesterday afternoon. It was conducted by Rev. A. C. McCrea and was attended by a large gathering of relatives and friends. Interment was made in Hillside cemetery, the pall bearers being four members of Perseverance lodge, No. 74, K. of P., George Cark, Thos. Osment, Robert Jahn and William Mills.

Repairing West End Thoroughfares.

Street Commissioner Gavett has made arrangements with the Public Service Corporation to take all the dirt thrown out by the company while making its street improvements in this city and he is using it to fill in certain streets, including West Front street, west of Grant avenue and West End avenue.

Knock Colby Leader.

Circulars declaring that W. N. Runyon has not paid his taxes for three years were scattered about Elizabeth, this city and other parts of the county this morning. The local leaders of the regular forces repudiate the circular and emphatically declare their disapproval of it. Its source is unknown.

Indebtedness Is Now $952.92.

By earnest and persistent effort the members of St. Stephen's church has reduced the indebtedness on its parish house to $952.92. The original cost of the house was $5,000. Active preparations are now underway to completely furnish the house and make some needed improvements.

An Approaching Marriage.

Announcement has been made of the approaching marriage of Miss Mary E. Solradl, of West Seventh street, and Thomas E. Butler, of Plainfield avenue, formerly of Hartford, Conn. It will be celebrated at Elizabeth on October 24.

LAST GLANCE AT PRIMARY FIGHTS IN ESSEX.

Mayor Lentz Confident That Senator Colby Will Be Routed Today.

At the close, last night, of the primary election campaign in Essex county and Newark, the result in both the Republican and Democratic fights was in doubt, with chances favoring a victory for the Republican machine and a defeat for the Democratic machine on the Newark mayoralty fight.

In a statement yesterday, Gardner Colby, chairman of the "New Idea" Republican Executive Committee, expressed confidence that victory for the reformers will result tonight.

Major Carl Lentz, who is directing a quiet fight for the "regular" candidates, declined to discuss the situation. He contented himself with saying that today's fight will determine which wing of the Republican party will dominate. Men close to Lentz declare that the old-time leader is in complacent mood and quite certain that the Colby forces will fail to repeat their victory of last year.

The liquor men of Essex county issued yesterday an appeal "to all the citizens of Essex county who believe in fair play and clean politics." It contained a copy of a resolution adopted by the Liquor Dealers' Protective Association calling on "all liquor dealers, their friends and patrons to aid us in defeating the Colby or "New Idea" candidates, as the sentiments of their faction are considered inimical to the personal liberty of the masses and to our vocation."

The close of the Democratic mayoralty fight left Edward M. Waldron apparently with a lead over all his opponents, including Former Sheriff Jacob Haussling, the machine's choice; Joshua Brierley and John F. Sinnott.

ATTORNEY-GENERAL STILL IS AFTER G. L. RECORD.

At Investigation of Riparian Board He Brings Out Counsel's Inconsistencies.

Trenton, N. J., Sept. 25.—Attorney-General McCarter, at the resumption yesterday of the investigation of the Riparian Board, strongly arraigned George L. Record, bringing into the limelight the alleged inconsistencies of Record while he was counsel for the Riparian Board.

William Cloke was examined on all the details of grants since he has been a member of the board. His lack of memory was a source of annoyance to the Attorney-General and the committee. He was first examined on the famous Goetchius grant in the Hudson river, and he said that the only thing that induced him to vote for the McGurey grant, which conveyed a part of the Goetchius grant, was Mr. Record's opinion.

He could not explain why grants were made on the Shrewsbury river in one spot for 17½ cents per front foot and in the middle of the stream at the same point for $2.50 per front foot, other than to protect the shore lands. He was also unable to explain why the prices for grants on the Hudson river varied, as Mr. McCarter termed it, from mole hills to mountains.

Mr. Cloke seemed to put all the tantalizing questions up to Mr. Record and those which he should have answered he quietly said Secretary Payne could tell about.

RESCUED FROM VIOLENCE.

Man Charged With an Attack on a Demented Girl.

Peter Dailey, twenty-nine, living at Kearny, was rescued yesterday from angry residents at North Arlington Borough by Marshal Reippe after Dailey had made an attack on Lizzie Ryan, a demented girl about nineteen years old.

The girl was on her way home with groceries when Dailey enticed her into the woods. He choked her when she fought him, but her screams attracted the attention of Councilman Edward O'Hara and the Marshal. Mayor Barliss, in committing Dailey to the Hackensack jail, said he could hardly keep his hands off the prisoner, whom he termed a brutal fiend.

"WASHERLADY'S" UNION.

Organization Has Formulated a Copper-Fastened Set of Rules.

A "Washerlady's" Union is the latest in New Brunswick. The organization has not a charter, but its members are oath-bound. They know what their rights are and they are getting them. The rules of the union, summarized, are:

Work starts at 8:30; day ends at 5 p. m. No overtime allowed. One hour at noon for dinner, to be supplied by the employer. Employer must have everything ready on arrival of washerlady—soap, tubs, boiler, etc. Clothes must be put in soak the night before, when the family returns from church, so that they may be easy to wash Monday. Wages $1.25 per day.

SOMERSET COURT BUSY

Grand Jury Sworn and Charge is Delivered By Justice A. G. Garretson.

NEW LIQUOR LICENSES

Rule Granted for Third Trial of Jacob Flomerfelt—Lanehart Will Case Up.

The September term of the Somerset county courts, which opened yesterday at Somerville, was held in the chapel of the First Reformed church, the old court house being ready to be torn down. Justice Abram Q. Garretson presided. Judge Schenck sat beside him.

The following Grand Jury was sworn: C. Ledyard Blair, William D. VanDerbeck, Alfred B. Elbb, Frank A. Ballentine, Samuel B. Opie, William V. D. Jelliffe, John F. Schmadeke, Frank S. Vanderveer, Abram A. Amerman, Selah Schoonmaker, Harry A. Smith, Woolsey H. Alpaugh, William M. Staats, John E. Anderson, William H. Schultz, Clayton B. Allshouse, Harrison Codington, William H. Coombs, Elston M. French, John E. Flammer, Frederick Kirch, Henry Lockwood, Charles N. Hoagland, Henry J. Garretson.

The following licenses for hotels were granted: Frank J. Kalt, Bernardsville; Oscar Vleit, Eladstone; Thomas Howard, Peapack; John Maurer, Somerville; John Burns, Raritan; John Cognassola, Raritan; Pafael Pizza, Bound Brook; John Fazekas, Bound Brook; Jonathan H. Taylor, Martinsville; A. R. Holcombe, Raritan; Alfred S. Denise, North Plainfield; D. B. Hoffman, Kingston; Robert B. Beatty, North Branch; Frank Kolt, Mt. Bethel; saloon—William M. Honan, Raritan; wholesale—Jacob Miller, Somerville.

Prosecutor Reger asked for a rule to have a new struck jury drawn for the third trial of Jacob Flomerfelt, charged with manslaughter in the killing of his brother-in-law, Constable Frank D. Cramer, at North Branch Depot. In the first two trials the jury disagreed. Counsel Clark for the defense waived notice and the rule was granted.

In reference to the alleged forged will of the late William Lanehart he charged that the action of the Orphans' Court in throwing out the will drawn by Wm. H. Skillman should not be considered, but the evidence submitted before the jury should be carefully considered.

Pastor Married Five Years.

While the political world was strenuously active, yesterday, Rev. and Mrs. L. R. Howard were quietly observing the fifth anniversary of their marriage. They marked the day by a picnic in the mountains. Mr. and Mrs. Howard were married just before Mr. Howard came here to succeed Rev. G. K. Newell as pastor of Hope chapel.

Miss Edith Cairns, of West Fifth street, has returned from her summer vacation.

Thieves In Dunellen.

Petty thieves broke into three Dunellen houses last night and stole small sums of money, a pair of shoes and some things to eat. They worked in the home of Alvah Gray and in Mrs. Sarah C. Fisher's boarding house, opposite, and in John Fenner's home. The thefts occurred after midnight.

Miss Emma Liewald, of Cushing road, is spending several days with friends in Union Hill.

UTTER FAILURE IN UNION

Colbyites Make a Poor Showing Outside of This City.

ONLY 26 DELEGATES

Get Six In Elizabeth, Two in Summit, Two In Rahway and One In New Providence—There Are 140 in County.

Outside of Plainfield, the Colbyites made a poor showing in the county.

In Elizabeth they elected six delegates to the county convention, two in Rahway, two in Summit and one in New Providence. With the fifteen delegates elected here they have a total of twenty-six votes in the convention. The delegates in Elizabeth come from the Second district of the Tenth ward, and the third district of the Twelfth ward, three from each.

Two Colbyite candidates for the councilmanic nominee and a candidate for the Board of Education nomination were elected over regulars. In some of the wards won by the regulars the Colbyites made a strong showing. In the Second district of the Ninth ward, for instance, the regulars won by only eleven votes.

The result is not what the county Colbyite leaders hoped for. They looked for a sweep in Summit and a showing in Cranford and Roselle.

Charged With Burglary.

James Harvey, Nat Harvey and Azel Cuff, all colored, were arrested this morning on a charge of burglary preferred by Richards & Harvey, colored tailors, who accuse them of stealing $50 worth of clothes from their place on Central avenue. Justice Mosher remanded them until tomorrow after they had pleaded not guilty.

—Another big peach special at Neuman Brothers' tomorrow. 150 baskets of choice white fruit will be sold at ridiculously low prices.

JAMES BOY CONFESSES TO ROBBING BABY CAMP

WILL PROBABLY GO BEFORE SOMERSET GRAND JURY TODAY.

William James, a thirteen-year-old borough boy, was arrested at Somerville by Chief Marshal Weiss, yesterday, charged with being the vandal who broke into the King's Daughters baby camp in Johnson's drive and caused damage to the extent of $200. He was brought at once to North Plainfield and last night was arraigned before Justice Mundy on a technical complaint of stealing a revolver and tools from the place preferred by Mrs. Emily Faber. He admitted his guilt and was held for the grand jury. Chief Weiss took him to Somerville today and will make an effort to have him brought before that body at once, the September term of court now being on.

Young James was suspected soon after the damage was discovered and he further directed attention to himself by departing for Somerville to "visit" an aunt. Chief Weiss went to the county seat yesterday morning and soon located the boy in company with others playing in a field. He noticed the officer coming and attempted to get away but was quickly overhauled.

James figured in a sensational police case several years ago when he shot Millie James, a playmate, with a flobert rifle, inflicting a wound from which she died. He was arrested but nothing was done to him because of his age. Following the vandalism at the baby camp it is alleged that he stole $2 from a borough iceman and in this way secured the money to get to Somerville. He is considered incorrigible otherwise the King's Daughters would not press any charge against him.

FANWOOD TOWNSHIP PRIMARIES QUIET

ONLY 49 BALLOTS FOR REPUBLICANS AND 12 FOR DEMOCRATS.

The primary election passed off very quietly in Fanwood township, only sixty-one ballots being cast. Forty-nine were for the Republican ticket and twelve for the Democratic. The voters of both parties seemed to be satisfied with the tickets named at the caucus as but little cutting was done on either side.

The Republicans had no candidate for collector and as John Z. Hetfield, the Democratic nominee, received four votes, he was endorsed by the Republicans. This insures his election as his name will appear on both tickets. The Democratic nomination for town committee fell to Richard Peniston, who received four votes. Following are the two tickets named to be voted on at the November election:

Republican—For delegates to the Congressional convention, Fifth district, Lewis W. Miller and Edward L. Hand; delegates to the county convention, Lewis W. Miller and Edward L. Hand; delegates to freeholders' convention, Lewis W. Miller and Edward L. Hand; for member of the county committee, George H. Johnston; for township committee, three years, Ira G. Walker; for assessor, three years, George H. Johnston; for collector, three years, John Z. Hetfield; for constable, three years, William Spicer; for surveyors of highway, one year, Andrew Schaffer and William Hull; for poundkeepers, one year, S. F. Sabocher and John Mair; appropriations, police, $100; fire department, $200; repair of roads, $2,250; repair of sidewalks, $200; support of poor, $400.

Democratic — For delegates to county convention, Frederick Clark; for delegate to freeholders' convention, Charles H. French; for member of county committee, Theodore Bruchmann; for township committee, three years, Richard Peniston; for assessor, three years, Charles H. French; for collector, three years, John Z. Hatfield; for constable, three years, Horace G. Pangborn; for surveyors of highways, one year, Samuel F. Lee and George W. Scudder; for poundkeepers, one year, Albert Ryno and William H. Lee; appropriations, police, $200; fire department, $100; roads, $2,250; sidewalks, $200; support of poor, $400.

North Plainfield Township.

At the primary election in North Plainfield township the Democrats endorsed the following ticket: For delegate to the Congressional convention, Francis E. Bodin; for freeholder, three years, William Demler; for tax collector, three years, Francis E. Bodin; for committeeman, Albert Brokaw. There was a big turnout of voters and the contest for freeholder was a decided victory for Demler.

REGULARS SWEEP STATE

Colbyites Lose All But One of Ten Counties They Tried to Carry.

GET ONLY BERGEN

Essex, Hudson and Union, Where the Greatest Effort Was Made, Remain Loyal to the Organization.

Returns from the primary elections held throughout New Jersey yesterday indicate the defeat of the "new idea" movement in all but one of the ten counties in which the movement was introduced. The surviving county is Bergen.

The re-election of United States Senator Dryden seems assured.

Followers of Mayor Mark M. Fagan and Corporation Counsel George L. Record, leaders of the "new idea" cult in Hudson county, were defeated in Jersey City and the rest of Hudson county by the regular Republican machine, led by Secretary of State Samuel D. Dickinson.

George L. Record, candidate for United States Senator, was defeated as a delegate to the county convention in the Second election district of the Eighth ward, Jersey City, in which he lives. The Dickinson ticket gains three delegates to the Hudson County Convention by the victory in that district. The Twelfth district of the Eighth ward adjacent to the Second was carried by the Dickinson's by fifteen votes, gaining them two delegates, and they won three delegates to the county convention in the Third district of the Eighth, but lost the three delegates to the Congressional convenion.

Mr. Record, early this morning, said: "We have made the best fight that we were able to and at this hour, 2 o'clock a. m., it would seem that we have been defeated all along the line, except in Bergen county. The result in Jersey City is so close that it will probably result in the holding of two conventions. As soon as we get an opportunity to study the details of the fight we will try and ascertain the cause of our failure. This battle appears to be lost, but is not decisive. The real fight comes next year in the selection of a Governor. The thing to do now is to commence at once to organize for that fight, and to endeavor to profit by our mistakes."

Essex county is solid for the regular organization.

In Bayonne the Dickinson followers carried everything. In the Second ward, the only one in which the Colbyites were represented, their slate being headed by Max L. Solinsky, the "regulars" also swept the board. The poll was light.

Morris county and Middlesex county too are solodily against the Colbyites. So is Camden county.

Burlington county's "new idea" adherents, led by General E. Burd Grubb, were defeated in their battle against the Republican machine.

The "new idea's" candidates for State Senator was George C. Wildes, of New Egypt, a former Assemblyman and well-to-do farmer, and the "new idea" candidates for Assembly were Dr. E. S. Adams, former Mayor of Beverly, and Frank A. Tiohenor.

The "regulars'" candidates were the Speaker of the House, Samuel K. Robbins, for State Senator, and for Assemblyman John S. Irick, a present Assemblyman, and Griffith W. Lewis. Auditor William W. Worrell will be renominated.

There will be a hot fight among the delegates in convention Saturday to nominate a surrogate, there being several candidates. The Colbyites will get nothing.

"The Galloper" Tonight.

"The Galloper," a new play by Richard Harding Davis, with Raymond Hitchcock as the star, will be the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre tonight. "The Galloper" is a farcical story of the Graeco-Turkish war in which Mr. Hitchcock scored one of the New York hits last winter when the play enjoyed a long season at the Garden theatre. Mr. Hitchcock's drolleries have delighted thousands who have seen him in "The Yankee Consul" and "King Dodo," and Henry W. Savage, under whose management the production is made has engaged a company of unusual strength for the Davis play.

Enright Surrenders Himself.

"Johnnie" Enright, of Raritan, the star shortstop of the West End baseball team, of Somerville, arrived home yesterday from his vacation spent in Atlantic City and New York and at once came here and gave himself up to the authorities to answer to a charge of atrocious assault on James Donnelly, a Public Service Corporation motorman, about three weeks ago. Detective Totten arrested Enright and Justice Sutphen held him in $300 bail for the action of the Grand Jury now in session.

COLBYITES ELECT PISCATAWAY DELEGATES

FORDYCE MEN WIN CLOSE CONTEST—CORIELL DEFEATS WHITFORD.

The Fordyce candidates for the county convention won in Piscataway, yesterday, defeating the regulars by six votes. They are Henry Boice and Rev. H. N. Jordan; their opponents were George S. Bunting and John M. Dayton. A total of 145 ballots were cast.

William La Rue was nominated for collector by the Republicans, and G. W. Coriell defeated Dr. M. J. Whitford for the assessorship nomination. William Hamilton was named for town committee. R. L. Pierce and Arthur Tappen were chosen delegates to the congressional convention.

The Democrats had no contests and only twenty ballots were cast. Joseph Kelly was named for the collector; F. O. Nelson for assessor, and John Geary for the town committee.

LONE COLBYITE IN DUNELLEN DEFEATED

JUDGE CAMPBELL LOST HIS FIGHT IN THE DEMOCRATIC CAMP.

In the principal contest at the primary in Dunellen, John W. Moynihan defeated Recorder David S. Campbell for the Democratic nomination for collector by 53 votes to 44. Campbell received twelve votes on the Republican ticket and he is trying to figure how he can apply them to the Democratic tally. J. H. L. Peters was renominated for assessor. C. E. Richards and Charles Starker were nominated for Council for three years, and J. J. Bolard defeated G. Sumner Smith for the one-year term nomination. J. Y. Wilson and J. H. L. Peters were elected delegates to the congressional convention; Theodore Apgar and Lewis Schneider were elected delegates to the county convention.

The Colbyites had one representative on the Republican ticket, Samuel B. Merrell, candidate for delegate to the county convention. He was left behind by A. S. Coriell and J. N. Apgar, the other candidates. R. J. Fisher was nominated for assessor and I. J. Stites for collector.

Charles A. Coriell, Jr., and John Fedderman were named for the long-term in the Council and Lewis Churchill is the short-term nominee. Dr. P. W. Brakeley and W. S. Frederick were named as delegates to the congressional convention.

COUNCILMAN WEDS.

Frank C. Krewson, of the Borough, Makes Announcement.

Friends of Councilman Frank C. Krewson, of the borough, received cards today announcing his marriage, the bride having been Mrs. May Louise Patrick, of Somerset street. The ceremony was performed in New York on September 19 and was witnessed only by immediate relatives. The announcement came as a great surprise to the friends of both.

Following the wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Krewson enjoyed a trip but have now returned and are now making their home on Somerset street.

RETURN 4 COUNCILMEN

Runyon Gets 15 of 27 Delegates to County Convention; Fisk 16 of 27 to City Convention—Many Big Surprises.

Although it had been predicted that the Colbyites would carry the Second and Third wards, the big vote rolled up by them in every single district of the city was as complete a surprise to the "new idea" enthusiast as it was to the veteran organization politician.

Here is the tale in brief:

The Colbyites won the county convention delegation. They have fifteen of the twenty-seven delegates.

The regulars won the city convention delegation. They have sixteen of the twenty-seven delegates.

Former Mayor Charles J. Fisk's name will be presented at the city convention Saturday night for mayor and he will be nominated.

Councilmen Hibbard and Tyler, Colbyites, were renominated in the Second and Third wards respectively. Councilmen Tolles and Frank Randolph, in the First and Fourth wards, also won out.

Judge Runyon's name will be presented by the Plainfield delegation at the county convention for an Assembly nomination, he being one of the three candidates of the Colbyites for that office. He will not be nominated.

As the city convention will be regular S. P. T. Wilbur and J. Hervey Diane will be named as freeholders.

City Clerk James T. McMurray won the day in the First ward where he lives. W. L. Hetfield, Jr., did good work in the Second district of that ward.

In the Second ward, where W. N. Runyon lives, the Colbyites made a clean sweep. State Supervisor of Roads R. A. Meeker, the regular candidate for the Commen Council, was badly defeated. Hibbard was instrumental in piling up the big vote against the organization there.

Councilman Tyler made a splendid showing in the Third ward where he was renominated, easily defeating Joseph Shellabarger, the regular. C. J. Fisk carried his own district. Runyon also won for himself in that district.

In the Fourth ward the claim of the Colbyites that the machinists were solidly for their ticket appeared to be correct for the contest was uncomfortably close for both sides. Councilman Randolph won by less than 90 votes over Mr. Penny.

Factory Inspector Andrew McCardell lost his own district, the third, which seemed to stagger the organization men. The result there gave the Colbyites control of the county delegation.

City Judge Runyon, the local Colbyite assembly candidate, won the day, fifteen of the twenty-seven delegates elected to the county convention being "new idea" men. Six of these are from the Second ward, six from the Third and the other three from Factory Inspector Andrew McCardell's own district in the Fourth ward. He received 26 delegates in the entire county out of a total of 140.

The Colbyites also got some representation on the county committee, R. E. Hall and Arthur Murphy in the Second, and D. W. Taylor in the Third, being successful.

The "new idea" wing of the party also secured representation on the city committee, F. W. Hanaford, E. E. Iremonger and H. C. Tracy in the Second ward, and J. Stephen Higham and G. W. V. Moy in the Third ward being winners. The regulars elected seven members and the Colbyites five.

Councilman Ralph I. Tolles' majarity over I. B. Hill for Common Council in the First ward was 136; Councilman H. D. Hibbard's majority over R. A. Meeker in the Second was 193; Councilman William S. Tyler's over Joseph A. Shellabarger 116, and Councilman Frank Randolph over James Penny 87.

So far as the municipal government is concerned, there will be no change for the returns indicate that

SALE OF MILLINERY AND RUGS ON SECOND FLOOR.

We are ready to show Imported Models for the trade, including designs from our own workroom and exhibiting conceptions of the very latest creations. Among them: "The M'lle Modiste," a picture Hat of Paon Velvet having large shadowing lines, caught up at the side with two large white Plumes, finished off with a large Chou of Black Moire Ribbon. Also showing the latest styles in small Turbans. Our first season's great success establishes us as having the leading Millinery Department in Plainfield.

Your are cordially invited to attend the Opening on second floor—(elevator service)—where competent salespeople will be pleased to serve you.

(See Display in Windows.) PERSIAN RUG SALE. (See Display in Windows.)

Under the direction of Mr. Serges Y. Hosanna, of Urmia, Persia, who brings with him a big line of various sizes in the Genuine Persian Rugs. Mr. Hosanna was in Plainfield last year and did a large business, all who bought of him were much pleased with their purchases, as his prices are much less than what would be charged in New York.

These goods will be on sale on our second floor, where we have opened a new Rug and Drapery Department. Mr. Hosanna will be glad to show these Rugs and give all information desired. Prices range from $10 to $300.

STATE TO SUE TO NULLIFY THE GOETCHIUS GRANT.

It Was Made, According to Evidence, On An Opinion by George L. Record.

Trenton, Sept. 26.—Attorney-General McCarter sprung a sensation at the continuation Monday at the State House of the Riparian investigation. Through the evidence of Willard C. Fisk, a former member of the State Riparian Commission, who resumed his testimony, it came out that in 1874 a Riparian lease was granted covering the same lands which later were granted by the State Commission as the Goetchius grant.

This Goetchius grant is one of the famous ones now under investigation. Though the land was very valuable, the grant was made at the nominal price of $50 a foot. This, the evidence shows, was done on the opinion of George L. Record, then counsel of the State Commission, and who now is one of the heads of the reform movement in this State.

According to the evidence yesterday a lease of this property was made to other persons in 1874. Mr. Fisk insisted that the commission had absolutely no knowledge of this lease when the land was granted to Goetchius.

Attorney General McCarter informed the investigating committee that following the disclosures of the investigation he had decided to institute a suit in the State courts to nullify the Goetchius grant.

SMASHED WOMAN'S HEADSTONE.

Well Dressed Young Vandals Arrested on the Estate of J. B. Duke.

Somerville, Sept. 26.—Two well dressed young men, who gave their names as John Brechtman and Edward Clarenceman, of Phillipsburg, were captured on the estate of James B. Duke near here and placed in the Somerset county jail Saturday by County Detective Totten, charged with vandalism. Mr. Duke recently threatened to close his two thousand acre park to the public because of the numerous depredations of vandals.

John Hazelton, a machinist of this place, was walking in a cemetery just outside of the Duke park when he saw two men demolish a marble headstone erected to the memory of Mrs. William H. Vactor. He attempted to capture the vandals, who fled into Duke's park. Hazelton notified Detective Totten, who ran the men down in an automobile. They were taken before Justice Kitchen, where Hazelton identified them as the men who broke the headstone. Justice Kitchen committed them to the county jail to await the action of the Grand Jury.

Hargraves Railroad Show.

All amusement lovers will be interested in the announcement that the famous Thomas Hargreaves railroad shows will exhibit in this city on the Carnival grounds on the afternoon and evening of October 2d. The event will be more than an ordinary holiday; it will be the holiday of holidays. The Hargreaves circus presents decidedly the largest and greatest programme of original, unique and thrilling feature acts to be seen today in circusdom. Nothing like this display was ever before seen in all the world. Whatever your arenic preference you will find plenty to interest, astonish and edify you in the great Hargreaves circus. There are thrilling, blood-curdling aerial acts, in which you every moment expect to see the performer plunged to death; artistic and difficult equestrian performances; incredible athletic and acrobatic acts; phenomenal wild animal exhibitions; wild chariot, jockey and hurdle races, and funny frolics by the clowns. The quantity and quality of the features really stagger human comprehension. It matters not how big these shows may have been in years gone by, this season they completely overwhelm all past efforts. The Hargreaves circus has enjoyed a phenomenal growth solely because of the fact that the proprietor has always aimed to give the amusement public in the very best. The great show comes to Plainfield this year wonderfully in every department. Several notable additions have been made to the already large menagerie, and the seating capacity of the "big top" has been increased to 10,000. You should watch for the big free street parade at 10 a. m. on the above day and date. This pageant is said to be one of the most mammoth and majestic displays of the kind on earth.

ICE MAILED TO PRESIDENT.

Washington, Sept. 26.—Somebody sent President Roosevelt a ten-pound block of ice through the mails, but it was not delivered, having melted before it got here.

The empty package arrived, and Postmaster Harris, of Baltimore, the city where the ice was mailed was called on to explain.

He reports that a Baltimore mail collector found the package on top of the letter box in front of the Joel Gutman Company, on North Howard street. There was not much but water in it when it left Baltimore.

Lawson to Renew Fight.

Boston, Sept. 26.—E. A. McSweeney, secretary to Thomas W. Lawson, said yesterday that Mr. Lawson will resume his activity in the stock market and his attacks on "the system" on October 1. He has no intention of going abroad.

Sale of Lands for Unpaid Taxes

Collector's Office, City of Plainfield, New Jersey.

Notice is hereby given that the subscriber, the Collector of the City of Plainfield, New Jersey, pursuant to the authority of the statute in such case made and provided, will on Thursday, the 25th day of October, 1906, at two o'clock in the afternoon of that day, at the said Collector's office, No. 151 North Avenue, in said city, expose for sale and sell the several tracts or parcels of land hereinafter specified, or any part or parts thereof severally sufficient for the purpose, on which taxes for the year nineteen hundred and five remain in arrears, to such person or persons as will purchase the same for the shortest term and pay the tax lien thereon, including interest and costs of sale, or in fee where no one will bid for a shorter term.

This sale is made under the provisions of the act of the Legislature of this State, entitled: "An Act for the assessment and collection of taxes," approved April 8, 1903, and acts amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto.

Further particulars of the land to be sold, as shown on the City records, may be obtained at the office of the subscriber any week day prior to the day of sale, between the hours of 9 a. m. and 4 p. m., except holidays and Saturdays, and on Saturdays between 9 a. m. and 12 noon.

The following is a list of the several tracts and parcels of lands to be sold, which shows the names of the delinquents, the supposed owners thereof as the names of the delinquent owners appear on the books of the taxing district, together with a statement of the wards of the city wherein said lands are respectively situated, and the street in which each lot is situated, the block and lot number of each lot as they appear on the Official Assessment Maps of the City of Plainfield, on file in the office of the City Collector, and the amount due from each of the said lots respectively. To the amount due on each lot and parcel as hereinafter designated, there will be added interest at the rate of ten per centum per annum from the twentieth day of December, 1905, to the day of sale, and the fees provided by said act of the Legislature, viz.: for preparing and publishing notices of sale twenty-five cents for each parcel of land advertised; and for selling twenty-five cents for each parcel sold; and for each certificate of sale, fifty cents, besides necessary disbursements for printing, postage, affidavits and acknowledgements, which are hereby estimated at three dollars for each item of arrearage thereon, and the City Clerk's fee for recording report, ten cents for each parcel of land sold, and all said fees and expenses shall form part of the tax lien and be paid by the purchaser at the tax sale.

IT'S YOUR KIDNEYS.

Don't Mistake the Cause of Your Troubles—A Plainfield Citizen Shows How to Cure Them.

Many people never suspect their kidneys. If suffering from a lame, weak or aching back they think that it is only a muscular weakness; when urinary trouble sets in they think it will soon correct itself. And so it is with all the other symptoms of kidney disorders. That is just where the danger lies. You must cure these troubles or they lead to diabetes or Bright's disease. The best remedy to use is Doan's Kidney Pills. It cures all ills which are caused by weak or diseased kidneys. Plainfield people testify to permanent cures.

John H. Stewart, carpenter, of 413 New street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "Last winter I suffered with severe pains across my kidneys and what is more commonly called backache. When my back hurt the worst cold sweat stood out on me, and if I caught cold it always settled on my kidneys. I go so bad with these troubles that I had to quit work, but though I doctored faithfully, no medicine struck the right spot until I began using Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Randolph's pharmacy. I took in all three boxes and they stopped my many aches

DEATH COMES TO MRS. SIMON A. CRUIKSHANK

HAD BEEN ILL SINCE AUGUST 2 WITH ACUTE BRIGHT'S DISEASE.

Mrs. Simeon A. Cruikshank died last night at her home on Belvidere avenue, following an illness of seven weeks with acute Bright's disease. She returned home on August 2 from a visit and was taken ill at that time, gradually growing worse despite the best medical attention to be obtained. For the past few days she had been sinking rapidly.

Mrs. Cruikshank was the daughter of the late Rev. W. L. Moore, D. D., of New York, and was born at New Brunswick. She had been a resident of this city for years and the Cruikshank home on Belvidere avenue is one of the handsomest in the Netherwood section. Mrs. Cruikshank was a noted horsewoman and she took great interest in the equine shows in this vicinity. Her stable has always contained many head of blooded stock and numbers not a few blue ribbon winners.

Beside her husband Mrs. Cruikshank is survived by two daughters, Mrs. H. Reeve Stockton and Miss Helen Moore Cruikshank. There is one brother, Rev. H. McK. Moore, D. D., of Philadelphia, and Mrs. N. B. Lancaster, of New York, at present on board a steamer returning from Europe.

The funeral will be private.

Mr. Mellick Defends Council.

George P. Mellick was asked by a reporter of The Daily Press this morning, if he intended to reply to an editorial in another paper, yesterday, regarding his "estimate of the legislative capacity" of certain councilmen and he replied "I will not send any letter to that paper on the subject. Certainly it is understood that the body to legislate with success, is the controlling body and therefor it is and has been all this year. The majority of the members of the Council were fearless to work for a good measure and therefore the Council is today constituted so as to legislate as a body for the people's interest and the good of the city."

James Alfred Martin Weds.

A pretty wedding was celebrated at 1 o'clock this afternoon at Somerville, when Miss Emilie Louise Moser became the wife of James Alfred Martin, of this city. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride by Rev. Dr. William Stockton Cranmer, pastor of the First Reformed church, in the presence of only immediate relatives. The bride was attended by Miss Bertha Miller and the best man was John Miller. An elaborate collation was served, after which the couple left for a brief honeymoon trip. On their return they will reside in Plainfield.

Richard Coriell's Funeral.

The funeral of Richard E. Coriell, who died suddenly in Hudson Street Hospital, New York, yesterday, will be held at his late home on Fairview avenue, tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock.

DEMOCRATS IN MIX-UP

Minority Party Puts a Little Life in North Plainfield Primaries.

Over in the borough there was no strife at the primaries so far as the Colby movement was concerned but the Democratic party got up a little contest of its own. The fight was for delegates to the Congressional and county elections, the factions, one being loyal to David J. Carney and headed by Walter Lingarger. They practically split even as the Carneyites won in the First district and the Linbergerites in the Second. The candidates nominated on the Democratic ticket entire were as follows:

First district, for delegates to the Congressional convention, L. W. Hammond and W. S. Juillard; for delegates to the county convention, Michael Keller and Frank Schuck, Jr., for members of the borough council, George W. Bird and W. W. Ludlow; justice of the peace, David D. Smalley.

Second district, for members of the Congressional convention, John M. Lewin and Barzilla R. Moore; for members of the county convention, Stonewall Jackson and W. W. Mills; for members of the borough council, George W. Bird and W. W. Ludlow; justice of the peace, D. D. Smalley.

There was no interest displayed in the election by the Republicans and the following ticket was endorsed:

First district, for members of the Congressional convention, Gifford W. Cooley, W. W. Coriell, I. P. Runyon and Edward Rushmore; for delegates to the county convention, Thomas Doud, A. G. Hooley, C. W. McGee and J. V. E. Vanderhoof; for members of the borough council, M. C. Van Arsdale and Barzilla R. Waldron; for justice of the peace, Abham King.

Second district, for members of the Congressional convention, Robert Clark, Jr., A. E. Giddes, George W. Neff and Edward P. T. Smith; for members of the county convention, A. F. Brokaw, P. A. Emmons, W. C. Smith and L. B. Woolsten, for members of the borough council, M. C. VanArsdale and B. R. Waldron; for justice of the peace, Abram King.

The total votes cast in the two districts were as follows: First district, total votes 155, Republicans 51, Democrats 164. Six Republican votes were rejected and four Democratic. Second district, total votes cast, 176, Republican 70, Democratic 106. There were five Republican votes rejected and one Democratic.

PERSONAL.

Miss Grace McCartney, of Perth Amboy, visited friends here yesterday.

Peter Congdon, of Franklin place, has returned to New York for the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis H. Martin, of Hillside avenue, are home from their summer outing.

Mrs. Ida Hildebrant, of Philipsburg, has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Willard, of West Front street.

Harry Brokaw, formerly of this city, but now of Providence, R. I., is visiting his mother, Mrs. Isaac Brokaw, of this city.

J. D. Macnab, of the Plainfield High School faculty, is able to be out again after a serious illness, and he hopes to resume teaching soon.

Rev. Dr. and Mrs. A. H. Lewis, of West Seventh street, returned yesterday from Watch Hill, R. I., where they spent the summer. Mrs. Lewis remains in about the same condition, still being helpless.

Mr. and Mrs. Willard Martin have returned from their honeymoon spent at Belmar and they will make their home for the winter with the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Garret T. Dunham, of West Front street.

DEMOCRATIC PRIMARIES.

Little Interest Taken But Ticket Is Fixed.

The Democrats took little or no interest in their primaries yesterday, only a handful of votes being cast. J. P. Owens, First ward; P. H. Latourette, Second ward; W. H. Harding, Third ward, and A. H. Lederer, Fourth ward were nominated for the Common Council.

The delegates to the county convention are Jere Callahan, J. P Owens, W. L. Hetfield, Sr., Joseph Harrigan, Frank McCabe, P. McDonough, M. D. O'Keefe, J. F. Sheppard, Ed. McCue, P. Reville, J. F. Casey, A. H. Lederer and A. D. Newman. The delegates to the city convention are W. L. Hetfield, Sr., F. McCabe, Edward Delehanty, Joseph Harrigan, W. H. Harding, F. McInerney, D. A. Galbraith and C. H. Walden.

Rev. A. S. Peck, rector of St. Stephen's church, has recently received several acceptable donations to be used in furnishing the parish house.

Three musicals have been planned by the members of Grace M. E. church. They will be given on October 23, December 11 and January 22.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church, has resumed its meetings for the fall and winter. Plans are being perfected for a successful season.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY

The Presbyterian Y. P. S. C. E. will be represented at the North Jersey Missionary Institute at Jersey City, October 1 to 3, and at the State conference at Millville, October 10 to 12.

Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Linn, and Mrs. William Tash, of Philadelphia, and C. E. Linn, of Wilmington, Del., have been visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. VanAlstine.

W. M. Ostrander has purchased the P. A. Smith farm at Lincoln. It will be developed for building sites, in conjunction with the Smalley farm next to it.

The household goods of Lloyd Gheman have been received from his old home at Reading, Pa., and installed in his flat over Dr. Brakeley's drug store.

The football team will start its season Saturday with a game against a New Brunswick eleven. The players were out for heavy practice last night.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the M. E. church have collected $85 toward the furnishing of the new bathroom at the M. E. parsonage.

Rally day features will mark the prayer meeting at the Presbyterian church tonight. There will be a roll call of the members.

William Herlich and Charles Vail have returned home from a trip through Pennsylvania. They visited the Allentown fair.

M. D. Worley has entered the employ of the National Metallurgic Company, of Newark, as mechanical engineer.

Mr. and Mrs. Luther Mundy have returned from a visit to Mrs. Mundy's brother, Charles Giles, of New York.

G. L. Apgar has had a bathroom put in his house on Front street. B. C. Carpenter did the work.

The full choir is now singing at Holy Innocents' Church as before the vacation season.

Mr. and Mrs. Lindon Apgar have returned from a visit to relatives in Pennsylvania.

Miss Anna Ace has returned from a visit to relatives in East Stroudsburg, Pa.

Miss Alice Apgar will enter the business college at Plainfield October 1.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD

The endorsement by the Republican voters of John Z. Hetfield as nominee for tax collector, at the primary election yesterday, speaks well for Mr. Hetfield's popularity and worth as a township official. The township is Republican by between 40 and 50 majority, but the voters of Fanwood township do not let this interfere with them when casting ballots for township officers.

The bridge over the railroad track, near Sheelen Bros.' store, Fanwood, has been condemned on account of one of the large girder beams being broken. The road has been blocked off until a new girder can be put in.

No new names were added to the registry list at the meeting of the Registry Board yesterday. The last cleanup of voters generally takes place at the last meeting before the annual election.

John M. VanFliet and family, of Plainfield, have rented the Hollingsworth cottage on Front street, the rental being made through the real estate agency of Thomas M. Paff, Sr.

Vincent Gudji and family, who have been spending the summer at the Lord farm in Washington Valley, have returned to New York for the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. L. D. H. Gilmour, who have been residents of the borough for several years, have returned to Newark, their former home.

Mr. and Mrs. John George, of Rahway, were the guests yesterday of Mrs. George's sister, Miss Minnie Squires.

The local ball team play the Clinton Avenue team at Crescent Oval Saturday afternoon.

Fanwood Council, R. A., held its semi-monthly meeting last night in the Library rooms.

A new stoop has been placed in front of Jamison's grocery store.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The Young People's Club wishes to thank the outside talent for the charming manner in which they entertained the audience between the acts in the play last evening. The play was a success in every respect, and netted the club a neat sum, to be appropriated (as has been mentioned before) toward roofing the sheds at the church. A list of subscriptions will be published later. Dancing was enjoyed by all the young people, and the entertainment was voted by all as a grand success.

Prayer meeting this evening at 7:45, topic, "Psalm Seven," led by the pastor.

Mr. and Mrs. Foster visited friends here yesterday.

CHAS. N. FOWLER SUGGESTS REMEDY

TO RELIEVE STRINGENCY IN THE MONEY MARKET.

New York, Sept. 25.—Representative Charles N. Fowler, of New Jersey, in a statement published, discussed at length the causes of the stringency in money which from time to time occurs, and presented suggestions the enactment into law of which would, in his judgment, make impossible the reaccurrence of conditions such as have for the past few weeks prevailed in the money market. Mr. Fowler's remedies are two in number: That the Treasury reserve now held in the Sub-Treasuries be deposited in the national banks, and that the right be granted those institutions to issue cashier checks to an amount equal to one-half of their capital. He says in part:

"On June 1, 1905, the cash holdings of the Treasury were $289,248,071. One year later, on June 1, 1906, they were $316,673,545, or $27,500,000 greater. Ninety days later, on September 1, 1906, they were $346,664,238, or $29,990,693 greater than on June 1, 1906, when the urgent demand for money began, and $42,894,706 greater than on September 1, 1905. Now, if the government should deposit its fund daily with the national banks as it is currently received, precisely as do our States, great cities, giant corporations and business houses generally, this $42,894,706 would be in the banks and furnish the basis of credits ranging from $170,000,000 to $270,000,000.

"The capital of the New York City national banks, included in the New York Clearing-house Association, is $103,650,000. Their present outstanding note circulation is $44,917,000. If this amount should be increased to one-half their capital it would amount to $51,825,000. This would leave a permissible issue of $51,825,000 more before their circulation reached the legal limit of an amount equal to the capital. Now, if the law permitted the New York national banks to issue cashier checks to an amount equal to one-half of their capital, in such denominations as their correspondents desired, and the New York national banks should be called upon this fall to furnish $59,000,000 more of currency than they should receive, as they were last fall, the could pay off five-sixths of this amount, or $50,000,000 in cashier checks, which are nothing more or less than banknotes, credit notes, credit currency, because they would pass without indorsement. This principle has been adopted by practically all the great commercial nations of the world except our own. This transaction would be only a matter of book-keeping, so far as the banks liabilities were concerned. The banks would then have their own checks to redeem instead of redeeming the checks and drafts against deposits made with them."

NEWPORT BILLBOARD POSTERS.

Advertising Sheets Will Hereafter Be Passed Upon by Censorship Board of Women.

Newport, R. I., Sept. 26.—The women members of the Civic League of Newport, in their efforts to preserve the natural beauties of the city, have formed themselves into a board of censors, with the suppression of objectionable billboard posters as their particular object. An advertisement which recently covered nearly every billboard in the city, was considered by the women members of the league to be improper and they demanded that the billposter cover the boards with "paper" which was not objectionable.

The billposter declined to do so until he was assured of the support of the league, the majority of the members of which are wealthy. He was given the necessary promise, and it became known yesterday that an agreement had been entered into whereby a committee of the league would hereafter pass upon all advertising literature before it is posted on the billboards throughout the city.

FAR AND NEAR.

"Painting the town red," a slang phrase to which new point has been humorously given at Worcester in connection with the Conservative color, is referred to by the dictionaries as modern and American, though they offer no explanation of its origin. It is at least a curious coincidence, however, that Shakespeare's Prince Henry says of certain boon companions, "They call drinking deep, dying scarlet." Can "painting red" be descended from this? If the phrase should really be an old one, it might conceivably have some connection with the red lattice, the familiar sign of an alehouse in Shakespeare's day. By "red-latice phrases" Falstaff means just what he should mean in these days by "pot-house language."—London Chronicle.

The latest fashionable disease is the "straw hat headache." Several English doctors have devoted considerable time to the study of this malady and attest that it is a menacing reality. Men who wear straw hats are apt to go through a variety of contortions in their efforts to keep their hats on in a breeze, and the result is injurious to their nerves. Happily, this information comes when the straw hat season has passed for all reputable citizens.—Providence (R. I.) Journal.

The Fat Men's Association has dwindled down to a membership of only six, wheras it formerly boasted ten times that number, and its annual gatherings were among the notable events of the year. Apparently, it isn't so good for to be fat as it used to be. Superfluous adipose tissue is now reckoned an unhealthy symptom. Anti-fat is the vogue. Falstaff is out of date. Cassius is esteemed the mould of form.—Boston Herald.

The newspapers are of some use. It was a newspaper, the Chicago Tribune, that captured Paul O. Stensland, the defaulting banker. James Keely, managing editor of the Tribune, accompanied the assistant district attorney on the famous trip that resulted in the capture of Stensland in Tangier. The capture of Stensland will cost the Tribune thousands of dollars, and it was the Tribune that received the "tip" as to the whereabouts of the defaulter. James Keely, managing editor of the Tribune, once worked in the coal mines at Leavenworth as a laborer. He is an Englishman by birth, and drifted to America as a boy.—Atchison Globe.

CLOSE TO THE PEOPLE.

..Editor Returns from Travel.—On our return from Marion, Iowa, we struck Ned Brodt at Savanna Depot. Ned is day operator and was glad to see me as I was him. Ned took me under his wing and made my stay between trains very pleasant indeed. Little attentions and a good warm dinner braced us up mightly al thoughthougn the hat was above 100. Workmen were laid off all along the line to Cassville, where we arrived about 4 p. m. Here we stopped off over night with our son, J. M., and folks. The same night that man was killed by the cars. A very sad accident happened, causing the death of a young lady working around a gasolene stove that exploded enveloping her in flames, instantly she was dragged out on the sidewalk only to lay and burn to death, a very horrifying sight I can tell you. We found all well at home having the hooping cough among the children and complaint of heat. Weeds hid my garden truck and lawn sadly overgrown Marion and Cedar Rapids will soon be one city, the two contain about forty thousand. Our son in Marion has a nice home wife and children steady work at good wages in the round house the year around.—Cassville (Wis.) Record.

Beck's Athletic Mule.—W. H. Beck was painfully hurt Sunday by his mule jumping and striking him near the shoulder with the point of a buggy shaft to which the mule was hitched.—Whiteville (N. C.) News-Reporter.

Sims Sets 'Em Up.—Mr. Hurley Ferguson, of Lynchburg, was the guest of Mr. Chap Sims last Saturday night. Must be some attraction for Ferguson, as he comes often.—Appomattox (Va.) Times.

Miss Spicey Gives Editor a Pain.—It paains us to have to place Miss Spicey Raiford on our sick list Monday morning.—Mount Olive (N. C.) Tribune:

Sovereign Squat Healed by Water.—An all run down at the heel and ravelled out old codger, whose liver and gizard had collapsed, chased the springs for relief. He went to Excelsior, Geuda, Eureka, Hot, and Manitou, but found little relief and came home to die. But he had the water habit, and no sooner had he arrived home than he took to drinking five or six glasses of Walnut Creek water before breakfast, and today he is the most able-bodied sovereign squat on the townsite.—Eldorado (Kan.) Republican.

He—No, I shall never marry until I meet a woman who is my direct opposite.

She—Well, there are numbers of bright, intelligent girls about—Ally Sloper's Half-Holiday.

The Art Which Carries Burdens.

"We wish," explained the manager, in his bustling, airy way, "a play which will serve as a vehicle—"

"Sir," protested the man of genius, with a look of horror, "I am a playwright. Not a cartwright!"—Puck.

A WOMAN TO BE PRETTY

Must Have Luxuriant and Glossy Hair, No Matter What Color.

The finest contour of a female face, the sweetest smile of a female mouth, loses something if the head is crowned with scant hair. Scant and falling hair, it is now known, is caused by a parasite that burrows into the scalp to the root of the hair, where it saps the vitality. The little white scales the germ throws up in burrowing are called dandruff. To cure dandruff permanently, then, and to stop falling hair, that germ must be killed. Newbro's Herpicide, an entirely new result of the chemical laboratory, destroys the dandruff germ, and, of course, stops the falling hair, and prevents baldness. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

MOORE DIVORCE CASE IS UP FOR ARGUMENT.

New Brunswick Doctor Scored for Ingratitude—Co-respondent's Wife Stands by Him.

One more witness was heard before Vice Chancellor Stevens Monday in the divorce suit brought by Dr. William M. Moore, of New Brunswick, against Mrs. Hetty Slack Moore, which came up for argument Saturday, the last hearing having taken place May 8. The witness was Mrs. Suydam, wife of Jesse A. Suydam, of Lakewood, who was named in the petitioner's bill. Mrs. Suydam was put on the stand by former Judge Charles T. Cowenhoven, counsel for the defendant, to rebut statements made by Dr. Moore on the last day of the trial relative to his efforts to secure from Suydam an affidavit to the truth of a written confession of wrongdoing, alleged to have been made by him.

Mrs. Suydam said that when Dr. Moore declared that the letter of confession was "absolutely no good without Mr. Suydam's sworn signature," her husband had refused to make such affidavit.

"Did Dr. Moore say what would happen if Mr. Suydam did not sign such affidavit?" Mr. Cowenhoven asked.

"He said that if my husband did not sign there would be a public expose, a public scandal," witness answered.

Argument was then begun.

Hark Luck Follows This Man.

New Brunswick, Sept. 26.—R. W. Hughes, a laundryman, of Church street, this city, seems pursued by a nemesis of bad luck. Beginning a year ago, he has met with all sorts of misfortune. He has lost eight horses by colic, poison and accident, he has been run away with and hit by a train, he has been sunstruck and overcome with vertigo, until the record of his accidents numbered twelve last week. Saturday he raised the record to thirteen, and is now in bed, suffering from injuries received by being caught under his wagon as his horse bolted. He hung on to the lines and stopped the horse, saving himself from fatal injuries, but he will be in bed for some time.

UNION COUNTY ORPHAN'S COURT.

In Matter of the Application of Vincent W. Nash, Administrator of Amos Moffett, Deceased, For Sale of Land to Pay Debts. | Order to Show Cause.

Vincent W. Nash, administrator of Amos Moffett, deceased, having exhibited to this Court under oath, a just and true account of the personal estate and debts of said deceased, whereby it appears that the personal estate of said deceased is insufficient to pay his debts, and requested the aid of the Court in the premises: It is, on this twelfth day of September, nineteen hundred and six, ordered that all persons interested in the lands, tenements, and real estate of said Amos Moffett, deceased, appear before the Court, at the Court House, in the City of Elizabeth, on the fourteenth day of November next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause why so much of said lands, tenements, hereditaments, and real estate of the said Amos Moffett, deceased, should not be sold as will be sufficient to pay his debts, or the residue thereof, as the case may require. And it is further ordered, that this order be set up and published in one of the newspapers of this State, as by the statute directed.

By the Court.
GEORGE T. PARROT,

UNION COUNTY ORPHANS' COURT.
ADMINISTRATOR'S SALE.

In the matter of the insolvent Estate of Francis S. Runyon, Deceased. | Order for sale of land.

By virtue of an order entered in the above stated matter on the twenty-fifth day of March, A. D. 1903, I shall sell at public vendue, at the Hotel Iroquois, corner of Park avenue and East Second street, in the City of Plainfield, N. J., on Tuesday, the sixteenth day of October, A. D. 1906, at two o'clock in the afternoon, all those two certain tracts or parcels of land and premises, hereinafter particularly described, situate, lying and being in the City of Plainfield, in the County of Union and State of New Jersey.

The first tract beginning at a point in the northeasterly side of Westervelt avenue, being a corner of a lot of land conveyed by Francis S. Runyon to John B. Mills, by deed dated May 11, 1894, recorded in Book 277 of Deeds, page 212, etc.; thence running northeasterly along line of that lot one hundred (100) feet to line of land formerly Harriott's; thence northwesterly along that line forty-five and thirty-four one-hundredths (45.34) feet to a point for a corner of a lot of land formerly owned by said Runyon and Mills; thence southwesterly along line of that lot, one hundred (100) feet to the northeasterly side of Westervelt avenue; thence southeasterly along said northeasterly side of Westervelt avenue forty-five (45) feet and six (6) inches to the place of beginning. Together with the land in front of the same to the middle of Westervelt avenue, to be used as a public street. Being same premises described in a deed from John B. Mills and wife to said Francis S. Runyon, dated May 11, 1894, recorded in Book 277 of Deeds, page 216, etc.

The second tract beginning at a point where the centre line of South avenue is intersected by the centre line of Leland avenue; thence southwesterly along the centre line of South avenue two hundred and thirty-three (233) feet to a corner of lands of Charles L. Stanley, formerly Mary E. Childs'; thence southeasterly along said Stanley's line two hundred and thirty-three (233) feet to his corner in line of Charles Hyde's land, formerly; thence northeasterly along line of said Hyde, formerly, two hundred and thirty-three (233) feet to a point in the middle of Leland avenue; thence northwesterly along the middle of Leland avenue two hundred and thirty-three (233) feet to the place of beginning. Being part of same premises conveyed to said Francis S. Runyon by deed of Simeon Tingue and wife, dated August 1, 1874, recorded in Book 93 of Deeds, on page 228, etc.

Together with the appurtenances thereunto belonging, or in any wise appertaining.

Dated, September 8th, 1906.

These excellent fabrics will be very much in evidence this season.

THE NEW WAY TO CURE DYSPEPSIA

PEPSOIDS DESTROY DISEASE GERMS OF THE STOMACH. TRY A BOTTLE—FREE.

Pepsoids cure the worst forms of Dyspepsia and all other Acute or Chronic Stomach Disorders by repairing the worn-out lining of the stomach and destroys all disease germs. Dyspepsia once cured in this way never returns. Pepsoids is not a patent medicine, but the successful prescription of Dr. Oidman who has cured thousands of cases of Chronic Stomach Troubles, among them Cancer of the Stomach. It cost more money to produce Pepsoids than any similar preparation on the market, owing to the large quantity of the purest Pepsin and other expensive drugs each tablet contains, (see figures on bottle.) Pepsoids are sold at 50 cents a bottle on an absolute guarantee to cure, or money refunded. We will send you, if you have not used Pepsoids before, a 50-cent bottle FREE; merely send us your name and address, and you will receive promptly a full sized bottle. You do not obligate yourself to pay a cent. All we ask after Pepsoids have cured or greatly benefitted you is, that you recommend Pepsoids to your friends. Every man or woman now has the opportunity of possessing a strong and healthy stomach. Will you grasp it? People with weak stomachs are always in misery. Pepsoids have made thousands of people happy by giving them what nature intended everyone should possess—a strong and healthy stomach, so as to enjoy the best there is in life. Try Pepsoids to-day, price only 50 cents a bottle at drug store. Or you may have a full sized bottle free by writing the Medical Department of The Vio Chemical Co., Chicago, Ill. 7

RESULT OF PRIMARIES

Mr. Fisk, an organization man, will succeed Mayor Buckle, and that all four councilmen whose terms expire will be re-elected.

The colored vote in every ward was almost solid for the Colbyites. That their assistance was almost indispensible to the "new idea" faction in some districts is freely admitted.

The tabulated results published today tell the story.

The total vote in each ward was as follows:

First Ward—First district—376; Republican, 369; rejected, 7. Democratic, 7. Second district—207; Republican, 202; rejected, 3; Democratic, 5; rejected, 1.

Second Ward—First district—434; Republican, 427; rejected, 5; Democratic, 7; rejected, 3. Second district—221; Republican, 213; rejected, 7; Democratic, 8; rejected, 1. Third Ward—First district—359; Republican, 356; rejected, 6; Democratic, 3. Second district—221; Republican, 210; Democratic, 11.

Fourth Ward—First district—306; Republican, 296; rejected, 17; Democratic, 10; rejected, 2. Second district—354; Republican, 336; rejected, 42; Democratic, 18; rejected, 4. Third district—377; Republican, 374; rejected, 11; Democratic, 3.

J. T. MacMurray, Andrew McCardell and Peter V. Weaver each received one vote for Justice of the Peace.

Interested in the Primary.

Charles Dixon, a former Plainfielder, came from Newark last night to hear the primary returns. He is an old organization worker in the Third ward.

Miss Gertrude Conover, of Duer street, has resumed her studies at Dorland Institute, Hot Springs, Va., after spending the summer at home.

PARTNERS IN A MIX-UP

Couln't Prove a Defendant Partner of Plaintiff Who Recovers Claim.

IN SOMERSET COURT

Frank Dealaman Wins Case Against Frederick Dealaman and John F. Mundy—Verdict for Plaintiff.

Before Justice Abram Q. Garretson and a jury in the Supreme Court at Somerville, yesterday, an interesting case, in which a number of fine legal points were involved, was tried. The case was that of Frank L. Dealaman against John F. Mundy and Frederick W. Dealaman, partners, and the suit was to recover $858.57 for butchers' supplies sold the defendants by the plaintiff from October 15, 1902, to September 1, 1903. One of the defendants, John F. Mundy, filed a plea in the case alleging that the other defendant, Frederick W. Dealaman, was really in partnership with Frank L. Dealaman, the plaintiff, and should have sued with him for the sum due; that they had been in partnership in the wholesale business at the time Frederick W. Dealaman and John F. Mundy were partners in the retail business.

The plaintiff filed a replication to that plea, denying that Frederick W. Dealaman had been a partner with him in the wholesale butcher business at the time the goods were sold and delivered, and that he was the only one who had any interest in this claim.

The defendant produced William L. Smalley, Jr., to show that he had dealt with Frank L. Dealaman and Frederick W. Dealaman as partners in the wholesale butchers' business during the period in question. The defense also produced a note for $200 signed by Frank L. Dealaman and Frederick W. Dealaman, during this period of time, which, it was claimed, showed they were in partnership. It was also proved that a butcher wagon had been purchased and lettered with the names of Frank L. Dealaman and Frederick W. Dealaman.

The contention of the plaintiff was that he was the sole owner of the wholesale business and dealt with Mundy and Frederick W. Dealaman as partners, and that the debt had been recognized by Mundy on two occasions.

The jury, after a deliberation of half an hour, rendered a verdict in favor of the plaintiff for the full amount. Former Assemblyman S. S. Swackhamer was counsel for the plaintiff and the defense was represented by Reed & Coddington. All the parties to the suit live in North Plainfield.

COL. LUSK A SUICIDE AT FORT HANCOCK.

Husband of Former Plainfield Woman Takes His Life by Cutting His Throat.

Col. J. L. Lusk, of the United States Engineers, who, while on a six month's sick leave was visiting his daughter, the wife of Lieut. J. B. Dimard, of the Ordnance Department, who is residing in the officers' quarters at Fort Hancock, died suddenly yesterday from wounds self-inflicted while temporarily deranged.

His son-in-law was aroused by a noise in the bathroom and on investigation found Col. Lusk hacking at his throat with a knife. Aid was hastily summoned from the hospital nearby and it took the cobined efforts of three nurses and the son-in-law to disarm the Colonel. He was quickly removed to the hospital of the past and died a short time after.

Col. Lusk was born in Pittsburg on February 1, 1855. He was the son of Amos Lusk and Agnes Sterrett Clow Lusk. He was graduated from West Point in 1878, and was made a second lieutenant of engineers. On October 16, 1883, he was married to Miss Mary E. Webster in this city. From second lieutenant he was advanced to a first lieutenancy on June 14, 1881. He became a captain in June, 1888, and major on July 5, 1898, in the corps of engineers. His residence was the Mendota, at Washington.

Plainfield Woman Robbed.

Miss Elizabeth Piker, of this city, who conducts a millinery business in Westfield, reported to the police yesterday that sometime during the early morning a thief entered her store on Broad street and stole $8. There is no clue.

Charges Assault.

Action has been started by Mrs. James Martell, of West Fourth street, against Thomas Martell, for assault and battery. They are cousins. Justice Mosher will hear the complaint Monday.

James R. Blair, of the borough, is attending the State fair at Trenton today.

MRS. TRUELL BUYS NETHERWOOD HOTEL

SUCCESSFUL PROPRIETOR TO OPEN A THIRD HOSTELRY NEXT MAY.

Mrs. J. R. Truell, proprietor of Truell Court and Truell Inn, has completed negotiations for the purchase of the Netherwood Hotel property, and it is expected that the papers will be passed today. The Hyde and Lattimer estates have owned the property for many years. The consideration is not announced.

It is Mrs. Truell's intention to open the hotel about May 1 next year, as it will require all of the intervening time, it is said, to put the large building in readiness for the reception of guests. A new heating plant will have to be installed, it is said, and the whole structure will have to undergo repairs before it is opened.

Truell Inn and Truell Court are both taxed to their full capacity, it is reported, and it was as a result of Mrs. Truell's desire to increase her accommodations that led to the purchase of the Netherwood Hotel.

The Netherwood Hotel was built a number of years ago and has had several owners and proprietors. It is intended eventually to make the hotel an all-year-round resort.

FASHIONABLE THRONG WITNESSED WEDDING

CEREMONY UNITED MISS MARY L. MASTERS AND GEORGE H. CHAPIN, JR.

Miss Mary Louise Masters, second daughter of Col. Hibbert B. Masters, of West Seventh street, and George H. Chapin, Jr., of Boston, were married yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the home of the bride's father in the presence of a large and fashionable throng of guests from this city, New York, Brooklyn and many distant points. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Arthur B. Kinsolding, rector of Christ's Episcopal church, Brooklyn, where the bride was formerly a communicant.

The bride was gowned in chiffon cloth, trimmed with point lace and she carried a court bouquet of lilies-of-the-valley. She was attended by her sister, Miss Adelle Masters, as maid-of-honor, who wore a gown of pink crepe de chine, and Miss Minna D. Behr, of Brooklyn, as bridesmaid, whose gown was of Dresden silk. Both the maid-of-honor and bridesmaid carried bunches of Killarney roses.

The best man was E. Copeland Lang, of Boston, and the ushers were William Vanderbilt, of Brooklyn; Charles Knickerbocker, of Chicago; Earl B. Perry, of New York, and John Harold Foster, of Wiltham, Mass.

The home was beautifully decorated with cut flowers, palms, ferns and potted plants, there being a profusion of flowers in the parlor, reception room and hallway. The prevailing colors in the parlor were pink and white, while green and pink predominated in the other rooms.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at 5:30 o'clock, and later in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Chapin departed on a wedding journey. Upon their return they will reside in the suburbs of Boston. Both the bride and groom belong to old and distinguished families. The groom, who is a graduate of Norwich University, is connected with one of the oldest real estate firms in Boston and is socially prominent. The bride formerly lived in Brooklyn, where she was a favorite in society circles. She was the recipient of an unusually large collection of gifts of use and great value. The exchange of handsome gifts among the members of the bridal party was a pleasant feature of the occasion.

Special Musical Service.

On Sunday evening the choir of the First M. E. church, under the direction of J. Edmund Skiff, will render the first of the monthly special musical services. Mrs. Schwartz, a talented violinist of Brooklyn, will assist and the opening part of the service will be devoted to a violin and organ recital. Mrs. Schwartz will play the following numbers: Borowski-Adoration, Adelmann; Cavatine, Elgar; Salut D'Amour, Mackenzie; Benedictus. The choir numbers will be: Gounod, "Lovely Appear," from "The Redemption;" Hopkins, "Lift Up Your Heads O Ye Gates;" Harker, "Praise the Lord, O My Soul; Buck, "Rock of Aages," solo; Briggs, "Hold Thou My Hand," Mrs. Tugwell; Gounod, "O Divine Redeemer." Miss Willis with violin obligato by Mrs. Schwartz.

Mr. La Rue's Vote.

The vote received by C. B. LaRue, one of the defeated candidates for county convention delegates on the First district of the First ward, was 74 and not 4 a reported.

BOYS' CLUB STARTS SEASON ON MONDAY

CLASS IN BENT WIRE IS TO BE ADDED TO CURRICULUM.

Beginning what is planned to be the biggest season of its history, the Boys' Club, Sycamore street, will open on Monday night. Kenneth Robbie, general secretary-elect of the Y. M. C. A., will continue in charge of the club, carrying out the plans he shaped for its growth and development last year. When the club was turned over to the association it was the idea of the donors that Mr. Robbie direct it. He has had much experience in boys' work, and is regarded as one of the most successful men in that field in the State.

No work will be done by the boys Monday night. The applicants for admission will be enrolled and classified. Classes in mechanical drawing, pattern-making, molding and carpentery will be organized at once, and later in the season a class in bent wire will be formed. As in other years, particular attention will be paid to placing the boys who are of age, and through with school, in positions.

Saturday night will be the play nights this season, instead of Wednesday. The club will be closed on Wednesdays.

MISS MAY ETTA CARR NOW MRS. HARRY WILLIAMS

FORMER PLAINFIELDER WEDDED AT NEWARK LAST NIGHT.

Miss May Etta Carr, daughter of David Carr, and Harry Dunbar Williams, son of Mrs. Kate Williams, formerly of this city, but now of Roselle Park, were married last night at 8 o'clock at the home of the bride's father in Newark. Rev. D. W. Lusk, of Newark, performed the ceremony. There were guests from this city, New York, Hartford, Conn., Mt. Vernon, N. Y., and Somerville. Outside of the relatives of the two families only the single friends of the couple were invited.

The bride was gowned in silk crepe de chine, trimmed with baby Irish lace and chiffon. She was attended by her cousin, Miss Anna Riley, as bridesmaid, whose gown was of lavender silk mull, trimmed with taffeta. The bride carried a bouquet of white roses and the bridesmaid a bouquet of pink roses. The best man was Henry Q. Hessel and the wedding march from Lohengrin, was played by Arthur Lee Holland, both being business associates of the groom.

After the ceremony a reception was held and the bride and groom received the congratulations of all. Mr. and Mrs. Williams left last night for a short wedding journey and upon their return will reside at 217 Chestnut street, Roselle Park. They will be home to friends after October 14.

The bride is a niece of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Leifke, of West Front street, and has been a frequent visitor here, where she has many friends. The groom is employed in the Thompson & Bedford department of the Standard Oil Company at the New York offices, where he holds an excellent position. He is a member of the vested choir of the Holy Cross church and since the organization of the Plainfield Opera Company, has taken part in the several operas given by that company. Mr. Williams formerly lived in Hartford, Conn., and resided in this city three years. In August last he moved to Roselle Park.

Wagon Wrecks Carriage.

A two-seated carriage driven by Mrs. Frank Vanderhoff, of Netherwood, was smashed Tuesday afternoon at Front street and Park avenue, in a collision with a heavy wagon driven by Elmer Larkin, of Lincoln. Mrs. Vanderhoff and two women friends were in the carriage, but no one was injured. The accident was brought about by the balking of Mrs. Vanderhoff's horse, which started to back across the street when she tried to drive up to Schwed Brothers' store. Larkin's wagon, coming eastward, crashed into the side of the carriage before he could get out of its path, wrecking it badly.

Frank Foster a Benedict.

Frank Foster, a former well known resident of the borough, and Miss Clara Henry, of Newark, were married at the latter place last night. The ceremony was performed in St. Patrick's church and was witnessed by a large gathering of friends, among them many from this city. William Doud, of the borough, a schoolmate of the groom, acted as best man. Following the ceremony, a reception was held by Mr. and Mrs. Foster in their new home on Fairview avenue, Newark.

COUNTY CONVENTION ON

Perkins, Tillman and Moxon to Be Named By Republicans For Assembly.

LITTLE OPPOSITION

Colbyites Control Only 26 of the 140 Delegates—Smith to Call Convention to Order.

Three Assemblymen and a coroner will be nominated at the Union county Republican convention at Elizabeth this afternoon. The convention is called to order at 3 o'clock, the place of meeting being Jacob's theatre. According to accepted custom, the county chairman, Frank H. Smith, will call the convention to order. The secretary of the county committee will read the call, and then a presiding officer will be chosen. To whom this honor will be accorded will not be known until after the county executive committee meeting just before the convention is called to order.

Mayor Randolph Perkins, of Westfield, the floor leader in the lower house at Trenton, and Peter Tillman, of Rahway, will be renominated for the Assembly. It is not settled who the third nominee will be put is more than likely that John R. Moxon, of Elizabeth, will be chosen. There is no fight over the coronership and anybody that wants the honor can have it for the asking.

There are 40 delegates in the county. Of this number only 26 favor the Colbyites Assembly candidates, W. N. Runyon, of this city; Benjamin Fleuckhaus, of Summit, and William F. Groves, of Elizabeth. Fourteen of these delegates came from Plainfield, which is entitled to twenty-six delegates in all; two come from Summit, which has eight delegates; two come from Rahway, which has eleven delegates; six come from Elizabeth has sixty-two delegates, and one comes from New Providence, where the regulars put up no candidate.

Very little interest is taken in the convention inasmuch as the result is a foregone conclusion. As in all other counties of the State, the Colbyites will cut no figure inasmuch as they made no formidable showing at the primaries.

GEORGE FELLER WEDS A SOMERVILLE GIRL

THE CEREMONY WITNESSED BY 100 FRIENDS FROM CITY AND BOROUGH.

In the presence of a large gathering of friends George Feller, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Feller, of Pearl street, and Miss Anna Rich, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rich, of Somerville, were married at the bride's home last night. Rev. E. F. Koechli, former pastor of the German Reformed church in the borough, performed the ceremony. The guests included 100 friends from the city and borough who made the trip to and from Somerville by special trolley.

Miss Ella Rich, sister of the bride, acted as bridesmaid, and Frank Feller, brother of the groom, was best man. The wedding march was played by B. A. Paroubek and Herbert Harold on the violin and piano. Pretty floral decorations were in all the rooms, those in the parlor being especially elaborate.

Following the ceremony a reception was held and late in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Feller left for Philadelphia on a wedding trip. At its conclusion they will make their home on Pearl street. The groom is employed by James B. Guttridge, of Netherwood, and is a member of the Arion Social Club and other organizations.

Elks Have a Reunion.

Members of the Jersey City lodge of Elks who attended the recent convention at Denver, held a reunion dinner at Bergen Point, last night. It was attended by Alex Findley, Walter Apgar, Louis VanAlstyne, Edward Laing and Edward M. VanBuren, who accompanied the Jersey City delegation to the Colorado metropolis. During the dinner, an association was formed and the affair will be made an annual event.

Chapel Corner Stone Laying.

The corner stone of the new Warren chapel at Fairview and Watchung avenues will be laid at 6 o'clock tonight, rain or shine. Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, of the Crescent Avenue church, will preside and the stone will be placed in position by Rev. Joseph O. McKelvey, pastor of the chapel. The address will be delivered by Mr. McKelvey's father, Rev. Alexander McKelvey, of Boonton. The public is invited to attend.

ATTACKED BROTHER WITH A PITCHFORK

DRINK-CRAZED MAN THEN LED A CHASE INTO GREEN BROOK.

Temporarily crazed by drink, Charles Minard, of Chatham street, made an attack on his brother, William Minard, with a pitchfork, this morning. The two were working in Meeker's stable on Chatham street and got into an argument over some trifling matter. A fight followed and determined to get the best of it, Charles grabbed up the pitchfork. He might have succeeded in making a sieve out of his brother but for the interference of George Cooper and Joseph Green who sprang upon him from the rear.

He afterward drove off the two men with the same weapon and was about to renew the original attack when he sighted Chief Marshal Weiss approaching. Both Minards immediately took to flight, Charles going over fences into Pearl street and thence down to Green brook, intending to cross over to the city side. He was in the middle of the stream when the officer, forgetting uniform and all, leaped in after him and hauled him back. The brother had disappeared in the meantime and has since evaded arrest.

The prisoner was locked up and will be given a hearing before Mayor Smalley tonight.

LIARS CONFESS AND SAVE INNOCENT YOUTHS

THIEVES TRIED TO SAVE THEMSELVES AT CUFF'S AND MITCHELL'S EXPENSE.

Through a confession made yesterday afternoon by Nathaniel and James Harvey, Colonel Azel Cuff and Lawrence Mitchell, also colored, were cleared of charges of burglary. As a further result of the confession, the Harvey boys were held this morning for the Grand Jury charged with stealing $50 worth of clothing from Richards & Harvey, colored tailors, of entral avenue.

The clothing store was entered Monday night. Suspicion pointed to the Harveys, and they were taxed with the crime. They accused Cuff and Mitchell, and as a result all four of the youths were arrested. When arraigned yesterday in a preliminary hearing before Justice Mosher, Cuff protested his innocence so strongly that the police were impressed, and Chief Kiely had the prisoners remanded for an investigation into the case.

He put the Harvey boys through a severe examination, and yesterday afternoon they broke down and confessed that they had lied about Cuff and Mitchell to save themselves. The victims of their lying were released at once. The Harveys pleaded guilty before Justice Mosher this morning, and the court promptly held them, without bail, for the Grand Jury. The justice scored them severely for their attempt to sacrifice Cuff and Mitchell. The latter were in court to see the pair get what was coming to them.

"THE GALLOPER" RETURNS.

The Clever Harding Davis Farce Again Witnessed by Large Crowd.

Greatly improved by its steady run of eight months, "The Galloper," with Raymond Hitchcock, came back to the scene of its premier, last night. It was cradled at the New Plainfield theatre last season and many of those who witnessed the first performance were present at the re-appearance. They laughed just as heartily as ever at the "distinctly different" comedian, who seems to have found a vehicle admirably adapted to his peculiar style of acting.

The supporting cast has undergone a number of changes since the opening. Miss May Buckley's role of "Grace Whitney" is now taken by Miss Georgie Lawrence. Miss Helen Lackaye and Flora Zabelle were also missing last night, but the newcomers were well fiteed to the roles and the clever Davis farce has not suffered a particle. Hitchcock received an enthusiastic reception and at the close of the second act was called before the curtain but did not respond with one of the impromptu speeches that he frequently makes.

Hotel Manhattan Sold.

John Snedecor has sold the Hotel Manhattan, Somerset street, to Alfred Denise. The new owner received his license from Justice Garretson at Somerville on Tuesday, through Francis J. Blatz. The Manhattan is a favorite resort of bowlers. The alleys were used by the local league last winter.

—S. Scheuer & Co.'s store will be closed during the day next Saturday, Sept. 29. Open in evening at 6 o'clock. 9 25 4 ***

WRITS ARE SERVED IN TWO LIBEL CASES

M'CARDELL DEMANDS $20,000 FROM COURIER-NEWS AND R. L. LEE.

Papers were served yesterday in the libel suit instituted by Andrew McCardell against the Courier-News Publishing Company and former Tax Collector Robert L. Lee. Mr. McCardell demands $10,000 damages from the proprietors of the paper and a like amount from Mr. Lee, who is the reputed author of the letter published in its columns which is the basis of the action. Deputy Sheriff Peter Weaver served the summons on both defendants.

The writs are returnable in the Supreme Court on October 4. It is said that the defendants have secured some affidavits and will attempt to prove the assertions made against Mr. McCardell. Walter L. Hetfield, Sr., counsel for the plaintiff, says that the case will come up for trial at the January term inasmuch as all the pleadings will not be filed before the October term opens on Tuesday.

WEST END GIRL WEDS GOVERNMENT EMPLOYEE

MISS MARY SHIMER BRIDE OF BENJAMIN MARTEN, JR., OF WASHINGTON.

Miss Mary Daisy Shimer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Shimer, was married yesterday afternoon to Benjamin Marten, Jr., of Washington, D. C. The wedding was held at the bride's home, 852 West Fifth street, before a large gathering of friends and relatives. The house was prettily decorated with potted plans and cut flowers.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. C. E. Herring, of the First Presbyterian church, at 5 o'clock. Miss Shimer was attended by Miss Mildred Tyrell and George Marten, a brother of the groom, was best man. As the bridal party entered the parlor, where the ceremony was performed, Miss Emily Brackman, of Newark, played the Mendelssohn wedding march on the piano. The bride was given away by her father.

The bride's gown was of silk Batiste, trimmed with duchesse lace; she wore a spray of orange blossoms in her hair and carried a cluster of white bride roses. Miss Tyrell was gowned in white sstin, trimmed with applique and carried a white ostrich feather fan.

A reception followed the ceremony. After the reception, Mr. and Mrs. Marten left for an extended honeymoon tour. They will make their home in Washington, where the groom is employed in one of the government departments.

FIFTEEN YEARS MARRIED.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Force Entertain Friends in Honor of Anniversary.

In celebration of the fifteenth anniversary of their wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Force, of Mercer avenue, entertained a gathering of friends at their home, last night. The guests numbered fifty in all from this city, Elizabeth, Somerville and Dunellen. Games and music were enjoyed and in conclusion refreshments were served. The house was very prettily decorated.

Mr. and Mrs. Force were married at Arlington on September 26, 1901, the bride being Miss Carrie Fenner, of Pluckemin. The ceremony was performed by Rev. E. J. Jamison and some of those who witnessed it were present last night. The celebrants received a nice collection of cut glass in honor of the occasion.

BOYS' RECEPTION.

Y. M. C. A. Juniors Will Greet Their New Secretary Tonight.

Plans have been completed for the opening reception of the Boys' Department of the Y. M. C. A. tonight. The boys will gather first in the large hall, where Physical Director Listman and Boys' Secretary Barrows will be introduced to them by President J. W. Gavett. Mr. Gavett will make a brief address.

Hal Merton, a magician and sleight-of-hand performer, will appear. After the entertainment the boys will enjoy a social hour in the small hall.

Colored Couple Wed.

The marriage of Miss Bettie Kelley and Oliver Floyd took place last night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jones, in East Third street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. F. D. Tildon, pastor of Bethel chapel. The bride, who was attended by Miss Whittle, of Nutley, was attired in white satin and wore a tulle veil. She was given away by Mr. Jones. After the ceremony a reception was held. The couple will reside in Plainfield.

NO RECOUNT IS LIKELY

Colbyites Practically Decide Not to Contest the Returns.

NO LAW FOR MOVE

Six Votes in 2nd District of 4th Ward Would Have Changed Result—42 Ballots Rejected.

On account of the close vote in the Second district of the Fouth ward, there has been some talk on the part of the Colbyite leaders about asking for a re-count. It was pointed out that a change of six votes in favor of the Colbyites would give them a majority of the delegates to the city convention. It was also believed that out of forty-two rejected ballots in the Second district of the Fourth ward, there would be enough to give the Colbyites the desired majority of delegates.

G. W. V. Moy, who has been prominently identified with the "New Idea," was seen this morning by a reporter for The Daily Press and questioned to the possibility of a re-count. He said that a decision had not been reached as yet, but that the matter was being seriously considered. Later in the morning a conference was held, when members of the "New Idea" movement in the Fourth ward were consulted as to the advisability of asking for a re-count. It was practically decided not to petition for a re-count.

In the Third district it was learned that of the forty-two ballots rejected a majority of them were not properly marked, in fact they were not marked at all. Under the circumstances they would not count for either party and would have to be thrown out according to law.

Another important thing was also learned in looking up the matter of a re-count, and that is that under the law there is no provision for the re-count of votes at a primary, and it is quite likely that the courts would refuse such a request. Counsel has so advised the regulars and it is not believed that the Colbyites will make any attempt to upset the returns.

Colbyite workers who were on the polls in the Second district of the Fourth ward are satisfied that the count of the votes was an accurate one and seem willing to abide by the result. One of the workers, who was a candidate for delegate to the city convention, said today that he remained at the polls during the counting of the votes and saw every one that came out of the box. He expressed the opinion that it was a straight count and that nothing would be gained, provided it would be possible to re-count the ballots.

The First ward regulars of this city are finding consolation in the fact that a big majority was rolled up for the organization there. One of the leaders in speaking about the showing made in that ward, called attention to the fact that Judge Runyon had spent the whole day there working against James T. McMurray. They claim that the result goes to prove that Runyon's personality cut no figure in the Plainfield primaries.

In connection with the surprising defeat of Factory Inspector Andrew McCardell in his own district in the Fourth ward on Primary day, an interesting story is told of an effort that is said to have been made by Machinists' Union members to have the strikebreakers ordered out of their tents at the Krom Machine Works. It is said the machinists asked him to clear the strikebreakers out under a statute that is generally applied to bake shops, which forbids the use of the workroom as a sleeping place. The factory inspector could not see how the section applied to the machine works. The machinists are said to have taken the thing to heart and wielded their axes vigorously at the polls.

Mrs. Peter Bowers.

Mrs. Peter Bowers, for many years a resident of Warrenville, died last night at the home of Mrs. Male on Lee place. She was seventy-eight years old and leaves several sons and daughters, one of the former being Peter Bowers, of Somerset street. The funeral will be held from the Springdale church tomorrow afternoon at 2:30.

Hearing Put Off.

The charge against Mrs. Kate Bowers, which was to have been heard before Judge Runyon this morning, was put of for a week. W. G. DeMeza is the defendant's counsel.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY

Judge Campbell is being bantered by his friends over the twelve votes he received for collector on the Republican primary ticket. The Judge has been trying to devise some legal grounds for having those votes transferred to the Democratic tally, but the obstacles to that pleasing consummation seem to be insurmountable. Had the twelve been cast at the Democratic primary the judge would have won and that is what makes him feel bad when he thinks of the Republican tally sheet.

The vote for S. B. Merrell, candidate for delegate to the county convention in Col. Fordyce's interests, has settled a much-mooted question of the past few weeks. There are twenty-six Colbyites in the Republican ranks here.

The election of the Fordyce delegates in Piscataway Tuesday showed that the eastern end of the township has a memory. South Plainfielders still firmly believe that they were jockeyed out of their borough charter.

Charles Pitcoff has returned from a visit to relatives in Raritan.

Miss Grace Predmore has been visiting friends in New York.

Friendship Circle met yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Carrie Voorhees, of Plainfield. A delightful time was enjoyed.

The landlord and tenant case of Martin vs. Webb has been adjourned by Justice Von Minden for two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Jones have returned to New York after visiting Mr. and Mrs. George H. Liscomb for a week.

Blanche Ring, in "Miss Dolly Dollars," at New Plainfield Theatre Tomorrow Night.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

"Lovers and Lunatics," a melange of music, mirth, song and dance, will be the unusually good offering at the New Plainfield theatre this afternoon and night and will introduce Joe Morris in his original character of "Ikey Iksenstein." Joe Morris needs no introduction to the theatrical world as his remarkable success on the vaudeville stage where for years he has been a headliner is known to all, and his success has not been confined here alone, as he has met and conquered the principal European artists in his line. The comedy is said to be full of action and well written, and with the excellent company presenting it, it has met with instant success.

A long article in this month's Gunter's magazine a long article on "The Creation of Songs and How They are Made Popular," about one-half of the space is devoted to Blanche Ring and the writer declares that she is the "Queen of the Summer Time," while in the winter she goes about the country making people happy by her delicious rendition of popular songs. And he goes into considerable detail in mentioning how she brought out such songs as "Bedelia," "In the Good Old Summer Time," "My Irish Mollie O," "The Belle of Avenue A," "Waltz Me Around Again, Willie," and others of a like character, and sang them in such a fetching manner that in a short time after her introduction of them they were being sung by the entire nation. Now she has become a star of the first magnitude in musical comedy and is under the management of Charles Dillingham and it goes without saying that any production bearing his name, such as Fritzi Scheff, "Man and Superman," or "Miss Dolly Dollars" and other great dramatic and musical successes is of the very first-class in every detail. He has given Miss Ring the stellar role of Miss Dolly Dollars and has had the entire play rewritten by its creators, Harry B. Smith and Victor Herbert, to suit her many and varied qualities as an entertainer. She will be at the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow night.

One of the most refreshing features of "A Rocky Road to Dublin," with which Barney Gilmore will appear at the New Plainfield theatre Saturday afternoon and night, is the consistent story around which the plot moves. Robert Daley, the character portrayed by Mr. Gilmore, is a clerk in a Dublin bank and is in love with the sister of a fellow employee, Philip Ferguson. The young lady's name is Bernardine Ferguson. The play relates the adversities Daly has to overcome before he wins his heart's desire and it is only after a supreme act of self sacrifice in which he saves the weak-willed brother of the woman he loves from the fruit of his fault by assuming the guilt himself that things end happily. The action of the piece permits the logical introduction of songs, dances and harp solos for which Mr. Gilmore is celebrated and the locale gives ample scope for a splendid scenic mounting, a fact of which the management, Messrs. Havlin and Nicolai, have taken advantage. Mr. Gilmore is assisted by a supporting company of genuine ability and the patrons of the New Plainfield theatre may expect a splendid performance by principals and cast.

Where in this country is it needful to enter into who and what Buster Brown is? Every one knows R. F. Outcault's cartoons too well, and the announcement that this musical comedy will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre next Monday afternoon and night brings forth but one query what sort of a performance will it be? Every one knows the play—what will its presentation offer. First it can be said the best company ever gathered together for the play a cast headed by Master Rosen the real "It" as a Buster then new scenery and costumes with new songs and music will also be features. What more can the amusement seeker ask than a jolly good presentation of this Synonym of fun Buster Brown?

"The Shadow Behind the Throne," which is booked at the New Plainfield theatre for October 6, is classed as a play much above the ordinary melodramatic standard in every legitimate and attractive respect. Its claims to high class and distinctive merit are soundly based upon the originality of its story, the strength and consistency of its plot, the scope of its characters and the artistic truthfulness with which a notably excellent company portrays them, the mystic Orientalism of its atmosphere, realistic effects and superb imported costumes, concentration and contrasting of the strongest human passions in scenes amid climaxes which move great audiences to sob, laugh, shudder and applaud to the echo.

"A Lucky Dog" in which Nat Wills will be seen shortly at the New Plainfield theatre, is said to be the best musical comedy Mr. Wills has ever appeared in. The cast is large and the beauty chorus of fifty unsurpassed. Messrs. Broadhurst and Currie have dealt lavishly with the mounting of the scenes and the selection of the costumes.

Who that has read "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" can ever forget the death of Tim—a passing comparable in pathos to the end of Little Nell. As the brave boy and good son fares forth on the lonely way he murmurs of "the meaders and trees laughin' all the time! Birds singin', singin', singin'." Except for this tragic interlude nature laughs, for Mrs. Wiggs and the birds sing always, and this despite a neighborhood calculated to crush into despair all but the most resolute of optimists. But it doesn't crush Mrs. Wiggs and the reasons why, set forth in her own apt, inimitable way, coupled with vivid pictures of her now famous life in the Cabbage Patch, have made the play bearing her name the most prolific source of laughter, wholesome fun and occasional tears, on the stage today. In its dramatic form "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" ran for 150 performances in New York last season, and is now on the road with the unchanged Savoy theatre cast and production, including Madge Carr Cook, Vivian Ogden, Edith Taliaferro, Charles Carter and twenty others. It will be seen here direct from New York on October 11.

Nat M. Wills' new musical comedy, "A Lucky Dog," is from the pen of Mark E. Swan, a successful playwright of the younger generation. Mr. Swan is especially strong on comedy and laughable situations and has undoubtedly developed a splendid comedy work in "A Lucky Dog" and one that especially fits the requirements of the happy tramp comedian, Nat Wills. Mr. Swan is the author of "A Runaway Match," "Whose Baby Are You?" "Brown's in Town," "The Fillibuster," and other successful comedies. "A Lucky Dog" will be at the New Plainfield theatre on October 12.

—As a means of protecting the crosswalks in the city where there is a great deal of travel, Street Commissioner Gavett is having those on North and Park avenues repaired and a coating of tar placed beneath the macadam to hold the dirt and stones in place and prevent unusual wearing away.

Proceedings of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union.

[OFFICIAL.]

Regular meeting of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union, N. J., held on Thursday, Sept. 6, 1906, at 2:30 p. m.

Roll call showed all members present—20.

The minutes of the previous meeting (reading of bills being omitted) were, on motion, approved as read.

COMMUNICATIONS, ETC. ...

From the Union County Board of Taxation, four communications, as follows, viz.:

Aug. 29, 1906.

Board of Chosen Freeholders, Union County, N. J.:

Gentlemen—We have consulted with out attorney relative to assessing the grounds upon which the county buildings are located, and he has decided that the law requires that the land must be assessed by the local assessor.

Yours truly,
C. C. Pollard, Chairman.

On motion of Freeholder Cady, received and placed on file.

Sept. 5, 1906.

Board of Chosen Freeholders:

Gentlemen—We advised you on Aug. 29 that the grounds upon which the county buildings are located would be taxed by the local assessor. In order that you may make provision for this tax we would state that the grounds have been assessed for $41,800.

(Signed) Yours truly,
Union County Board of Taxation,
Per Thomas Hanna, Sec'y.

On motion of Freeholder Gruener, received and placed on file.

August 29, 1906.

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders:

Gentlemen—Owing to the radical change in the tax laws of this State, and the duties imposed upon the County Board of Taxation recently constituted in this county, we find considerable difficulty in arriving at the actual value of various properties within the county, and for the purpose of more satisfactorily doing the work imposed upon us, we deem it advisable to employ some capable and impartial person to assist in estimating the value of factory and other properties which are out of the ordinary dwelling and business property class; we realize, too, that we are not authorized to employ such assistance without your approval.

We beg to refer you to the third section of Chapter 120 of the laws of 1906.

Trusting that you will grant us the request herein expressed, we beg to remain, Very respectfully yours,

Union County Board of Taxation.
Per Thomas Hanna, Secretary.

On motion of Freeholder Krouse, received and placed on file.

Sept. 6, 1906.

Board of Chosen Freeholders, Union County, N. J.:

Gentlemen—In order to carry out the purpose of the act creating this board for the proper equalization of taxes, we find it necessary to hire proper clerical help. We have decided, subject to the approval of this board, to hire an extra clerk experienced in the work in hand, for one month at the salary of $125, and respectfully ask this board to appropriate the same. Very respectfully,

C. C. Pollard, Chairman.

On motion of Freeholder Krouse, received and placed on file.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

By the committee on bridge, St. George avenue, Rahway:

Elizabeth, N. J., Sept. 6, 1906.

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union:

Gentlemen—Your committee on repairs to bridge on St. George's avenue, Rahway, near Jaques avenue, would respectfully report that the repairs will cost $315 instead of $300 as heretofore authorized.

Your committee would therefore request an additional appropriation of $15.

(Signed) Adolph H. Gruener, W. A. Westphal, Henry Krouse, Dennis S. Murphy, Committee.

Freeholder Wahl moved that the report be received and recommendation adopted, which was so ordered on roll call by an unanimous vote.

By the committee on South avenue bridge, Westfield, N. J.:

Sept. 6, 1906.

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders, Union County, N. J.:

Gentlemen — Your committee would respectfully report that they have examined the bridge and find it to be an old wooden bridge, laid on logs in place of abutments. The present structure is dilapidated and in decay, and in view of this fact, and the increasing use of the street, owing to the opening of adjoining property for building, we would respectfully recommend that a new steel beam and concrete arch bridge, with stone or concrete walls be built, the bridge to be built diagonally, to follow the general line of the stream, and to be 12 feet span by 56 feet in length. The cost of the bridge not to exceed the sum of $1,400.00.

(Signed) Joseph Perry, Adolph H. Gruener, W. A. Westphal, Committee.

Freeholder Krouse moved that the report be received and recommendation adopted, which was so ordered on roll call by an unanimous vote.

By committee on bridge over Morss' Creek, Linden Township:

Sept. 6, 1906.

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders, Union County, N. J.:

Gentlemen — Your committee would respectfully report that they have had plans and specifications drawn, and have received bids for the work of reconstructing the southerly wall, and of making repairs to the northerly wall of this bridge and have awarded the c ontract for the work to the lowest bidder, Albert Weber, of Linden, N. J., at $975.00.

The appropriation asked for and authorized for this work by the board was $800. Owing, however, to difficulties of construction, much of the work being under high-tide level, the lowest bid was as above stated, $975.

Your committee would request that the board authorize the additional expenditure, viz., $175, and confirm the award of the contract by the committee.

Richest Silks

We are showing many elegant silks this season, our stocks being greater and grander than ever before, and, of course, excelling any other collection in the State. This store is famous not only for its standard qualities for ordinary uses, but as well for its liberal showing of the higher grade silks and satins.

We wish today to tell you of some of the prettier sorts. Here are exquisite Hand-tinted Brocaded Satins and Gros Grains in a number of most magnificent designs, effective in the extreme.

One pattern is a light green leaf with a bunch of pink flowers, having the appearance of having been laid on, as tho a little child had just gathered them from the woodland and placed them there. The design stands out in bold relief and is very pretty. The price is $3.50 a yard.

Another pattern shows great white roses woven in with groupings of violets and sprays of leaves on the satin ground. There are dashes of sunlight glinting over the surface betwixt the bouquets of flowers—very beautiful, indeed. Price $3.50 a yard.

Pond lilies in delicate colors with ripples and waves of water flowing round them form a striking and bold design on white satin ground. The hand-tinting is superb. Price $3.50 a yard.

Large pink roses with white silk lacy medallions woven so cleverly as to stand out like hand embroidery form another design which is one of the richest and most effective in the collection; another one somewhat similar, except that the bouquets are of small pink roses instead of large ones as seen in the first design, is equally pretty; either design $2 a yard.

White Crepe de Chine with a design of heavy plaid, woven most effectively with large bouquets of posies laid over as on a lattice, may be had at $1.35 a yard. A similar design on lavender crepe de chine with bunches of violets and green leaves, and still another with a rose design, is here at $1.35 a yard.

A Word or Two About
"Her Majesty" Shoes.

One of the chief ornaments of one of the largest and most perfectly appointed Shoe Stores in the world—several times bigger than any other in Newark—is "Her Majesty" Shoe, which we make our leading specialty.

From the very moment of its introduction Her Majesty Shoe for women's wear has been a favorite with our patrons. Early recognition was given the fact that it was a thoroly good shoe, surpassing any at its price and equaling many sold at higher prices. We know of lots of $4, $4.50 and $5 shoes that are no better in appearance and no better in wear. In many cases when you pay higher prices than we ask for Her Majesty you are paying for name and reputation only. Stand the higher priced shoes side by side with Her Majesty and you will wonder where the difference in price comes in.

Any number of styles to choose from, all the popular leathers, and the price for all, except patent leather (which is $3.50), is $3.

Keep in mind the important fact that we guarantee Her Majesty Patent Leather Shoes not to break through.

Primary Election, Sept. 25th, 1906.

Charter, Municipal and General Election, November 6th, 1906.

COUNTY OF UNION.

Pursuant to an act entitled "An Act to regulate Elections, (Revision of 1898), approved April 4th, 1898, with the amendments thereof, and other acts concerning elections, and the constitutional provision concerning the right of suffrage," notice is hereby given that the District Boards of Registry and Election in and for each and every Election District in the City of Elizabeth, will meet on the 4th Tuesday in September, 1906, (25th), at one o'clock in the afternoon, at the places in their respective Election Districts where the City Clerk shall designate, and continue in session until nine o'clock in the evening, for the purpose of registering the names of all legal voters in the manner prescribed by law, and who are entitled to the right of suffrage at the next election.

The District Boards of Registry and Election in and for the City of Elizabeth, will also meet for purposes of registration at their respective places, on between the hours of 1 and 9 p. m.

And the Boards of Registry and Election in and for each and every Election District in said County of Union, outside of the City of Elizabeth, will meet on

Tuesday, September 4th, 1906,

at ten o'clock in the forenoon, in their respective Election Districts where the next election will be held, and having first organized, shall proceed to ascertain and truly and accurately enter in canvassing books, to be provided for that purpose, the names and residences and street numbers, if any, of all legal voters within their respective election districts entitled to vote therein, by making actual inquiry at every dwelling house, etc., in the manner prescribed by law, and shall continue such enumeration until the same is completed; provided, that such enumeration shall terminate on or before the Friday next succeeding.

The District Boards of Registry and Election, outside of the City of Elizabeth, will also meet for the purpose of registration, at their respective places, on Tuesday, September 11th and 25th, 1906,

and
Tuesday, October 30th, 1906,

between the hours of 1 and 9 p. m.

Notice is further given that a Primary Election will be held on Tuesday, September 25th, 1906, between the hours of 1 o'clock and 9 o'clock p. m., in the various election districts, wards, boroughs, and townships in the County of Union, for the election of delegates to conventions of political parties, or for making nominations or for both as the case may be.

Ballots to be used at said Primary to be furnished to District Boards of Registry and Election by the different city, borough, and township clerks in the County of Union.

GOTHAM'S AMUSEMENTS

No date has yet been fixed by Mr. Belasco when Blanche Bates is to close her New York engagement in "The Girl of the Golden West," now in its second season at the Belasco theatre, although contracts entered into last year call for her appearance in other leading cities.

David Warfield, in "The Music Master," opens his road tour at the Majestic theatre, in Boston, October 1. His work will be seen only in a number of the leading cities this season, as, owing to the great popularity of the artistic Belasco attraction, his engagement in the large cities will be for longer periods than usual.

The second act of "The Girl of the Golden West," David Belasco's inspiring play of early California, in which Blanche Bates has entered upon the second year at the Belasco theatre, New York, is said to be one of the most thrilling realistic pictures ever seen on any stage. The great moment when the audience holds its breath comes when Jack Rance, the gambler sheriff, who has pursued the Girl's lover, his rival, to her cabin, after wounding him, has his suspicions allayed by her and holds out his hand to say good-bye. In the moment of her triumph, as Rance is about to go, believing that his prey is not concealed there, he discovers blood trickling down through the rafters of the loft and discoloring his extended hand and white handkerchief.

"Oh!" says the sheriff, in his cold, metallic, matter-of-fact tone, looking up, "he's there!" Then his hand wanders to his pistol. He lets down the ladder, and in that same hard, unsympathetic vocie, he exclaims "Come down, Mr. Johnson!"

It is the prelude to the great poker-game to which the Girl challenges Rance, with her lover as the stake, which is so thoroughly characteristic of Belasco's knowledge of inspiring effects.

"Mrs. Wiggs" and the curious folk who make their residence in "The Cabbage Patch," put in appearance at the New York theatre last Monday evening and went through their lives on the stage just as they did in the famous books, "Mrs. Wiggs" and "Lovey Mary." That cherry optimist, Mrs. Wiggs herself, did what she could to further the cause of happiness, incidentally correcting her daughters, Asia, Europena and Australia, and dragging them up in the way they should go. Even "Cuby," the famous horse that was dragged back from the equino happy hunting grounds by the indefatigable Mrs. Wiggs, wended his way through the play, and Chris Hazy, peg-leg and all, stumped rollickingly along in company with the others. Not since the remarkable engagement of three months at the Savoy theatre three years ago has "Mrs. Wiggs" been seen in New York and the enormous New York theatre was crowded to its capacity. There is a homely philosophy about the character of Mrs. Wiggs that is irresistibly humorous in its appeal to the American people and its performance Monday night was greeted throughout by storms of laughter and applause. Nearly all the famous epigrams were received as though they had personal application to every one in the audience. Madge Carr Cook played the character of Mrs. Wiggs and was supported by Edith Taliaferro, Vivian Ogden, Myrtle Tannehill, Anna Fields, Charles Carter, Oscar Eagle, Argyle Campbell, Robert Stanley and Noble Morrison.

INSURANCE ON PLAYS.

If You Don't See the Show You Get a Premium.

New York, Sept. 27.—Plans are being discussed for the formation of an insurance company to protect against loss when postponements are made in big theatrical productions.

It will be the object of the Actors' Liability Company, as the concern will be called, to protect actors, managers and the public and eventually to insure managers, actors and authors against the failure of plays. The company will insure the public in such a way that they can be absolutely assured when they buy a theatre ticket that they will either see the performance on the night for which the ticket is purchased or receive twice the amount of the purcsase money.

DR. RICHARDS TO BE AT CHAPEL DEDICATION

NEW $7,000 CHAPEL WILE BE DEDICATED AT GARWOOD OCTOBER 5.

The Presbytery of Elizabeth will meet in the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church on Tuesday morning, October 2 and at 12:45 o'clock in the afternoon the Presbytery will go in a body on a special trolley car to Garwood to inspect the new chapel which has been in course of construction there for some time past, under the guidance and direction of Rev. Edward Love, of this city. Mr. Love has devoted considerable of his time in looking after the religious interests of Garwood.

In the evening at 7:45 o'clock the new chapel will be dedicated and Rev. Dr. William R. Richards, formerly of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, but now of the Brick Presbyterian church, New York, will preach the dedicatory sermon.

The new chapel has been built at a cost so far of about $7,000, of which Plainfield people have given a considerable part. It will seat about 300 people and is considered a beautiful chapel from an architectural point of view.

Voehl Divorce Case Up.

Testimony is being taken today before John H. VanWinkle, Esq., special master, in the divorce proceedings by George Voehl against his wife, Delia Rebecca Voehl. The matter was referred to the special master by the Chancellor with instructions to take depositions in the case and to ascertain and report as to the truth and allegations of the complainant's bill and his opinion thereon. Many witnesses will be called. Francis J. Blatz, Esq., is the solicitor for Mr. Voehl.

Home From Trip Abroad.

After a delightful four months' trip abroad visiting Spain, Francs, Switzerland and England, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Eoff and son, Charles Eoff, of Crescent avenue, arrived home last night on the steamer Majestic. During their travels abroad they were accompanied by their daughter, Mrs. Bostwick and her husband, Dr. Bostwick, who live at Gibralter.

Papole—Troiano.

Miss Mary E. Troiano, of North Plainfield, and Nicholas Lapole, of Elizabeth, were quietly married this morning at 11 o'clock at St. Joseph's church by Rev. Father Miller. After a short wedding trip the couple will reside in Elizabeth. The bride was for the past five years bookkeeper for V. Perrin et Cie, the glove manufacturers, this city.

Big Bible Class.

It is expected that fifty students of the Bible will join Rev. Dr. Jesse Lyman Hurlburt's class at the Y. M. C. A. Twenty-five men have already enrolled. A meeting of the class members will be held tonight at the association. Dr. Hurlburt is assistant editor of the Sunday-school Times, and a former pastor of the First M. E. church.

Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Cottrell, of East Second street, will shortly move to the South.

Mr. and Mrs. William Lindsay, Jr., entertained a few of their friends at their home on West Front street last Thursday evening, the occasion being the birthday of their daughter, Olive. Games were played and music was furnished by Mrs. Sickley. Prizes were won by Miss Alice Sisson and Mr. Diener, after which refreshments were served. The party departed, wishing Miss Lindsay many returns of the day.

Society notes of Elizabeth give an account of a dinner and theatre party given by Mr. and Mrs. Nelson E. Barton, of Aberdon road, at which Mr. and Mrs. Frederic Harrington, of Rockview terrace, were among the guests.

THE FORUM.

West End Complaint.

Editor, The Daily Press:

What became of the petition that was presented to the Common Council of our city last spring to have West Third street graded, macadamized and properly lighted from Monroe avenue to the township line? It was placed in the hands of a committee to be killed, I suppose. There is not a decent street south of the railroad for anyone either to drive or walk from Rock avenue to Monroe avenue, and there is need of at least one good thoroughfare. If there was a good street there, it would relieve the traffic on West Front street, which is kept in a bad condition by the Public Service Corporation a great deal of the time. Then, too, the railroad crossing at Rock avenue is a very dangerous one. How can the city expect people to build in the west end where they is such a demand for houses, when they must either wade through sand or snow. They will not even plow the streets open in the winter, when the snow is knee-deep, so that the people can get to the main part of the city to do their shoping. There is not a section of the city that would grow more rapidly than Rockview Heights if it had any encouragement, but if it asks for any improvement of streets, water or lights it is turned down. And yet, the tax in that section is just as high as where they have all the improvements. West Third street should be graded and macadamized at once so as to relieve Front street of some of her traffic, if for no other reason. If the street committee would take a drive through the west end, I think it would be convinced that something should be done at once. A PROPERTY OWNER.

MR. DRYDEN EXTENDS THE OLIVE BRANCH.

Senator Dryden was in a happy mood when interviewed at his office in the Prudential building at Newark yesterday. On his desk were many telegrams and letters of congratulations, while his telephone bell was kept going almost incessantly by friends sending felicitations.

The Senator said he had no intention of issuing a formal statement, but thought it due and proper that he should express his gratitude.

"Naturally," he said, "I am very, very happy over the results. I consider this one of the proudest moments of my life. The verdict is very gratifying, and I appreciate it more than words can express. Now that it is over we can look back, and, of course, in the heat of the campaign, things have been said and done that leave a scar, but it is my sincere hope the olive branch will be accepted and the Republican ranks closed up. I mean that for all Republicans. My pleasure is added to by the fact that it is conceded that the primaries were conducted fairly and squarely, and the general impression that there was nothing to make the primaries unclean. The result throughout the State is extremely satisfactory, and I thank my friends."

MR. COLBY SAYS THE FIGHT WILL GO ON.

Senator Everett Colby was in as good spirits as ever yesterday morning, so far as appearances would indicate. That he was disappointed, he admitted, but he was still full of fight when interviewed by a reporter:

"We were defeated and there is not much to be said excepting that one of the ablest and most faithful delegations Essex county ever sent to the Legislature has been recalled.

"I am naturally greatly disappointed, but not in the least discouraged. The fight which we started last year is just becoming interesting, and this defeat, while it may set the movement back a few months, will not deter those interested in it from working for ultimate results. The 'bishops' bill is mainly responsible for the result."

MANY SAW HIM KILLED.

Man Escaped One Train to Be Struck by Another.

An unidentified man, about forty years old, was instantly killed yesterday afternoon at the East Thirty-third street station of the Central Railroad at Bayonne. A score of men, women and children waiting for trains witnessed the accident.

The man stood on the east-bound freight track and stepped to the other track to avoid a train. He failed to notice the approach of a Royal Blue Line express, bound to New York. His body was hurled against the freight train and fell between the tracks.

SUICIDE BY HANGING.

Mrs. Dinah Smith's Body Found in Hay Mow.

Somerville, Sept. 27.—Mrs. Dinah Smith, 60 years old, who lived with her brother, John Bennett, near Wood's Tavern, this county, committed suicide yesterday by hanging herself in the hay mow.

Her lifeless body was cut down by her brother when he went to the loft to throw down some hay. Mrs. Smith had been dead but about an hour.

Mrs. Smith returned from the State Hospital for the Insane about three months ago and had become despondent.

Prisoner Makes Picture Frames.

William J. Dittmar, who is confined in the Somerset county jail on a charge of murdering "Red" Howard in East Somerville last summer, is an expert wood carver and passes away much of his time making picture frames from cigar boxes. Sheriff Cooper, Deputy Anderson and Assistant "Billy" Moore have been presented with specimens of his handiwork, which is indeed really clever. It takes Dittmar about three days to turn out a frame. Dittmar is by trade an iron moulder and before the shooting was foreman in a large iron works in East Somerville. The Grand Jury has investigated his case and found an indictment against him. His trial has been set for October 22.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Sept. 30.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—Religion in business affairs.—Gen. xxxix, 1-6.

One of the facts that need to be greatly emphasized today is that a man must take his religion into the business affairs of his life. If a Christian cannot take his Christianity into his business he must take himself out of that particular business or must give up his religion. Special reasons exist why this subject should be emphasized today. (1) The temptations of a business life are very great now, perhaps greater than ever before. Competition is great and the desire for success is strong. Men want to get rich in a day. And when they see that by the practice of fraud and dishonesty they can increase their business and obtain better results the temptation to do so is very strong. (2) There are many men in the business world who have no religion and make no claim to piety. These are unscrupulous in business dealings, and so far as riches are concerned often meet with success. This often leads men who prefer to be honest to do the same things. They must "fight fire with fire," but no man can touch fire without being burned. (3) The fallacy widely prevails that dishonesty in business is not dishonesty. It is business cleverness and shrewdness. A man who would scorn to take money from another's pocket will not hesitate to defraud him in business transactions. Nor will his conscience cause him to lose sleep over his misdeeds. The falsity of such a theory should be evident to a child. And how it can be accepted and practiced by business men, who are supposed to have unusually sound judgment and clear vision, is hard to understand. A business lie is no less a lie. A dollar falsely obtained in a business transaction is as much a stolen dollar as one taken by theft from the vault of a bank, and the business man who takes the dollar is as much a thief as the crook who enters a bank by night and robs it. Righteousness never had and never will have one standard for business and another for the individual in his personal relations.

Moreover, religion is a help and not a hindrance to business. The idea prevails that men cannot be perfectly honest in business and succeed. If this be the case it is hard on business and harder still upon the business men of the world. If the affairs of men in their business relations with one another cannot be honestly conducted and a fair profit made, then there is no place where reform is so much needed as in the methods of the business world. But such is not the case. The presence of God is always a blessing and never a curse. The man who takes God with him into his business can succeed if he understands the business and is efficient in conducting it. Joseph conducted the business of Egypt upon a religious basis, and God blessed and prospered him. So He will bless and prosper all men who take Him with them into their business affairs. Young men, in starting out in life make God a silent partner in your business and you will have one member of the firm who will never fail you, and success will come. And if it should not, as men count success, even then you will be better off. Poverty and honesty are preferable to riches and dishonesty. Better be a begging Lazarus than a Dives if to be Dives you must sacrifice your manhood and your religion.

BIBLE READINGS.

Ex. xx, 15; Ps. xxxvii, 1-11; Matt. v, 16; vii, 12; John ix, 4; Acts v, 1-11; Rom. ii, 9-11; I Cor. iv, 2; Col. iii, 8-14; Rev. xxi, 27.

A Significant Summary.

The whole life of the Christian Endeavor movement is contained in the little span of years indicated by the hyphen between the dates Feb. 2, 1881-Feb. 2, 1906, and does not cover half the years of any of us who can scarcely yet believe that we are not young men. Here are a few of the facts which make these dates significant:

Feb. 2, 1881.—One society with forty members.

Feb. 2, 1906.—Over 67,000 societies with nearly 4,000,000 members.

Feb. 2, 1881.—One nation and one language represented in the society.

Feb. 2, 1906.—Over fifty nations or large dependencies and eighty languages represented.

Feb. 2, 1881.—The only literature a draft copy of the constitution.

Feb. 2, 1906.—Forty weekly or monthly publications in fifteen different languages exclusively devoted to the society, weekly or monthly Christian Endeavor departments in several thousand papers and magazines and abundant other literature in most of the chief languages of the world.

Feb. 2, 1881.—No national, state or local Christian Endeavor unions.

Feb. 2, 1906.—National unions in the United States, Canada, Australia, Great Britain, France, Spain, Italy, Germany, Sweden, Switzerland, Finland, Bulgaria, Hungary, Bohemia, India, China, Japan, Brazil, Mexico and South Africa (both for the Dutch and the English) and more than 3,000 state and local unions, with regular meetings held in almost all parts of the world.

Feb. 2, 1881.—One denomination represented.

Feb. 2, 1906.—One hundred denominations represented.

This summary makes plain, as nothing else could, the timeliness and providential character of the movement.—Francis E. Clark, D. D., in Outlook.

Evil Fruits of Complaining.

There are certain people who seem always to be discouraged. Their brightest days do not satisfy them. They spoil everything by their everlasting complaining. Three evils result from such a habit: It makes the complainer himself miserable. It casts a shadow on every one with whom he comes in contact. Then it grieves God, for it shows a lack of gratitude and also of trust.

Sept. 30: "The Standard of Personal Service."

By REV. WALTER J. YATES, D. D.

The will of God.—Rom. xii, 1, 2. The supreme rule.—Matt. xxvi, 39-42. As to our character.—John vi, 39, 40; I Thess. iv, 3. As to our service.—John xv, 5-16; I Thess. ii, 4. As to our acceptance.—Matt. vii, 21-23.

Did you ever consider what different notions people have of what constitutes real manliness and womanliness? If you have never thought much about it give it some attention, and you will be surprised not only at the wide variation in ideas, but will be truly astonished at some of the ideals of life set up by some folks.

Multitudes of children grow up in city and country whose daily contact with vice, coarseness and pollution has given them an idea of life and the world in which little chance is given for an element of moral purity and beauty to enter, still less to control.

What wonder, then, when these fill our reformatories and prisons and a career of crime goes hand in hand with a life of shame!

Other multitudes grow into mature life with every luxury which leisure and wealth can supply. What wonder that these in business life, having great power of money and position, almost wreck the institutions of business and political life and in society spread the slime of corruption over the whole serpent trail of their lives!

The fault is with their standard of life. Whoever makes the securing of personal enjoyment his chief end in life, or even his own advancement the prime object of endeavor, erects a standard which if attained will inevitably reveal moral ruin in character and the blasting of the best powers of existence. There is no gain to be had by that road which is worth the taking.

If we are to get any permanent personal good we must first recognize that we are in a world where some things were fixed before we came in and we cannot largely change them. In fact there are principles of eternal truth and right on which this world is based, and, however much or long a wrong thing may seem to flourish and prosper, its overthrow is inevitable. Sorrow and pain are the sure outcome of wrongdoing. Whoever gets good must seek it by the path of right. No lie prospers. As Carlyle has well said, "The most unprofitable condition in this world is a prosperous iniquity." A successful villain is a ruined man.

What standard can we be assured is correct? The United States standard of length is preserved with utmost care. All the civilized nations take great precautions regarding standard weights and measures.

In this moral universe the ultimate standard of all personal action is the character of God. This is expressed in His will and best revealed to us in His word—the Bible—and His word made flesh—the Christ.

The standard for an attainment is the likeness of the divine man, Jesus of Nazareth.

Are you measuring yourself by this and are you growing toward the stature of His fullness? By that measure you will be sized up by and by.

Sentence Sermons.

God often comes to visit us, but generally we are not in.—Abbe Roux.

To ease another's heartache is to forget one's own.—Abraham Lincoln.

Bind together your spare hours by the cord of some definite purpose.—William M. Taylor.

No grip is so hard to shake off as that of early religious convictions.—Maurice Thompson.

Great privileges never go save in company with great responsibilities.—Hamilton Mabie.

The Bible is a good time card, but a man makes a mistake when he tries to use it for a ticket.—Henry F. Cope.

Great powers and natural gifts do not bring privileges to their possessors so much as they bring duties.—Beecher.

His heart was as great as the world, but there was no room in it to hold the memory of a wrong.—Emerson.

Whenever conscience calls a halt it is no place for reason to debate the question; the way ahead is no thoroughfare.—Craddock.

Act Now.

Today is the golden age of your life and mine. Today is the garden of our career. Today the love of God broods over our souls. Today Christ is ready to bestow upon you the gift which will give you power to become a son of God. Today the air is like magic. Breathe it with faith and courage. Act not in some tomorrow, vague and illusory, but now.—Dr. Louis Albert Banks.

The Road of the Loving Heart.

Oh, what is the pathway white, with parapets of light,
Whose slender links go up, go up and meet in heaven high?
'Tis the road of the loving heart from earth to sky.

Who made the beautiful road? It was the Son of God,
Of Mary, born in Bethlehem. He planned it first, and then
Up the road of the loving heart He led all men.

Was it not hard to build? Yes; all His years were filled
With labor, but He counted not the cost nor was afraid—
No road of the loving heart is cheaply made.

The shining parapet in tireless love was set,
A deathless patience shaped the treads and made them firm and even.
By the road of the loving heart we climb to heaven.

May I follow this path of souls which leads to the shining goals?
Yes; Christ has opened the way to all which His blessed feet once trod,
And the road of the loving heart He made is the road to God.

—Susan Coolidge in Forward.

Proceedings of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union.

(Signed) Henry Krouse, George H. Kline, John Robison, Committee.

Freeholder Cay moved that the report be received, the additional amount asked for be granted, and the award of contract be confirmed, which was so ordered on roll call by an unanimous vote.

By the Committee on Bridge over Van Winkle's Brook, at Springfield, N. J.:

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders of Union County, N. J.:

Gentlemen — Your committee would respectfully report that, owing to recent building operations near the bridge, it is desirable to extend the bridge out on the northeast side, about four feet, to the true side line of the coping and wall, and build a new iron fence in connection with the improvement. Also to lay a concrete sidewalk over the bridge. The whole work to cost not more than $400.

(Signed) Peter H. Meisel, S. P. T. Wilbur, W. H. Swain, Dennis S. Murpry, George B. Cladek, Committee.

Freeholder Krouse moved that the report be received and the work authorized as stated, which was so ordered on roll call by an unanimous vote.

By the Committee on the "Simpson" Claim for Damages, etc.

Sept. 6, 1906.

To the Board of Freeholders of the County of Union, N. J.:

Gentlemen—The undersigned committee to whom was referred the matter of the Simpson claim for damages alleged to have occurred by reason of the breaking through of a plank on the bridge over Passaic River at Chatham; said bridge being a county bridge between Union and Morris counties, would respectfully report that they have investigated the matter and have ascertained that notwithstanding the original claim of said Simpson for said damages amounted to seven hundred dollars, that a proposition has finally been made to accept one hundred dollars in full settlement, one-half of the same to be paid by Morris county and one-half by Union county; and having ascertained that a satisfaction and release to Union county has been executed for delivery upon the payment of said amount of fifty dollars and being advised by the county attorney that notwithstanding the collection of said claim by suit by said Simpson was doubtful, but that under the circumstances the county, in his opinion, would not be justified in contesting so long as the amount above specified; we would therefore respectfully recommend that a warrant be drawn for said fifty dollars in full settlement of said claim.

Respectfully submitted,

Peter H. Meisel, Adolph H. Gruener, Joseph N. Perry, Committee on Legal Questions.

Respectfully advised, W. R. Codington, County Attorney.

Freeholder Cladek moved that the report be received and recommendation adopted, which was so ordered on roll call by an unanimous vote.

By Freeholder Cady:

Whereas, By reason of the recent changes in the tax law of this State, it is now necessary that the county of Union pay tax upon the lands owned by said county; and

Whereas, It is also necessary to make provisions for the additional expert and clerical help to the County Board of Taxation; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the committee's report on appropriations, adopted May 31, 1906, be amended by adding to the Contingent Account in said report the sum of fifteen hundred dollars ($1,500) to meet said payments.

Freeholder Krouse moved the adoption of the foregoing preamble and resolution, and on roll call they were unanimously adopted.

By Freeholder Darby:

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed to investigate the necessity of rebuilding a culvert on county road in Mountainside Borough, and report at next meeting as to probable cost.

On motion of Freeholder Robison, the resolution was adopted without dissent.

The Director appointed as the said committee, Freeholders Darby, Cady and Murphy.

By Freeholder Krouse:

Resolved, That the final payment due J. H. Parker & Co., amounting to $24,413.25, be paid, when properly audited, and when architect presents his certificate, and proper releases have been presented by said J. H. Parker Company.

Freeholder Adams moved the adoption of the resolution, and after Freeholder Cady has briefly stated that the said sum constituted the final payment on construction of the new Court House, the resolution, on roll call, was unanimously adopted.

By Freeholder Krouse:

Whereas, The County Board of Taxation has made application for assistance in ascertaining the true valuations of factory and other buildings throughout the county, other than residential or business properties, for the purpose of having the same assessed at a proper valuation; and

Whereas, It is incumbent upon this board to fix the compensation to be paid for such assistance when employed by said commission; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Union County Board of Taxation be, and hereby are, authorized to employ one expert, and one assistant to said expert, for the purpose of enabling said board to more correctly ascertain the true value of factory properties and other important buildings within the county of Union, for the purposes of taxation, and that the compesnation of said expert shall not exceed fifteen ($15) dollars per day, and that the compensation to said assistant shall not exceed fifty cents per hour. And be it further

Resolved, That said Boar dof Taxation be authorized to employ further clerical assistance, at a cost to the county of Union not exceeding the sum of one hundred and twenty-five dollars ($125).

Freeholder Woodruff moved the adoption of the foregoing preamble and resolutions, and on roll call they were unanimously adopted.

WASHING WITHOUT WATER

Is Like Trying to Get Rid of Dandruff Without Herpicide.

Did you ever see any one trying to wash themselves without soap or water?

If you did what would you say of him?

It is every bit as foolish to try to get rid of Dandruff and to prevent Baldness by feeding the germs which cause it, with Canthrarides, Vaseline, Glycerine and similar substances which form the principal ingredients of most so-called Hair Vigors.

Newbro's Herpicide is successful because it attacks and kills the parasitic germ which feeds on the hair roots.

It is the original and only genuine germicide manufactured.

Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

CHOICE MEATS.

to tempt the appetite and nourish the system can be found here. Our

Beef, Veal, Lamb, etc.

is well selected; fine enough to tempt the palate of an epicure. Talk about Roast Meat! Our Roast Beef is simply perfection. Rich, juicy, nourishing, the very essence of goodness. The prices, too, is peculiarly appropriate for lean purses. We think we have said enough to tempt you to call.

YOM KIPPUR NEXT.

Jewish Day of Atonement Begins Tomorrow.

Yom Kippur, the Jewish day of atonement, when every true Hebrew sets himsef right with the world by the payment of all debts and settling of all obligations, will begin tomorrow at sundown, to continue an entire day, ending with sundown Saturday evening. The day will be one of fasting and services will be held in the local synagogue almost without abatement during the 24 years.

Orthodox and reformers alike will attend the services and many will remain in the synagogue the entire time of observance. Yom Kippur is the most religious day of the eJwish calendar, and follows 10 days after Rosh Hashonah, the Jewish New Year, just closed. All Jewish stores will be closed during Yom Kippur.

Baseball and General Sports

DIAMOND DUST.

The Clinton Avenues will meet Scotch Plains on Crescent Oval Saturday afternoon at 3:30, the game being postponed from last Saturday on account of rain. The local team feels confident of winning and this will be the line-up: Whiteley, p-rf; O'Loughlin, c; Barnes, 1b; Giles, 2b; Emery, 3b; S. Scott, ss; A. Scott, lf; Barcley, cf; J. Scott, lf-p. The Plains team will be equally strong.

It is a source of regret to the many friends of Walter Nelson, of New Market, the popular baseball player, that he will probably not be able to play again this season. Several weeks ago he was injured in a trolley accident on West Front street, while returning home and has not played since.

Owing to rain the West Ends, of Somerville, could not play at Flemington, last Saturday, but arrangements have been completed for the Flemingtons to play at Somerville on Saturday. "Lou" Wiltse, of this city, will pitch for Somerville, and with good support he should have no trouble in sending his opponents home with a row of goose-eggs.

The National Baseball Commission has fined Pitcher Killan, of the Detroit Americans, $50 for playing, while under suspension, with an independent club of Chicago. He will be reinstated upon payment of the fine.

The Jersey City Eastern League Club will play its last game this season at Hoboken on Sunday. After that the team may take a short barnstorming trip.

Now that it is settled that Manager Murray, of the Jersey City Club, will act in a similar capacity for the Philadelphia Nationals, next year, the question of his successor is being discussed. Mr. Murray still owns stock in the Jersey City Club, and it would not surprise the fans to learn that Captain Joe Bean will be the choice for manager. While Joe is a good player, he is not as strong as a few years ago, but he knows the game like a book and would be very popular with the players.

As a means to increasing the interest in baseball fandom agrees that if Manager Burnham, of the Newark Eastern League Club, would take on a series with the Elizabeth Stars or Invaders, there would be nothing to beat it in the local field. The Jersey City Club has never lost prestige by playing with the Hobokens and there is money in it.

The York Tri-State League team, winners of the pennant in that league this season, will be the opponents of the Stars at Elizabethport on Sunday. The visitors will have Mike O'Neill, of the famous O'Neill brothers, the former St. Louis National battery, in the points and will be ably supported by Jacklitz, McFarland, Conn and Red Owens. As the Elizabethport team has won eleven straight games, an interesting contest can be expected. The game will be called at 3:30 o'clock.

GOLF.

With a card of 78—80—158, F. S. Armstrong won the semi-annual championship tournament and handicap of the New York Produce Exchange Golf Club at the Knollwood Country Club, on Tuesday. In the kickers' competition, W. H. Roberyson won, with a score of 80, while C. E. Halstead and J. D. Gluck tied for second place with 81 each.

A single stroke separated the opposing teams in a best ball match at the Baltusrol Golf Club, Tuesday. M. B. Metcalf and George Low beat C. F. Watson and Dave Hunter by 2 up and 1 to play in thirty-six holes. The winners had a best ball of 151 and the other pair 152.

The final round in the mixed foursome handicap tournament at the Fairview Country Club will be played Saturday. In the semi-final round this week Mr. and Mrs. Herz beat Mr. and Mrs. Hirsh 2 up, while Mr. and Miss Hammerslough beat Mr. Brander and Miss Shire 3 up and 2 to play.

Golfers in the metropolitan district will be welcome to compete in the invitation tournament of the Philadelphia Cricket Club, today, tomorrow and Saturday. Last spring Jerome D. Travers entered and won the chief cup in the open tournament at the Huntingdon Valley Country Club.

The women's championship, semi-final round, will be played at the Plainfield Country Club, today; also the women's consolation, and tomorrow the finals will be played for the consolation cup, while finals for the championship cup will be played on Saturday.

An interesting event in the schedule at the Plainfield Country Club this season has been the play for the monthly cups. It has attracted a large number of players in addition to those who compete for the Golf Committee cup. Just now play is going on for the September Handicap cup and the finals will be one of the attractions on Saturday. Play for the October Handicap cup will be started a week from Saturday and continued through the month.

In preparation for his work in defense of the intercollegiate golf championship, Robert Abbott is putting in a good deal of time these days in practice. He is constantly improving his game and his friends predict that he will again win the championship.

There is no more enthusiastic golfer in the city than Rev. C. L. Goodrich, of the Park Golf Club. He is a constant and frequent visitor to this course and he generally returns a low score. Rev. Dr. H. K. Carroll and Rev. J. O. McKelvey also maintain their interest in the game.

BOWLING.

The Park Club expects to enter a team in the Central New Jersey Bowling League tournament this winter and a meeting of the league will be held soon to plan for the season.

Representatives from all the cities in the National Interstate Bowling League will hold a session at the Oxford alleys, Newark, this week. An effort is being made to have Trenton join the league, giving the interstate a circuit of eight clubs as follows: Newark, New York, Brooklyn, Jersey City, New Brunswick, Elizabeth, New Haven and Trenton. It is not likely though that Trenton will consent to join the league.

Championship Finals at P. C. C.

Mrs. N. P. Rogers and Miss Maud VanBoskerck will play the finals at the Plainfield Country Club this afternoon for the women's golf championship of the club. The tournament started on Tuesday, when in the first round Miss Edith Tracy beat Mrs. H. Reeve Stockton, in an exciting and close match, 1 up, and Miss Maud VanBoskerck beat Miss Elizabeth Hess, 7 up. Yesterday Miss Maud VanBoskerck beat Miss Edith Tracy, 7 up, and Mrs. N. P. Rogers beat Miss Margaret Goddard, 7 up, leaving Miss VanBoskerck and Mrs. Rogers in the finals for today. The winner will receive a prize and the loser will get a consolation cup.

Footballists Preparing for Season.

A meeting of the Plainfield Athletic A. F. C. will be held tonight at 672 Essex street during which plans for the season will be discussed. A match game of the association team will be held on the grounds at Clinton avenue and West Second street, Saturday afternoon. The members will wear their new uniforms.

—A. Bohren, of 130 North avenue, has purchased the house of Mrs. Johnson, of 415 West Second street. He will take possession October 1.

—An old uncovered well located on the Durlach property on Watchung avenue, near the sidewalk, is rather dangerous for pedestrians, especially after dark, and should be attended to.

—The best quality but low prices is the standard adhered to by Neuman Brothers in their daily display of fresh vegetables. An especially large assortment for tomorrow; look it over and make selections.

—Though the peach season is well advanced, the quality of the fruit received by Neuman Brothers continues to be the very best. They will have a large assortment of extra quality white and yellow peaches tomorrow at 85c, $1 and $1.25 a basket.

Mrs. Lilly Allen Dead.

Mrs. Lilly Allen, aged 32 years, daughter of William L. Wright, of West Front street, died at her home in Milford, Conn., on Wednesday, September 19. She had been ill since last May. The interment was at New London, Conn., on Saturday. She is survived by a husband and two children.

Robert Marsh Injured.

Robert Marsh, a machinist, residing on Plainfield avenue, and employed at the Pond Machine Tool Works, sustained a laceration of the left hand while at work, yesterday afternoon. Marsh went to the hospital and after the hand was dressed he returned home.

Miss R. P. Willits.

Miss R. P. Willits, for many years a well known teacher in the public schols of Middlesex county but recently of South Amboy, died at the home of her sister, Mrs. A. M. Runyon, of Madison avenue, this afternoon. Notice of the funeral will be given hereafter.

An infant child of Mr. and Mrs. William Trembath, of Chatham street, is quite ill.

Miss McKee, of Brooklyn, is spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. A. J. Leader, of 65 Duer street.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Strapp, of Manson place, are the parents of a baby boy who arrived at their home this morning.

James T. McMurray attended a meeting of the New Jersey Commission to the Jamestown Fair, at Trenton, yesterday.

William L. Wright, of West Front street, has gone to the hospital, where today he will be operated upon by Dr. F. C. Aard for a serious eye trouble.

LEFT HIM $40,000 "TO USE IN LORD'S SERVICE"

Wealthy Missouri Woman Bequeaths Big Sum to Benjamin T. Fawcett in Trust.

A BRETHREN WORKER

Plainfielder Met Benevolent Woman Two Years Ago—Left Like Sum to Another.

According to the provisions of the will of Mrs. Eleanor Hood, a wealthy Christian woman, who died at her home at Webster Groves, near St. Louis, a few weeks ago, Benjamin T. Fawcett, of Washington avenue, the borough, and William H. Coppard, a travelling man of Evansville, Ind., have each been left $40,000 to be used by them as they think best "in the service of the Lord." The bequests are not of a personal nature, but are to be used for the spread of the Gospel, and both Mr. Fawcett and Mr. Coppard will act in the capacity of trustees in making use of the money as directed by Mrs. Hood.

Mrs. Hood was a member of the Brethren and for a great many years had attended the meetings of that religious society. She had known Mr. Coppard for a number of years, he, too, being actively engaged and identified with the same religious work. It was two years ago that Mrs. Hood became acquainted with Mr. and Mrs. Fawcett, while they were visiting in Chicago. They met at one of the meetings of the Brethren and Mrs. Hood became greatly interested in the religious work being done by Mr. Fawcett in the East. It was no doubt largely through her knowledge of the work being done by Mr. Fawcett and Mrs. Coppard that she selected them to make use of a portion of her great wealth. Besides she had but few near relatives. She remembered them generously in her will and then decided to set aside $80,000 for religious purposes.

While Mrs. Hood possessed great wealth and owned a handsome home at Webster Groves, she lived a plain and simple life, devoting as much of her time and strength as possible to the advancement of her religious principles. Her husband died about ten years ago. He, too, was identified with the Brethren and up to the time of his death was an active member of that society.

According to the laws of Missouri it will be almost a year before the money will go to Mr. Fawcett and Mr. Coppard, as the usual nine months' notice to persons having any claim against the estate must be given.

When inquiry was made at the home of Mr. Fawcett concerning the matter the members of the family were a little reticent about talking of it, but did not hesitate to confirm the story. Mr. Fawcett has known Mr. Coppard a little less than two years. The former is engaged in the linen business in New York as an impoter and Mr. Coppard being a travelling salesman they met in New York. Neither of the men are relatives of Mrs. Hood.

PASTOR'S RECEPTION.

Congregation Meets With Rev. Chas. E. Herring.

Under the auspices of the Pastor's Aid Society of the First Presbyterian church, the fall reception was tendered to Rev. Charles E. Herring, in the chapel of the church, last night. There was a large attendance and all enjoyed the informal programme provided for the occasion. During the evening Martin A. Korff's orchestra rendered an attractive programme of music.

The chapel was elaborately decorated for the reception with a profusion of cut flowers, greens and potted plants. Mrs. David Young, president of the society, assisted by other women of the church, had charge of the affair, acting as a reception committee and serving refreshments.

Boys' Club Teachers.

The names of three of the teachers who will have charge of the Boys' Club classes this fall were announced last night by Secretary Kenneth Robbie, of the Y. M. C. A. W. H. Butts will be the mechanical drawing teacher. His class will be limited to youths over sixteen. C. W. Bostwick will teach manual training, and the molding class will be in charge of John F. Gray. Boys' Secretary Barrows, of the Y. M. C. A., will be in charge of the Saturday night affairs.

MISS WESEMAN WEDS A PHILADELPHIAN

PLAINFIELD GIRL BTCOMES MRS. WESTON MORRIS WEINTRAUB.

Miss Ethel Weseman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Weseman, of East Sixth street, and Wistar Morris Weintraub, formerly of this city but now of Philadelphia, were married Wednesday night at the home of the bride's parents. Rev. Charles L. Goodrich, pastor of the Congregational church, performed the ceremony. The affair was attended by the relatives and a few intimate friends.

The bride was attended by her two sisters, Miss Margaret Weseman, as bridesmaid, and Miss Helen Weseman, as flower girl. The best man was Paul Weintraub, of Philadelphia, a brother of the groom. Mr. Weseman gave his daughter in marriage. The bride was goned in white crepe de chine, trimmed with Rennaissance lace, and she carried a shower bouquet of white roses. The bridesmaid's gown was of white batiste, trimmed with lace and she also carried white roses. The flower girl was gowned in white and she carried a basket of floers. The home was very prettily decorated with palms, asparagus fern and cut flowers, the arrangement being very effective in the parlor, dining room and the reception hall.

A reception followed the ceremony and later supper was served. The bride received a large number of gifts. Mr. and Mrs. Weintraub left that evening for a wedding journey and upon their return they will reside in Philadelphia, where the groom has a position in a chemical works.

Y. M. C. A. BOYS OPEN SEASON WITH RECEPTION

GREETED SECRETARY BARROWS LAST NIGHT—DEPT. ELECTION TOMORROW.

The reception of the Boys' Department of the Y. M. C. A. last night was attended by 200 of the members, their parents and friends. It was a most enjoyable affair.

Hal Merton, a magician and sleight-of-hand performer, furnished the amusement numbers, and won much applause. H. W. Barrows, the new Boys' Secretary, delivered a brief address, in which he outlined the work of the new season.

After the platform programme, an informal social hour was enjoyed, during which Mr. Barrows shook hands with the members and their parents.

It was announced that medals and emblems would be awarded to department members during the year, on the lines followed at colleges. The emblems will be won by work on teams of the association.

After the reception Mr. Barrows gave out the names of the boys nominated for department offices. The candidates are as follows: President, Russell Morris, Burt Leggett; vice presidents, Fred Smith, John Schofield; secretary, Stanley Robins, Dudley Wilcox. The election will be held tomorrow morning. The poll will be open from nine to twelve o'clock.

New P. S. C. Official.

George Luhr, of Elizabeth, has been appointed district superintendent of the Public Service Corporation to succeed William J. Davenport. He will be located at the offices of the company on Watchung avenue. Mr. Davenport contemplates a western trip, and he will probably be accompanied by William Randolph, his assistant, who has also resigned.

Miss Beatrice Miner a Bridesmaid.

Miss Beatrice Miner, of this city, was one of six bridesmaids attending Miss Matilda Lillian Remsen, of Newark, and Frederick Wharton Kirk, of Summit, which took place in the Central Presbyterian church, Newark, on Wednesday night. The couple entertained the members of the bridal party at an elaborate dinner at Davis' Hall, Newark, Tuesday night.

Will Live at Daytona.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward White have vacated their house on Fairview avenue and are now staying at the Hotel Kensington for a few weeks prior to going to their winter home at Daytona, Florida. Mr. White is moving his household goods there since selling his country home at Dunellen and he plans to spend about eight months each year in Florida.

C. N. FOWLER RENOMINATED

Lone Candidate For Congressional Honors Named By Republicans.

MR. FISK CHAIRMAN

R. B. Cissel Makes Nominating Speech—W. N. Runyon Acts As Secretary.

Charles Newell Fowler was renominated as Representative from the Fifth Congressional District, at the Congressional convention held in Jacobs' theatre, Elizabeth, this afternoon. The nominating speech was made by Robert B. Cissel, a Colbyite. Dr. C. B. Holmes, of Rahway, called the convention to order at 12:30 o'clock.

Former Mayor Charles J. Fisk, of this city, was selected as temporary chairman and he appointed the usual committees. City Judge William N. Runyon, Colbyite, was made secretary. He called the roll. After the temporary organization was effected, adjournment was taken to Turn Hall for dinner.

The convention re-convened at Jacobs' theatre at 2 o'clock. The first business was to make the temporary organization permanent.

Early in the day it was known that there would be no opposition to Congressman Fowler and arrangements were soon made to have Mr. Cissel nominate the Elizabeth man for another term. Following the nomination there were speeches by James Sherman, chairman of the National Republican Congressional Committee and also by Lee Fairchild.

During the afternoon reports were received from the various committees and the adoption of the customary resolutions took place. The presence and activity of so many Colbyites at the convention is taken to indicate that they intend to support Congressman Fowler.

The following Plainfield delegates attended the convention:

First ward—J. B. Coward, F. S. Cutter, E. B. Maynard, W. C. McNaughton, N. P. Rogers, C. S. Sminck; Second ward—Colbyites—L. M. Booth, F. W. Butler, R. H. Depew, W. N. Runyon, J. G. Bicknell, R. E. Hall; Third ward—Colbyites—S. C. Baker, M. L. Clawson, C. J. Fisk (R.), D. W. Taylor, J. S. Higham; Fourth ward—John Carty, Edgar McCray, Alfred Prudhorn, W. S. Angleman, C. C. Gallup, J. MW. Mitchell, regulars, and N. B. Briggs, Alexander Gordon and F. T. Woodhull, Colbyites.

AN ANNIVERSARY.

Monroe Ave. M. E. Epworth League Marks 15th Year.

The Epworth League of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church held its fifteenth anniversary last night. N. Mansfield Smith made a short address and introduced the speaker, Rev. Herbert Munson.

Rev. Munson was the first pastor of the church and held the pastorate at the time the church was made a branch of the league. He called attention to the improvement made in work since it was first begun, and spoke encouragingly of the work at the present time.

Refreshments and a social hour followed.

Praise for P. H. S.

At the opening of the 153d year of Columbia University's St. Barnard College, the woman's branch, were admitted as freshmen, four of the class of '06, Plainfield High School, Miss Gertrude L. Hunter, Miss Antoinette D. Hill, Miss Lina Bohan and Miss MacMurray. The standing they attained at entrance was most honorable to themselves and creditable to their instructors in the High School. On Saturday, through the kindness of Miss Mary Lock, they were presented to the dean of the college by whom they were most cordially entertained and assured of the high regard felt by the officers of the college for the pupils of the P. H. S.; as in the past, they school has furnished the college students who have taken high rank and proved an honor to it.

Funeral of Richard E. Coriell.

In the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends, the funeral of Richard E. Coriell was held at his late home on Fairview avenue, yesterday afternoon. It was conducted by Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, pastor of the First Baptist church. The interment was at Hillside, the pall bearers being B. Frank Coriell and C. H. Rugg, of this city, and four of Mr. Coriell's associates in J. W. Johnson's silver house in New York.

TAX RATE FIXED AT $1.35 PER $100

The State School Rate .09296; County .027998; Agreed Upon by Union County Board of Equalization of Taxes.

VALUATION 20 MILLIONS

Entire Valuation of Union County Over $106,000,000—Last Year's Rate $2.48.

The Union County Board of Taxation completed its work of revising the various books of the county today, and announced the tax rates for the different municipalities, after determining the State, school, county, city and other valuations. Plainfield's tax rate for the coming year will be $1.35 per one hundred. Last year it was $2.48.

The total valuation for the county is $106,000,000, and of this Plainfield's valuation is $20,963,975. The amount to be raised for State school purposes is $19,488.11, and that for county purposes $58,694.93.

The State school rate is .09296, the county rate, .027998, and for city purposes the rate is $1.20958 per hundred.

It is argued that the State school and county rates have prevented lower rate for Plainfield. The Plainfield assessors closed their books at Elizabeth yesterday, thereby showing that no further changes would be made. As regards the assessment in Plainfield while the field work is done individually by the assessor in each ward, they have to be passed upon by at least three members of the board of four. The assessment on no property can be cut or raised without a majority vote of the board. Thus no one man is held responsible for the result, neither is his judgment alone taken in determining valuations.

RECEPTION TO OLDEST MEMBER

W. C. T. U. Honors Mrs. Mahala Sims an Earnest and Faithful Worker.

In honor of Mrs. Mahala Sims, who is the oldest member of the organization, a reception was held in the W. C. T. U. rooms yesterday afternoon. There was a large attendance of White Ribboners who came to congratulate the aged member who is nearing her ninetieth year. Despite her years, Mrs. Sims enjoys excellent health and her faculties are unusually good. She thoroughly enjoyed the affair and entered heartily into the festivities.

During the reception Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson, president of the Union, and other members, related helpful incidents in the life of Mrs. Sims, telling of her devotion and good work for the cause of temperance. There was also an informal programme of music.

An hour was devoted to sociability and the serving of cake and ice cream. A feature was a birthday cake, made and presented to Mrs. Sims by Mrs. M. C. Dobbins.

Yom Kippur Observed Here.

Yom Kippur, a service of fasting and prayer observed by the Jews, will begin at sundown tonight and continue until sundown tomorrow night. Services will be held tonight in the Jewish synagogue in New street, lasting about one hour. They will be in charge of a rabbi from New York. There will be continued fasting and prayer from early tomorrow morning until sundown, the idea being to devote the entire time and thoughts to prayer. This is considered the most solemn event of the year among the Jews. Six weeks from tomorrow there will be the "Feast of the Tabernacles."

Tent Services.

Rev. J. W. Musson, pastor, and several officers of Faith chapel, attended the evangelistic services at John Cooper's place in Warrenville, last night, and Mr. Musson gave an interesting talk. These special services, which began two weeks ago, are being held in a tent and the attendance is very large.

Bids for Sewer Extension.

The October meeting of the Common Council will be held Monday night. It is expected that bids will be received at that time for the construction of the proposed southside sanitary sewer, while other matters of more or less importance will be considered.

OH! THAT RODENSKY BOY

The Borough Police Caught a Tartar When They Contracted to Send Him Home.

HE LIVES IN NEWARK

And Good Natured George Haymaker Was Nearly Lynched in Getting Him There.

Johnny Rodensky is only a small boy but he gave the borough police more trouble, last night, than any full grown prisoner they have had in a long time. He stirred up a good part of Union county as well and there is no telling what might have happened if his throat hadn't got sore from yelling and his feet tired from kicking.

The boy's home is on Broome street, Newark, but things don't go there as well as he would like to have them and so three weeks ago he took French leave. He made his way to his aunt's, Mrs. Rodensky, of Pearl street, in the borough, and proceeded to enjoy life. The parents located him there and through the Newark police asked the North Plainfield authorities to get hold of him and ship him back to Broome street.

Marshal Dooley sallied out, last night and little thinking what a hornet's nest he was going to stir up, laid officials hands on the runaway Johnny. That was just the point where the trouble began. Like the average Newark boy, Rodensky junior, hates a cop and he knew the one who had captured him didn't do it for fun. He struggled with all his might, bit and clawed and howled like a Hottentot. Dooley was half-inclined to lose his temper a dozen times but finally got Johnny to police headquarters without any casualties on either side.

A consultation between the officials and the relatives resulted in the edict that the boy was to be returned, but none of the marshals could be spared to escort him to Newark. The promise of carfare and a little something for refreshments on the side was held out to several men but they all declined to have anything to do with the Rodensky volcano. Finally Geo. Haymaker, a stalwart driver, thought he saw a chance for a little excursion and volunteered to take the job.

He started to lead the youngster down Somerset street and the yelling and kicking began again. By the time Front street was reached a big crowd was following and those who didn't know what was wrong said all sorts of mean things about "the big brute that was abusing the little boy." When the two arrived at the Watchung avenue terminus, the bunch of rubbernecks in the rear, Patrolman O'Keefe called a halt and demanded an explanation from Haymaker. He was so excited he couldn't tell the story properly and he might have been arrested but for the intervention of Edward Mundy, who knew the facts.

Guard and prisoner then boarded a trolley car, the latter screeching blue murder and kicking at every shin that came near him. The racket continued until Westfield was reached and at that point, passengers who had gotten on along the route, wanted to "rough-house" Haymaker for "ill treating the child" as one old woman expressed it. They compromised by calling Chief of Police Thomas O'Neill and the man and boy were hauled off and taken to Westfield police headquarters. As Haymaker's story seemed a little fishy and Rodensky wouldn't stop bawling long enough to say two words, they were held prisoners while O'Neill called up the Narth Plainfield police. Another explanation had to be given and once more the journey was resumed.

At Cranford and Elizabeth, Haymaker barely escaped mobbing at the hands of indignant citizens and two or three times he was on the point of heaving the youngster as far as his muscular arms could throw him. His better judgment prevailed, however, and as they began the trip over the Newark meadows, Rodensky subsided from sheer exhaustion. He was as meek and innocent as a lamb when he was landed under the parental roof and Haymaker only stopped long enough to tell father and mother how near their young hopeful came to a violent death at his hands before he started back home.

It was said today that Haymaker would present a good-sized bill to the borough council for the clawing he received and the danger of lynching to which he was exposed.

MISS M. P. WILLITS A WIDELY KNOWN TEACHER

HAD TAUGHT IN MIDDLESEX COUNTY SCHOOLS FOR THIRTY-FIVE YEARS.

Miss Maria P. Willits, who died yesterday at the home of her sister, Mrs. A. M. Runyon, of Madison avenue, was one of the best known public school teachers in New Jersey. She began her career in this city, having a class in the building at Fourth street and Arlington avenue, afterward burned down. From here she went to Small Lots, near Paterson, and thence to the Middlesex county schools, where she began her work in 1870. Among the schools she taught in were those at Harris Lane, Fieldville, New Market, also Bound Brook and lastly South Amboy, where she remained. It was her intention to retire within two years.

Miss Willits left her class at South Amboy last Friday to go home and in alighting from a trolley car was thrown heavily. It brought on an illness and she came to Mrs. Runyon's home. She grew worse rapidly and from Sunday was in a comatose state. The end came early yesterday afternoon.

Miss Willits was the daughter of the late Samuel and Permelia Willits, her mother being a direct descendant of Penelope Stout, the first white woman to step on New Jersey soil. Mrs. Runyon is the only near relative living, a brother, Hiram B. Willits, of Madison, having died in 1890 and a sister, Mrs. Richard A. Ross, of Bound Brook, in 1897.

The funeral and interment will be private.

DEMOCRATIC MASS MEETING, OCT. 10

COL. STEVENS AND SENATOR MINTURN TO SPEAK AT PLAINFIELD THEATRE.

Plainfield's Democracy will arouse party enthusiasm at a mass meeting to be held at the New Plainfield theatre Wednesday night, October 10. It is announced that veteran warhorses will make the speeches and that tried and true followers of Thos. Jefferson will sit on the platform. Former Councilman Walter L. Hetfield, Sr., will preside.

The principal speaker will be Col. Stevens, of Jersey City, who is a favorite of the Democrats for United States Senator. Other speakers will include State Senator James Minturn and Assemblyman James Hammel, both of Hudson county. It is not probable that either James E. Martine or former Assemblyman Swackhamer will be asked to lend their oratorial abilities towards making the meeting a success.

Tonight, there will be a meeting of Democrats to arrange the details of the meeting. A committee of thirty will undertake the work, and it is probable that Mr. Hetfield will be its chairman.

Miss Allen a Bride.

Miss Beatrice Evelyn Allen, daughter of Mrs. Sarah A. Allen, of East Second street, and Arthur Rushford Rice, of Waterloo, Iowa, were married on Wednesday night by Rev. George M. Brown, pastor of the South Street Memorial M. E. church, Brooklyn, N. Y. Mr. Rice is chief electrician and wireless instructor at the electrical school in the Brooklyn Navy Yard.

Change in the Hour of Sunday-school.

The officers of the Congregational church Sunday-school have decided that in the future the session shall be held at 12 o'clock noon on Sundays, immediately after the morning preaching service. Heretofore the Sunday-school met at 2:45 o'clock in the afternoon. The new arrangement will go into effect on Sunday and the morning preaching service will begin at 10:30 o'clock.

He Sought Right Medium.

The business manager of the Courier-News wnated to recover a stick pin that he had lost on the street so he advertised in the Daily Press last night. A colored girl found the pin and naturally she scanned over the Daily Press wants advs to see who had lost it. The pin was brought by her to this office this morning and immediately turned over to the owner.

PERKINS, TILLMAN AND MOXON ARE NOMINATED

Choice of Republicans For Assembly Who Select Lufburrow For Coroner.

FRANKLIN CHAIRMAN

Colbyites a Hopeless Minority But Prevent Making Nominations Unanimous.

Randolph Perkins and Peter Tillman were renominated for the Assembly by the Union County Republican convention at Elizabeth yesterday afternoon, and John R. Maxon, an Elizabeth young man, was named as their running mate. He takes the place of Everard K. Tucker. Dr. C B. Lufburrow, of this city, was nominated for coroner. The Colbyites refused to make the nominations unanimous.

The convention was not interesting. The Colbyites, who might have furnished spice under other circumstances, were hopelessly in the minority. Perkins and Tillman were nominated on the first ballot, but an extra poll was necessary to clear Moxon, who was the choice of the county organization, from the cluster of favorite sons who hampered the voting.

County Chairman Frank H. Smith called the convention to order in the Lyceum theatre at 3:30 o'clock. Ruford Franklin, of Summit, was made temporary chairman. The vice presidents appointed were Gilbert Fletcher, of this city; W. F. Hall, Cranford, and Henry Clauss, Elizabeth. C. H. Dunham, of this city, and Joseph Cahill, of Elizabeth, were appointed secretaries. The temporary organization was made permanent.

After committees had been appointed, the convention took a recess for half an hour. Plainfielders on committees were as follows: Herbert Buxton, on Rules; C. B. Morse and Amos Andrews, on Organization; W. R. Coddington, on Resolutions.

Before the convention opened the twenty-six Colbyite delegates held a conference, over which Judge Runyon presided, and decided to present planks expressing their principles for adoption in the platform. Before the convention went into recess, D. Edwin Davis, of Elizabeth, presented the planks decided upon to the chair, for consideration by the Resolutions Committee.

The planks favored the enactment of laws by the next Legislature to enable the people to nominate candidates directly at primaries; to bring about the taxation of the values of public utility franchises in streets at local rates; to permit of popular selection of United States Senators; to bring about a thorough legislative investigation of life insurance companies and their relations to financial institutions; to investigate the capitalization of corporations, to enable the Legislature to enact intelligent laws to prevent over-capitalization; to bring about the repeal of the statute protecting fraudulent promotors; to bring about rule whereby each house of the Legislature may be compelled to vote on bills at the written request of twenty per cent of the members; to compel Legislature agents and lobbyists to register; to bring civil service to apply to all subordinate public positions to take them out of politics; to allow municipalities to own electric light and gas plants; to separate municipal and general elections; to vest in the courts the power of summary review of all elections, and power to order a recount.

Mr. Franklin made a humorous speech in accepting the chair. He referred satirically to the Colby movement. The tail had tried to wag the dog, he said, and, as usual, the tail had not succeeded. He said the movement was honest enough in the beginning, but in the latter days of the campaign it had passed into the control of disappointed office-seekers and people who made it not a campaign in the party but against the party. He had kind words for the defeated, and he expected a ready acceptance of them. He looked for the support of honest Colbyites for the ticket. The speech, and particularly its few conciliatory passages, was roundly applauded.

The following platform was adopted, with the addition of two olbyite planks:

"Under the wise, energetic and fearless course of President Roosevelt, aided by a loyal Senate and House of Representatives, the Republican party has accomplished,

Attend Our Millinery Opening Friday and Saturday This Week.

We are ready to show Imported Models for the trade, including designs from our own workroom and exhibiting conceptions of the very latest creations. Among them: "The M'lle Modiste," a picture Hat of Paon Velvet having large shadowing lines, caught up at the side with two large white Plumes, finished off with a large Chou of Black Moire Ribbon. Also showing the latest styles in small Turbans. Our first season's great success establishes us as having the leading Millinery Department in Plainfield.

Your are cordially invited to attend the Opening on second floor—(elevator service)—where competent salespeople will be pleased to serve you.

(See Display in Windows.) PERSIAN RUG SALE. (See Display in Windows.)

Under the direction of Mr. Serges Y. Hosanna, of Urmia, Persia, who brings with him a big line of various sizes in the Genuine Persian Rugs. Mr. Hosanna was in Plainfield last year and did a large business, all who bought of him were much pleased with their purchases, as his prices are much less than what would be charged in New York.

These goods will be on sale on our second floor, where we have opened a new Rug and Drapery Department. Mr. Hosanna will be glad to show these Rugs and give all information desired. Prices range from $10 to $300.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY

The report shows that Receiver Brokaw has received $16,543 and has disbursed $3,682, and that there is a balance in his hands of $12,860. It shows also that there are settlement claims of creditors aggregating $6,923. The rule requires the stockholders to show cause why the receiver should not be allowed $800 as compensation and counsel $250 as his fee, and also why the claims referred to should not be paid.

Richard Brokaw, of Bound Brook, receiver of the Lake Pigment company, has filed in the Court of Chancery the report of his receivership, and on motion of John H. Backes, of Trenton, his counsel, Vice Chancellor Bergen has made an order requiring the stockholders of the company to show cause at the State House, October 2, why the report should not be confirmed and the receivership wound up.

Since the thefts at the Gray, Fisher and Fenner houses Tuesday night, Marshal Mohan has lengthened his patrol trips about the borough an hour each night. It is suspected that local youths committed the crimes, and the few faint clues are being followed sharp.

Special music has been planned for the evening service at the Baptist church Sunday night.

The football eleven practiced last night. The new style of play has been mastered.

Mrs. Emma L. Baldwin has returned from a visit to relatives in Irvington.

H. T. Garretson was in New Brunswick yesterday on business.

George Apgar has returned to work after a week's illness.

Several local men attended the Trenton fair yesterday.

Alvah Gray has recovered the full use of his injured foot.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD

The local ball team should take a big following to Crescent Oval tomorrow afternoon, when they play the Clinton Avenue team, as ball games will soon be a thing of the past. The locals will present the usual line-up: Vanderbilt, rf; Reick, lf; J. Alberts, 2b; Baldwin, ss; Eller, cf; H. Alberts, c; G. Frentz, 1b; Schreinbeck, 3b; A. Frentz or Johnston, p.

John Wade, who has been spending his vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Abram Wade, has returned to his studies at the Centenary Collegiate School, Hackettstown.

L. W. Miller and Randolph Drake were the local delegates at the Republican county convention held at Elizabeth yesterday afternoon.

Gere Paff has returned to his position in New York, after enjoying a two weeks' vacation, part of which was spent at Mount Tabor.

J. E. Wooster and family, of New York, will occupy the Gilmore cottage in the borough this winter.

Rev. T. Moore-Smith leads the weekly prayer and praise meeting tonight at the Baptist church.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pangborn attended the Interstate fair at Trenton yesterday.

The Town Committee meets tonight in the town rooms.

MISS DEARBORN IS ONCE MORE A BRIDE.

Divorced Wife of Coachman Is Married at Her Mother's Home.

Miss Cornelia Hatch Dearborn, daughter of the late Dr. Henry Dearborn, of Montclair, and John Holland, of Boston, were married Wednesday by Rev. William Morgan, at the home of the bride's mother, No. 53 Orange road, Montclair. Miss Marie Deververa, of Manhattan, was maid of honor. The bridegroom was unattended. The ceremony was private, it being the wish of the bride's family to avoid publicity, owing to the notoriety occasioned a year ago when Miss Dearborn, who is about twenty-three years old and good-looking, married Henry Gill, a fine-looking coachman in the employ of the family of a friend at Concord, N. H.

The couple eloped to Boston. After living together about ten days, Gill informed his bride that he had another wife and three children. She immediately left him and went to her home in Montclair. Later she secured a divorce from Gill in Brooklyn, the decree being granted by the late Supreme Court Justice Wilmot Smith. Mrs. Gill was allowed to resume her maiden name. What became of Gill is not known.

The bride is slightly lame and younger than her new husband. They will live in Boston.

—Miss Halloway, teacher of the Missionary Study Club, will meet her class for the second season of the fall at the Y. M. C. A.

NUTLEY MAN OWNS CHERISHED RELICS

VREELAND PRIZES A HORSEPISTOL AND A CUPBOARD.

A horsepistol, bearing the date of 1776 and the initials of J. V., is one of the relics cherished by Warren Vreeland, of Nutley. The barrel is made of iron, inlaid with brass. The stock is of black walnut, also inlaid and ornamented with the same material. The weapon was carried in the Revolutionary War by John Vreeland, grandfather of the present owner. The old gentleman, now enjoying his eighty-fifth year, held the weapon in his hand as he related with much feeling: "My grandfather carried two of these in the army; one on each side of his saddle in a holster, where they were convenient for quick action."

An old Holland cupboard, brought to this country in 1720, is also the property of Warren Vreeland. It is a massive piece of furniture, six and one-half feet high, six feet broad and a little more than two and one-half feet in depth, and is made mainly of solid cherry.

Below the top shelf there is a shallow drawer, in which were kept various valuable documents. There were two deeds most beautifully and evenly written upon parchment, bearing the date of 1784, still in the drawer when the cupboard passed into the possession of its present owner in 1884.

Among some of the ancient things that were kept in the cupboard are still to be found a linsey-woolsey blanket and some fine linen spun, woven and made into sheets about 125 years ago. The linen which formed the warp of the blanket was left white, but the wool was dyed blue and black and woven in alternate stripes about an inch wide.

The front feet of the cupboard are massive wooden balls and the knobs on a large lower drawer are made in the same design. The key to the cupboard is six inches long.

Mr. Vreeland told how he remembered crawling under the old cupboard when playing hide-and-seek with his brothers and sisters. He said reflectively, "Yes, I remember getting under there when it was a tight squeeze."

The cupboard was brought over from Holland by the first dominie who came to Belleville, which was at that time called Second River. Mr. Vreeland stated that it is his intention to present this antique piece of furniture to the public library of Nutley as soon as the new school building now in course of erection is completed, and where one or more rooms will be devoted to the use of the public library.

Going somewhat farther back into the early history of his family, Mr. Vreeland related some interesting incidents connected with an old griddle which was made to order in 1700.

It was first owned by Mrs. Altjie Vreeland, wife of Michael Vreeland. She was the mother of John Vreeland (who used the horse pistol previously described), grandmother of Abraham and great-grandmother of Warren Vreeland, its present owner.

The griddle is fourteen inches in diameter and weighs fifteen pounds, is made of wrought iron with a handle which might be described as an arm (quite different from those in use a few years later), fastened to one side only, extending about ten inches above the griddle, then bent at a right angle and extending above the centre of the plate, where it is finished with a swivel to permit turning so that the cakes would bake evenly over the open fire.

DOREMUS NEARLY NAMED AGAINST EXPRESSED WISH.

Newark Republicans Select Walton S. Howarth as Candidate For Mayor.

The Republican City Convention, of Newark, nominated, last night, Walton S. Howarth, President of the Common Council, for Mayor. The nomination was made on the first formal ballot, it being apparent before the vote was announced that Howarth was far in the lead.

Mayor Henry M. Doremus was presented for renomination, against his expressed desire, by Major Carl Lentz, but when 22 votes in the Eleventh ward delegation were swung to him from Alexander M. Linnett, and there was some indication that the Mayor would be named in spite of his declination, Major Lentz withdrew his name from the contest.

That left a clear field for Howarth and he won in a canter. The nominees before the convention were Howarth, Doremus, Linnett, Dr. Herman C. H. Herald and Alderman Alfred N. Dalrymple.

For members of the Board of Works the convention nominated Alderman Henry J. Thein and former Alderman Harry C. Dodd.

Dr. Emil Gunther was named for Trustee of the Newark City Home.

Louis J. Beers presided at the convention.

ADIEU.

Good-bye, dainty peekaboo!
Guess it's twenty-three for you.
Yet, this much I will avow,
Speaking boldly, here and now,
You have played a happy role,
Giving pleasure, as a whole,
Both to maids who wore you and
Many men throughout the land.
Poets, too, have sung of you,
Ventilated peekaboo,
Paragraphs had their say,
Waxing pertinent and gay.
Pouting preachers, here and there,
Spoke harsh words—as if you care!
You were talked, both up and down,
Winning fame and great renown.
You were honored by the bugs,
Biting where the suitor hugs.
You were proved a golden theme,
Half a garment, half a dream,
Waking envy in the mind
Of us wilting human kind,
Wreaking havoc in men's hearts,
Who observed by fits and starts,
Stirring up a deal of bliss
That a fellow couldn't miss.
Yet, the season's changed, and so,
Now it's time for you to go,
On your way, but promise to Come again, sweet peekaboo.

THE DELUGE

By DAVID GRAHAM PHILLIPS, Author of "THE COST," Etc.

A new and startling Serial Story which we have arranged to publish for the benefit of our readers.

Senator Albert J. Beveridge

SAYS OF IT:

"'The Deluge' must be dramatized, for it is life, life brimming to the cup's edge, quaffed to the cup's dregs—the power of human power and emotion at white heat, the thrill of battle at its fierce climax of bayonet thrust and throat clutch; the love of woman and woman's inexplicable caprice—all this and more like it make 'The Deluge' mesmeric in its fascination."

THE DELUGE is a story of high and frenzied finance. It is important to every fiction lover because it grips the attention in a vise of steel. It is important to every patriotic American because it lays absolutely bare the financial dilemma toward which the country has drifted. It is the fictional autobiography of a man whose career is evidently patterned upon the famous Mr. Lawson, of Boston. Enormous interests are at stake in the plot. Millions are involved. The onslaught of the great Blacklock upon the kings of commerce leads to "Wild Week" on Wall street—one of the most thrilling incidents in modern romance. The story takes on a gigantic monumental interest and impressiveness. But in the clash of the great business conflict the love element is not for a moment forgotten. It is the refreshing and glorifying touch in a novel of magnificent proportions and persistent absorption.

Men's Fall Clothing

The "Just Right" Product.

There is a snap and style to the clothing we sell that is unmistakable. Every suit is full of character and compares favorably with the finest custom tailoring. Every trick known to the trade that adds to the style or beauty of clothes is employed in the making of those we sell.

Designers of acknowledged skill, some of the highest-priced men in the country, begin the good work.

Skilled cutters cut from the perfect patterns which are the result of many years of experimenting.

Experienced tailors assemble the parts, put them together and finish the garments.

The result is: "Just Right" Clothes.

Examine our better Suits and Overcoats any way you like. Pick them to pieces. Turn them inside out. Criticize the cloths, the linings, the stitching. Submit them to any test and you will find that they measure up to the highest standard. They are in every sense "just right."

No boasting in this. The cloth is really superior to the average ready-to-wear stuff, and we urge our men friends to give us an opportunity to prove it. We want to prove, too, that we can fit you as accurately as any tailor—maybe more so.

Dressy Frock Coats and Waistcoats are here in newest models, made of excellent materials; faultlessly tailored, the higher priced ones beautifully silk-lined; at prices ranging from $15.98 to $38.00.

New Fall Suits—materials both conservative and showy, cut in distinctive styles, exceptional in tailoring; all wool, of course: $12, $15, $18, $20 and $25.

Trousers suitable for wear with frock coats, in handsome and effective stripes; a large variety to choose from, at from $3.00 to $10.98.

Top Coats, from the extremely short to the more conservative lengths, in tans of many shades and in gray mixtures and stripes, and in the always dressy blacks—some of the latter silk-lined to the edge. Prices range from $9.98 to $35.

SUITS FOR THE BOYS

Double Breasted Norfolk Suits with two pairs of knickerbocker Trousers, made of materials in the newest Fall shades and paterns; substantially lined; sizes 8 to 16; Russian, Sailor and Eton Blouse Suits in sizes 3 to 10, at the popular prices of $4.98

Boys' Double-breasted Norfolk Suits with extra pair of trousers—the best kind of school clothing, because the materials wear like iron and do not show the dirt. Price only $2.98

Good School Suits—Strongly made so that they will stand the hardest sort of usage; here at only $1.98

Marshall & Ball Clothing
The Highest Type of Ready-to-Wear.

Clothing for Exacting Men.

There is a dignity and refinement of character of Marshall & Ball Clothing that appeals to every man who knows and requires the best in style, workmanship and finish.

The basic reason lies in our tailoring system. It was devised to do a thing better than it had ever been done.

Young men of exacting dispositions find in M. B. Garments a measure of distinctiveness and character which has its source in expressive tailoring.

Among our Fall showing there is a suit to satisfy the fancy and please the pocketbook of every man.

"Londoncut" Suits, $12 to $25. Sack Suits, $10 to $30. Fall Overcoats, $12 to $35.

NASSAU SHOES $3.50.

M. & B. Nassau Shoes for Men provide comfort without sacrificing style. They fit the foot all over. That's why they retain their shapeliness and wear so long. Clever shoemaking is responsible for the points of superiority in M. & B. Footwear.

Tru-Tred Shoes for Women, $3.50 and $4. When handmade, $5.

FALL NECWEAR 50c.

Our Fall gathering of Silk Neckwear is especially worthy of comment, particularly our line of 50c Scarfs. Bright colors are "IT" this season, and choosing here is easy. Since the enlargement of our Furnishing Dept., Scarfs, Collars and Cuffs have taken a place just inside the door.

Ties from 25c to $1.50.

GERMS CAUSE DYSPEPSIA

IF YOU DON'T KILL THE DISEASE GERMS THEY WILL KILL YOU. PEPSOIDS DRIVE THE GERMS OUT OF THE STOMACH AND REBUILDS IT. WRITE FOR A FULL SIZED BOTTLE—FREE.

A noted physician of Pittsburg, Pa., in a recent letter to Dr. Oidman says:

"In your prescription known as 'Pepsoids' you have given the medical world the greatest and most valued discovery in medicine of the present century. You have at last solved the problem that has baffled the skill of the best physicians of recent times, how to cure permanently all Acute or Chronic Stomach Diseases known as Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Catarrh of the Stomach and Digestive Weakness. I have used your prescription, 'Pepsoids,' in hundreds of cases without a single failure. I attribute the success of your treatment mainly to the fact that the disease germs of the stomach cannot resist Pepsoids. Your theory that most Stomach Diseases are brought about by multitudes of nefarious disease-breeding germs must be correct. Judging from the remarkable results attained from the use of your 'Pepsoids,' I consider 'Pepsoids' the best and most valuable remedy yet discovered for the treatment of stubborn stomach ailments."

Pepsoids cure Dyspepsia and all Stomach Diseases, in a new way, by repairing the wornout lining of the Stomach and at the same time, destroy all disease-breeding germs. Dyspepsia and the worst forms of Stomach Disorders once cured in this way never returns.

Pepsoids are sold at drug stores at 50c. a bottle on an absolute guarantee or money refunded.

If you have not used Pepsoids before, we will send you a 50-cent bottle FREE. Send us your name and address and you will receive promptly, a full sized bottle. You do not obligate yourself to pay a cent. All we ask, after Pepsoids have cured or greatly benefitted you is, that you recommend Pepsoids to your friends. Try Pepsoids to-day—they will cure you. SPORTS HERE AND THERE

GOLF.

It has been definitely decided by the Eastern Professional Golfers' Association to hold its annual tournament over the course of the Forest Hill Golf Club on October 18 and 19. This club offered the association $300 as an inducement to hold its tournament at Forest Hill and it was accepted. Besides the association has arranged to offer a large number of money prizes. Among those who will compete in this tournament are "Marty" O'Loughlin, of the Plainfield Country Club; Joe Ianson, of the Cranford Golf Club; Dave Patrick, of the Westfield Golf Club; George Low, Dave Ogilbee, Horace Rawlins and Bob Peebles. The Forest Hill course is a short one, being a little over 5,000 yards. It is argued that for this reason the poor "pro" will have a better chance to win out than the best ones. However, "Marty" O'Loughlin is pretty well acquainted with the course and will make every effort to land in first position.

An interesting four-ball match will be played at the Westfield Golf Club on Monday, when Mrs. N. Pendleton Rogers and "Marty" O'Loughlin, of the Plainfield Country Club, will play Miss Gertrude Noe and Dave Patrick, of the Westfield Club. As all four players are exceptionally strong in the finer points of the game the competition should be a close one.

Still another match that is sure to be filled with interest will be played Sunday at the Cranford Golf Club, when "Marty" O'Loughlin, of the Plainfield Country Club and President Wood, of the Cranford Golf Club, will meet Joe Ianson and William Beal, also of the Cranford Club.

A third match in which "Marty" O'Loughlin will take part will be played this afternoon at the Cranford Golf Club. "Marty" and Will Glenney will play against Joe Ianson and Edward Wilde, the last named being the winner of the second eight cup at Deal Beach earlier in the season.

Robert Abbott, the intercollegiate champion, returned to Yale, yesterday, where he will resume his studies. He will also continue practice for the Intercollegiate championship tournament to be played at Garden City early in October. From present indications he will meet a large and formidable field in that big event and will have to be at the top of his game to win out and retain the championship.

There will be the usual dinner-dance at the Plainfield Country Club tomorrow night. These social events have been exceedingly popular this season and have been largely attended by the members and friends. A full orchestra has been engaged for the dance.

DIAMOND DUST.

Despite the fact that the Highlanders outbatted the Detroits at the latter place on Wednesday, the Tigers succeeded in defeating the New York aspirants for the American League pennant for the third time in the present series. They were shut out by a score of 2 to 0, placing them two games behind the Chicago White Sox. Thus far all the luck has been against the Highlanders, but they hope for a turn soon.

George Wiltse continues to pitch first-class ball for the Giants and it is seldom that he twirls a losing contest.

Bender, the Indian pitcher with the Philadelphia Athletics, who helped so materially last year to win the pennant for that team, like Mathewson, is little heard of this season. He has not been in his usual good form. However, better things are expected of both pitchers next season.

In all probability Mullen, of the Baltimore Eastern League Club, will cover second base for the Giants next season. Those who are acquainted with his work say that he is one of the greatest finds of the year for the New York team.

Willie Keeler continues his faultless playing in the field and steady hitting of the ball. He is without doubt the best all-round player in the game today.

An excellent picture of the West Ends, of Somerville, appears in the Somerset Messenger, of that place, this week. Manager Bogert Conklin has certainly used good judgment in the selection of players and every man works for the success of his team.

It is unforunate that the West Ends, of Somerville, have been deprived of the services of John Enright, the short-stop. The player has given himself up to the county authorities, who have charged him with assault on James Donnelly, a trolley motorman. Enright bore a good reputation when he worked and played ball in this city, and he was popular with the fans.

The Clinton Avenues and Scotch Plains will strive for honors at Crescent Oval tomorrow afternoon. Owing to the bitter rivalry between these clubs a hot contest may be looked for.

Plainfield, N. J., Sept. 28, 1906.

Mr. Charles F. Hughes will now kindly walk into the Empire State's gubernatorial chair.

Judging by the returns throughout the State, La Follette was as big a success in New Jersey as he was in Wisconsin.

They used to ask of Croker "where did he get it?" No one but Murphy knows how Hearst got it and he won't tell.

For the information of the 140 delegates as well as the spectators it might be said that the man who sat in the right hand upper box at the Republican convention yesterday afternoon was Charles Newell Fowler. He "represents" the Fifth district in the National Legislature.

In the average community, someone would be impertinent enough to ask questions when it is learned that there were just a few less votes cast at the Republican primaries on Tuesday as were cast by both Republicans and Democrats at the last general election in November.

THE FORUM.

Editor, The Daily Press:

Will you kindly permit me to correct an error in the marriage announcement of the wedding which took place at 424 East Third street Wednesday evening. The name of the bride was Miss Josephine Johnson instead of Miss Bettie Kelley, the mistake having been made by me in the original report.

Very respectfully,
F. D. TILDON.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The dedication services at the new chapel at Garwood in which enterprise many Plainfielders are interested, will take place Tuesday evening, October 2, at 7:45. The train will leave Plainfield at 7:08 and the railroad company have arranged to stop at Garwood, train leaving New York at 8:30, thereby affording ample time and opportunity for Plainfield people to attend the services.

The ninetieth annual convention of the Somerset County Bible Society was held in the Reformed church at Franklin Park Wednesday. The sermon was preached by the Rev. C. J. Culp, pastor of the Presbyterian church at Bound Brook. The following officers were elected: President, the Rev. Clifford P. Case, of Franklin Park; vice-president, the Rev. C. B. Condit, of Liberty Corner; corresponding secretary, Arthur P. Sutphen, of Somerville; treasurer, the Rev. Dr. William H. DeHart, of Raritan; depositary, John D. Case, of Somerville. The special address was made by the Rev. Dr. John H. Raven, of the New Brunswick Theological Seminary.

SUICIDE IN JAIL.

Youth Accused of Burglary Hangs Himself.

Bridgeton, Sept. 28.—Louis Emmett, who is in the county jail here charged with burglary awaiting the action of the Grand Jury, now in session, committed suicide by hanging during Wednesday night. He had torn up his hammock to get the rope.

Emmett was sent to State prison for burglary and about six weeks after he was paroled, and was arrested again for robbing Ogden & Platt. A parole officer visited him yesterday and said he ought to get ten years. He was 22 years old and unmarried.

Emmett made careful preparations for the deed. He wrote three letters last night to his father, a newspaper and Nellie Lake, in which he cleared her brother, Herbert Lake, of any connection with the robbery of Ogden & Platt, of which both were suspected. The Grand Jury had not yet reached the case.

Wings and Flies

By Tom Muir.

Included in Miss Blanche Ring's company, which will present "Miss Dolly Dollars" at the New Plainfield theatre tonight, is the original Pony Ballet, a troupe of eight English girls who are considered the most agile dancers in the country. They were brought to this country by Klaw & Erlanger for their production of "Mr. Bluebeard" and were with it at the Iroquois theatre in Chicago when that playhouse was burned, costing 600 lives.

"Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," with "Cuby," the horse that has fits, "Lovey Mary," "Little Tommy," "Eurepena" and all the other delightful characters of Mrs. Rice's book are coming to this city on October 11. The production is at present appearing at the New York theatre.

During October, Manager Counihan will present many of the best known stars in the theatrical firmament to the patrons of his house. Contracts have already been closed for Viola Allen, Modjeska and others of equal magnitude, while Rose Stahl and Fritzi Scheff will be seen later in the season.

For the benefit of the school children who are interested in "Buster Brown" and his dog, "Tige," the two will give a special matinee at the New Plainfield, Monday, beginning at 3 o'clock. Master Rosen, who succeeded Master Gabriel in the New York production, will appear as "Buster."

Mrs. Leslie Carter-Payne, who severed her connection with David Belasco after her recent plunge into matrimony, is to appear under Charles Dillingham's management in a new play, "Cleo." It was written by Edwin Milton Royle, author of "The Squaw Man" and several other recent successes.

Blanche Ring in the title role of "Miss Dolly Dollars," makes her appearance in an automobile coat that at once arouses the envy and despair of all the feminine contingent of her audience. It is made entirely of pure kid. The only trimmings being the lapels, where the skin is reversed and the yellow side shown. The coat and cap, especially made for her by Lord & Taylor, cost three hundred dollars actually. Her other gowns, from the same source, are the very latest kink in feminine elegance.

New York, Sept. 28.—During the rehearsal of a play, in which his wife had a leading part, John S. Flaherty, a well-known theatrical manager, died suddenly Tuesday in the Savoy theatre. Flaherty was manager for Ezra Kendall, whose new play, "Swell Elegant Janes," is to go on the road in a few days.

The members of the company were rehearsing on the stage of the Savoy theatre, and Flaherty sat in the front row of the darkened auditorium listening to his wife, Margaret Shaw, reciting her lines. Suddenly Flaherty complained to Frank McKee, manager of the theatre, who sat beside him, that he was not feeling well. Without attracting the attention of his wife, he went upstairs to his office.

A few minutes later he felt a little better and dictated several business letters to a stenographer. He then went into his private office, where ten minutes afterward an employe stumbled over his body. Dr. Clarence E. Rice, who was summoned, pronounced him dead, and said that he believed heart disease was the cause.

JERSEY ROADS SAMPLE AT JAMESTOWN EXHIBIT.

Commissioners of This State Hold Meeting and Discuss Plans for the Virginia Exposition.

Trenton, Sept. 28.—The New Jersey commissioners of the Jamestown Ter-Centennial Exposition met Wednesday in the Governor's office at the State house. A report on the erection of the New Jersey building on the grounds was received. The report stated that the building was almost completed.

The commissioners discussed the State exhibits to be shown, but no definite action was taken on the matter. A sample of road building in this State will be among the exhibits.

Some of the manufacturers of the State will have a number of private exhibitions. The commissioners present were C. E. Breckenride, Maywood, Bergen County; Wallace M. Scudder, Newark; Alfred Cooper, Cape May Court House; James Harper Smith, Somerville; Richard W. Herbert, Wickatauk; James F. MacMurray, Plainfield; Dr. Thomas K. Reed, Atlantic City; Colonel Lewit T. Bryant, of Atlantic City, secretary of the commission, was also present.

MUST UNITE FORCES.

G. O. P. in Middlesex Must Watch Its Fences.

New Brunswick, Sept. 28.—With twenty delegates representing the full strength of the New Idea movement in Middlesex county, the Republican county convention will meet in this city today. The followers of Colonel A. R. Fordyce, Jr., the champion of the Colbyites in the county, are fairly stunned by the magnitude of their defeat. It was expected by them that they would have at least fifty per cent. of the delegates elected, and they are at a loss to account for their small number of delegates.

It is conceded by the Republican leaders that it will be necessary for the two factions of the party to speedily get together and bury their differences, or the control of the county affairs will speedily pass into the hands of the Democrats. George S. Silzer, who will be nominated for Sate Senator by the Democrats, is considered the strongest available candidate, and if the Colbyites in the county bolt the regular Republican ticket, or nominate Fordyce on an independent ticket, it would assure the election of Silzer by a large majority.

FOOTBALL PLAYER IS KILLED BY A TACKLE.

Trenton, Sept. 28.—John Cowell Kennedy, nineteen years old, of Troy, N. Y., a third-year boy at the Lawrenceville School, was thrown, Wednesday afternoon, while making an end run, and died an hour afterward from a ruptured blood vessel in the head. He was thrown backward, struck on his head and several men fell upon him.

The boys' mother was telegraphed for at her summer home in Chippewa Falls, N. Y., as also was his brother, who is a student in the Harvard Law School. When young Kennedy was picked up he was unconscious.

Physicians worked with him, but nothing could be done to arrest death. He was the captain of the school football team.

$10,000 for a Penny.

London, Sept. 28.—The heirs of one of the victims of the Grantham disaster have received $10,000 insurance, which was effected at a cost of one penny. The insured was a regular subscriber to a London penny weekly which insures its readers against accidents and death. On the day of the disaster he sent his bag, containing a current copy of the paper, duly signed, to the hotel at Retford, where he expected to pass the night. Within a few hours of his death the claim was examined, allowed and settled.

ASSEMBLY NOMINATION

during the year since last its representatives of Union county met in convention, more that is valuable in legislation for the best interests of all of the people than has been done in any of the thirty years last past.

"In National affairs the party stands more strongly entrenched in the confidence and good wishes of the American people than ever before.

"Once again it confidently appeals for the support of all who believe in a conduct of State affairs at once safe and sane and yet at the same time progressive — a management which will meet the approval of all its citizens.

"The record of the party for the year in legislative enactments is proof of the sincerity of its premises and evidences the good faith in which such promises have been carried out.

"In a masterly, fearless and statesman-like message, Governor Stokes took advanced ground and pointed the way for radical and yet at the same time practical reforms in State affairs. A Republican legislature responded, enacted laws and inaugurated changes which are beneficient and lasting in their effect.

"We commend our Representatives in the Legislature for the commanding position by them therein taken. Every measure which promoted the interests of the people received their approval.

"We especially commend them for their courage and independence in securing the passage of the Equal Taxation law, the law limiting public franchises and that providing for lessening the burdens of local taxes by the distribution of the State's revenues for the support of our public schools.

"We hereby pledge our aid to the nominees of this convention and for them confidently bespeak the approval of the citizens of Union county."

Judge Coddington, reporting for the Resolutions Committee, said that the planks submitted by the Colbyites contained two propositions too important to be decided at short notice and others that were already covered by law. Two were deemed desirable: The civil service and over-capitalization planks. They were added to the platform and adopted.

C. B. Morse, of the Plainfield Colbyite delegation, moved, after a tangle of technicalities had been cleared out of his way, that the other planks of the Colby faith be read. The chorus of nays that killed the motion was vigorous and sustained. On Chairman Smith's motion, the convention then hustled to the business of nominating.

Nine candidates were offered. Besides Perkins, Tillman and Moxon, there were Dennis F. Murphy, D. J. Burke, of Elizabeth; William F. Hall, of Cranford; G. W. Bower, of Linden borough, and the Colby candidates, W. N. Runyon, William F. Groves and B. J. Heuchaus. Perkins was nominated by C. N. Codding.

Mr. McCready, of the Second ward, nominated Judge Runyon.

F. E. Mygatt seconded the nomination.

The twenty-six Colbyites cheered Judge Runyon's name lustily. The regular 117 maintained a stoney silence.

Seventy-one ballots were necessary for choice. On the first ballot, Perkins and Tillman came out, the former getting 102 and the latter 72. Moxon got 65; Burke trailed a bad fourth with 36; Hall got 31; Runyon, Groves and Fleuchaus got 26; and Brower got one.

Little eruptions of enthusiasm marked the balloting. Perkins was hotly applauded by the Plainfield regulars, but the mention of their fellow townsman was received in stoney silence. The Colbyites, however, made up for the manual in activity.

On the second ballot, the small delegations fell aboard the Moxon band wagon and the Elizabethan arrived with 87 votes. Runyon got 17 on that ballot, the two Rahway Colbyites sticking to him.

A motion to make the nominations unanimous was blocked by the Colbyites. Mr. McCready voiced their objection in one formal sentence. No comment was made on the motion and its defeat by either faction.

Dr. Lufburrow was nominated for coroner by Herbert Buxton. William H. Donaldson, of Linden, was nominated against him, but he ran a bad second. Lufburrow got 83 votes, Donaldson 45. Linden gracefully moved that the nomination be unanimous.

The assembly candidates were presented to the convention. Mr. McCready was one of the committee of three appointed to escort them to the platform. Tillman and Moxon made the usual remarks, but Perkins sounded a keynote or two.

He would go to the assembly, he said—he was sure the nomination was equivalent to election—as the representative of the people and of nobody else. Further, he would go absolutely unpledged to any man for United States Senator. He would cast his vote for the man who seemed the best-fitted for the office among the candidates before the House and the Senate.

The delegations had thinned a lot when the candidates came to the platform, but the Westfield delegation was there and made much noise. Three cheers and some tigers sounded for Perkins several times.

From a box on the upper left hand tier, Charles J. Fisk and Representative Charles N. Fowler watched the convention. Fowler was not mentioned during the proceedings, and no official recognition of his presence was made. He did some handshaking before and after in his usual cold manner.

The committee appointed to fill vacancies is made up of F. H. Smith, C. N. Williams, of Summit, and R. B. Cissel, of Elizabeth.

CLOSED PORTALS.

At a meeting of Winfield Scott Post, G. A. R., on Tuesday evening last, Robert Milligan, Co. F, and William I. Chittenden, Co. E, 13th Ill. Inf. Vols., met for the first time in over 42 years. Both men felt 50 years younger after the re-union.

Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus, met Wednesday night and initiated four new members. Arrangements were completed for the appearance of Andrew Mack at the New Plainfield theatre on October 9, under the auspices of the council.

An Unfortunate Moment.

"Bingley is too fastidious for any reasonable use."

"I heard he was to be married."

"He was. But it's all off. Lovely girl, too. Bingley would certainly have married her if he hadn't seen her when she looked her very worst."

"What was she doing?"

"Eating corn off the cob."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Samuel Taynor Injured.

Samuel Taynor, of Lincoln place, a blacksmith, run into a pile of dirt while driving around the corner at Church and East Front street, Thursday night, and was thrown out of his wagon. He was considerably cut about the forehead and face and was removed to the hospital in the ambulance, where he was reported today as doing well.

Far Off.

"I understand Bjenks is a distant relative of old Goldrocks."

"Yes."

"How distant?"

"About $2,000,000." — Milwaukee Sentinel.

Evident Proof.

"They say that 'ignorance is bliss.'"
Began the love-lorn chappie.
"I guess that's true," the pert young miss
Replied, "for you look happy."

She Had to Remind Him.

"Oh, William," she exclaimed after they had got comfortably seated in the sleeper and were waiting for the train to start, "do you remember what this is?"

"What what is?"

"What today is. Don't you know? This is the fourteenth anniversary of our wedding."

"Oh, pshaw! Why couldn't you have let me enjoy the trip?"—Houston Post.

PLAINFIELD LIBRARY NOTES

Attractive New Books Recently Added to the Public Library.

Andrews, Mary Raymond Shipman.—Bob and the guides.

"Can be read aloud and out of doors—two severe tests for a book." Independent, June 7, 1906.

Burnett, Frances Hodgson.—Dawn of a tomorrow.

"The little story is tenderly told, leaving the reader with a softened heart and broader sympathies." N. Y. Times.

"Through the companionship of a child of the slums, an Englishman of wealth and title who has planned to take his own life is brought to saner decision and an interest in his fellows."

Castle, Agnes and Egerton.—If youth but knew.

"To say that the book is the work of Mr. and Mrs. Egerton Castle is to provide it with certain passports to the affections of the public, for these writers have more than most of their affections of the public, for these writers have more than most of their contemporaries, the power to command smiles and tears commingled, and to transport us into the rapturous regions of delight. The new book is one of their best. It has an historical setting. . . It is a story throbbing with life, instinct, with poetic feeling and bearing the stamp of a creative power that is closely akin to genius." Dial.

Churchill, Winston.—Coniston.

"Coniston" can hardly fail to give its readers food for thought. Well will it be for our government if these readers are many, and if they straightway proceed to run according to the reading. N. Y. Times.

Crawford, F. Marion.—Fair Margaret.

"If there were nothing else in this book than the portrait of the big-hearted Junoesque voluble French woman . . it would still be one of the books that Mr. Crawford might justly be very proud of."

Crawford, F. Marion—Valve Venetia. 2v.

These volumes . . are neither history nor romance, but a blend of both. If we judge them as history, their value is small; as romance they are entertaining. Nation.

Fogazzaro, Antonio.—The saint.

The best read and the most discussed book in Italy in the last ten months. The work by the most eminent living Italian novelist. Saturday Times.

Glasgow, Ellen.—Wheel of life.

There are broader contrasts of character than in the "House of Mirth" though not quite the same sureness of touch, the same sense of intimacy with the most illusive aspects of a well-defined though loosely ordered social group. Outlook.

Howells, William Dean.—London films.

"Impressions of London gathered by Mr. Howells during a recent sojourn there."

Humphrey, Seth K.—Indian dispossessed.

I have found it very interesting and I hope it may be beneficial in promoting a true history of sad and tragic events. Gen. Miles.

It produces with the accuracy of the photograph phases of the gradual dispossession of the Indians. Secretary Long.

Hyde, William D. W.—From Epicurus to Christ: a study in the principles of personality.

Long, John Luther.—Way of the gods.

Mr. Long has succeeded in conveying in this romantic yet thoroughly modern story a fine impression of the marvelous persistence of hereditary ideals of honor and sacrifice among the Japanese. Outlook.

Montgomery, Helen Barnett.—Christus Redemptor.

Nicholson, Meredith.—House of a thousand candles.

A story bristling with adventure. N. Y. Times.

The story is told with spirit and the people in it are alive—in one case, even though dead. Outlook.

Schillings, C. G.—Flashlights in the Jungle.

"It is probably no exaggeration to say that this is the most remarkable book of wild animal photography that has ever been printed . . but we can hardly praise the author's narrative or descriptive skill."

Scott, Capt. Robert H.—Voyage of the "Discovery." 2v.

The freshness and novelty of the subject matter command an immediate hearing and the charm of the narrative, the well balanced perspective, and above all the manly record of heroic endeavor here revealed bid fair to make Captain Scott's modest account one of the classics of polar exploration."

Smith, F. Hopkinson.—Tides of Barnegat.

"This is the greatest story that F. Hopkinson Smith has ever written. Against the strong and stormy background of the Barnegat shore he has drawn a thrilling and absorbing tale of love and self-sacrifice, of tragedy and comedy, leading up through sunshine and storm to a tremendous ending.

Stimson, Frederick Jesup.—In cure of her soul.

Not only the finest thing he has done but a noteworthy addition to our literature. Dial.

Sudermann, Hermann.—The undying past.

Mr. Sudermann sees deeply; he penetrates to the vital spot. There is no surface work in his novels. He lays bare the anatomy of character. He is an unflinching realist but his realism is of the large things of life, not of its mere circumstance. Nor is "The Undying Past" without its message—that Nemesis is relentless, that sin carries with it down into its maelstrom the innocent as well as the guilty; that the only safe repentance is to repent before your wrong is done. Repentance is too late, a lifetime of it cannot undo—lesson too sternly taught by life, too seldom by lips or pen. It is a powerful drama of humanity, with a depth of tenderness relieving its tragedy. N. Y. Times.

White, Stewart Edward.—The mountains.

"Altogether this is one of the most entertaining and best written of hunting books that we recall.'

Stories of the Sea.

LIFE A CENTURY AGO.

One hundred years ago a man could not send a telegram.
He could not ride a bicycle.
He had never struck a match.
He had never ridden on an elevator.
He had never crossed an iron bridge.
He had never taken a ride on a steamboat.
He had never seen his wife use a sewing machine.
He had never used anything but a wooden plow.
He had never received a typewritten communication.
He had never seen a reaper or a self-binding harvester.
He could not call in a stenographer and dictate a letter.
He could not go from Washington to New York in a few hours.
He had never seen an electric light or dreamed of an electric car.
He couldn't take an anaesthetic and have his leg cut off without feeling it.
He never looked pleased before a photographer, or had his picture taken.
He couldn't talk through the telephone and he had never heard of the hello girl.
He had never heard a phonograph talk or seen a kinetoscope turn out a prize fight.
He never saw through a Webster's unabridge dictionary with the aid of a Roentgen ray.
He could not buy a paper and learn things that happened the day before all over the world.
He had never purchased a ten-cent magazine which would have been regarded as a miracle of art.
In short, there were several things that he could not do and several things that he did not know.—Watch-word.

LINES OF THE POET BROUGHT UP TO DATE.

They were about to take summer boarders.

The woman, for the eternal feminine will not down, could not forego a touch of sentiment, and she was writing out a rustic sign, which she purposed nailing up by the well:

"The old oaken bucket,
The iron-bound bucket,
The—"

But her hand faltered.

"There's no moss on our bucket," she said, looking very blank.

The man seized the crayon, and with a bold flourish, finished the verse:

"—sterilized bucket,
That hangs in the well."

"That's more up-to-date, anyway," he said."—Puck.

How to Know Them.

The Soda Water Man—By his phiz.
The Temperance Man—By his no's.
The Conceited Man—By his I's.
The Surveyor—By his feet.
The Captain of Industry—By his hands.
The Military Man—By his arms.
The Stovepipe Man—By his elbows.
The Rubber Man—By his neck.
The Miserly Man—By his chest.
The Tourist—By his trunk.
The Dairy Man—By his calves.
The Iron Man—By his nails.—Life.

Beyond the Pale.

"But," said the visitor to the old friend, whom she had not seen for ten years, "you will pardon my seeming presumption, yet I think I could suggest several ways in which your house could be more economically managed."

"Economy?" says the hostess, with some hauteur. "Pardon me, but our position in society is such that we cannot afford to save money."—Life.

Relieved.

"Our cashier wants a vacation this summer," said the vice president of the bank. "He'd like to get away, he says, for about three weeks."

"Good," replied the president. "That removes a weight from my mind. I was beginning to be afraid his accounts might be in such shape he wouldn' dare to go away."—Chicago Record-Herald.

A Bright Boy.

"Can any of you tell me," said the teacher, "what system of bookkeeping is in operation in our banks?"

"Double entry, sir," said the bright boy of the class.

"Correct; and now can you give me a definition of double entry?"

"Yes, sir; the one entry is for the bank and the other for the cashier."

Can't Always Tell.

Gyer—Bonem doesn't look like a man who would strike another when he's down, does he?

Myer—I should say not.

Gyer—Well, that's the kind of chap he is. He struck me for $5 while I was lying on the sofa the other evening.—Chicago Daily News.

No Room for Argument.

"I always try to be up to date," remarked young DeBorem, as the cuckoo clock chirped the half-hour previous to midnight.

"Yes," rejoined Miss Caustique, as she attempted to strangle a yawn, "you certainly are the latest thing out."—Chicago Daily News.

Woman's Wiles.

Mord Emly—Am I the first young woman wot you've walked out with?

Moldy Green—Yuss.

Mord Emly—I thought I was.

Modly Green—Why?

Mord Emly—Eh? Oh, I dunno. 'Cause you seem afrightened o' 'urtin' me.

MORE BINDING.

"Ella says George hasn't proposed."

"Oh, well, actions speak louder than words."

"Perhaps so; but Ella wants words."

Sure to Please.

Miss Jinks—Oh, you must see the photographs I had taken at Camera & Co.'s. They're splendid.

Miss Winks—I knew they'd be good. Camera & Co. have the finest retoucher in the city.—N. Y. Weekly.

Temporary Joy.

"My wife's tickled to death because I gave her a book of blank checks."

"Gee! I should think she would be. Can you afford it?"

"Yep—don't tell her—I didn't sign 'em."—Cleveland Leader.

Never Satisfied.

She—Now that you have an automobile that will break records, are you not satisfied?

He—No; I want one that will break trees and telegraph poles.—Life.

Now They Don't Speak.

Maude—Jack makes me tired.

Clara—It's your own fault, dear. You should stop running after him.—Chicago Daily News.

PUTTING EVERYTHING TOGETHER just right has a lot to do with the appearance of a picture.

PICTURE FRAMES

add to or detract from the effectiveness of pictures considerably. It is a specialty of ours to make the frame suit the picture. We like people to say how beautifully our frames and their pictures agree. You'll say it too if you will let us do some framing for you.

WEIGHT IS NOT ALL

MANY OTHER FACTORS IN DETERMINING BRAIN POWER.

When the Cells Are So Constituted as to Give Ability for "Team Work," High Intelligence Is Present.

Other factors besides brain weight are known to influence intelligence. It has long been known that the distinguishing character of the human brain is the large number of connecting fibers by which its cells are co-ordinated. In no other species are they so numerous or complicated. The cells constitute but a very small part of the weight. There is now considerable evidence that the same rule applies among individual men and that those of great intelligence have more connections, so that their cells can do more and better "team work."

Some investigations have shown the corpus callosum to have a large cross section in men who have shown great ability. It is also known that the brains of able men are likely to present more convulsions and deeper ones than the average, as if there were more brain cells as well as more connections. A few observations in the lower races point to the fact that their brains are essentially different in microscopic organization, partly accounting for less intelligence.

All these facts will fully explain why men of intelligence in the higher races may have brains not notably heavy, but they do not disprove the general statement that as a class such men do possess brains heavier than the average.

The mistake arises from the failure to recognize that noted men who have shown intellectual power not infrequently were sharply limited to one or two directions, being very defective in other directions. Blind Tom was an idiot, in fact—an extreme case of what is quite common. At the other extreme was Gambetta, who was not much more than an orator, whose cerebral speech centers were found to be highly developed. The rest of his brain was small, and his general intellectual power and judgment were decidedly defective. Ability in one or two lines may make a man famous, while he is really very defective, and his brain proves to be small.

Heavy brains are not necessarily intellectual ones, or elephants would be in the class of geniuses.

The material might also be pathologic and the possessor an imbecile. It often happens that men of big brain and great ability suffer from early neglect and are found in lowly employments or may remain ignorant through life. These few facts do not prove that large brains are worthless and not indicative of mental power as a rule. We cannot get away from the fact that man as an animal is supreme because of his large brain; that among races the brainiest are the highest, and that in any one race the most intelligent, as a rule, are those who have the most brains.

Men of small brains are not the leaders, and no statistics of the brain weights of a few exceptional men noted for limited abilities can reverse the rule. Universities do not create brains, but merely train what exists, so that the owners are better fitted for the battle of life. Many a man is sent to college who should be handling a pick and shovel, and he never amounts to much, even though he subsequently makes his living at some very limited specialty.

Girls, Wear White!

Frau Liebreich, a wealthy resident of Munich, is convinced that girls who wear white dresses get married sooner than girls who wear all sorts of colors. Accordingly, she has organized a "league of white women" among her friends, the members of which undertake to wear pure white for all important and ceremonial functions. In her address to the first members of the guild—some 20 fair maids of Munich—Frau Liebrich is reported to have said: "I loved my husband before he loved me, and he returned my affection only when he saw me accidentally in a white dressing gown. White is a symbol of pure love and thus appeals to the better half of the male creation. The plainest girl dressed in white will conquer hearts more rapidly than a beauty who stoops to the meretricious attractions of a hundred hues."

Millhand to Millionaire.

J. R. Booth, the Canadian railway magnate and lumber king, began life as a millhand. Now he possesses 6,000 square miles of timber land and is the largest owner in his own right of railways in British North America. As he drives about Ottawa in an old-fashioned buggy and simply dressed he would be taken for a comfortable farmer rather than a prince of industry. However, the close observer cannot fail to look a second time at the forceful, self-reliant and energetic countenance which looks out from under the soft felt hat.

Settled a Pretender.

The late Carl Schurz had no consideration for hypocrites or pretenders. Upon literary pretenders he was particularly severe. At a dinner in New York one night a millionaire who had written a volume of poems sneered at politics. "I wouldn't give a picayune," he said, "for a senatorship or a cabinet office. To be even president wouldn't tempt me. I, for my part, would rather be known any day as a third-rate poet than a first-rate statesman." "Well, aren't you?" shouted Mr. Schurz.

AMATEUR BALL LEAGUE

Y. M. C. A. Effects Organization of Six-Club Combination Next Year.

MEETING LAST NIGHT

Y. M. C. A., New Market, Dunellen, Scotch Plains, Westfield and Bound Brook To Have Teams in the Pennant Race.

There is to be an amateur baseball league in Plainfield next year. The formation of the organization was decided upon at a meeting in the Y. M. C. A. last night.

The meeting was called by the association. The Y. M. C. A. moved in the matter, impelled by a feeling that it was dedicated to amateur sport, and that from it, more than any other body or group of men in the city, the encouragement of an amateur league should come.

Assurances have been received from six teams that they will be represented in the league. The six are Westfield, New Market, Dunellen, Bound Brook, Scotch Plains and the Plainfield Y. M. C. A. Three of the organizations were represented last night at the meeting—Scotch Plains, Y. M. C. A. and Dunellen. The others have been signed. There is a possibility that one of the six may drop out before the league is finally formed, but the full membership of six clubs will be maintained.

Last night's meeting was wholly preliminary in character. At a meeting to be held on October 8, permanent organization will be effected. Rules, regulations, schedule and the trophy question will be settled at that session. It is the plan to offer a pennant that will be kept at the Y. M. C. A. Each year, the name of the winning club will be inscribed on the flag, which will be hung in the Y. M. C. A. as a permanent record of the league victories.

The spirit of the league is to be sternly amateur. The Y. M. C. A. cannot associate itself with any form of sport not strictly amateur, and the fence barring professionalism from the league will be built very high and strong.

LAID THE CORNER-STONE

Many Ministers Attend Ceremony on Site of Warren Chapel Edifice.

A SILVER TROWEL USED

Rev. Alexander McKelvey, Father of Pastor, Makes Address—Contents of Corner-Stone.

With a ceremony extremely simple but none the less impressive, the corner-stone of the new Warren chapel, now being erected at Watchung and Fairview avenues, was laid last night. Pastor J. O. McKelvey put the block in its place and while the members of his congregation circled about him deftly made it firm with a silver trowel. The implement was especially prepared for the occasion and bore the inscription: "This trowel used by Rev. J. O. McKelvey in laying the corner-stone of the new Warren chapel, September 27, 1906."

The ceremony was announced to begin at 6 o'clock and by that time a large gathering was about the ground. A temporary floor had been placed on the cross beams of what is to be the main floor of the new chapel and it accommodated many of Warren's members and their friends. Those participating occupied seats in the north-west corner, where the stone was placed and included Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, pastor of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, the parent of Warren; Rev. L. R. Howard, of Hope chapel; Rev. F. D. Tildon, of Bethel chapl, and Rev. Alexander McKelvey, of Boonton, father of Rev. J. O. McKelvey. In the gathering were Rev. George B. Shaw, of the Seventh-Day Baptist church; Rev. Edward Love, E. E. Parvin, superintendent of Warren, and Leander N. Lovell, a former superintendent and for years identified with its work.

Dr. Zelie presided and at the hour set for commencement, gave the salutation and led a responsive reading. Invocation was offered by Pastor McKelvey and the gathering united in singing, Whitney Frazee accompanying on the cornet. The congregation also recited the confession of faith, this leading to the actual ceremony of placing the stone. It was quickly accomplished by Mr. McKelvey and as he finished Dr. Zelie led in prayer.

According to the custom, a box was put beneath the stone and in this was the following articles: The semi-annual year books of the Crescent Avenue church for 1904 and the last issue, containing some interesting information regarding the chapel; current copies of the Plainfield Daily Press, the Couriers-News, the Plainfield Constitutionalist and the North Plainfield Weekly Review; some historical matter presented by Leander N. Lovell, a fifty-cent piece of fractional currency of the United States given by Francis Whitely, photographs of the old chapel, taken and given by William Demarest; other photographs given by chapel members, a Bible from the old chapel and a prayer meeting topic card for 1906.

Rev. Alexander McKelvey was introduced by Pastor McKelvey as the speaker of the occasion, in doing so remarking that he was one who had ever been before him in laying the corner-stone of his life. Mr. McKelvey, senior, expressed pleasure at having been selected to deliver the address and declared the event was brought about through God's providence and grace. He had permitted the congregation to worship in a place for many years and then guided them to the point where they could expand and continue to uphold Christianity.

Continuing, the speaker said there was much below the surface in laying the corner-stone. It is a memorial of work already accomplished in the old building and was an acknowledgement of the glory and presence of God. It is also symbolical in its consecration and dedication of the worship of the Father; a symbol of continued faith and honor.

In conclusion he expressed the hope that the new building might be the habitation of precious souls and besought his hearers to make Christ the corner-stone of their lives and prove themselves worthy of His love.

Following Mr. McKelvey's address, an offering was received and the congregation sang the doxology. The benediction was pronounced by Mr. McKelvey, Sr.

It is hoped to have the new chapel ready for dedication next Easter and the occasion will be celebrated by an elaborate service. The structure will cost about $28,000, exclusive of the pipe organ and furnishings.

WILL SUPPORT TICKET.

New Idea Advocates Won't Bolt, Record Says.

Jersey City, Sept. 28.—Hudson county's New Idea advocates, though overwhelmingly defeated at the primaries, will support their victors at the coming election, according to a statement made by Corporation Counsel Record.

"Of course, Mayor Fagan and myself and the other supporters of the reform movement feel badly over our defeat," said Mr. Record, "but we will not be driven out of the party.

"There will not be a third ticket. We will wait and resume the fight at the primaries next year. The two factions will continue the contest for supremacy. The New Idea people will fight until their principles are incorporated in the party platform."

Asked if he was still a candidate for the United States Senatorship, Mr. Record smiled grimly and replied: "I consider that that is ended so far as I am concerned."

Fire in Mayor's Home.

A curtain in the bath room at the home of Mayor N. B. Smalley on Willow avenue, caught fire last night by swinging against a gas jet. The blaze spread rapidly and a dangerous fire might have resulted but for timely discovery by members of the family. The borough fire department was summoned by 'phone and the use of extinguishers stopped the trouble. The damage will amount to about $50, covered by insurance.

He Couldn't Weep.

Carl Schultz, a German from out of town, fell into the hands of the police last night, after a visit with a bibulous friend. When arraigned before Jurge Runyon this morning, he was contrite and tried to squeeze some penitent tears. He went through all the motions of weeping, but no moisture dampened his eyelids. The magistrate took the will for the deed, however, and suspended sentence.

Mrs. Julia L. Force, of Westervelt avenue, has returned home from Asbury Park, considerably benefitted in health.

Testified Against James Boy.

Chief Marshall Weiss, of the borough, went before the Grand Jury at Somerville today and gave testimony against Willie James, the young boy who confessed wrecking the King's Daughters' Baby Camp. It is probable that an indictment will be returned recommending his commitment to the Jamesbury reformatory.

A Doubtful Position.

"As a consumer, you have a right to protest against the cost of coal and ice."

"Yes," answered the patient man, "but pretty soon I won't be able to buy enough of them to give me any standing even as a consumer."—Washington Star.

Blanche Ring, in "Dolly Dollars," at New Plainfield Theatre Tonight.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

Alice Hosmer, the jolliest and fattest of comediennes now before the public, is supporting Blanche Ring this season in "Miss Dolly Dollars," under the management of Charles Dillingham. She wil be seen here at the New Plainfield theatre tonight.

Supreme self-sacrifice is the motive of "A Rocky Road to Dublin," which Barney Gilmore will present for the consideration of his local admirers at the New Plainfield theatre Saturday afternoon and night. The story is that of a big-hearted, clear-minded, upstanding young Irishman, who to save the reputation of the brother of the woman he loves takes the guilt of the other's shame on himself and only wins his desire after three acts of an absorbing and natural play. Robert Daley, the young bank clerk, the role for which Mr. Gilmore is cast, offers finer possibilities for the player's skill than any other character he has ever found. He possesses the unctuous humor, the ready wit and the indomitably cheerful courage—qualities in the simulating of which Mr. Gilmore is most happy. The scenic environment of the play, which was written by Daniel L. Hart, of "The Parish Priest" fame, has been most carefully looked after by Messrs. Havlin and Nicolai, who are managing Mr. Gilmore's tour, and the patrons of the New Plainfield theatre may be prepared for an unusually fine evening's entertainment with the new play, the players and Mr. Gilmore's harp and vocal solos and his new dances.

On Monday afternoon and night next week Manager Counihan will offer Buster Brown, a musical comedy, that has withstood the crucial test of repeated presentation throughout the country. No better known little chap than R. F. Outcault's Buster has ever been given the fun loving world. And yet all of the boy's popularity must not be attributed to his own personality for their is "Tige," the sharer of Buster's joys and sorrows, and as Buster has grown we have also "Mary Jane," a trio that have never been surpassed in the realms of the cartoon. They are still in the limelight of popularity in the play, with the delightful girl background. This season all new costumes and scenery have been provide together with the latest and most popular songs and new music. In fact it is a second edition of Buster Brown revised, enlarged and brought up to the hour. Master Rosen will be seen in the character of "Buster."

Alice Ramsey and Rudolph De Cordova, as collaborating authors, and Leander De Cordova, as producer of "The Shadow Behind The Throne," and the creator of its title role, have won a Greater New York recognition which should attract a large attendance at the New Plainfield theatre on October 6. In the play named there is good and sufficient reason to anticipate a melodrama which, while sensational to the limit and full of spicy fun and comedy through every one of its five acts, rises far above the slap-bang, crude, ungrammatical and utterly impossible dramatic trash now so commonly inflicted upon the public, which, in addition is insulted and slandered with the assertion that anything better would be way over its head. The play in question is an enthralling appeal at once to common sense, to that intelligent appreciation which is the property of all classes, to the broad human love of humor, to the universal desire for the thrilling, noble and picturesque, and is so true to the embodiment of the ruling passions that it not only irresistibly appeals to everybody, but strikes straight home to the heroic and tender in every heart. The American Legation at Pekin, China, is so gallantly held against a horde of Yellow Peril fanatics, that the audience is often carried away by enthusiasm to the point of rising and loudly cheering "Old Glory" and its handful of dauntless and devoted defenders. American beauty and valor unite in overthrowing and thwarting the craft and cruelty of a despotic and devilish Viceroy, upon whose head and his own "The Shadow" behind his throne hurls tremendous destruction by the explosion of a mine of dynamite concealed in the Royal Palace.

Modjeska Coming Here.

Milton Gunckel, a member of Jules Murry's force, was in the city today, arranging for the appearance of Madame Modjeska at the New Plainfield theatre on October 15. The great artist is now on her farewell tour to America and this will be the final opportunity to see her in Plainfield. The play she will present is to be left to the selection of the patrons of the house, each purchaser of a reserved seat having the right to cast a vote for either "Macbeth," "Camille" or "Mary Stuart."

The Hargreaves Shows.

The great Thomas Hargreaves shows, which will exhibit in this city on the Carnival grounds, West Fourth street, afternoon and evening of October 2d, combine all the best qualities of the circus art in its most perfected form. The arenic artists —equestrians, animal trainers, bicyclists, acrobats, riders, drivers and clowns and the aerialists are greater in both number and proficiency than those presented by any other circus. The menagerie, eclipsing in size, as it does, many of America's foremost zoos, is by far the most complete collection of animals to be seen under canvas. The foremost freaks of the world have been brought together, forming the most phenomenal potpourri of human prodigies ever presented by a circus or meseum.

The "big top," or main tent, the menagerie pavilion, the horse tents, the cook and dining tents—in fact, all of the huge canvasses—are much larger in dimension than those of most big shows. The greatest number of cars are required to transport the prodigious paraphernalia, while the employees and actors now needed to properly handle and present the Haargreaves show is by far the largest army to be found in all circusdom.

The stupendous free street parade is without a parallel in all the world. This pageant contains more horses, people, elephants, camels, open dens of wild beasts, musicians, clowns and novelties than any similar parade. All employees are required to show patrons every possible courtesy.

Thus, not in one or two features, but in all, is the Thomas Hargreaves show superior to all existing circuses. Its well-earned superiority is evidenced by the liberal patronage given it wherever the great amusement enterprise appears. Remember the date of exhibition is October 2d.

GEN. M'COOK SICK AND DEPENDENT ON CHARITY.

Commander of Cavalry Forces Under Sherman in "March to the Sea" Is in Chicago Hospital.

Chicago, Sept. 28.—Cooped up in a little ward of the Baptist Hospital with three other patients, General Edwin McCook, commander of the cavalry division in the "march to the sea," and for eight years Governor of the Territory of Colorado, is suffering the tortures of inflammatory rheumatism. Racked with pain and financially helpless, the famous commander is dependent on the fraternal help which his old army comrades give, but he is far from despondent over his trials. For six weeks the general has been confined to the hospital ward. He is seventy-three years old, his right eye is sightless and his right arm is useless, but he is still buoyed up with the indomitable courage and the fire and spirit that carried him to the head of Sherman's cavalry in the sixties.

General McCook is a son of Dr. John McCook, a brother of former Congressman McCook, of New York, and a nephew of Major Daniel McCook, who sent eight sons to the Union army, three of whom were killed, while four of them attained the rank of general. Major McCook himself was killed in battle by Morgan's guerillas.

General E. N. McCook went to the Civil War with an Ohio cavalry regiment that became a part of the Army of the Cumberland. His gallantry in the many campaigns in which his troops were engaged carried him through various promotions to a general's rank, and it was as commander of the cavalry forces that formed the right flank of General Sherman's army that he participated in the "march to the sea." After the war he was Governor of the Territory of Colorado until it became the "Centennial State" in 1876. Later he was made United States Minister to Hawaii.

DENIES MARRIAGE.

Pennsy Clerk Is Sued by Wife for Alimony.

Jersey City, Sept. 28.—A woman claiming to be Mrs. Theresa Carroll has petitioned Vice Chancellor Garrison for alimony pending her suit for divorce against James Carroll, a clerk in the Pennsylvania Railroad offices, who denies that they were ever married.

The woman asserts that on November 6, 1899, she went with Carroll to the home of the Rev. Arney S. Biddle, pastor of the Summit Avenue United Presbyterian church, and was married to Carroll.

She declares they took false names, and that she cannot remember either the name she annexed or the name Carroll assumed. Before this the woman was Mrs. Garrett Bannon, widow of a well-known Jersey City politician and business man. She claims to have lived with Carroll until 1902, when they separated after the birth of a child.

The following year she had Carroll arrested, charged with non-support. When he was arraigned in the First Criminal Court the Rev. Mr. Biddle appeared with his two sons, who witness nearly all marriages solemnized by their father at his home. All three recalled the former Mrs. Bannon, but were unanimous in asserting that the man to whom she was married was darker, heavier and taller than Carroll. Carroll lives at 105 Montgomery street, this city.

AN OVERWHELMING DEFEAT

Regulars Swept Every County Defeating Colby Even in His Own District.

GOVERNOR'S REBUKE

"New Idea," He Says, Was Struggle for Office—Verdict Against Spectacular Politics.

The overwhelming defeat of the reform movement at Tuesday's primaries caused jubilation among the organization Republican leaders at the State House at Trenton yesterday. Governor Stokes was among those who were surprised at the completeness of the rout of Senator Colby and his forces. When asked to express his views as to the political effect of the primaries he said:

"The people have spoken, and their verdict is clear and unmistakable. I confess to some surprise at the unanimity of the result. There seems to be a strong reaction against 'spectacular politics.' Last year a movement was started in this State which declared for reform, and the people gave it their approval. This year that movement assumed a new phase. Confusion seized its councils. Its safe, conservative and disinterested advisers were unheeded, and it fell under the domination of a few, who appeared to be striving more for the realization of their personal aspirations than for the public good. When the New Idea apparently became the 'old idea' of a struggle for office, the people were as quick to condemn as they were a year ago to approve.

"The moral of the lesson is plain. The people want good government. They want a progressive, disinterested, conscientious reform, and they trust in the good faith of the Republican party to these ends.

"The responsibility of the victors is great. They must, without hesitation or cavil, continue the work of progress and improvement, of good government, and they must at all times preserve untrammelled and unhindered the right of the people to control their own affairs. This victory is the people's victory, theirs alone, and it must be used in their interests solely.

"The Republican party came into power as a reform party; it has retained power by faithful performance; it has responded quickly to wise public sentiment and enacted the popular will into law. It will not falter in the future, but will continue its good work and rise to higher purposes and higher ideals, and so long as it pursues this policy it will have the support of all good citizens."

So complete and sweeping was the machine victory that United States Senator John F. Dryden, who is seeking re-election and had figured as one of the most influential factors in the State fight, will have easy sailing. There will be a general housecleaning in the House of the Assembly, and not a single Colby Assemblyman will be returned.

Most of the interest centered upon Essex county—the home of Senator Dryden—where the opposition to him was most pronounced. It was hoped to discredit the Senator in his own home. There the results showed that Major Carl Lentz, the "boss," and his henchmen had secretly entrenched themselves and were able to "deliver the goods" when the time came. In this county the New Idea received its most telling setback, and Lentz got the upper hand to go into the county, city and Congress conventions with safe majorities of the delegates. Of more than four hundred delegates, the Colbyites are able to muster only about 170. Colby was defeated in his own district in West Orange.

In Hudson county Colonel Samuel D. Dickinson kept apace with his colleague, Lentz, and succeeded in getting large majorities both in the city and county conventions. Fagan was completely routed. In the 9th and 10th Congress districts he was also a winner. The colonel will be able to nominate twelve Assemblymen, a county supervisor and a surrogate. In the Jersey City convention he will have the naming of two candidates for the Board of Works.

Burlington county, with General E. Burd Grubb at the helm of the New Idea ship, returned an easy victory for the organization. Ex-Assemblyman George C. Wilder, the Colby choice for State Senator, went down to defeat at the hands of Samuel K. Robbins, Speaker of the House. Mr. Robbins expects to have at least seventy delegates at the convention to be held Saturday. The Colbyites made their strongest showing in Burlington county in the towns of Riverton and Palmyra, where opposition to George N. Weemer, a member of the County Board of Taxation, by his own workers helped the New Idea men.

Ex-Assemblyman Alexander Fordyce, of Middlesex, who while in office, refused to do the bidding of "Boss" Strong, was overwhelmed by State Senator Jackson for the nomination as State Senator. Mr. Jackson, who is a "regular," and Mr. Fordyce has been waging an apparently fierce contest. The result was no surprise to the organization men, they declare. Jackson carried New Brunswick by a safe majority.

The "regulars" also administered defeat to their opponents in Bergen county and surprised them by capturing more than two-thirds of the delegates.

Morris county rejected the "New Idea," and Daniel S. Voorhees, the county boss, gathered additional laurels for himself and was among the first to report his county as safe to the leaders. Frederick R. Kellogg, of Morristown, was the Colby candidate for Assembly.

Reports from Union county showed the "regulars" had won at ease.

In Monmouth county the latest returns gave the Colbyites twenty-two of the 110 delegates.

State Senator Wood McKee, of Passaic county, defeated Assemblyman Henry Marelli, the Colby candidate for Senator. Yesterday's estimates gave the reformers fifty out of 216 delegates.

In Camden county the Colby followers, known as the Equal Rights Republicans, were completely showed that the "regulars" would be able to nominate all their candidates.

ANOTHER WONDER OF SCIENCE.

Biology has Proved that Dandruff is Caused by a Germ.

Science is doing wonders these days in medicine as well as in mechanics. Since Adam lived, the human race has been troubled with dandruff, for which no hair preparation has heretofore proved a successful cure until Newbro's Herpicide was put on the market. It is a scientific preparation that kills the germ that makes dandruff or scurf by digging into the scalp to get at the root of the hair, where it saps the vitality; causing itching scalp, falling hair, and finally baldness. Without dandruff hair must grow luxuriantly. It is the only destroyer of dandruff. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

PERSONAL NOTES.

Mrs. Esther S. Damon, of Plymouth, Vermont, is the only living widow of any revolutionary soldier. She is 92 years old.

Dr. Jose de Aguilar, director of the Mexican Geological Survey, has been elected president of the International Geological Congress which has just been in session in Mexico City.

James Poinyard, the last direct surviving relative of Paul Revere, of Revolutionary War fame, has just died at Taylorsville, Ky. He was a great-grandson of Revere, and was 76 years old.

Sarah Bernhardt says Patti is foolish to retire if she can sing at all. "This retiring business makes me tired," says Bernhardt, "and I do not mean to retire when I am 70 years old if I am still able to act."

Lord Radstock is notable as one of the few members of the peerage wh on ot only takes an interest in religious work, but who deliver sermons themselves. He has preached frequently both in London and the provinces.

Cleon C. Shoff, of Cleveland, has undertaken the gigantic task of conducting a class for the training of office boys in the boys' department of the city's Y. M. C. A. He will teach them proper deportment and office duties.

The new president of the South Dakota University at Vermillion, is a well-known educator and has been connected with Western colleges for the past eighteen years. He is 65 years old, and is a graduate of Cornell College.

Prof. Dugald C. Jackson, head of the department of electrical engineering at the University of Wisconsin, has been elected professor of electrical engineering and head of the electrical engineering department in the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

SUES YOUNG FIANCEE.

Old Man Says Girl Eloped and Took His Cash.

York, Pa., Sept. 28.—Twenty-one-year old Sarah Altland is the defendant in an embezzlement suit instituted by Edward M. Bissel, her former 60-year-old fiance.

It is alleged that after the plaintiff had purchased a diamond ring and a wedding trousseau for his intended bride she ran off with another admirer taking $115 of the old man's money. Miss Altland left a note behind which read:

"I would rather be a young man's slave than an old man's darling any day. By-by, papa."

The Century in 1907.

The fiction of The Century for the new magazine year is to include novels by Frances Hodgson Burnett and Elizabeth Robins, besides the "Running Water" of A. E. W. Mason, which will continue for a number of months. Mrs. Burnett's new story will be called "The Shuttle" and is described as an international novel of English and American life. "Come and Find Me" of Elizabeth Robins will have its scenes laid in California and the far North. The Century in 1907 will have a strong Civil War flavor. Already in preparation are a series of articles on "How the Civil War Was Financed" by Ellis Paxson Oberholzer; an account of "Lincoln in the Telegraph Office" by David Homer Bates, and General O. O. Howard's recollections of distinguished men, Lincoln, Jefferson Davis, Grant, Lee, and others. An important historical and literary study by Theodore Roosevelt will be a feature of an early number of The Century.

Heard After Meeting.

"How is it, Br'er Williams," said an old deacon, "dat you preach f'um de Bible today, w'en every'body could see you wuz a-holdin' it upside down?"

"You musn't inquire too close into de mysteries er Providence," replied Brother Williams, "but dis much I'll tell you: No matter how you look at de Bible, hit's de same thing all round'!"—Atlanta Constitution.

MISSIONARY CONFERENCE

Inter-Denominational Meeting to be Held in Newark Next Week.

IN THE PEDDIE CHURCH

Plainfielders to Attend—Sessions on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday—The Programme.

An important gathering of religious workers will be held in the Peddie Memorial Baptist church, Newark, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. It is expected that the local denominations will be represented at the conference which will be held under the auspices of the North Jersey Missionary Institute. It will be an interdominational conference on mission study and school of methods in co-operation with the Young People's Missionary Movement.

The conference seeks to bring together representatives of all the Evangelical churches and Young People's Societies into touch with whom it brings a group of the most aggressive leaders of the missionary movement in the United States. Last year similar conference were held in twenty metropolitan centers. In almost every case they will be repeated this fall and winter, all as a result of the Silver Bay conference at Lake George which has been held every summer for the past five years on the shores of Lake George by the Young People's Missionary Movement.

The first session will be held Monday night at 8 o'clock and continued until Wednesday night. The programme for each day will include devotional Bible study, conference on methods, mission study classes, home and foreign, missionary address, missionary exhibit and addresses, mission study classes, evening sections and inspirational address. The evening sessions will be held for those who cannot the day sessions. Tuesday night will be Sunday-school night and all Sunday-school workers are especially invited.

TWICE HYPNOTIZED WOMAN DECLARES.

Says Doctor She Asked to Remove Influence Exercised It on Her.

Miss Rosina Fisher, thirty-nine years old, of No. 239 Jamaica avenue, Long Island City, was held yesterday by Magistrate Smith in the Long Island City Police Court for observation as to her sanity.

For some time past she had been annoying Dr. Paul O. Meyer, of No. 269 Steinway avenue. She first went to him and told him that he had been hyptonized by a New York physician and wanted the influence removed.

The doctor tried to humor her, and this worked for a time, but later she complained that Dr. Meyer had hypnotized her, and three weeks ago she sought a warrant for his arrest.

Last Wednesday she went to the doctor's office and raised such a disturbance that he caused a summons to be issued for her.

STRIKERS TO OWN MILL.

Trenton Shirt Workers Organize Independent Plant.

Trenton, Sept. 29.—Several operators who left the Trenton shirt mills on a strike have organized a shirt manufacturing company. The capital stock is $125,000, divided into 12,500 shares of $10 each. The principal office is at West Hanover and Chancery streets.

The incorporators and the number of shares held by each are: Paul Urken, 35; Joseph Spector, 35; Robert Thorn, 36; Joseph Gordon, 36; Hyman Rosenthal, 36; Jacob Levine, 3*; Harry Spector, 36.

Thirty-five machines for the new plant arrived yesterday and are being placed in position. The plant will probably be in operation next week.

Withdrew Charge.

On a charge of horse stealing preferred by Paul Kratzel, A. S. Johnson was arrested by Marshal Mohan, at Dunellen, yesterday. Before the prisoner had been brought into court, the complainant withdrew his charge, and Recorder David S. Campbell, who issued the warrant, dismissed the complaint and released the prisoner.

Mrs. Albert Brick.

Mrs. Annie Brick, wife of Albert Brick, died at her home in South Plainfield this morning. She was thirty-six years old and leaves two children. The funeral will be held from St. Mary's church Monday morning at 9:30 and interment will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

Bible Students' Reception.

A reception to members of the Bible study classes of the Y. M. C. A. will be held at the association on October 18. Dr. A. F. Schauffler, of New York, will address the gathering.

O'LOUGHLIN MADE A 67 ON THE LINKS

PROFESSIONAL MAKES A LOW SCORE IN CONTEST.

"Marty" O'Loughlin, the "pro" at the Plainfield Country Club, while playing this morning with Percy Stewart, a club member, made the best score for the course since it has been lengthened. He returned a score of 67. Robert Abbott holds a 67 for the score, but his playing was under more favorable conditions; that is the greens and the course were in the pink of condition. Mr. Stewart made a score of 83.

As evidence of the fast game being played by O'Loughlin this morning, he only required three puts on each of the eighth, ninth, eleventh and fourteenth holes and he made the 390 yard hole in three. His card going out and coming in was as follows:

4 4 4 4 4 3 3 3 4—33
3 5 4 3 4 4 4 3 4—34—67

Mr. Stewart's card follows:

4 4 5 4 5 4 5 4 5—41
4 6 5 4 4 5 5 4 5—42—83

This is the third time this week that O'Loughlin has returned low scores. His first score was a 69, the second a 70 and a 67 this morning. Yesterday he and W. T. Glenney defeated William Fullerton and Eddie Wilde on the Cranford Golf Club course, by 4 up. Their best score was 74, while the best score of Fullerton and Wilde was 82.

AUDIENCE JOINED IN.

Shouted "Ship Ahoy!" When Blanche Ring Sang Her Latest Success.

"Miss Dolly Dollars," the Victor Herbert-Harry Smith musical comedy, was presented at the New Plainfield theatre, last night, and like Mr. Dillingham's other pretty production, "Princess Beggar," seen here last Saturday, was enthusiastically received. The company was admirably cast and comprised "top-notch" comedians and singers.

Miss Blanche Ring scored a personal hit and the audience hated to let her leave the stage. On one occasion she was encored five times and when she sang the song she introduced, "Waltz Me Around Again, Willie," the whole house joined in shouting "ship ahoy." Her imitations of Edna May and Fay Templeton were splendid and in many ways she showed herself to be one of the most versatile actresses that has ever visited Plainfield.

The original English Pony Ballet was also a big feature and verified advance reports as to the agility and grace of the young women.

LEVIED ON HOUSE.

Big Judgment Executed Against Mrs. Alice H. Sandford.

Legal difficulties still upset the even tenor of the way of Mrs. Alice H. Sandford, of New Market, whose marital and other troubles recently occupied considerable space in the newspapers. Deputy Sheriff R. L. Pierce, of New Market, levied on her property in that village yesterday to execute a judgment for $832 against her.

The judgment was obtained for the First National Bank, of this city, in the Supreme ourt, on a note. H. C. Runyon represented the bank.

Rally Day at Grace M. E. Church.

There will be rally day exercises at the Grace M. E. church tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, with speaking by the children, singing and addresses. The pastor, Rev. D. C. W. Parsons, will preach a sermon in the morning on the subject of "Rally Day—A Good Soldier." In the evening Dr. Parsons will deliver the second of a series of sermons to young people on "Right Objective."

New Glee Club.

One of the new features of Y. M. C. A. activity this season will be a glee club. The organization will be headed by H. R. Lodor. The club will take a prominent part in the special religious services.

In the Borough Court.

Charles Minard was given his preference of paying $3 or spending ten days in jail when arraigned before Mayor Smalley, last night, charged with disorderly conduct. He paid the money.

Basketball Candidates.

Twenty candidates appeared at the first meeting of the Y. M. C. A. basketball team last night. Light practice was engaged in. Another meeting will be held next week.

Chester Pope's Party.

Chester Pope entertained a company of friends at his home, 173 North avenue, last night. Oysters and liquid refreshments were served in abundance.

—Adams and Chapman, of 114 East Front street, will exhibit their fall and winter millinery on Tuesday and Wednesday, October 2 and 3. All cordially invited. 9 29 2 ***

ARMED HOBOES FOLLOW COUNTRY STOREKEEPER

BUT PIERCE TURNED THE TABLES ON HIS SINISTER SHADOWS.

In Nicholas Laws and John Rushlow, the two men arrested in Dunellen Thursday night and sent to jail for forty days, as suspicious characters, Constable Robert L. Pierce, of New Market, believes the leaders of a gang of five men who had planned to rob the grocery store of his son, Herbert L. Pierce, at New Market, have been put away.

Herbert Pierce identified the men as two of a quintet of tough-looking wayfarers who hung about his store late Friday afternoon. Just as he was counting his money, the two walked into the place. They asked the road to Buffalo, but seemed more interested in the money bag than in the information. Pierce became suspicious and told his clerk to wait for him. The two men went up the street together and the five hoboes followed. Pierce hustled to his father's house and told the constable of the gang. The officer armed himself and with his son went out after them. They had taken flight and turned back toward Dunellen and Pierce hitched up a horse to pursue them. In Dunellen he found that Laws and Rushlow had just been picked up. The other three escaped by running in the direction of New Market.

Laws had a loaded revolver on him. Rushlow claimed they were simple workmen in search of jobs, but their actions, their appearance and the revolver belied the protestations sufficiently to bring down the forty day sentence on them from Justice Von Minden.

P. H. S. ARRANGING SCHEDULE.

Several Games Already Booked by Manager Pound.

The football prospects of the high school team for this season are bright according to Captain Douglass. Under the direction of Mr. Best's coaching the boys are working hard four days a week and the school expects to have a winning team. Six of last year's eleven are on the team and the new men are rapidly getting in form. The team will undoubtedly be chosen from the following: Ends, Murphy, Rafferty, Tillotson; tackles, Fountain, Morris, Tood; guards, S. Fisher, Bogardus; centre, Caldwall, Dorothy, Titsworth; quarter back, Brakeley; left half back, Douglass; right half back, Lyness; full back, Mahaffey.

Manager Pound has not yet completed the schedule, but has secured games with Montclair High School, Montclair Military Academy, East Orange High School, Cranford High School, Leals, Rutgers Prep., Westfield High School and Somerville High School.

SEVEN KILLED IN BAD WRECK ON THE PENNSY.

Fast Express Collides with Local Passenger Train Near Bristol, Pa.

Seven persons were killed and fifteen were injured in a bad wreck which occurred at 9:15 o'clock this morning near Bristol, on the Pennsylvania Railroad. One of the dead is believed to be the daughter of Dr. Brown, of Elizabeth.

The train, a fast express, which carried the ill-fated passengers, left Jersey City at 8:17. The cause of the wreck was a rear-end collision, the express running into the rear of another passenger. All the tracks were blocked with the debris and traffic was seriously interfered with for several hours.

Met for Mission Work.

The Young Ladies' Missionary Society of the First Baptist church held the first meeting of the season yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. John B. Probasco, of East Front street. The devotional exercises were led by Mrs. J. A. Chambliss. Mrs. Reuben Knox gave the young ladies a very interesting talk on the Mountain Whites of the South, telling of their great need and suggesting that a barrel of clothing and books be sent them by the society as a Christmas gift. After the meeting was adjourned a social hour was enjoyed and refreshments were served.

Freeholders Will Accept Bridge.

The work on Scott avenue bridge having been completed, the bridge committee from the Union County Board of Freeholders in charge of the construction will meet at the bridge Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock to accept it. The bridge was one of three started some time ago, the others being at Johnson avenue and West End avenue. The Johnson avenue bridge was accepted recently, and the West End avenue structure will be ready soon.

—You'll need fruits and vegetables for tomorrow's dinner and Neuman Brothers have a big assortment to offer. Prices unusually low.

EPWORTH LEAGUE HOLDS A SUCCESSFUL SOCIAL.

A Peanut Hunt and "Telegrams" Afford the Young People Lots of Fun.

Under the auspices of the social committee, of which Miss Helen Whitney is the new chairman, the Epworth League held its first social meeting of the season in Vincent chapel, last night. There were nearly one hundred young people present who enjoyed the unique programme prepared.

The first part of the evening was devoted to a peanut hunt, and after the peanuts were found the young people were rewarded for their trouble by being permitted to eat them. Another amusing feature was a game called "telegrams." Blanks were distributed and ten letters were announced, the object being to have the young people write telegrams using only the ten letters. They were given ten minutes to complete the task and the results were laughable. Most of the telegrams were about automobiles.

After this game refreshments consisting of lemonade and cake were served. The committee in charge consisted of Miss Helen Whitney, chairman; Miss Mildred Spicer, Miss Mattie Humble and William Adair.

Floyd Spencer Gets Low Score Prize.

Because the competition was limited to participants in the team series, which made but thirty eligible, there was a slim field in the championship tournament of the East Jersey Golf Association at the Deal Golf and Country Club, yesterday. Floyd Spencer won the low score prize with 89, but went down to defeat before Cory in the opening match round. Wright and Waterbury carried their match to nineteen holes, each doing 91, when the former won out on the extra hole. The semi-final and final rounds will be played today with a thirty-six hole handicap open to all members.

Apgar Broke 82 Targets Straight.

Neaf Apgar, of this city, made a great record at the fall shoot of the New York City Gun Club, York, Pa., yesterday, when in his second hundredth he broke 82 straight. The day was dark, but good scores were the rule. Grove led the shooters with a score of 174; Glover pushed pretty hard, however, for the honors. Apgar, 192; Glover, 174; Deardorff, 154; Jackson, 171; Grove, 174; Seitz, 64; Nevin, 156; Dick, 127; McSherry, 125; Somers, 88; Lauber, 19; Miller, 122; Blessing, 39; Willis, 97.

N. P. H. S. Won Practice Game.

The North Plainfield High School and Holy Cross football elevens played a practice game on the grounds at Westervelt and Fairview avenues, this morning. The former won by a score of 15 to 0, the Holy Cross boys being greatly outweighed. Good work was done by Conroy and Oakley, of the losers, while Walter Hamilton was referee. If the Holy Cross boys continue the good showing they made they will prove undoubtedly a formidable eleven on the local gridiron this fall.

FAMILIES DIVIDED IN PRIMARY FIGHT

BROTHERS ON OPPOSITE SIDES OF THE FENCE ON TUESDAY.

While the primary election of last Tuesday was interesting from several points of view so far as the vote itself was concerned, it was one of the most remarkable campaigns conducted locally in a long time. The division of Republican sympathies split up families as it were and throughout the agitation it was a case of "brother against brother" or "father against son." In some instances personal feeling was engendered but from all accounts none of it was held over after the ballots were counted.

A particularly noticeable case of family division occurred in the case of J. Hervey Doane and John H. Doane. The former is a "regular" and was on the ticket for freeholder, while his brother had joined forces with the Colbyites. A similar state of affairs existed between Henry L. Hall and his brother, R. E. Hall. Henry L. Hall was "regular" in the municipal fight while R. E. Hall was a Colby man and was on the ticket for delegate to the county convention. Fred H. Firstbrook, of Grant avenue, was put up by the "regulars" for delegate to the Congressional convention and his brother, George E. Firstbrook, worked and voted for the Colbyites who sought his defeat.

There were many other instances of this kind and in many respects, the fight resembled those which have characterized recent elections in North Plainfield. When the annexation proposition was before the people members of families took opposite sides and the same thing was noticed last year when the Cits and Republicans fought for the mayoralty.

NOT TO ADVANCE PRICE OF ICE IN PLAINFIELD.

Natural Ice Company Will Maintain the Present Rates Here After October 1.

There will be no additional increase in the retail price of ice on October 1, so far as the Natural Ice Company is concerned, although Manager Andrew Wilson declares in some instances the company is not making any profit.

Mr. Wilson said that one car of ice is being received daily from Point Barrows, Pa., and this, together with the output of the hygeia plant, which is twenty tons a day, the company is able to take care of its trade. The plant has been running day and night, as well as Sundays for several weeks, and will continue to do so. As soon as the weather gets cooler the demand for ice will decrease and it is likely the company will be able to supply the trade from the hygeia plant with a car or two of ice a week from out of town.

Mr. Wilson said further that the retail and wholesale prices now charged are practically in accordance with an agreement between the company and the consumer and the former has decided not to change it even if they have to sell at a loss. Mr. Wilson said in this connection that there are a few cases now where the company is selling ice at less than cost, according to the season agreement not to charge over a certain price.

LEACH IS LOOKING FOR HIS MISSING CLERK.

Lunch Wagon Man Misses Nine Days' Receipts—McGilvray Disappears the Day Bobby Returns.

Bobby Leach, the lunch wagon man, has had a warrant sworn out before Justice Mosher against John McGilvray, of Westfield, charging him with the larceny of $125. McGilvray, who worked for Leach, is said to have disappeared with the money, gathered during nine days in which he was left in charge of the lunch wagon, on East Second street.

Leach left McGilvray at the head of the wagon the week before last, when he went away from town on a trip. He came back Thursday night, to find McGilvray gone, it is said, and with him the receipts for the past week and a half. McGilvray is said to have stuck to the wagon until he heard Leach was in town, and then jumped out. He is said to have been implicated in the robbery of the Westfield depot several years ago.

Dr. Ketcham Improving.

Rev. Dr. K. P. Ketcham, of Freeport, L. I., former pastor of the First Presbyterian church, who was operated upon at Muhlenberg Hospital about ten days ago, is steadily improving. He is the father of Mrs. Eugene P. Hatch, of West Enghth street, and is very well-known throughout Plainfield.

William Callahan, of Woodland avenue, who was recently operated upon at the hospital for appendicitis, is improving and hopes to return home soon.

SHOT WHIZZED BY HEAD OF PHIL DAAB

BULLET PASSED THROUGH WINDOW AT WHICH HE WAS SITTING.

Philip Daab, proprietor of the Hoboken Inquirer, and formerly manager of the Plainfield team, was sitting yesterday afternoon in his office in that city, when a bullet crashed through the window and whizzed past about a foot from his head.

Mr. Daab was talking at the time to Renwick Speers, who is connected with the newspaper, and the two men hurried into the street, but saw no one running away nor any suspicious looking person. They met Policeman Lane and told him what had happened and he reported the matter to Police Headquarters. The police are making an investigation.

Mr. Daab says that while he may have enemies he knows of no one that would be likely to seek his life, and the shooting appears to him to be mysterious.

The front window through which the bullet passed was closed at the time. Search was made in the office for the bullet, but it could not be found and it is believed that it went out of the rear window which was open in a direct line with the other window.

The building in which the newspaper is published is in Hudson place; opposite is the shaft of the Hoboken end of the McAdoo tunnel. The office are on the first floor and the window through which the bullet crashed was of heavy plate glass.

EXEMPTS MAY PARADE.

Meeting Called for Monday Night to Further Consider Plans.

There is a growing sentiment among the majority of the members of the Exempt Firemen's Association that they should take part in the firemen's parade to be held at Elizabeth on Thursday, October 11, and although the idea was practically given up, a meeting has been called for Monday night to further consider the advisability of going to Elizabeth.

One chief reason given for deciding not to parade was the expense of putting the silver hose carriage in condition for exhibition. The plan now proposed is to just give the carriage a general dusting and cleaning at nominal expense. It is argued that the famous hose wagon should be exhibited and it is quite likely that the exempts will decide to parade.

ADVERTISE FOR A MAYORALTY CANDIDATE.

Morristown Republicans' Plight Cause for Satire in a Local Print —Talking of Deals.

Morristown, Sept. 29.—The Daily Record yesterday afternoon prints the following advertisement:

"Wanted — Republican candidate for Mayor. Must have clean record, but be docile and easily manageable. Liberal reward for information leading to the securing of such a person. Apply to the adjourned Republican Mayoralty Convention, or in the meantime to D. M. Claghorn or D. S. Voorhees."

This advertisement is a result of the Republican convention to nominate a candidate for mayor, which had to adjourn last night without being able to get a man to run. D. M. Claghorn is the general secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association, and was chairman of the convention. D. S. Voorhees is the leader of the Republicans in Morris county.

The opinion prevails in the party rank and file that the leaders will knife any candidate for Mayor that is put up. This is done, it is asserted, as a result of a deal between Republicans and Democrats, the former getting the control of the county and the latter of the town. Several good candidates have been put up in the last few years by the party, but they have been defeated.

Republican leaders vigorously deny that there are any deals, and point out that the present Board of Aldermen is Republican. One reason why it is difficult to obtain a candidate is the fact that no one seems to know just how the new idea Republicans will vote. They constitute about one-third of the Republican party in the town, and if they should support the Democrats it would spell defeat for the Republicans.

Miss Sarah L. Brown Marries.

Miss Sarah Louise Brown and James Joseph Robert were married at 1 o'clock this afternoon at the home of the bride on Fritz place, North Plainfield, Rev. Joseph O. McKelvey, pastor of Warren chapel, officiating. The couple was attended by Miss Charlotte Brown, sister of the bride and David A. McCutchen, also of the borough.

CLOCKWORK CONVENTION

Re-Nomination of Fowler Accomplished With Calm and Smoothness.

CHAIRMAN IS PLEASED

Proud of the Way the Convention Got Through Its Work—Platform Adopted Contains Nothing Startling.

Smoothness was the distinguishing feature of the Republican congressional convention yesterday at Elizabeth. Everything having been decided beforehand, the delegates and their offices had nothing to worry over, nothing to work out—nothing to do but start Congressman Fowler toward his fifth term.

There was a goodly amount of noise at the proper periods for applause, but enthusiasm was not unduly rampant. Chairman Charles J. Fisk was pleased over the smooth way in which the think went through.

James T. Sherman, chairman of the congressional campaign committee, he of the dollar contribution bureau, made an address and Lee Fairchild essayed a spellbinding effort. Mr. Fairchild was not in form, and the spell he cast was more somnolent than anything else. Mr. Sherman made the usual convention speech, with the flag waving above everything and Abraham Lincoln in constant service.

Mr. Fowler made the closing address. He thanked the convention for the honor and pledged himself to advance the interests of the people and the party.

The platform adopted by the convention reaffirms the National Republican platform of 1904; enthusiastically endorses the administration of President Roosevelt; points with pride to the acts of the fifty-ninth congress in establishing Government power to establish railway rates, in bringing about Packingtown reforms, in legislating for pure food, for taking the duty off denaturized alcohol, for admitting Oklahoma and Indian Territory into the Union, and for cutting off the immunity privilege from trust prosecutions; continuing, the platform echoes President Roosevelt's declaration of the "square deal," for corporations as well as labor unions and for the rich as well as the poor; it maintains that the Republican party is justly entitled to be continued in power, because it is the one party that has consistently planned and conferred benefits on the people; it points with pride to the abolition of slavery and all the rest of the noble things done by the party.

The record of Congressman Fowler was cited as worthy of the honor of every American citizen, and United States Senators Dryden and Kean were praised for their uniformly successful service in the Congress of the country in behalf of good government for the people. The platform ended by commending the New Jersey Senators to the consideration of all right-thinking people, and pledging the hearty support of the Republican voters of Union county for the return of Congressman Charles N. Fowler to the seat in the councils of the Nation which he has for successive terms filled with credit to himself, his country, and the people of New Jersey.

Want a Mail Carrier.

The postal authorities are again having trouble in securing a person to take the job of carrying mail back and forth between the postoffice and the North Avenue station. Several colored men have had the position, but in turn each one has resigned owing to the small salary and long hours of work. The hours are especially long now as the last mail from New York does not reach this city until 11:28 at night. The office is the width of a street too far from the station to compel the railroad company to carry the mail, and it is up to the postal authorities to see that it is done.

Wedding Day Approaches.

Mr. and Mrs. John Martin Uhler have issued invitations for the marriage of their daughter, Miss Madeline, to Philip Cuyler Langdon, of Brooklyn, at Grace church, Saturday afternoon, October 6, at 3:30. Miss Uhler will be attended by Mrs. William Cram, of Boston, as matron-of-honor; Miss Lilla B. Cornell as maid-of-honor; Miss Arline B. Pearsall, all cousins of the bride, and Miss Jessie Douglass, of Brooklyn; Miss Lillian Fancher, of Fanwood, and Miss Beulah Bailey, of Boston. Frederick Langdon, brother of the groom, will be best man.

Operatic Rehearsal.

The first rehearsal of the "Chimes of Normandy" by the Operatic Club will be held Monday night at the Camera Club rooms. Rehearsals will be held steadily after that, and Director William Holmes will bend all his energies to making the production a noteworthy success.

The Union Bible Class, taught by Rev. D. M. Stearns, will meet for the first time this season at the Y. M. C. A. Hall on Tuesday afternoon at 2:20 o'clock. All are invited.

Commencing tomorrow night, Rev. E. E. Roberson, of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, will hold services of special interest and his sermons will be of an evangelistic character.

Under the auspices of the Women's Society for Christian Work of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, a birthday social will be held in the parlors of the church tomorrow afternoon from 2 to 6 o'clock.

Rev. E. E. Roberson, of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, will be among the speakers at a conference of ministers of the Elizabeth District to be held in the M. E. church, Lebanon, Hunterdon county, Monday and Tuesday.

The morning preaching service at the Congregational church will begin at 10:30 on Sundays, instead of 10:45, commencing tomorrow, and the Sunday-school will convene at 12 o'clock, immediately after the morning service.

Rev. Henry Lockwood, pastor of the Reformed church, of East Millstone, together with other members of the denomination, have been conducting meetings at South River, with a view to establishing a Reformed church there.

The largest men's meeting that was ever held in the Y. M. C. A. hall was addressed by F. H. Jacobs, who will speak and sing at the meeting to be held under the auspices of the association tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. If the weather is unfavorable the meeting will be held in the Y. M. C. A. hall. The Y. M. C. A. orchestra and a chorus of mixed voices will furnish music. Men and women who will sing in a chorus of mixed voices at the F. H. Jacobs meeting tomorrow afternoon are requested to meet on the grandstand tomorrow afternoon between 3:45 and 4 p. m.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—John McKeon has sold his property on West Front street and will soon move to East Second street, near Church street, where he has purchased a property.

—John Darling, of Prospect avenue, has purchased the property on West Front street, occupied by Mr. and Mrs. John McKeon and his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Fitch, will take possession the first of the week.

—In laying the large gas mains on Park avenue the gang of Italians employed there has not left the street in as good condition as it was before. In some places long trenches have been left partly filled with dirt, making it rather dangerous at night for wagons or automobiles.

—Robert McCready has commenced the erection of a handsome dwelling on Denmark road, Netherwood Park, on the property recently purchased of A. D. Thompson, and expects to have it in readiness for his family before spring. A. R. Bond, of this city, Charles E. Hazeltine, formerly of Plainfield, but now of New York city, and W. S. Walsh, of New York, have also recently purchased of Mr. Thompson building sites on Denmark road, in this popular residential section of Netherwood, known as Netherwood Park.

County Registrar of Deeds Frank H. Smith and Mrs. Smith, of West Fourth street, left today for Atlantic City, where they will spend Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Douglass, of West Front street, have returned from Rockaway, this State, where they attended the wedding of a friend.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY

Robert Bogardus will manage the New Market team in the amateur baseball leagues to be organized at Plainfield next month. Some of the crack players of the borough team will play with him. Jesse Ayres will manage the Dunellen team. He has the combination definitely shaped up and promises a strong bid for the pennant.

The Republican candidates will address the voters of the borough at a meeting to be held in Apgar's Hall, the middle of next month. Dr. Brakeley is making arrangements for the affair.

The election promises to furnish a surprise in Piscataway. It is said the dissatisfied Republicans are getting ready to get after the party nominees with several kinds of axes.

C. T. Rogers is arranging to put his boats in storage until next summer. There is still a call for a few on Sundays, but the season has practically closed.

Dr. Brakeley has had the letter from the conscience-stricken debtor who sent him ten cents a week ago to settle a debt of six-years' standing, framed.

The football team will meet a New Brunswick eleven this afternoon on the local grounds.

Archibald Brakeley has joined an eating club at Princeton University.

Mrs. Jacob Grieb has been entertaining relatives from New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kinney are happy over the arrival of a son.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD

The work of repairing the bridge over the railroad near Sheelen Brothers' store has been started and the road will be open again within a few days.

Only the regular routine township business was transacted at the meeting of the Township Committee held last night in the town rooms.

Several of the local followers of the party attended the Republican congressional convention held yesterday afternoon at Elizabeth.

A mixed team of local and Plainfielr players will play the Jefferson F. C. baseball team at Newark tomorrow afternoon.

No local game will be played this afternoon, as the home team is playing the Clinton Avenue team at Crescent Oval.

Rev. A. H. Cook will lead the prayer meeting at the Methodist church tonight.

A full orchestra will furnish the music for skating at Deegan's rink tonight.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Preaching as usual in the Baptist church by the pastor, Rev. A. C. T. Attlee. Morning subject, "The World and the Church;" evening subject, "The Life Line." Christian Endeavor before the evening service, led by Miss M. Nevius, subject, "China."

The use of soft coal still continues on the Lehigh trains much to the discomfort of the passengers who travel on this road.

Albert Manning has a new dog to take the place of the large mastiff that was recently killed on the railroad.

The farmers have finished cutting corn in this vicinity and the crop promises to be a large one.

The boating season has about closed. Very few boats are seen upon the lake.

Miss Marjorie Voorhees, of Asbury Park, is visiting at Lakeside Farm.

Judge Smith is visiting with Col. Wells, of New York State.

Miss De Laney is spending a few days with friends in town.

MRS. N. P. ROGERS WINS WOMAN'S CHAMPIONSHIP.

Defeats Miss Maude VanBoskerck in the Final Golf Play.

Mrs. N. Pendelton Rogers is the woman golf champion of the Plainfield Country Club. She won this honor yesterday afternoon at the club by defeating Miss Maud VanBoskerck, by 3 up and 2 to play. The match was close throughout and at one time Mrs. Rogers was 3 down. By hard and pesistent effort she overtook her opponent and finished a winner.

Mrs. Rogers has not played much golf this season, in fact she has only played eighteen holes about five times, in this city and elsewhere. Miss VanBoskerck has also been absent from the course considerable during the summer and neither one of the players were at the top of their game. However, the match was full of interest and very exciting at times.

Great Need for the Nursery.

Since re-opening the Day Nursery on West Third street for the fall and winter, the King's Daughters find the needs for this institution more apparent than ever. There is a great demand for accommodations for children on the part of mothers, who find this to be the only way whereby they can go out to work and have their children cared for. Mrs. Bird, the matron, is still in charge of the nursery.

Y. M. C. A. Gymnasium.

The classes of the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium will begin their work next week. Half of them will start Monday and the rest will begin Tuesday.

Miss Margaret McWilliams, of this city, has been visiting her son, Robert Mullin, Jr., of Somerville.

Miss Nettie Voorhees, of this city, has been visiting Miss Hamill, of Blawenburg, Somerset county.

Miss May Batchelor, of West Seventh street, has returned to college for the fall and winter months.

Miss Lulu Randolph, of West Eighth street, has returned from a visit with out of town friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Flynn and daughter, Frances, of this city, who have been spending a week with Mrs. Flynn's parents at Somerville, have returned.

There is slight improvement in the condition of John Chandler, of East Fifth street, although it is not believed that he will be able to walk for some time.

Augustus W. Fisk, who has been spending a short time with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Fisk, of West Seventh street, has returned to his home near Baltusrol.

Reason For Small Cars.

The officials of the Public Service Corporation give as their reason for operating small cars on the main line during the day the falling off in travel. They say that just as soon as the travel gets heavy the big cars will be used. Some of the small ones now run over the line are in poor condition and very unsatisfactory to the patrons of the road.

May Be Bache's Successor.

As yet a successor to Ralph P. Bache, who was superintendent of the electric department of the Public Service Corporation, has not been announced. William H. Chamberlain, of Westfield, who has been connected with the company for several years, is prominently talked of for the place.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

A genuine Irish play will be the offering at the New Plainfield theatre this afternoon and tonight, when the natural-singing Irish actor, Barney Gilmore, will be seen in Daniel L. Hart's new comedy drama, "A Rocky Road to Dublin." It is in three acts. Robert Daley, the character originally created by Barney Gilmore in this play, is a praiseworthy one and interesting to every father and mother. He is a type of man that for love and duty becomes a martyr. Messrs. John H. Havlin and George Nicolai have surrounded Mr. Gilmore with the following well-known players: Frank Lavarnie, George Hassell, John D. Griffen, Patrick Touhey, Major Laird, Will Long, Mina Shirley, Isis Maynard, Jessie Leseur and others. Three special scenes of Ireland of today are carried. Barney Gilmore will introduce his new songs and harp solos.

Plainfield playgoers are to have Buster Brown, as the management of the New Plainfield theatre announces the little fun maker and his bevy of attendant girls for next Monday afternoon and night. This year Master Rosen, who plays "Buster," has fully demonstrated that he is the right little comique in the exact spot, for he is so immersed in and imbued with the spirit of Mr. Outcault's character that those who have seen him declare that he is not playing a part, that he is the typical Buster himself. New and elaborate scenery and costumes grace the production this season, together with all new music and popular songs.

It is possible to imagine a mother so absolutely a slave to family pride and tradition, who would condemn her own son to a living death in the fatal sulphur mines of Siberia, because he persisted in his love for a beautiful serf girl. And yet this is exactly what a princess of one of the semi-royal houses of Russia did but a few years ago. The incident has been utilized and is one of the strong scenes in the successful story of Muscovite life, "For Her Sake," which will be at the New Plainfield theatre next Wednesday night. While the play verges on melodramatic lines, the author has carefully avoided exaggerations and the story is told in that straightforward, consistent manner that never fails to appeal to the audience.

"When Knighthood Was in Flower" is one of those charming plays which please, not only by reason of a romantic love story, but also by their picturesque and gorgeous costumes and scenery in pointed illustration of the period when all was chivalry, braveness and beauty. In the play as it is being presented this season under the auspices of Ernest Shipman, all the manly attributes of the time find expression in Alfred Swenson as Charles Brandon, lover of Mary Tudor, Princess of England. But it is in Mary Tudor that the most interest lies; a girl with a story all her own, made natural, winsome and lovable by the wonderful acting of Anna Day, one of the cleverest actresses of the American stage. "When Knighthood Was in Flower" will be at the New Plainfield theatre next Friday night.

Alice Ramsey and Rudolph De Cordova, as collaborating authors, and Leander De Cordova, as producer, of "The Shadow Behind the Throne," and the creator of its title role, have won a Greater New York recognition which should attract a large attendance at the New Plainfield theatre on Saturday afternoon and night, October 6. In the play named there is good and sufficient reason to anticipate a melodrama which, while sensational to the limit and full of spicy fun and comedy through every one of its five acts, rises far above the slap-bang, crude, ungrammatical and utterly impossible dramatic trash now so commonly inflicted upon the public, which, in addition is insulted and slandered with the assertion that anything better would be way over its head. The play in question is an enthralling appeal at once to common sense, to that intelligent appreciation which is the property of all classes, to the broad human love of humor, to the universal desire for the thrilling, noble and picturesque, and is true to the embodiment of the ruling passions that it not only irresistibly appeals to everybody, but strikes straight home to the heroic and tender in every heart. The American Legation at Pekin, China, is so gallantly held against a horde of Yellow Peril fanatics that the audience is often carried away by enthusiasm to the point of rising and loudly cheering "Old Glory" and its handful of dauntless and devoted defenders. American beauty and valor unite in overthrowing and thwarting the craft and cruelty of a despotic and devilish Viceroy, upon whose head and his own "The Shadow" behind his throne hurls tremendous destruction by the explosion of a mine of dynamite concealed in the Royal Palace.

The offering at the New Plainfield theatre on October 9 will be Andrew Mack in Dion Boucicault's beautiful Irish comedy drama, "Arrah na Pogue." In this old but ever popular play there is always a sparkling current of laughter as well as pathos; and one must see the comedy all the way through to appreciate its charming story and inoffensive fun. Mr. Mack as Shaun the Post has a part that gives him great opportunities for both humor and action, and it is said that his impersonation of Shaun far surpasses the excellent work he has done in the past. The company supporting Mr. Mack will number about forty people. He also will have a scenic production that will fill two sixty foot cars, as he will carry everything necessary for the proper presentation of Mr. Boucicault's great play. Mr. Mack will also be heard in four new songs.

In the full cast of twenty-six characters which interpret the latest New York success, "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," to be seen here on October 11, almost every role is definitely representative of an odd and unique type. Even "Cuby," the "fit-horse," whom Mrs. Wiggs rescues when his "lights are riz," and who is one of the comical personages of the play itself, comes into this category, for the old nag that plays the part was only found after a long search, and is one of the sorriest and most broken down specimens of horse flesh that ever showed his ribs. There is also a mirthful group of boys and girls in the piece who add a happy juvenile charm to various scenes throughout the three acts.

Nat M. Wills, the happy tramp, is coming to the New Plainfield theatre in Broadhurst and Currie's new musical play, "A Lucky Dog," on October 12. The cast includes a number of popular artists among whom are Delia Stacey, Charles Udell, Lee Hobbs Martin, Fred Rennold, J. Shaw and George Nichols, surrounded by a score of pretty singing and dancing girls. The play is in three acts, each setting being novel and elaborate and brilliantly lighted. The musical numbers are frequent and catchy and a number of funny topical songs and parodies are introduced by Nat Wills.

The great Thomas Hargreaves railroad shows will exhibit in this city on the carnival grounds on the afternoon and evening of October 2. It used to be said that Dan Rice and a trick mule made a circus. In Barnum's time the people liked to be humbugged. But time changes everything and today it requires several rings, a big menagerie and hundreds of male and female all-star performers to fill the public's definition of the word "circus" and the people absolutely refuse to be humbugged. A humbug circus will spring up now and then, but its existence is only transient. Such is the decree of fate. For fifteen years the Hargreaves show has toured the United States, meeting with triumphant success and establishing an enviable position in circusdom. This season this already large show has been augmented in every department, the management having spared neither money nor trouble in its efforts to present to the public a truly first-class circus. The Hargreaves tented amusement institution completely fills the public's definition of the word "circus." Of course there will be a free street parade and this pageant is said to be one of the most gorgeous ever given by a circus. There will be herds of elephants, droves of camels, many bands of proficient musicians, numerous cages of rare wild beasts, a myriad of beautifully costumed ladies and gentlemen, riding gayly caparisoned steeds and countless clowns, tableaux and floats. The management invites special attention to its horses, all of which are in the best of condition and will appeal to horse fanciers. The big parade will leave the show grounds promptly at 10 o'clock a. m.

Mrs. Margaret Mullin, of this city, who has been visiting her parents at Somerville, has returned home.

Press Comments

"Immensely entertaining."—Cleveland Leader.

"By far Mr. Phillips's best work."—Cincinnati Times-Star.

"Should be more popular than anything else Mr. Phillips has done."—Indianapolis News.

"'The Deluge,' strong, virile story that it is, thrills the nerves at the climax."—Denver Post.

"Here is a theme exactly suited to Mr. Phillips's genius—big and bold; intense and dramatic; worthy of a giant canvas and great strokes of the brush. And timely—what could be more timely? The love plot is a distinct triumph. A great story!"—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

Nothing is Too Good for Our Readers

The things that appeal to them are the things we make every effort to secure. We are going after what the people will read, what will interest them, and what they will appreciate. We never secured a better or more interesting feature than the new serial which we begin printing in this issue, entitled:

THE DELUGE

By DAVID GRAHAM PHILLIPS, Author of "THE COST," etc.

This is a story of Wall street; of high and frenzied finance. A story of the life of to-day; of people of to-day. Every reader will easily be able to name the characters in the story. They read about them in the news columns of every paper; hear them talked of on every street. No person interested in stirring fiction, strong romance or the great trust and stock jobbing problems of the time can afford to miss it.

It Begins To-day

Press Comments

"Strong in its plot, interesting in its detail, and delectable in its entirety is 'The Deluge.'"—Illinois State Register.

"In 'The Deluge' David Graham Phillips has exceeded himself. Matthew Blacklock towers above the average hero of the novel as he towers above the pygmies of 'the street.' It is a story of the Titans for a Titanic prize. And Black Matt is a glorified, raging god, a Zeus with the youth of Hermes, the strength of Hephaestus and the charm of Apollo. You are caught up in the whirl of his race toward the goal of victory."—Chicago Journal.

POSITIVE PROOF.

Should Convince the Greatest Skeptic in Plainfield.

Because its the evidence of a Plainfield citizen.

Testimony esaily investigated,

The strongest endorsement of merit.

The best proof. Read it:

Mrs. John Driscoll, of 217 Grant avenue, Plainfield, N. J., says: "Several years ago I made a statement for publication regarding the merits of Doan's Kidney Pills, and said statement still holds good in every particular. If I were to make a single change in it, ot would only be to make it stronger, for during the past few years I have known many people to use Doan's Kidney Pills, and have yet to hear of a case in which the remedy failed to do the work it is claimed to do. My own case was a dull aching pain in the small of the back and in the sides. It clung to me incessantly and hard work seemed to increase it. I was subject also to hard backaches, and spells of dizziness when stooping. I was generally weak and depressed. I tried plasters and used many different remedies without finding relief, and being finally led to get a box of Doan's Kidney Pills at Randolph's pharmacy, began using the remedy, finding, at length, the relief I have described in the testimonial I gave for publication in 1898."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sale agents for the United Sates.

HEARST.

As soon as it was certain that William R. Hearst would be the party's nominee for governor of New York, respected and influential Democratic leaders in all parts of the State started to bolt. William T. Jerome was the first to declare that he would not vote for such a man and since he refused his support, George B. McClellan, Edward M. Shepard and many others have come out openly against the nominee. These men look on him as a disgrace to the party and to the country. That they are not alone in their convictions, is evident from the editorial tone of the leading newspapers of the country, which are denouncing him in unmeasured terms.

Even the magazines are giving free expression to their views. In the North American Review, for instance, George B. M. Harvey says editorially:

"As a journalist, though keen, enterprising and resourceful, he is a burning disgrace to the craft; as a politician, though shrewd and at times even sagacious, he is no more scrupulous than the basest of those whom he has stigmatized as criminals; as a partisan, though earnest and efficient in appearance to the masses, he is a traitor; as an officeholder he is pre-eminent in shameful neglect of his duties; as an agitator his delight consists in revelling in the incitement of evil passions; as a dual personality, though possessed of many engaging qualities, he is utterly devoid of character, so unsteady in even his own recklessness, so faithless to his professed ideals, so scornfully disregardful of moral responsibility, so addicted to detestable practises in efforts to gratify his ambitions, so sinfully persistent in stirring the caldron of discontent, envy and hatred, as to be a living and glaring reproach to American civilization."

In the fact of enlightened public opinion, how Hearst can hope to satisfy his ambition to be governor of the great State of New York is certainly a mystery. It would be nothing short of a crime against the Union for the people of the Empire State to allow him to occupy such an exalted office.

"M. O." A FAILURE THERE.

Municipal ownership has proven a failure in Cleveland, Ohio, where the local government controls the electric light service. A few years ago, $63,000 was invested in a plant. Since then nearly $450,000 has been spent in improvements. When $100,000 was appropriated a short time ago it was declared that the plant would be the finest in the country, but now the director of public service, who has charge of it, says that unless more money is forthcoming at once, it will have to be shut up. The city council refuses to sanction any further bond issues for the purpose. Consequently it is likely that the plant will be abandoned so far as the municipality is concerned.

The "I told you so" fellow has been working overtime since Tuesday.

Milk at Winter Prices.

New Brunswick, Sept. 29.—The milk dealers of this city yesterday put up the retail price of milk from six cents to eight. The winter price is always eight cents here, but the raise has not heretofore been made until about November 1. The dealers explain that the change is due to the scarcity of rain and the consequent dry pastures, also to the high price of ice and to the new sanitary law causing more dairy expenses to the farmers.

—To dispose of a large quantity of extra good peaches, Neuman Brothers have cut prices for this afternoon and tonight. Your pick of several hundred baskets for 50c, 75c and $1; formerly a quarter higher in each instance.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Richard Draper.

Mrs. Elizabeth A. Draper, wife of Richard Draper, died last night at the home of her son-in-law, Dr. Frank S. Wells, of Grant avenue. She was in her eighty-fourth year and had resided in this city for a long time. Beside her husband and Mrs. Wells, she leaves one other daughter, Mrs. Weeks, whose husband died suddenly a short time ago. The funeral will be held at Dr. Wells' home tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock and interment will be at De Ruyter, N. Y.

Mrs. Phebe Belden Drake.

Mrs. Phebe Belden Drake, widow of John H. Drake, died this morning at Dr. Cooley's sanitarium, after a brief illness. She was a former well known resident but up to a short time ago had lived out of the city. She was the mother of Mrs. G. W. Endicott. Notice of the funeral will be given later.

EATS BREAKFAST THEN RIFLES SAFE.

The home of Fred Zwingli, on North Cortlandt street, Belleville, was entered yesterday morning by a thief, who, after helping himself to the contents of the larder, rifled the safe of about $18. The deed was committed between 6:30 and 7:30 o'clock. Mr. Zwingli went away from the house at the former time, leaving the other members of the family in bed. The theft was discovered when some of the latter got up.

None of the neighbors, so far as could be learned, saw any suspicious characters about the house, and Mr. Zwingli's watch dog, of which he boasted to friends, made no sound. It is believed, however, by the victim that the robbery was committed by a tramp, and not by the thief or thieves who have been operating in the town for the past month.

Edibles were taken from the ice box, and, to all appearances, the visitor sat down and calmly ate them and drank some coffee.

AIRSHIP AT TRENTON FAIR.

Knabenshue Makes a Flight with a Filipino as Passenger.

Trenton, Sept. 29.—Roy Knabenshue made a successful flight in his airship at the Inter-State Fair yesterday. He took with him in his ship his first passenger, in the person of a Filipino midget weighing about forty pounds. With this added weight the ship appeared not to be any harder to steer than when Knabenshue handles it alone.

While "Prof." Fowler, a balloonist, was aloft in his balloon at the fair the parachute which he expected to use in dropping went wrong, and before he could get the reserve one into use he had ascended to a very great height. He came down, however, and alighted successfully in the second parachute.

ECHO OF OLD ROMANCE.

J. W. W. Brewster's Rich Chinese Father-in-Law Dies.

Elizabeth, Sept. 29.—Cablegrams were received here today announcing the death in China of Wing Afong, the father-in-law of James W. W. Brewster, of this city, whose wedding under romantic circumstances to Melaine Afong in September, 1903, occasioned a small sensation in this city and New York. Brewster, who is the son of K. S. Brewster, of 335 Grier avenue, met Miss Afong at a dance given in one of the Honolulu hotels, and immediately fell in love with her. He was presented to her at 9 o'clock, and at five minutes after 10 he walked up to her mother and asked her consent to their marriage. He is now living in New York.

Honolulu, Sept. 28.—Wing Afong was one of the best known merchants in Canton and Hong Kong at the time of his death, and reputed to be worth several million dollars. He came to Honolulu in 1860, and amassed much wealth as a dealer in silks and Chinese curios of all kinds, and married a beautiful Kanaka girl who had strains of English and Portoguese blood in her veins. The couple had one son and thirteen daughters. The girls were the handsomest in Honolulu.

As the wealth of Afong increased his wife became a leader in Hawaiian society. The girls were all good musicians and vocalists. Nearly all of them married men of prominence in the islands. One became the wife of Rear Admiral Whiting.

In 1892 Afong returned to China with his son, leaving $1,000,000 invested in Hawaiian securities for his wife and daughters. For a long time it was expected that he would return, but news came later that he had decided to stay in Hong Kong. The ample funds left by Afong enable Mrs. Afong to give each of her daughters a good education in the United States and a handsome dowry when she married.

Miss Marie Watts, of East Fifth street, is visiting relatives at Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

ROYAL Baking Powder
ABSOLUTELY PURE

Healthful cream of tartar, derived solely from grapes, refined to absolute purity, is the active principle of every pound of Royal Baking Powder.

Hence it is that Royal Baking Powder renders the food remarkable both for its fine flavor and healthfulness.

No alum, no phosphate—which are the principal elements of the so-called cheap baking powders—and which are derived from bones, rock and sulphuric acid.

GOTHAM'S AMUSEMENTS

"My Lady's Maid" had its premiere at the Casino, New York, on Monday evening, September 24, and proved to be a most delightful and enjoyable entertainment. This much was to be expected, for this musical comedy bore the stamp of London endorsement. "My Mady's Maid" was first produced by George Edwardes, director of the famous London Gaiety theatre, at the Prices of Wales' theatre, and was finally moved to the Apollo, where it ran with great success for over a year. The lyrics are from the pens of Paul Rubens and Percy Breenbank, two of the most successful lyric writers of England. All of the music was written by Paul Rubens, who composed the four best hits of "Florodora," "Tact," "I am a Lady," "The Queen of the Philippine Islands," and "Inkling." With such a combination of talent, the success of "My Lady's Maid" was assured from the start, and this without taking into account that the cast is one of the very best that has been brought together in recent time. Joseph Coyne, one of the most finished and lecetable of American comedians, as Oroyo Brown, otherwise Trooper Smith, is provided with a mirth-provoking role. Mr. Coyne has not been better suited in a long while. Madge Crichton, an exquisitely dainty comedienne, a London importation, proved delightful as Lady Betty Framlingham. As Alan Dale said in the "American," referreding to Miss Crichton's performance of "My Lady's Maid," the madcap. "She is honest, reliable and ought to suit." Elsa Ryan and Delia Mason, who with Miss Crichton were the three little maids of "The Three Little Maids," scored in congenial roles. Other players to meet with special success were Frank Rushworth, Robert E. Graham, and George Carroll—a diminutive comedian from London.

Henry W. Savage, who had delayed opening his Garden theatre until "The Stolen Story" should finish its Chicago run, has fixed on Tuesday, October 2, as the date for introducing to New York this widely talked about play on American newspaper life. "The Stolen Story" will also introduce to New York theatregoers a new playwright in the person of Jesse Lynch Williams, who first attracted attention with his college stories while he was a student at Princeton and whose short stories in Smart Set and other magazines have been immensely successful. Mr. Williams comes from the West and like George Ade, Booth Tarkington, Henry Blossom and other successful playwrights who found their first producing friend in Mr. Savage, is a graduate from the newspaper ranks. While this new play is described as a most charming, heart-clutching modern romance, it is best known for its scenes wherein the author has graphically pictured the exciting incidents concerned with the "going to press" of a great metropolitan newspaper. The hero is Billy Woods, an absent minded reporter, who has been discharged from one office and employed on a rival paper. He secures a sensational "scoop" and rushes back to his old office where his former city editor discerning the absent-minded writer's mistake and realizing the importance of his story, takes his "copy" from him a page at a time and rushes the paper to press. "The Stolen Story" is in reality a political romance and the methods of grafting financiers in the New York Legislature. That superb emotional actor, Jameson Lee Finney, has the role of Billy Woods and Edwin Holt, one of the hits in the original "College Widow" company, gives a most realistic picture of the brainy city editor. R. Peyton Carter gives one of his fine artistic characters in the victimized statesman, another New York favorite, have fetching roles. "The Stolen Story" requires a company of over fifty people.

BAD SLEEPING HABITS.

Snoring, Grinding the Teeth and Nasal Whistling.

Man is the victim of bad habits in his sleep as well as in his waking hours. So distressing are some of these bad habits of sleep that they oblige wife and husband to occupy separate rooms, even at times causing divorce.

Snoring is of course the commonest if not the worst of sleep's bad habits. Snoring may be remedied. There are a dozen patented devices that, holding the mouth shut tight, prevent the snore.

Grinding the teeth is a disagreeable habit of sleep. It is impossible to sleep in the same room with any one who emits at irregular intervals this hideous sound. The trick is said to be incurable, but a rubber cap worn on the teeth renders the grinding almost noiseless.

Nervous persons sometimes leap in their sleep a foot or more in the air, shaking the bed and the whole room. The man who gives eight or nine of these leaps in the course of the night soon becomes an intolerable bedfellow. Nerve tonics and exercise should be prescribed for him.

Nasal whistling is a habit less easy to cure than snoring. The sleeper keeps his mouth closed, but breathes with a distressing sound through his nose. The sound resembles a low whistle and, heard in the small hours, is guaranteed to madden.

NATURE SPARES

The Stricken Rose From Grief.

What a fortunate provision of nature it is, that deprives the rose of mental suffering; for how poignant would be its grief to discover, in the height of its blooming glory, that a canker fed at its heart, and that its beauty and fragrance were doomed forever. Nature always spares the suffering; she is a veritable store-house of pleasing rewards, for those who seek her aid. In the years gone by falling hair and grayness have cast a gloom over the lives of thousands of young women, but thanks to the investigations of scientists the true cause of hair destruction is now known to be a germ or parasite that burrows into the hair follicles. Newbro's Herpicide absolutely destroys this germ, thus permitting the hair to grow as nature intended. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

LITERARY.

One of the notable features of the October Everybody's is the opening instalment of Jack London's new serial, "Before Adam." This promises to be the literary sensation of the year. All of the author's daring and virility of style are there, and yet neither Mr. London nor any one else has ever before attempted such a venture into the realms of fiction. The same number of Everybody's contains an unusual array of special articles of far-reaching interest. Charles Edward Russell continues his series, "Soldiers of the Common Good," with a vitally interesting presentation of Labor's political ascendency in Australia. A stone-mason is a premier, day-lobarers are running parliamentary committees, and Mr. Russell studies the results of their administration. "The Burning Insurance Issue" is Mr. Lawson's final appeal to policy-holders to defeat the corrupt influences still controlling the great insurance companies. It is a logical and effective outline of the situation.

McClure's for October is full of keen vigorous articles and delightful fiction. First of all comes Lincoln Steffens' masterly study of the Juvenile Court of Denver, with its picturesque stories of "bad kids," and its vivid, human portraiture of Judge Lindsey, the man who has created a new method of dealing with juvenile offenders. Burton J. Hendrick continues his history of Life-Insurance in "The Raid on the Surplus," a remarkable story of extravagance, waste, and graft. George K. Turner tells how Galveston has cut down her city expenditures, cleaned and lighted her streets, and controlled disease and vice under a new form of city government—a political experiment which every citizen of America ought to study. C. P. Connolly, in the third chapter of "The Story of Montana," relates the dramatic story of Whiteside's exposure of Clark's bribery of the Montana legislature—a narrative of exciting incident and splendid movement.

THREE WOMEN ESCAPE DEATH IN A RUNAWAY.

Carriage Nearly Hit by Train Near Somerville After Two Occupants Are Thrown Out.

Somerville, Sept. 29.—The wife of Freeholder Richard Hoagland was badly injured here Wednesday night in an accident, in which two others narrowly escaped with their lives. The spirited animal attached to Mrs. Hoagland's carriage became frightened by an automobile rescending a hill from the Raritan River bridge. Mrs. Hoagland was accompanied by her daughter, Miss Nellie, and her aged aunt, Mrs. Harriet Hoagland.

Miss Nellie attempted to jump from the carriage when the horse began to rear, but caught her foot in a lap robe and fell in the road. The horse dashed up the street, and near the cemetery it fell in the road. Mrs. Hoagland was precipitated from the carriage and struck on her head in the road. The animal regained its feet and ran up Broad street to the Central Railroad crossing, where it broke through the gates and began a race with a moving coal train.

The aged woman in the meantime crouched in the bottom of the carriage. The horse continued to run along the track, and was about to meet an on-coming fast freight train when Irving Baird, a grocer's clerk, made a flying leap and caught it by the head and turned it from the track when the approaching train was twenty-five feet away. The driver of the automobile which frightened the horse picked up Mrs. Hoagland and her daughter from the road and brought them here, where they were attended by Dr. Stillwell. Mrs. Hoagland was badly cut about the head.

Miss Hoagland was slightly injured and the aged woman was prostrated from shock. The driver of the automobile, whose name is unknown, surrendered himself to the authorities, but was released after the occupants of the carriage declard that he was not responsible for the accident, having stopped 200 feet in front of the frightened horse.

Great Men Who Drank.

Cato was a hard drinker, while, in the language of one writer, old Ben Jonson was constantly "pickled." The poet Savage used to go on the hardest kinds of "tears," and Rogers observed, after seeing his own statue, "It is the first time I have seen him stand straight for many years." Byron says of Porson, the great classical scholar, "I can never recollect him except as drunk or brutal, and generally both." Keats was on a spree once that lasted six months. Horace, Plato, Aristophanes, Euripides, Alcaeus, Socrates and Tasso of the old timers and Goethe, Schiller, Addison, Pitt, Fox, Blackstone, Fielding, Sterne and Steele were all hard drinkers at intervals.—London Times.

Many Elephants Stolen.

The teak industry of Siam is being interfered with by the stealing of elephants, reports the British consul in Chiengmai, the headquarters of that industry. The teak trade there is practically monopolized by four firms, three British and one Danish, and large numbers of elephants are employed in the forests in shifting the logs. These huge beasts are big propositions for kid-napping, yet three firms repoort the loss in 1905 of 33 animals, worth $35,000. Recovery of a stolen animal is rare.

THE DELUGE

By DAVID GRAHAM PHILLIPS, Author of "THE COST," etc.

(COPYRIGHT 1905 by the BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY)

I.

MR. BLACKLOCK.

When Napoleon was about to crown himself—so I have somewhere read—they submitted to him the royal genealogy they had faked up for him. He crumpled the parchment and flung it in the face of the chief herald, or whoever it was. "My line," said he, "dates from Montenotte." And so I say, my line dates from the campaign that completed and established my fame—from "Wild Week."

I shall not pause to recite the details of the obscurity from which I emerged. It would be an interesting, a romantic story; but it is a familiar story, also, in this land which Lincoln so finely and so fully described when he said: "The republic is opportunity."

One fact only: I did not take the name Blacklock.

I was born Blacklock, and christened Matthew; and my hair's being very black and growing so that a lock of it often falls down the middle of my forehead is a coincidence. The malicious and insinuating story that I used to go under another name arose, no doubt, from my having been a bootblack in my early days, and having let my customers shorten my name into Matt Black. But, as soon as I graduated from manual labor, I resumed my rightful name and have borne it—I think I may say without vanity—in honor to honor.

Wild Week! Its cyclones, rising fury on fury to that historic climax of chaos, sing their mad song in my ears again as I write. But I shall by no means confine my narrative to business and finance. Take a cross-section of life anywhere, and you have a tangled interweaving of the action and reaction of men upon men, of women upon women, of men and women upon one another. And this shall be a cross-section out of the very heart of our life to-day, with its big and bold energies and passions—the swiftest and intensest life ever lived by the human race.

To begin:

II.

IN THOSE DAYS AROSE KINGS.

Imagine yourself back two years and a half before Wild Week, back at the time when the kings of finance had just completed their apparently final conquest of the industries of the country, when they were seating themselves upon thrones encircled by vast armies of capital and brains, when all the governments of the nation—national, state and city—were prostrate under their iron heels.

You may remember that I was a not inconspicuous figure then. Of all their financial agents, I was the best-known, the most trusted by them, the most believed in by the people. I had a magnificent suite of offices in the building that dominates Wall and Broad streets. Boston claimed me also, and Chicago; and in Philadelphia, New Orleans, St. Louis, San Francisco, in the towns and rural districts tributary to the cities, thousands spoke of Blacklock as their trusted adviser in matters of finance. My enemies—and I had them, numerous and venomous enough to prove me a man worth while—my enemies spoke of me as the "biggest bucket-shop gambler in the world."

Gambler I was—like all the other manipulators of the markets. But "bucket-shop" I never kept. As the kings of finance were the representatives of the great merchants, manufacturers and investors, so was I the representative of the masses, of those who wished their small savings properly invested. The power of the big fellows was founded upon wealth and the brains wealth buys or bullies or seduces into its service; my power was founded upon the hearts and homes of the people, upon faith in my frank honesty.

How had I built up my power? By recognizing the possibilities of publicity, the chance which the broadcast sowing of newspapers and magazines put within the reach of the individual man to impress himself upon the whole country, upon the whole civilized world. The kings of finance relied upon the assiduity and dexterity of sundry paid agents, operating through the stealthy, clumsy, old-fashioned channels for the exercise of power. I relied only upon myself; I had to trust to no fallible, perhaps traitorous, understrappers; through the megaphone of the press I spoke directly to the people.

My enemies charge that I always have been unscrupulous and dishonest. So? Then how have I lived and thrived all these years in the glare and blare of publicity?

It is half-past three o'clock on a May afternoon; a dismal, dreary rain is being whirled through the streets by as nasty a wind as ever blew out of the east. You are in the private office of that "kings of kings," Henry J. Roebuck, philanthropist, eminent churchman, leading citizen and—in business—as corrupt a creature as ever used the domino of respectability. That office is on the twelfth floor of the Power Trust building—and the Power Trust is Roebuck, and Roebuck is the Power Trust. He is seated at his desk and, thinking I do not see him, is looking at me with an expression of benevolent and melancholy pity—the look with which he always regarded any one whom the Roebuck God had commanded Roebuck to destroy. He and his God were in constant communication; his God never did anything except for his benefit, he never did anything except on the direct counsel or command of his God. Just now his God is commanding him to destroy me, his confidential agent in shaping many a vast industrial enterprise and in inducing the public to buy by the million its bonds and stocks.

I invited the angry frown of the Roebuck God by saying: "And I bought in the Manasquale mines on my own account."

"On your own account!" said Roebuck. Then he hastily effaced his involuntary air of the engineer startled by sight of an unexpected red light.

"Yes," replied I, as calm as if I were not realizing the tremendous significance of what I had announced. "I look to you to let me participate on equal terms."

That is, I had decided that the time had come for me to take my place among the kings of finance. I had decided to promote myself from agent to principal, from prime minister to king—I must, myself, promote myself, for in this world all promotion that is solid comes from within. And in furtherance of my object I had bought this group of mines, control of which was vital to the Roebuck-Langdon-Melville combine for a monopoly of the coal of the country.

"Did not Mr. Langdon commission you to buy them for him and his friends?" inquired Roebuck, in that slow, placid tone which yet, for the attentive ear, had a note in it like the scream of a jaguar that comes home and finds its cubs gone.

"But I couldn't get them for him," I explained. "The owners wouldn't sell until I engaged that the National Coal and Railway company was not to have them."

"Oh, I see," said Roebuck, sinking back relieved. "We must get Browne to draw up some sort of perpetual, irrevocable power of attorney to us for you to sign."

"But I won't sign it," said I.

Roebuck took up a sheet of paper and began to fold it upon itself with great care to get the edges straight. He had grasped my meaning; he was deliberating.

"For four years now," I went on, "you people have been promising to take me in as a principal in some one of your deals—to give me recognition by making me president, or chairman of an executive or finance committee. I am an impatient man, Mr. Roebuck. Life is short, and I have much to do. So I have bought the Manasquale mines—and I shall hold them."

Roebuck continued to fold the paper upon itself until he had reduced it to a short, thick strip. This he slowly twisted between his cruel fingers until it was in two pieces. He dropped them, one at a time, into the waste basket, then smiled benevolently at me. "You are right," he said. "You shall have what you want. You have seemed such a mere boy to me that, in spite of your giving again and again proof of what you are, I have been putting you off. I will talk the matter over with Langdon and Melville. Rest assured, my boy, that you will be satisfied." He got up, put his arm affectionately round my shoulders. "We all like you. I have a feeling toward you as if you were my own son. I am getting old, and I like to see young men about me, growing up to assume the responsibilities of the Lord's work whenever He shall call me to my reward."

It will seem incredible that a man of my shrewdness and experience could be taken in by such slimy stuff at that—I who knew Roebuck as only a few insiders knew him, I who had seen him at work, as devoid of heart as any empty spider in an empty web. Yet I was taken in to the extent that I thought he really purposed to recognize my services, to yield to the only persuasion that could affect him—force. I fancied he was actually about to put me where I could be of the highest usefulness to him and his associates, as well as to myself.

It was with tears in my eyes that I shook hands with him, thanking him emotionally. It was with a high chin and a proud heart that I went back to my offices. There wasn't a doubt in my mind that I was about to get my deserts, was about to enter the charmed circle of "high finance."

III.

CAME A WOMAN.

In my suite in the Textile building, just off the big main room with its blackboards and tickers, I had a small office in which I spent a good deal of time during stock exchange hours. It was there that Sam Ellersly found me the next day but one after my talk with Roebuck.

"I want you to sell that Steel Common, Alick," said he.

"It'll go several points higher," said I. "Better let me hold it and use my judgment on selling."

"I need money—right away," was his answer.

"That's all right," said I. "Let me give you an order for what you need."

"Thank you, thank you," said he, so promptly that I knew I had done what he had been hoping for, probably counting on.

I give this incident to show what our relations were. He was a young fellow of good family, to whom I had taken a liking. He was a lazy dog, and as out of place in business as a cat in a choir. I had been keeping him going for four years at that time, by giving him tips on stocks and protecting him against loss. This purely out of good nature and liking; for I hadn't the remotest idea he could ever be of use to me beyond helping to liven things up at a dinner or late supper, or down in the country, or on the yacht. In fact, his principal use to me was that he knew how to "beat the ..x" well enough to shake fairly good music out of it—and I am so fond of music that I can fill in with my imagination when the performer isn't too bad.

They have charged that I deliberately ruined him. Ruined! The first time I gave him a tip—and that was the second or third time I ever saw him—he burst into tears and said: "You've saved my life, Blacklock. I'll never tell you how much this windfall means to me now." Nor did I with deep and dark design keep him along on the ragged edge. He kept himself there. How could I build up such a man with his hundred ways of wasting money, including throwing it away on his own opinions of stocks—for he would gamble on his own account in the bucket-shops, though I had shown him that the Wall street game is played always with marked cards, and that the only hope of winning is to get the confidence of the card-markers, unless you are big enough to become a card-marker yourself.

As soon as he got the money from my teller that day, he was rushing away. I followed him to the door—that part of my suite opened out on the sidewalk, for the convenience of my crowds of customers. "I'm just going to lunch," said I. "Come with me."

He looked uneasily toward a smart little one-horse brougham at the curb. "Sorry—but I can't," said he. "I've my sister with me. She brought me down in her trap."

"That's all right," said I; "bring her along. We'll go to the Savarin." And I locked his arm in mine and started toward the brougham.

He was turning all kinds of colors, and was acting in a way that puzzled me—then. Despite all my years in New York I was ignorant of the elaborate social distinctions that had grown up in its Fifth avenue quarter. I knew, of course, that there was a fashionable society and that some of the most conspicuous of those in it seemed unable to get used to the idea of being rich and were in a state of great agitation over their own importance. Important they might be, but not to me. I knew nothing of their careful gradations of snobbism—the people to know socially, the people to know in a business way, the people to know in ways religious and philanthropic, the people to know for the fun to be got out of them, the people to pride oneself on not knowing at all; the nervousness, the hysteria about preserving these disgusting gradations. All this, I say, was an undreamed-of mystery to me, who gave and took liking in the sensible, self-respecting American fashion. So I didn't understand why Sam, as I almost dragged him along, was stammering: "Thank you—but—I—she—the fact is, we really must get uptown."

By this time I was where I could look into the brougham. A glance—I can see much at a glance, as can any man who spends every day of every year in an all-day fight for his purse and his life, with the blows coming from all sides. I can see much at a glance; I often have seen much; I never saw more than just then. Instantly, I made up my mind that the Ellerslys would lunch with me. "You've got to eat somewhere," said I, in a tone that put an end to his attempts to manufacture excuses. "I'll be delighted to have you. Don't make up any more yarns."

He slowly opened the door. "Anita," said he, "Mr. Blacklock. He's invited us to lunch."

DIAMONDS!

Suppose

you are in the market for a Diamond, will you go to just any jewelers or to a firm that makes a specialty of diamonds? We would advise you to go to

The Diamond Market Place of Newark.

Here quality is high, price low. Here they are specialists.

The days for the small man in diamonds is gone forever. He must charge more because—unlike the specialist, buys one or two, while the specialist buys hundreds. See the point?

IN THE NURSERY

The first chilly mornings, before it's time to light the furnace, are the worst times in the year for baby to catch cold. If he gets the croup now he will, perhaps, have it all winter. One cannot exercise too much care in this regard.

A Gas Radiator

which can be lighted with ease will heat the nursery in a very few minutes and there will be no chill in the air while baby has a bath. The radiator is portable and may be used in several rooms during the day.

He Was Realistic.

A newly enrolled volunteer was rather alarmed during his first experience of a sham fight, especially as he heard the colonel in command declare that everything was to be done "the same as in actual warfare." No sooner was the first blank cartridge fired than the frightened soldier dropped his gun and took to his heels.

"Hey, why are you running away?" shouted his captain as the man dashed by him.

"It's all right, sir. I'm doing the same as I would do in actual warfare."—London Answers.

Water-proof Glue.

A waterproof glue may be made from three parts of gum shellac and one part of India rubber, these being dissolved separately in either under the influence of heat, and the two solutions mixed and kept for a time in a sealed bottle. According to The Iron Age, water, either hot or cold, and most acids and alkalies, will have no effect on the glue.

DIAMOND DUST.

It has been decided that Fred Crolius, who is now coaching the Villa Nova football squad, will manage the Lancaster Tri-State League team next season. He has come to terms with the club directors and will at once plan for next year's team.

A western dispatch from St. Louis says that Jake Beckley is picked to manage the Jersey City Eastern League team next season, succeeding Billy Murray, who will go to the Philadelphia Nationals.

Another player to be fined for playing on independents teams is Tim Jordan, first baseman of the Brooklyn Nationals, reported off sick last week and went to his home at Portchester, N. Y. Soon afterward glowing dispatches appeared in the newspapers telling how Portchester won the championship and giving Jordan the credit for winning the final game.

Charley Wagner, formerly of Newark, is playing a steady and consistent game for the Boston Americans. In his first game against the Clevelands he got two of the six hits for his team and accepted six chances out of seven at second base.

The officials of the Lackawanna League have decided not to award the pennant to any team in the league this season. Four teams, Chatham, Summit, Dover and Morristown, are tied for first place, and as the directors would not vote in favor of Chatham concerning a disputed game with Irvington, and upon which Chatham hoped to win the championship, the clubs will remain in their present position.

The Lancaster Tri-State League team will play a double-header with the Invaders, of Elizabeth, tomorrow, and this afternoon at 3:30 the Invaders will play Chatham on the Elizabeth grounds. Luyster will be in the box for the Morris County boys, while Linderman will oppose him for the Invaders.

Frank Burke's Elizabeth Stars will play the York Tri-State League team at the 'Port grounds tomorrow afternoon. York won the pennant in the Tri-State League this year and the team is playing very fast. Mike O'Neill, of the famous O'Neill brothers, formerly with St. Louis, will pitch for York, while Luyster will twirl for the Stars.

There will be a red hot game at Crescent Oval this afternoon, when the Clinton Avenues will meet Scotch Plains. Both teams will have their strongest lineups.

Phil Reardon, the Hoboken center-fielder, who has gone with the Brooklyn Nationals, was released by Daab for poor stick work just about the time he got the Brooklyn offer.

Linderman and Farmer will be the battery for the Elizabeth Invaders, of Elizabeth, in their first game against the Lancaster Tri-State League Club, at Elizabeth, tomorrow, and Pfanmiller, of the Jersey City Eastern League, and Farmer will work in the second game.

The Jersey City Eastern League Club has disbanded for the season and will not play at St. George's Cricket grounds tomorrow against Hoboken. The Frankfords, with "Doc" Newton in the box, will meet the Daabsters.

GOLF.

In the finals for the consolation cup at the Plainfield Country Club, Miss Edith Tracy beat Miss Elizabeth Hess, by 6 up. The match was played yesterday morning.

The events at the Plainfield Country Club today will comprise the weekly competition for the Golf Committee cup, continuation of play for the September Handicap cup and possibly some clock golf for women. The feature of the evening will be the dinner-dance. It is said that a large number of members have arranged for dinner parties and to remain at the dance in the evening.

Play for the President's and club cups will be the attraction at the Park Golf Club this afternoon. All the members have returned from their vacation and it is expected that there will be a large field out.

The competitive attraction in the metropolitan district next week will be the open tournament of the Richmond County Country Club. On Saturday of this week the club members will compete for the George Hunter medal. This has been in play since 1895.

In the handicap golf tournament at Princeton, Thursday afternoon, Howard Gee, '07, won the gross score prize and broke the competitive record for the course with a 76. The former record of 77 was held by Frank O. Reinhart, of this city. The course is 6,240 yards in length. Gee also won the first net prize. Snakard, '08, and Hunt, '08, tied for the second net prize.

The Western women are making unusual efforts to attend the national women's championship tournament of the United States Golf Association, to be held at the Brae Burn Country Club, near Boston, October 8 to 13, inclusive. Mrs. A. T. H. Brower, president of the Women's Western Golf Association, has made an arrangement with the railroads whereby the transportation rate can be reduced one-third, provided one hundred tickets are purchased.

Word has been received that the Western women have arranged to stop off at Toronto on their way East and play a match with the Toronto women on October 2. There will be twelve players on a side. The big match between the East and the West, at Brae Burn, on Saturday, October 6, will have twenty players on a side.

The Country Club of Brookline has arranged to give a one day open tournament on Monday, October 15. All those who take part in the national event at Brae Burn will be invited to compete.

Arthur Smith, former open champion of the Western Golf Association, has invented what is known as a mercury driver. The club contains a steel tube half filled with mercury. During the downward part of the stroke the quicksilver is collected at the back of the tube. The theory is that at the instant of contact of club and ball the mercury strikes the front end of the tube, giving an acceleration to the ball and a follow through to the club.

"Movable stymies" are some of the extras thrown in free of charge for the benefit of the members of the Eastern Parkway Golf Club. Goats frequently wander across the fair green and the cry of "fore" feazes them not. This calls to mind an incident which happened to Dave Honeyman, the Arsdale professional, recently. His second shot left the ball about 100 yards short of the third green and when the Scot walked up to make his approach he noticed that the green was literally surrounded and almost covered with chickens which had escaped from a nearby run. The player, after shouting to the fowls and calling them all the names he could think of, which failed to noticeably disturb the flock, decided to make his shot anyway. The ball which left the club with sufficient speed to carry it many yards past the green, struck among the birds. There was a great commotion; a score of chickens scattered in as many directions and then the ball was found dead to the hole. And still Dave declares he made a bonny shot.

ONE FIRE IN FOUR TOWNS.

Property Is in Newark, Orange, East Orange and South Orange.

Fire departments from Newark, Orange, East Orange and South Orange has a spectacular fire to contend with last night on the property of Harry T. Ambrose. It is located in all four municipalities, at Centre street and Tremont avenue, and was the subject of legislation for several years, a vain effort having been made to get all the land in East Orange.

His big barn, valued at several thousand dollars, was badly damaged and the blaze drew thousands of persons from all the places. Boys threw stones at the fire companies and several men were hit. Two boys were arrested. Fred R. Romer's leg was broken and a woman was injured.

POLITICAL NOTES.

In the interest of Colonel Edwin A. Stevens, of Castle Point, Hoboken, who is being considered as the Democratic candidate for United States Senator to succeed Mr. Dryden, the Delaware Club, of Jersey City, will hold two mass meetings in Jersey City next month. One meeting will be held in Hasbrouck Hall and the other in the People's Palace. The dates have not yet been selected. The Delaware Club, which is composd of young men, was the first organization to boom the Colonel.

W. H. C. Jackson, present State Senator, and the Messrs. Edward E. Haines, William R. Drake and Frank Crowther, Assemblymen, were all renominated at the convention of the Middlesex county Republicans, held in New Brunswick yesterday. All have served one term each.

William N. Runyon demonstrated his personal popularity in his home city of Plainfield on Tuesday when he got a majority of the delegation from that place in favor of his candidacy for the Assembly. His victory there was the best showing made by the Colbyites throughout the State. One always dislikes to see Runyon lose, for he is a good fellow and straight as a die. At this time we can only suggest to him those well known lines of the poet Browning which run something like this: "What I aspired to be, and was not, comforts me."—Westfield Standard.
